The Bragg Bible

See Statutes XCI – 5. So that there shall not needs be appointed for any Augers by night

Ecclesiastes XI – 1 – Send thy victuals over the waters

Wm Fox, January 1. 1807

The gift of his much respected father in Law

Mr Thomas Hall

English

On examining the accounts of the various translations of the Bibles during the Reign of Henry the VIII^th I find this to be of the date of those published in the year × 1541 — viz. the following Title —

"The Byble in Englyshe, of the largest & greatest volume, auctorised & appointed by the commandement of oure most redoubted prynce & Soueraygne Lorde Kynge Henry the viii. supreme Head of this his churches & realme of Englande: to be frequented & used in euery Churche within this his graces realme according to the tenour of his former injunctions geuen in that behalfe. Ouersene & perused at the commaundement of the Kynges highnes by the Right Reuerende Fathers in god Cuthbert Bishop of Dureme & Nicolas Bishop of Rochester.

Printed by Richarde Grafton.

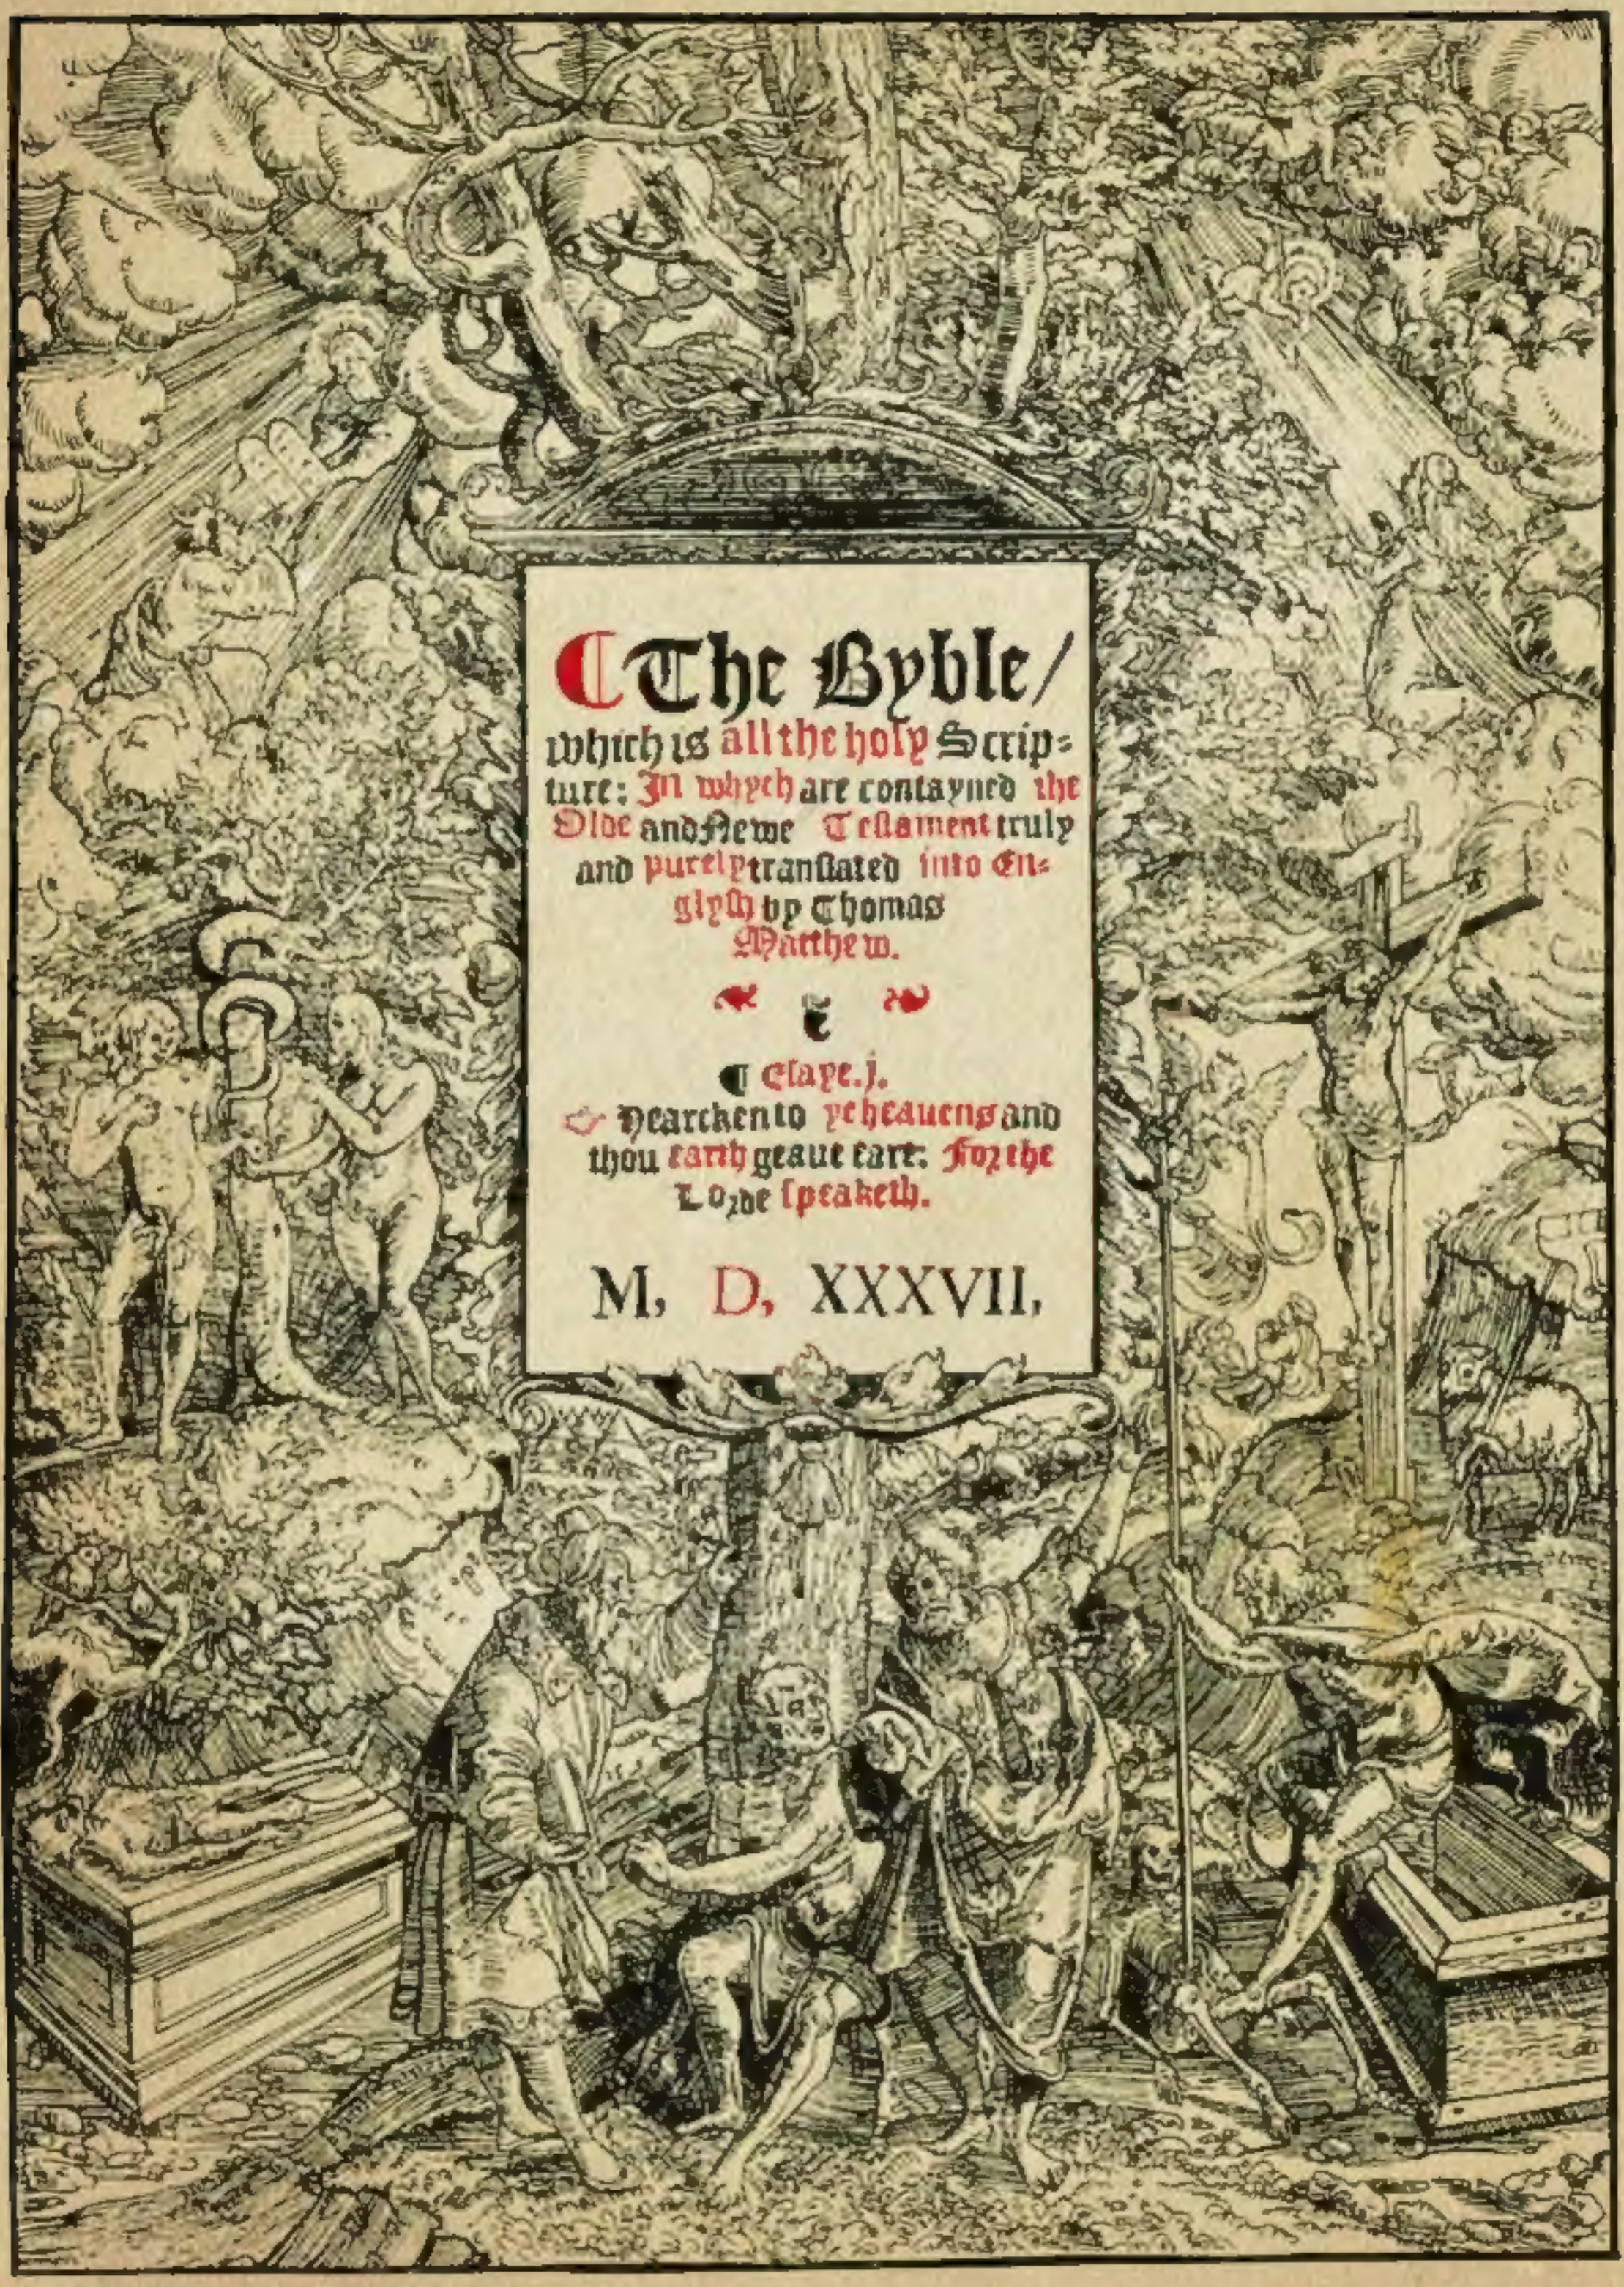
Cum priuilegio ad imprimendum solum."

This is not a Bishops Bible. The first edition of the Bishops Bible is dated 1568 & Printed by Richard Jugge & John Cawood Printers to Queen Elizabeth (and Prog Bibles) at Lambeth

From which the Ocne first of the Bishops Bible found up in this Bookmarker

× I have been recently confirmed in the date here assigned, on comparing this Bible with a copy in the Library of my highly respected friend the late Stanesby Alchorne Esq^re of the Tower, with which this exactly corresponds — The title & last page, in Mr Alchorne's copy are pressed & perfect, & in both places shew the date of 1541.

W.S.



Set forth with the Kinges moſt gracyous lycēce.

❧ These thynges ensuynge are ioyned with thys present volume of the Byble.

Christ vnto the people. Johan.v.

Search the Scriptures: for they are they that testyfie of me.

Paul to Tymothy. ij.Tymo.iij.

All Scripture geuen by inspiracyō of God is profitable to teache/ to improue/ to amēde & to instruct in rightwesnes/ ỳ the mā of God may be perfect & prepared to al good workz.

The same to the Rom.xv.

What thynges soeuer are wrytten/ are wrytten for our lernyng that we thorou pacyēce and comforth of the Scripture/ myght haue hope.

Salomon Prouerb.xxx.

All the worde of God is pure & cleane/ it is a shylde vnto thē that put their trust in it. Put nothynge vnto hys wordes/ lest he reproue the and thou be founde a lyar.

Moses to the people. Deu.xij.

Ye shall not do euery man what seameth hym good in hys awne eyes: But whatsoeuer I commaunde you/ that take hede ye do: and put nought therto

The Lorde vnto Josua. Josue.j.

Let not the boke of this lawe departe oute of thy mouth: But recearde therin day and nyght/ that thou mayest be circumspect to do accordyng to all that is wrytten therin. For then shalt thou make thy waye prosperous/ and then shalt thou haue vnderstandynge. Turne therfrom neither to the ryght hande/ nor to the lefte: that thou mayest haue vnderstandynge in all that thou takest in hande.

The same to the people. Exodi.xiij.

And thou shalt shewe thy sonne at that tyme/ sayinge: This is done because of that wherch the Lorde dyd vnto me when I came out of Egypte. Therfore it shall be a sygne vnto the vpon thyne hande/ and a remēbraunce betwene thyne eyes/ that the Lordes lawe maye be in thy mouth. For with a stronge hande the Lorde brought the oute of Egypte.

Moses. Deutero.xxxj.

Se that thou reade this lawe before all Israell in their eares. Gather the people toge- ther/ both men/ wemen/ and chyldren and the straungers that are in thy cytyes: that they maye heare/ lerne/ and feare the Lorde your God to kepe all the wordes of thys lawe.

The summe & content of all the holy Scripture, both of the olde and newe testament.

Deutero. vi. 1. Tim. ii. Genesis. xviii. Exod. xv. Genesis. i Psal. x. Exod. iii Jeremy. ix Roma. ix Esay. liii. Jeremy. x.

Fyrst the holy wrytynges of the Bible teache vs, that there is one God/almyghtye/that hathe neither begynnynge herendynge: which of his awne goodnes dyd create all thynges: of whom all thynges proceade/ and wt out whom there is not dynge: which is ryghtwes & mercyful: and which worketh all thynges in all after his will: of whom it maye not be demaunded wherfore he doth this or that.

Genesis. i. Sapien. ii Roma. v.

Then that this verye God dyd create

Adam the fyrst man after his awne Image and symylitude/and dyd ordeyne and appoynte hym Lorde of all the creatures in the earth. which Adam by the enuy of the deuell/ dysobeying the commaundement of his master/dyd fyrst synne/ and brought synne in to this worlde/ Ephe. ii. soch and so greate. that we whych be sprong of hym after the flesshe/ are subdued vnto synne/ deeth/and damnacyon/ brought vnder the youck & tyrannye of the deuell.

Genesis. iii. xii. xxii. Deute. xviii. Ebre. ii

And further that Christ Jesus his sonne was promesed of God the father/to be a sauour to this Adam/ Abraha/ Isaac, Jacob/ David & the other fathers: whych shulde delyuer them from their synnes and tyrannye of the deuell/that with a quyck & lyuyng faith wolde beleue this promes/ and trust to this Jesus Christ, hopyng to haue this delyueraunce of and by hym. And truly thys promes/ is verye oft rehearced in the bokes of the olde testament/ yee & the olde testament is thys promes: as it is called the newe/ which teacheth that this promes is fulfylled.

And that in the meane season whyle

the fathers loked for saluacyon and delyueraunce promesed/ because mannes nature is soche that he not only cannot/ but also will not confesse hym selfe to be a synner/ and specially soche a synner that hath neade of the sauyng health promesed/ the lawe was geuen wher through men myght know synne/ and that they are synners: when they se ẏ they do none of the thynges that the lawe commaundeth/ with so gladde and wyllyng a mynde as God requyreth: but rather agaynst their wyll/ with out affeccyon/ & as though they were constrayned with the feare of that hell which the lawe threatneth/ sayenge: Cursed be he that mayntayneth not all the wordes of this lawe to kepe them. And ẏ this lawe was geuen, to thyntent that synne & the malyce of mẽnes hert being therby the better knowẽ/ men shulde the moare feruently thyrst the commynge of Christ/ whych shulde redeame them from their synnes: As it was fygured vnto the Iewes by many ceremonyes/ hostes/ and sacrifices: which were ordeyned of God/ not to thyntent to take awaye synnes, but to shew & declare ẏ they shulde be put awaye by fayth in ẏ saluacyõ promesed thorow Christ: and which now are put awaye by the commynge of that Christ/ which is the verye hoste of the father that taketh awaye all synne.

Last of all by the bokes of the newe Testament we are taught/ that ẏ Christ whych was promysed & shadowed in the olde Testament/ is sent of ẏ father/ at soch tyme as he had determyned wyth hymselfe/ at soche tyme (I saye) as all wyckednes florysshed. And that he was sent not for any mans good workes (for they all were synners) but to thyntent that he wolde truly shewe the aboundantryches of his grace/ which he had promesed.

In the newe testament therfore it is most euydently declared/ that Jesus Christ the true lambe & hoste/ is come to thyntent to reconcyle vs to the father, paying on the crosse the punyshment due vnto our synnes: and to delyuer vs from the bondage of the deuell/ vnto whom we serued through synne) and to make vs the sonnes of God/ syth he hath geuẽ vs the true peace and tranquyllyte of conscience. that we no longer do feare the paynes of hell: which feare is put awaye by ẏ fayth/

confydence & assuraunce/that the father geueth vs drawyng vs vnto his sonne. For that fayth is the gyft of God/wherby we beleue that Christ is come in to this worlde to saue synners: which is of so great pyth that they which haue it/delyre to performe all ye duties of loue to all men, after the example of Christ. For fayth ones receaued God geueth hys holy ghost, wherwith he tokeneth and marcketh all that beleue: which is the pledge and earnest that we shal suerly possesse euerlastynge lyfe, and that geueth wytnesse vnto our spryte, and graffeth this fayth in vs; that we be the sonnes of God: powryng therwyth ye loue in to our hertes which Paul describeth and setteth oute to *the corynthians. By that fayth and confydence in Christ which by loue is myghtye in operacyon / and that sheweth it selfe throw the workes of loue, sterrynge men therto, by that (I saye) we are Justyfied: that is, by that fayth/Christes father (which is become oures also throw that Christ our brother) counteth vs for ryghtwes & for hys sonnes: imputynge not oure synnes vnto vs/ throw his grace.

To conclude he came to thyntent that we beyng cleansed from our synnes/ and sanctyfied vnto God the father: ye is/ halowed vnto the vse of the father to exercyse good workes renynge & forsaking the workes of the flesh/ shulde freely serue him in rightwesnes & holynes all oure lyfe longe: throw good workes which God hath ordeyned to thyntent that we shulde walcke in them/ declaryng our selues therby to be suerly called vnto thys grace: which workes who soeuer hath not declareth that he hath not fayth in Christ.

Vnto whom we must come/& folow hym with a chearfull hert/ that he maye instruct & teache vs. for he is our master, meke & humble of hert: he is oure example of whom we must learne the rule of good lyuyng: further he is our preest hye bishop and onely mediator: which now sytteth on the ryght hande of God the father/ is our aduocate/ & prayeth euer for vs: which wyl vndoutedly obtayne what soeuer we desyre/ether of hym/ or of hys father in his name: yf we beleue that he wyl do it when we requere it: For so hath he promised. Let vs therfore not doute, although we come tyme synne/ wt confydēce to come vnto hym, and with a lyuyng & vndoutyng fayth, that we shal obtayne mercye. For therfore came he to thyntent to saue synners: nether requereth he any thing moare of vs/ then to come vnto him wyth oute feare.

This is that Christ Jesus which after he hath kylled the man of synne with the breath of his mouth, shall syt in hys mayestye and Judge all men/ geuyng vnto euery one the workes of hys bodye/ accordynge to that he hath done, whether it be good or badde: And that shall saye vnto them that shalbe on his ryght hande. Come ye blessed children of my father/ inherit ye the kyngdome prepared for you from the begynnynge of the worlde: And vnto them that shalbe on hys left hand/ Departe from me ye cursed/ in to euerlastinge fyre: which is prepared for the deuell and his aungels. Then shal the ende come & he shal delyuer vp ye kingdome to God the father.

To thyntent that we shulde knowe thys/ by the goodnes of God worckynge by his holy spryte/ are the holy wrytynges of the Byble geuen vs: That we shulde knowe (I saye) and beleue that there is one God/ and Jesus Christ whom he hath sent: and that in beleuyng we shulde haue euerlastynge lyfe throw hys name.

Another foundacyon then this can no man laye. And saynt Paul desyreth that he be holden a cursed which preacheth any other fayth & saluacyon/ then onely by Jesus Christ: yee al thoughe it were an angel of heauē.

For of hym, and throw hym/ and for hym/ are all thynges: to whom/ wyth the father and the holy ghost/ be honour and glorye for euer moare. Amen.

¶ To the moost noble and gracyous

Pryncē Kyng Henry the eyght/kyng of England and of Fraunce/ Lorde of Ireland &c. Defender of the fayth: and vnder God the chefe and supreme head of the church of Engeland.

IT hath bene vsed of olde auncyent custome (most redoubted and prudent Pryncē) to dedycate soche bokes as men put forth in to lyght (whether they be made of their awne industrye and proper wyttes / or translated forthe of one language in to another) to some noble Pryncē / Kynge or Emperour / or otherwyse excellent in byrth or renowne: to thyntēt that the worck myght freelyer and boldelyer be occupyed in the bādes of men as a thynge hauyng sauecondet & beyng put in to the tuicyon of the Pryncē / vnto whom it is offred & dedycate. This custome not onely auncīēt but also laudable / haue youre syngular and rare gyftes in worldly regyment / and the vertuous and Godly moderacion of mayntenynge true preachers for the inducynge of your symple subiectes to the syncerytie and purenes of Christes Gospell: with the other many solde and syngular vertues / wherwyth the Pryncē of Pryncēs hath indued your hyghnes, encoraged me to enbrace For vnto whom or in to whose protecyon shulde the defence of soche a worck be soner cōmytted (wherin are contayned the infallyble promeses of mercy in the olde testament prefygured & in the newe fulfylled / wyth the whole summe of Christyanitye) then vnto his maiestye, which not onely by name and tytle / but moost euydently & openly, moost Christenly & wyth moost Godly pollicye dothe profesle the defence therof?

The want of lernynge, The obscurenes & lownes of byrth / The lack of youre graces knowledge &c. shuld hayly haue vtterly forbydden me to haue interpryled the dedycacion herof to so puyssaunt a Pryncē: But the experience of youre graces benygnytye / wherthroughe youre prayse is renoumed and hyghly magnifyed, euen amōge straungers and alyentes, not alone amōge your awne subiectes, The Godly moderacion of youre heuenly polycye wherwith ye suppresse superstycyon and mayntene true holynes / inflameth me to some part of boldenes: Specyally syth the thyng which I dedycate is soch as your grace studyeth dayly to forther. In which studye & endeuoure he cōtynewe you, whych hath moued you to so holesome a purpose: and geue the same dylygence vnto other Christen Pryncēs and forren potentates that he hath breathed & inspyred in to your breaste.

For the cheffe & pryncypall thyng appertaynynge to Pryncēs & nobles, which thyng it is good to se that youre grace both well consyder, is: to defende forther, set oute & augment the knowledge of God. Moses ỳ faythfull seruaunt of the Lorde prophecying by ỳ spyrite ỳ Israel shulde haue a Kynge, cōmaunded that he ones set on ỳ seat of his kyngdome shulde reade the seconde lawe, meanynge the boke of Deuteronomye) all the dayes of his lyfe: to thyntent that he myght learne to feare the Lorde his God for to kepe all the wordes of his lawe & ordynaunces and that he shulde not returne from the commaundement ether to the right hand or to the left. He perceaued vndouted that yf the Pryncē him selfe were so affectuously anymated vnto the keppynge of the lawe as he is there expressly cōmaunded: it shulde not a lytell inflame hym to an ardent and burnyng zeale of settyng out Goddes glorye / in forthersynge the thynges in that lawe expressed: And knewe what wholsome and Godly lawes soche a kynge wolde indeuoure hym selfe to enstablyshe, by which the lawe of God myght the better be obserued & the largelyer and forther sprynge a broade: And saw right well that soch a Pryncē coulde not but will his subiectes to reade & folowe all the poynctes of that lawe / which he him selfe was so straytghtly bounde both to kepe & reade. Further in that he willeth the Kynges of Israel not ones to swarue from the lawe of the Lorde ether to the ryght hande or to the left, he instructeth them / to fulfyll the worde of God playnly purely, without puttyng to or takynge therfrom without superstycion: not to be exalted thorou prosperytye / ner deiecte in aduersytye: to cleaue and leane vnto the worde of God in tyme of glorye & renowne / and in tyme of dishonoure and ignominie: to amplyfye ryghtwesnes & to loue veritye: Which thyngs lene in ỳ nobylytie / adde no smal spurre vnto the cōmens to imitate & folow the same. Yee they so worck in ỳ hertes of the noble / that they be enforced what by ensample of lyfe / & by politycke ordynaunces to ỳ ble inuented, to allure soche as be vnder them subiectcyō to ỳ perfourmaunce the amplyfynge therof, as of the rote of all Godlynes. Now in as moche as the Lord hath tayled you vp before other princes of oure tyme / most earnestly to hearken vnto this cõ-maundement of his seruaunt Moses, & to attempt the thynges that do not a lytle auaũce

the ryght / true / & parfect doctryne of Christianytie: ther is founde no man / vnto whom ỳ translacyon of the Lordes lawe can so worthely be offred and dedycate as vnto your most gracyous highnesse. For I nothing mystrust but that it shal most acceptably come in to your most fauourable & sure protecyon. Therof doth your peculyar desyre of forthervng be comitted as vnto your graces maiestye / It is ỳ lawe of the celestiall kyng which ruleth all thynges with a beck / & yet is it some tyme greatly forthered or hyndered by the ayde & hyndraũce of earthly & worldly princes. Longe & oft was it obscured & darkened / yee &

dyd rayse the tyme of the dampnyon of young Manasseh that they persuaded hym by their

But for ỳ fortunate & prosperous estate of this owre tyme (so farre as concerneth thys youre graces Realme) are hyghe and vnceassable thankes to be geuen vnto the Lorde of Lordes: which hath dealt somercyfully wyth the inhabytaunt̃es therof/ as to sende them a Prynce that contynually studyeth to be the enryched in all poyntes of true godlynes. Who so remayneth vnthanckfull herein/ is not alone vngodly but also wretched. For lothe a Prince as geueth no care vnto ỳ inchaunte-mentes of false preachers is one of the greatest gyftes of God/ & such a worthy blessyng to a comen wealth as requyreth an earnest thanck esgeuynge therfore.

That Hezekiah and Iosiah were vnto Israel/ the same is youre grace vnto ỳ Realme of England: yee the godly haue greate hope that youre prayse shalbe farre aboue theirs. They vpheldе the very pure & true worshyppynge of God/ but onely for their awne tymes. Your graces wysdome/ illumyned of God/ shall (we trust) so fyrmely stablyshe the trawe of Godlynes in your lyfe tyme/ that it shall neuertheles florysh after your decasse. Youre deuyne gouernaunce/ no lesse fortunate than politique/ putteth vs in hope of such a redresse as shalbe permanent and durable/ and so suerly grounded/ that the wont ruggelyng & venemous persuasions of false preachers shall not be so noysome vnto youre posterytes as they haue bene vnto the former age. This hope haue the godly euē of forren & straunge nacyons in youre graces goodnes/ moch moare they of your awne realme. Yea oche confidence haue they conceaued by your former actes/ wherthrough youre grace hath so exceadyngly profyted this affayre. And blesse you at thys present wyth a sonne/ by youre most gracyous wyfe Quene Jane/ which may prosperously & fortunately raygne/ & folowe the godly steppes of his father: And after your grace shall geue place to nature/ and forsake thys mortall lyfe/ graunte you the rewarde of that vnspeakable and celestyall hope/ wyych no eye hath sene/ no eare heard/ nor can ascende into the herte of man. So be it.

The creacyon of the worlde.

The fyrst boke of Moses called Genesis.

How heauen & erth/the lyght/the fyrmament/the sonne/the mone/the sterres/ and all beastes/ foules & fysshes in the see were made by the worde of God. And how man also was creat.

The fyrst Chapter.

IN the begynnyng *God created heauen and erth. The erth was voyde and emptye/ and darcknesse was vpon the depe/ & the spirite of God †moued vpon the water.

Than God sayde: let there be lyght: & there was lyght. And God sawe the lyght that it was good: & deuyded ꝧ lyght from the darcknesse, & called the lyght the daye/ & the darcknesse the nyght: and so of the euenyng & mornyng was made the fyrst daye.

And God sayde: let there be a †fyrmamēt betwene the waters & let it deuyde the waters a sonder. Than God made the fyrmament & parted the waters which were vnder the fyrmament, from the waters ꝧ were aboue the fyrmamēt: And it was so. And God called the fyrmament Heauen. And so of the euenynge and morynyng was made the seconde daye.

And God sayde: * let the waters that are vnder heauē gather them selues vnto one place/ that the drye lande may appere. And it came so to passe. And God called the drye lande the erth/ & the gatherynge togyther of waters called he the see. And God sawe ꝧ it was good.

And God sayde: let the erth brynge forth herbe & grasse ꝧ sowe seed/ & frutefull trees/ that bere frute euery one in hys kynde/ hauyng their seed in them selues vpon the erth.

B And it came so to passe. And the erth brought forth herbe & grasse sowyng seed euery one in hys kynde/ & trees berynge frute/ & hauynge their seed in thē selues, euery one in his kinde. And God sawe ꝧ it was good & then of the euenyng & morynyng was made ꝧ thyrde daye.

Than sayde God: * let there be lightes in ꝧ fyrmamēt of heauē to deuyde the daye from the nyght that they may be vnto synges seasons dayes & yeares. And * let thē be lyghtes in ꝧ fyrmamēt of heauē/ to shyne vpō the erth: And so it was. And God made * two greate lyghtes: A greater lyghte to rule the daye/ & a lesse lyght to rule the nyght: & he made sterres also. And God put them in the fyrmamēt of heauen to shyne vpon the erth/ and to rule the daye and the nyght: & to deuyde the lyght from darcknesse. And God sawe that it was good: and so of the euenynge and morynge was made the fourth daye.

And God sayde: * let ꝧ water brynge forth creatures that moue & haue lyfe/ & foules for to flee ouer the erth vnder the fyrmament of heauen. And God created greate whalles & all maner of creatures ꝧ lyue & moue/ which the waters brought forth in their kyndes/ & all maner of federed foules in their kyndes. And God sawe that it was good: & God [a] blessed them sayinge: Growe & multyplye & fyll the waters of the seas: and let the foules multyplye vpon the erth. And so of the euenynge and morynge was made the fyfth daye.

a. Here is blessynge take for encreasynge & multiplyenge.

And God sayde: let the erth brynge forth lyuynge creatures in their kyndes: catell and wormes & beastes of ꝧ erth in their kyndes/ & so it came to passe. And God made the beastes of the erth in their kyndes/ and catell in their kyndes & all maner wormes of the erth in their kyndes: & God sawe ꝧ it was good.

And God sayde: let vs make man in oure symylytude & after oure lyknesse: ꝧ he may haue rule ouer the fysh of the see / and ouer the foules of the ayre, & ouer catell / & ouer all the erth and ouer all wormes that crepe on the erth. And God created man after hys lyknesse after the [b] lyknesse of God created he hym: male & female created he them.

b. That is after the shape & ymage whyche was before appoynted for the sonne of God: The chefe parte of man also whyche is the soule is made lyke vnto God in a certeyn poynt of nature of powre & worchynge: so that in that we are made lyke vnto God.

And God blessed them / & God sayde vnto them: Growe and multyplye & fyll the erth & subdue it & haue dominion ouer the fysshes of the see and ouer the foules of the ayre / & ouer all the beastes that moue on the erth.

And God sayde: see I haue geuen yow all herbes that sowe seed whyche are on all the erth & all maner trees that haue frute in thē and sowe seed: to be meate for yow & for all beastes of ꝧ erth & vnto all foules of ꝧ ayre, & vnto all that crepeth on the erth where in is lyfe that they may haue all maner herbes and grasse for to eate & euen so it was. And * God beheld all that he had made, and loo they were exceadynge good: and so of the euenynge & morynge was made the syxte daye.

* Deut.xxij.a Eccli.xxxix.c Marth.vi.d. 1.Timo.iij.a

¶ The Chapter that went before is here repeted sayinge: the halowing of the Sabboth daye: the foure flouds of paradyse: The settynge in of man in paradyse: the tree of knowledge is forbydden hym: how Adam named all creatures: the creacyon of Eua: the institucyon of mariage.

¶ The.ii. Chapter.

THus was heauē and erth fynyshed with all their [a] apparell and in the seuēth daye God ended hys worke whych he had made & rested in the seuenth daye frō all his worke whych he had made. And * God [b] blessed the seuēth daye & [c] sanctyfyed it for in it he rested from all hys workes which he had created and made.

C The iii. Chapter.

Yet the serpēt was sotyller thā all ꝑ beastes of the felde which the Lorde God had made: & sayde vnto the woman: ye/ hath God sayd in dede/ ye shall not eate of all maner trees in the garden? And the womā sayde vnto the serpent/ of the frute of the trees in the gardē we may eate/ but of the frute of the tree that is in the middes of the garden (sayd God) se ꝑ ye eate not/ & se that ye touche it not/ lest ye dye. Then sayde * the serpēt vnto the womā: nay ye shall not dye: but God doth knowe ꝑ when so euer ye shuld eate of it youre a eyes shulde be opened & ye shulde be as Gods/ and knowe both good & euell. And the * womā sawe that it was a good tree to eate of & lusty vnto the eyes & a pleasant tree for to gene vnderstondynge. And toke of the frute of it & ate/ and gaue vnto hyr husband also with her/ and he ate. And the eyes of bothe them were opened/ that they vnderstode how that they were naked. Than they sowed fygge leues togedder and made them aprons.

a. To haue their eyes ope/ is to knowe & vnderstonde.

And they herde ꝑ voyce of the Lorde God as he walked in the gardē in the coole of the daye. And Adam hyd hym selfe & hys wyfe also from the b face of the Lorde God/ amonge the trees of the garden. And the Lorde God called Adā & sayd vnto hym: where art thou? And he answered: Thy voyce I herde in the garden/ but I was afrayed/ because I was naked/ & therfore hyd my selfe. And he sayde: Who tolde the ꝑ thou wast naked? hast thou eatē of the tree/ of which I bade the that thou shuldest not eate? And Adam answered: The woman whych thou gauest to bere me compāny she toke me of the tree/ & I ate. And the Lorde God sayde vnto the woman: Wherfore dyddest thou so? And the womā answered: The serpent deceaued me and I ate.

Than Abrahã rose vp early in the morynge & sadled his asse, & toke two of his mynyons wyth hym & Isaac his sonne: & cloue wod for the sacrifyce / & rose vp & gott him to the place whych God had appoynted hym.

a. Only sonne for only beloued or moost chefly beloued aboue other as for the Ebrew phrase as in the Prouer.iij.a.

The thyrde daye Abrahã lyfte vp his eyes & sawe the place a farre of / & sayde vnto his yong mẽ: byde here wyth the asse. I & the lad wyll goo yonder and * worshyppe and come agayne vnto you. ¶ Sara dyeth & is buryed in the felde that Abraham bought of Ephron the Hethite.

I Sara was an hundred & .xxvij. yere olde (for so longe lyued she) & than dyed in a heade cyte called Hebron in the lande of Canaã. Than Abraham came to mourne Sara/ and to wepe for her. And Abraham stode vp from the coorse/ & talked wyth the sonnes of Heth sayinge: I am a straunger & a forayner amõge you, geue me a possessyon to burye in wyth you, that I may bury my dead out of my syght. And the chyldren of Heth answered Abraham saying vnto hym: Heare vs Lorde, thou art a prynce of God amonge vs. In the chefest of oure sepulchres bury thy dead: None of vs shall for bydde the hys sepulchre/ that thou shuldest not B bury thy deade therin. Abraham stode vp/ and bowed hym selfe before the people of the lande the chyldren of Heth. And he comonde with thẽ sayinge: If it be youre myndes that I shall bury my deade out of my syght, heare me and speke for me to Ephron the sonne of Zoar: and let hym gyue me the dubbyll caue which he hath in the ende of hys felde/ for as moche money as it is worth/ let hym geue it me in the presence of you/ for a possessyon to burye in. For Ephron dwelled amonge the chyldren of Heth.

Than Ephron the Hethite answered Abraham in the audyẽce of the chyldrẽ of Heth & of all that went in at the gates of hys cyte/ sayinge: Not so my lorde, but heare me: The felde geue I the/ & the caue that therin is geue I the also: & euẽ in the presence of the sonnes of my people geue I it the to bury thy deede C in. Than Abraham bowed hym selfe before the people of ye lande/ & spake vnto Ephrõ in the audiẽce of the people of the cõtre sayng: I praye the heare me/ I wyll geue syluer for the felde/ take it of me/ & so wyll I bury my deed there. Ephron answered Abrahã saying vnto hym: My lorde / harken vnto me. The lande is worth .iiij. hundred sycles of syluer: but what is that betwyxte the and me? bury thy deede. And Abrahã harkened vnto Ephrõ & weyde hym the syluer which he had sayde in the audyẽce of the sonnes of Heth. Euen .iiij. hundred syluer sicles of curiãt money amõge D marchauntes. Thus was the felde of Ephrõ where in the dubbyll caue is before Mamre: euen the felde & the caue that is therin & all the trees of the felde whyche growe in all the borders rounde about/ made sure vnto Abraham for a possessyon/ in the syght of the chyldren of Heth/ & of all that wẽt in at the gates of the cyte. And then Abraham buryed Sara hys wyfe in the double caue of the felde that lyeth before Mamre/ otherwyse called Ebrõ in the lande of Canaan. And so both the felde and the caue that is therin / was made vnto Abraham a sure possessyon to bury in/ of the sonnes of Heth.

¶ Abraham maketh hys seruant to sweare/ & sendeth him to fetche a wyfe for Isaac his sonne. The seruant was faythfull and brought Rebecca/ whych Isaac toke to his wyfe.

¶ The .xxiiij. Chapter.

I Abraham was olde and stryken in dayes & the Lorde had blessed him in all thynges. And he sayde vnto his eldest seruaunte of his house a. that ruled ouer all ẏ he had: a Put thy hande vnder my thye that I maye make the sweare by the Lorde that is God of heauẽ & God of the erth, that thou shalt not take a wyfe vnto my sonne, of the daughters of the Canaanytes, amonge whych I dwell. But shalt goo vnto my contre and to my kynred, and there take a wyfe vnto my sonne Isaac.

Than sayde the seruaunte vnto him: what & yf the womã wyll not agree to come wyth me vnto this lande, shall I bryng thy sonne agayne vnto the lãde which thou camest out of? And Abrahã sayde vnto him: bewarre of that, that thou bryng not my sonne thyther. The Lorde God of heauẽ which toke me frõ my fathers house & from the lande where I was borne/ & which spake vnto me & sware vnto me sayinge: vnto thy* seed wyll I geue this lãde he shall sende his angell before the that thou mayst take a wyfe vnto my sonne frõ thence. Neuertheles yf the womã wyll not agree to come with the thã shalt thou be with out daũger of this ooth. But aboue all thing bryng not my sonne thyther agayne. And the seruaũt put his hande vnder the thye of Abrahã & sware to him as cõcernynge ẏ matter. And the seruaunt toke .x. camels of the camels of his master & departed / & had of all maner goods of his master wyth hym/ & stode vp & wẽt to Mesopotamia/ vnto the cytie of Nahor. And made his camels to lye B doune wythout the cytie by a wels syde of water/ at euẽ: aboute the tyme that women come out to drawe water/ and he sayde.

Lorde God of my master Abrahã/ sende me good spede this daye/ and shewe mercy vnto my master Abrahã. Lo I stonde here by the well of water and the doughters of the men of this cytie wyll come out to drawe water: Now the damsell to whome I saye / stoupe doune thy pytcher/ and let me drynke. drynke also/ & same is she that thou hast ordened for thy seruaunte Isaac: yee & therby shall I knowe & thou hast shewed mercy on my master. And it came to passe yer he had left speakynge, that Rebecca came out/ the daughter of Bethuell/ sonne to Milca the wyfe of Nahor Abrahams brother/ and hyr pytcher vpō hyr shoulder: The damsell was very fayre to loke vpon/ & yet a mayde and vnknowen of man. And she went downe to the well and fylled hyr pytcher and came vp agayne. Then the seruaunte ranne vnto her and sayde: let me suppe a lytle water of thy pytcher. And she sayde: drynke my lorde.

And she hasted and late downe her pytcher vpō hyr arme & gaue hym drynke. And whē she had geuen him drynke, she sayde: I will drawe water for thy camels also, vntyll they haue drōcke ynough. And she poured out hyr pitcher in to ꝑ trough hastely, & rāne agayne vnto the well/ to fett water: & drewe for all his camels. And the felowe wondred at her. But holde hys peace/ to wete whether the Lorde had made hys journey prosperous or not. And as ꝑ camels had left drynking he tooke a [a] golde earyng of halfe a vncle weight, & two bracelettes for hyr handes, of .x. sicles weyght of golde and sayde vnto her: Whose doughter art thou: tell me: is there rome in thy fathers house for vs to lodge in? And she sayde vnto him: I am the doughter of Bathuel the sonne of Milcha which she bare vnto Nahor: and sayde moreouer vnto hym: we haue lettet and prauender ynough/ and also rowme to lodge in.

a. Earynges are decknynges/ either to appoynt the eres & forehed of the woman or the eares. And bracelettes is to decke the armes or hādes.

And the man bowed hym selfe/ & [c] worshipped the Lorde & sayde: blessed be ꝑ Lorde God of my master Abraham which ceaseth not to deale mercyfully & truly with my master, & hath brought me the waye to my masters brothers house. And the damsell rāne & tolde thē of her mothers house these thyngs. And Rebecca had a brother called Laban.

c. To worshipp is here to geue thankes as in the xxiiij. Chapter afore at this letter ꝑ

And Laban rāne out vnto the man, to the well: for as soone as he had sene the earyngs & the bracelettes vpon hys systers handes, & heard the wordes of Rebecca his syster sayīg thus sayde the man vnto me/ than he wēt out vnto the man. And loo, he stode yet wyth the camels by the well syde. And Laban sayde come in thou blessed of the Lorde. Wherfore stondest thou without? I haue dressed the house/ and made rowme for the camels. But he sayde: I will not eate/ vntyll I haue sayde myne errende. And he sayde: saye on. And he sayde: I am Abrahās seruaunt/ & the Lorde hath [b] blessed my master out of measure ꝑ he is become greate & hath geuē hym shepe, oxen syluer & golde men seruauntes mayde seruauntes, camels & asses. And Sara my masters wyfe bare him a sonne, whē she was olde: & vnto hym hath he geuē all ꝑ he hath. And my master made me swere saying: thou shalt not take a wyfe to my sonne amōge the doughters of the Cananytes in whose lande I dwell. But thou shalt go vnto my fathers house and to my kynred/ & there take a wyfe vnto my sonne. And I sayde vnto my master: what yf the wyfe will not folowe me? And he sayde vnto me: The Lorde before whome I walke/ will sende his angell with the, and prospere thy iourney that thou shalt take a wyfe for my sonne, of my kynred & of my fathers house. But & yf, when thou comest vnto my kynred, they will not geue ꝑ one, than shalt thou be rere no perell of myne oothe.

¶ The.xxix. Chapter

When Jacob lyfte vp his fete, & wẽt toward the east coũtre. And as he loked aboute, beholde there was a well in the felde/ and.iij. flockes of shepe laye therby, for at that well were the flockes watered) & there laye a great stone at ỹ well mouth. And ỹ maner was to bryng the flockes thyther & to roull the stone from the welles mouth & to water the shepe, & to put the stone agayne vpõ the welles mouth vnto his place. And Jacob sayde vnto thẽ: brethrẽ whence be ye: And they sayde: of Haran are we. And he sayde vnto thẽ: knowe ye Laban the sonne of Nabor: And they sayde: we knowe hym. And he sayde vnto thẽ: is he in good health: And they sayde: he is in good health: & behold his doughter Rachel cometh with the shepe. And he sayde: lo, it is yet a great whyle to nyght nether is it tyme that the catell shulde be gathered together: water the shepe, and go & fede them. And they sayde: we may not, vntyll all the flockes be brought together/ & the stone be roulled frõ the welles mouth/and so we water oure shepe.

Whyle he yet talked with the/Rahel came with hir fathers shepe/for she kepte the. As soone as Jacob sawe Rahel/the doughter of Laban hys mothers brother, & the shepe of C Laban hys mothers brother/he went & rowled the stone fro the wells mouth / & watered the shepe of Labā hys mothers brother. And Jacob kyssed Rahel / & lyfte vp hys voyce & wepte: and tolde her also that he was hir fathers brother & Rebeccas sonne. Than Rahell ranne and tolde hyr father.

When Laban hearde tell of Jacob his systers sonne, he tāne to mete him/& embraced him & kissed him/& brought him to his house. And then Jacob tolde Laban all the matter. And then Labā sayde: well/thou art my bone & my flesh. Abyde with me the space of a moneth. And afterward Laban sayde vnto Jacob: Though thou be my brother / shuldest thou therfore serue me for nought? tell me
D what shall thy wages be? And Laban had .ii. doughters/the eldest called Lea & the yōgest Rahel. Lea was tender eyed, but Rahel was bewtyfull & well fauored. And Jacob loued her well / & sayde: I wyll serue the .vij. yere for Rahel thy yongest doughter. And Laban answered: it is better that I geue her the/thā to another man: byde therfore with me.

*Ozee.xij.d And Jacob serued *vij. yeres for Rahel/& they semed vnto hym but a fewe dayes, for ỳ loue he had to her. And Jacob sayde vnto Laban: geue me my wyfe that I maye lye with

When the Lorde sawe that Lea was despised, he made her frutefull: but Rahel was baren. And Lea conceaued & bare a sonne/& called hys name Ruben for she sayde: ỳ Lorde Deute xxvi.b hath loked vpō my tribulatiō. And now my husband wyll loue me. And she conceaued agayne & bare a sonne, and sayde: the Lorde hath herde ỳ I am despysed / & hath therfore geuē me this sonne also & she called him* Simeon. And she cōceaued yet, & bare a sonne/ & sayde: now this once will my husband kepe me company, because I haue borne hym .iij. sonnes: & therfore she called his name Leui. And she cōceaued yet agayne/& bare a sonne saying: now will I prayse the Lorde: therfore she called his name Juda/& left bearinge. *i Paralip.2.

C The .xxx. Chapter.

When Rahel sawe that she bare Jacob no children, she enuyed hir syster/& sayde vnto Jacob: Geue me childrē/or els I am but deed. Thā was Jacob wroth with Rahel sayinge: Am I in Godes steade which kepeth from the the frute of thy wombe? Then she sayde: here is my mayde Bilha: go in vnto her/ ỳ she maye beare vpō my lappe, that I may be encreased by her. And she gaue hym Bilha hyr hand mayde to wyfe. And Jacob went in vnto her: and Bilha conceaued & bare Jacob a sonne. Than sayde Rahel. God hath geuē sentence on my syde, & hath also hearde my voyce/and hath geuen me a sonne. Therfore called she hym Dan. And Bilha Rahels mayde conceaued agayne/ and bare Jacob another sonne. And Rahel sayde: God is turned, and I haue made a chaūge wt my syster/& haue gottē the vpper hād. And she called his name: Nepthali.

When Lea sawe that she had left bearing, she toke Silpha hyr mayde/ & gaue her Jacob to wyfe. And Silpha Leas mayde bare Jacob a sonne. Than sayde Lea: Good luck: and called his name Gad. And Silpha Leas mayde bare Jacob another sonne. Thā sayd Lea: happy am I for ỳ doughters wyll call B me* blessed. And called his name Aser.

And Ruben wēt out in ỳ wheat haruest & fouād* mādragoras in the feld, & brought thē vnto his mother Lea. Thā sayd Rahel to Lea geue me of thy sonnes mādragoras. And Lea answered: Is it not ynough ỳ thou hast takē away my housbād but wolde st take away my sonnes mādragoras also? Than sayd Rahel: well let him slepe wt the this nyghte for thy sonnes mandragoras. And when Jacob came from the feldes at euen Lea went out to mete him & sayd: come in to me for I haue bought the with my sonnes mandragoras.

And he slepte wt her that nyghte. And God herde Lea ỳ she cōceaued & bare vnto Jacob ỳ .v. sonne. Thā sayd Lea. God hath geuē me my reward because I gaue my mayden to my husband, & she called hym Jachar. And

And he toke out that same daye ȳ he gootes that were partie & of dyuerse coloures & all the she gootes that were spotted & partie coloured, & all that had whyte in thē, & all the blacke amōge the lambes: & put thē in the he partie. Then Jacob parted the lambes and G turned the faces of the shepe toward spotted thynges, & towārd all maner of blacke thyngs thorow out the flockes of Labā. And he made hym flockes of hys awne by thē selfe, whych he put not vnto the flockes of Labā. And all waye in the first bucking tyme of the shepe/Jacob put the staues before the shepe in the gutters that they myght cõceaue before the staues: but in the latter buckynge tyme, he put them not there: so the last brode was La

¶ The.xxxi.Chapter.

And Jacob heard the wordes of La bans sonnes how they sayde: Jacob hath takē awaye all that was oure fathers, and of oure fathers goodes hath he gotē al this honoure. And Ja cob beheld the countenaūce of Laban, that it was not toward hym as it was in tymes past. And the Lorde sayde vnto Jacob: turne agayne in to the lande of thy fathers & to thy kynred/ & I wyll be wyth the. Than Jacob sent & called Rahell & Lea to the felde vnto hys shepe/& sayde vnto thē: I se your fathers countenaunce that it is not toward me as in tymes past. Howbeuer ȳ God of my father hath bene wyth me. And ye knowe how that I haue serued youre father wt all my myght.
And youre father hath deceaued me/ & chaū hath God takē awaye youre fathers catell & G geuē them me. For in bucking tyme I lyfted vp myne eyes & sawe in a dreame/& beholde/the rāmes ȳ bucked the shepe were straked/spotted & partye. And ȳ angell of God spake vnto me in a dreame, sayinge: Jacob: And I answered: here am I. And he sayde: lyfte vp thyne eyes & se, how all the rāmes that leape vpon the shepe are straked, spotted & partye:

for I haue sene all ȳ Laban doth vnto the. I with whome soeuer thou fyndest thy godes/let him dye here before oure brethren. Se that thyne is by me/ & take it to ꝑ: for Jacob wyst not ꝑ Rahel had stolen thē. Than went Laban in to Jacobs tēte/ & into Leas tēte/& in to .ij. maydēs tentes: but founde thē not.

Than went he out of Leas tente, & entred in to Rahels tēte. And Rahel toke the ymages & put thē in the camels strawe & sate doune vpon thē. And Laban serched all the tēte: but founde thē not. Than sayde she to hyr father:
my lorde, be not angry that I can not ryse vp before the for the dyscase of women is come vpō me. So serched he/ but founde thē not.

Jacob was wroth/ & chode with Laban.
Jacob also answered and sayde to him: what haue I trespaced or what haue I offended, ꝑ thou folowedest after me? Thou hast searched al my stuffe/ & what hast thou founde of all thy household stuffe? put it here before thy Laban answered & sayde vnto Jacob: the doughters are my doughters/ & the children are my children & the shepe are my shepe/ & all that thou seist is myne. And what can I do this daye vnto these my doughters, or vnto their childrē which they haue borne? Now therfore come on let vs make a bonde, I and thou to gether/ & let it be a witnesse betwene the & me. Than toke Jacob a stone and set it vp an ende and sayde vnto his brethren, gather stones. And they toke stones/ & made an heape, & they ate there vpō the heape. And Laban called it Jegar Sahadutha, but Ja cob called it Gilead.

Than sayde Laban: this heape be* wyt- G nesse betwene ꝑ & me this daye (therfore is it * Josu.xxij.c. called Gilead) & this towrhyll which ꝑ Lorde xxiij.c. seeth (sayde he) be wytnesse betwene me and the when we are departed one frō another:
that thou shalt not vexe my doughters nether shalt take other wyues vnto them. Here is no man with vs: beholde/ God is witnesse betwixte the and me. And Laban sayde more ouer to Jacob: beholde this heape and thys marke which I haue set here betwixte me & the: this heape be wytnesse & also this marke that I wyll not come ouer this heape to the/

¶ The vision of the Angells. Jacob sendeth presents vnto hys brother Esau. How he wrestled with the angell which chaunged his name and called him Israel.

¶ The .xxxij. Chapter.

Josue xxiij. a. I Jacob sente messengers before hym to Esau hys brother, vnto the land *of Seir & the feld of Edom. And he cōmaunded them sayng. Se that ye speake after this maner to my lorde Esau: thy seruaunte Jacob sayth thus. I haue sogerned & bene a straūger wyth Laban vnto thys tyme & haue gottē oxen/ asses & shepe/ menseruaūtes & wemenseruauntes/ & haue sent to shewe it my lorde / that I may fynde grace in thy syghte. And the messengers came agayne to Jacob sayng: we came vnto thy brother Esau/ & he cometh ageynst the .iiij. hūdred men wt him. Thā was Jacob greatly afrayd/ & wist not which waye to turne hym selfe and deuyded the people that was with him & the shepe/ oxen & camels/ into .ij. companies & sayd: If Esau come to the one parte & smyte it/ the other may saue it selfe.

And Jacob sayd: O god of my father Abraha hām/ & God of my father Isaac: Lorde wbych saydest vnto me/ returne vnto thy cūtre and to thy kynred & I wyll do all well with the. I am not worthy of the leaste of all the mercyes & treuth wbych thou hast shewed vnto thy seruaunte. For with my staf came I ouer this Jordane & now haue I goten .ij. droues. Deliuer me from the handes of my brother Esau: for I feare him: lest he wyll come and smyte the mother wyth the chyldren. Thou saydest that thou woldest surely do me good/ & woldest make my seed as the sonde of the see which can not be nōbred for multitude.

a. To go with a staffe is a maner of speakīg of the Hebrews which sygnifyeth nothing els but to go symply barely and without any riches or treasure as in Mat. x. b

And he tarried there that same nyghte / & toke of that wbych came to hande/ a present/ vnto Esau his brother. ij. hundred she gootes & xx. he gootes. ij. hundred shepe and. xx. rammes: thyrtye mylch camels with their coltes xl. kyne & x. bulles. xx. sheasses & x. foles and delyuered them vnto hys seruauntes, euery droue by them selues / & sayde vnto thē: goo forth before me & put a space betwixte euery droue. And he cōmaūded the formest sayinge. Whē Esau my brother meteth the & axeth the sayinge: whose seruaunte art thou and whither goost thou / & whose are these the goo before the: thou shalt say they be thy seruaūte Jacobs / & are a present sent vnto my lorde Esau/ & beholde/ he hym selfe cometh after vs. And so cōmaunded he the seconde/ & euen so the thyrde & lykewyse all that folowed the droues sayinge/ of this maner se the ye speake vnto Esau when ye mete him / & sayde more ouer. Beholde thy seruaunte Jacob cometh after vs/ for he sayd. I will pease hys wrath with the present that goth before me & afterward I wyll see hym my selfe/ so peraduenture he wyll receaue me to grace. So went the present before him and he tarried all that nyghte in the tente/ & rose vp the same nighte & toke hys .ij. wyues & his .ij. maydens & his xi. sonnes/ & wēt ouer the foorde Jabok. And he toke thē & sent thē ouer the ryuer / & sent ouer that he had & taried behind him selfe alone.

+ Osee. xij. b. And there +wrastled a man with hym vnto the breakynge of the daye. And when he sawe that he coulde not preuayle agaynst him/ he smote hym vnder the thye / & the senowe of Jacobs thye shranke as he wrastled wt him. And he sayd: let me goo/ for the daye breaketh And he sayd: I wyll not lett the goo/ excepte thou blesse me. And he sayde vnto him: what is thy name? He answered: Jacob. And he sayd. thou shalt be called Jacob no more, but * Israell. For thou hast wrastled wyth God & hast preuayled.

* Gene. xxxv. b

And Jacob asked him sayinge/ tell me thy name. And he sayd, wherfore dost thou aske after my* name? & he blessed him there. And Jacob called the name of the place Phenuel, for I haue sene God face b to face / & yet is my lyfe reserued. And as he went ouer Phenuel the sonne rose vpō him/ & he halted vpō hys thye: wherfore the chyldren of Israell eate not of the senow the shranke vnder the thye/ vnto thys daye: because the he smote Jacob vnder the thye in the senow that shronke.

¶ Esau & Jacob are agreed/ & Jacob came into Sichē.

¶ The .xxxiij. Chapter.

And Jacob lyfte vp his eyes & sawe hys brother Esau come / & with him .iiij. hundred men. And he deuyded the chyldren vnto Lea & vnto Rahel & vnto the .ij. maydēs. And he put the maydēs & their chyldrē formost/ & Lea & hyr chyldrē after/ & Rahel and Joseph hindermost. And he went before them & fell on the grownde. vij. tymes/ vntyll he came vnto his brother.

Esau ranne to mete him & embraced him and fell on his necke & kyssed hym/ and they wepte. And he lyfte vp hys eyes & sawe the wyues & their chyldrē/ & sayd: what are these which thou there hast? And he sayd: they are the chyldrē which god hath geuē thy seruaūte. Than came the maydens forth / & dyd their obeysaūce. Lea also & hyr chyldrē came and dyd their obaysaunce. And last of all came Joseph & Rahel and dyd their obaysaunce.

And he sayde: what meanyst thou wt all the droues which I mett. And he answered: to fynde grace in the syghte of my Lorde. And Esau sayd: I haue ynough my brother/ kepe þ thou hast vnto thy self. Jacob answered: oh nay/ but yf I haue founde grace in thy syghte/ receaue my present of my hande: for I haue sene thy face * as though I had sene þ face of God: wherfore receaue me to grace & take my blessyng that I haue brought the/ for God hath geuē it me. And I haue ynough of all thyngs. And so he cōpelled hym to take it. And he sayde: let vs take oure iourney & goo/ and I wyll goo in thy company. And he sayde vnto him: my lorde knoweth þ I haue tendre chyldrē/ ewes & kyne with yonge/ vnder myne handē/ which yf men shulde ouerdryue but euē one daye/ the hole flocke wold dye. Let my lorde therfore goo before his seruaūte and I wyll dryue sayre and softly/ accordynge as the catell that goeth before me and the chyldren/ be able to endure: vntyll I come to my lorde vnto Seir.

And Esau sayde: let me yet leaue some of my folke with the. And he sayde: what needeth it: let me fynde grace in þ syghte of my lord. So Esau went his waye agayne that same daye vnto Seir. And Jacob toke hys iourney toward Sucoth/ and bylt him an house/ and made boothes for his catell: wherof the name of the place is called Sucoth.

And Jacob came peasably in to the cite of Sichem in the lande of Canaan/ after that he was come from Mesopotania/ & pitched before the cyte/ & bought a parcell of grounde where he pitched hys tent/ of the children of Hemor Sichēs father/ for an hundred lābes. And he made there an auter/ & there called vpon the myghtie God of Israel.

¶ The rauesshyng of Dyna Jacobs daughter by the men of Sychē. And of the gret bloude shedynge done by the sonnes of Jacob.

¶ The .xxxiiii. Chapter.

I Dina the doughter of Lea whych she bare vnto Jacob, went out to see the doughters of the lāde. And Sichē the sonne of Hemor the Heuite lorde of þ countre/ sawe her & toke her/ & laye with her, & forced her: & his harte laye vnto Dina þ doughter of Jacob. And he loued þ damsell & spake kyndly vnto her, & spake vnto hys father Hemor sayinge/ gett me thys mayde vnto my wyfe. And Jacob herde that he had defyled Dina hys doughter, but hys sonnes were with the catell in the felde/ and therfore he held his peace vntyll they were come. Then Hemor the father of Sichē wēt out vnto Jacob/ to comen with him. And the sonnes of Jacob came out of þ feld as soone as they herde it, for it greued thē/ & they were not a lytle wroth/ because he had wrought folye in Israell, in þ he had lyen w Jacobs doughter/ whych thynge ought not to be done. And Hemor comened with thē sayinge: The soule of my sonne Sichē longeth for youre doughter: geue her him to wyfe/ & make mariages w vs: geue youre doughters vnto vs/ & take oure doughters vnto you/ & dwell w vs & þ lāde shall be at youre pleasure/ dwell & do youre busynes/ & haue youre possessiōs there in. And Sichem sayde vnto hys father & hys brethren: let me fynde grace in youre eyes/ & what soeuer ye apointe me/ that will I geue. Aske freely of me both the dowry and gyftes/ & I wyll geue accordynge as ye saye vnto me/ & geue me the Damsell to wyfe.

Then the sonnes of Jacob answered to Sichē & Hemor his father deceytefully/ because he had defyled Dina their syster. And they sayd vnto thē/ we can not do this thinge that we shulde geue oure syster to one that is vncircūcysed/ for that were a shame vnto vs. Only in this wyll we consent vnto you: If ye wyll be as we be/ that all the men chyldren amonge you be circumcysed/ than wyll we geue oure doughter to you & take youres to vs/ & will dwell with you & be one people. But & yf ye wyll not harkē vnto vs to be circumcysed/ than wyll we take oure doughter & goo oure wayes. And their wordes pleased Hemor: & Sichem his sonne. And the yonge mā deferde not for to do the thynge/ because he had a lust to Jacobs doughter: he was also most sett by of all that were in hys fathers house. & hā Hemor & Sichem went vnto the gate of their cyte/ & comened wyth the men of their cyte saying: these men are peasable with vs/ & wyll dwell in the lande & do their occupacion therin. And in the lāde is rowme ynough for thē/ let vs take their doughters to wyues & geue thē oures: only herin wyll they cōsent vnto vs for to dwell with vs & to be one people: yf all the men chyldrē that are amonge vs be circūcysed as they are. Their goodes and their substance & all their catell are oures/ only let vs cōsente vnto thē/ that they maye dwell wyth vs.

And vnto Hemor and Sichem hys sonne harkened all that wēt out at the gate of hys cyte. And all þ men chyldrē were circūcysed what so euer wēt out at the gates of his cite. And the third daye when it was paynefull to them. ii. of the sonnes of Jacob Symeō and Leui Dinas brethren, toke eyther of thē hys *swerde & went in to the cyte boldly/ & slewe all that was male/ & slewe also Hemor and Sichē hys sonne w the edge of the swerde/ and toke Dina their syster out of Sichems house/ & went their waye.

Egypte and hys chefe baker had E offended there lorde the kynge of Egypte. And Pharao was angrie wyth thē and put thē in warde in hys chefe marshals house: euen in the prison where Joseph was bownd. And the chefe marshall gaue Joseph a charge with them / and he serued them. And they contynued a season in warde.

And they dreamed either of them in one nyghte: both the butlar and the baker of the kynge of Egypte which were bownde in the prison house / either of them his dreame / and B eche mannes dreame of a sondrie interpreta cion. When Joseph came in vnto them in the morynge / & loked vpon them: beholde / they were sadd. And he asked them sayinge / wher fore lokeye so sadly to daye? They answered him / we haue dreamed a dreame / & haue no man to declare it. And Joseph sayd vnto thē.
Interpretynge belongeth to God but tel me
yet. And the chefe butlar tolde his dreame to Joseph and sayde vnto hym. In my dreame me thought there stode a vyne before me / & in the vyne were.iij. braunches / and it was as though it budded / and her blossoms shott forth: & the grapes there of waxed rype. And I had Pharaos cuppe in my hande / and toke of the grapes & wronge them in to Pharaos C cuppe / & delyuered Pharaos cuppe in to his hande. And Joseph sayde vnto him / this is & interpretacīō of it. The.iij. braūches are thre dayes: for wythin thre dayes shall Pharao lyft vp thyne heade / and restore the vnto thyne office agayne / & thou shalt delyuer pharaos cuppe in to hys hande / after the old maner, euen as thou dydest when thou wast hys butlar. But thynke on me wh the / when thou art in good case / & shewe mercye vnto me. And make mencion of me to Pharao / & helpe to bringe me out of thys house: for I was stolen out of the land of the Hebrues / & here also haue I done nothing at all wher fore they shulde haue put me in to thys dongeon. Whē the chefe baker sawe that he had well interpretate it / he sayde vnto Joseph / me thought also in my dreame, that I had.iij.
wyker basshettes on my heade. And in the vp permost basket of all maner bakemeates for Pharao. And the byrdes ate them out of the basket vpon my head.

Joseph answered and sayde: this is the in terpretacīō therof. The.iij. basshettes are.iij. D dayes / for thys daye.iij. dayes shall Pharao take thy heade from the and shall hange the on a tree / and the byrdes shall eate thy flesh from of the.

And it came to passe the thyrde daye which was Pharaes * byrth daye / that he made a * Mat. xiiij. a feast vnto all his seruauntes. And he lyfted vpp the head of the chefe buttelar and of the chefe baker amonge his seruauntes. And re stored the chefe buttelar vnto hys buttelarshippe agayne / and he reched the cuppe in to Pharaos hande / and hāged the chefe baker:
euē as Joseph had interpretated vnto them.
Notwythstōdyng the chefe buttelar remem bred not Joseph / but forgat him.

none of thē that coulde interpretate it vnto Pharao. Than spake the chefe buttelar vnto Pharao saying. I do remēbre my fawte this daye. Pharao was angrie w̄ his seruauntes/ & put in warde in the chefe marshals house both me & the chefe baker. And we dreamed both of vs in one nyght & ech mānes dreame of a sondrye interpretacion.

And there was wyth vs a yonge man / an Hebrue borne/seruaūte vnto the chefe marshall. And we told hym / and he declared oure dreames to vs accordynge to ether of oure dreames. And as he declared them vnto vs/ euen so it came to passe. I was restored to myne office agayne/ and he was hanged.

Than Pharao sent and called Joseph. And they made him haste out of * prison. And he shaued him self and chaunged his raymēt/ & wēt in to Pharao. And Pharao sayd vnto Joseph: I haue dreamed a dreame & no man can interpretate it/ but I haue herde saye of the ℣ as soone as thou hearest a dreame / thou doste interpretate it. And Joseph answered Pharao sayinge: God shall geue Pharao an answere of peace without me. Pharao sayde ℭ vnto Joseph: in my dreame me thought I stode by a ryuers syde/ and there came out of the ryuer. vij. katt fleshed and well fauored kyne and fedd in the medowe. And then. vij. other kyne came vp after them/ poore & very euell fauored & leane fleshed: so that I neuer sawe their lyke in all the lande of Egypte in euell fauordnesse. And the. vij. leane & euell fauored kyne ate vp the fyrst. vij. katt kyne. And when they had eaten thē vp a mā coulde not perceaue that they had eaten them: for they were still as euill fauored as they were at ℣ begynnynge. And I awoke. And god doth shewe Pharao what he is aboute to do. The vij. good kyne are. vij. yeres: and the. vij. good eares are seuen yere also / and it is but one dreame. Likewyse/ the. vij. thynne & euell fauored kyne that came out after thē / are. vij. ℭ eares: & the. vij. emptie & blasted eares shalbe vij. yeares of hunger. Thys is that which I sayde vnto Pharao. ℣ God doth shewe Pharao what he is aboute to do.

Beholde there shall come. vij. yere of great plenteousnes thrugh out all the lande of Egypte. And there shall aryse after them. vij. yeres of hunger. So ℣ all the plenteousnes shalbe forgeten in the lande of Egypte. And the hunger shall consume the lande: so that ℣ plenteousnes shall not be once sene in the land by reason of that hūger that shall come after/ for it shalbe exceadinge great. And as cōcernynge that the dreame was doubled vnto Pharao the second tyme / it betokeneth ℣ the thynge is certanly prepared of God/ and that God wyll shortly bringe it to passe.

Now therfore let Pharao prouyde for a man of vnderstondyng & wysdome / and sett hym ouer the lande of Egypte. And let Pharao make officers ouer the lande / & take vp the fyfte parte of the lande of Egypte in the vij. plenteous yeres & let thē gather all the foode of these good yeres that come/ & lay vp corne vnder the power of Pharo / that there may be foode in the cytyes/ and there let thē kepte it: that there may be foode in store in the lande / agaynst the. vij. yeres of hunger which shall come in the land of Egypte/ and that the lande perisshe not thorow hunger.

And the sayinge pleased Pharao & all his ℰ seruaūtes. Than sayde Pharao vnto his seruauntes: where shall we fynde soch a mā as thys is/ that hath the spyrite of God in hym? wherfore Pharao sayde vnto Joseph: for as moch as God hath shewed the all this/ there is no man of vnderstondynge or of wysdome lyke vnto the. I wylbe suertye for hym / and of my handes requyre him. If I bringe him not to the & sett hym before thine eyes / * thā let me bere the blame for euer. For except we had made thys taryeng: by thys we had bene there twyse and come agayne.

Than their father Israel sayd vnto them: Yf it must nedes be so now: than do thus: take of the best frutes of the lande in youre vesselles, and bringe the mā a present / a curtesye bawme / and a curtesye of hony / spices & myrre / dates & almōdes. And take as moch money more wyth you. And the money that was brought agayne in youre sackes / take it agayne wyth you / peraduenture it was some ouersyghte.

Take also youre brother with you / & aryse & goo agayne to the mā. And God almighte geue you mercie in the syghte of the mā and send you youre other brother and also Benjamin / and I wylbe as a man robbed of his chyldren.

Thus toke they the present and twyse so moch more money with them / and Benjamin. And rose vp / went downe to Egypte / & presented thē selfe to Joseph. When Joseph sawe Benjamin with them / he sayde to the ruelar of his house: bringe these men home & sley and make redie: for they shall dyne wt me at none. And the man dyd as Joseph bad / and brought them in to Josephs house.

Whē they were brought to Josephs house / they were afrayde and sayde: be cause of the money that came in oure sackes mouthes at & fyrst tyme / are we brought / to pyke a quarell with vs and to laye some thinge to oure charge to bringe vs in bōdage & oure asses also. Therfore came they to the man & was the ruelar ouer Josephs house / & comened with him at the dooze and sayde.

Wherfore God sent me before you to make prouysyon, ꝑ ye myghte continue in the erth and to saue youre lyues by a greate deliuerance. So now it was not ye that sent me hyther, but God: and he hath made me father vnto Pharao and lorde ouer all his house, & ruler in all the lande of Egypte. Haste you & goo to my father & tell hym, this sayeth thy ¶ sonne Joseph: God hath made me lorde ouer all Egypte. Come downe vnto me and tarye not. And thou shalt dwell in the lande of Gosan and be by me: both thou and thy chyldrē, and thy chyldrens chyldren: and thy shepe, and bestes & all that thou hast. ¶ There wyll I make prouysyon for the: for there remayne yet .v. yeres of derth, lest thou and thy housholde and all that thou hast perysh.

Beholde, youre eyes do se, and the eyes also of my brother Benjamin, that I speake to you by mouth. ¶ Therfore tell my father of all my honoure which I haue in Egypt and of all that ye haue sene, and make haste and bynge my father hyther. ¶ And he fell on his brother Benjamins necke & wepte, and Benjamin wepte on his necke. Moreouer he kyssed all his brethren & wepte vpon thē. And after that, his brethrē talked with him. And when the tydynges was come vnto Pharaos house ꝑ Josephs brethren were come, it pleased Pharao well & all his seruauntes.

And Pharao spake vnto Joseph: saye vnto thy brethrē, this do ye: lade youre beestes & get you hence. And when ye be come vnto the lande of Canaan, take youre father and youre housholdes & come vnto me, & I wyll geue you the best of the land of Egypte, and ye shall eate the fatt of the lande. And commaunded also. ¶ This do ye: take charettes vnto you out of the lande of Egypt, for youre chyldrē & for youre wyues: & bynge youre father & come. Also, regarde not youre stuff, for the goodes of all ꝑ land of Egypt shalbe youres.

And the chyldrē of Israel dyd euen so. And Joseph gaue them charettes at the cõmaũdment of Pharao, and gaue them vitayle also to spende by ꝑ waye. And he gaue vnto eche of them chaunge of rayment: but vnto Benjamin he gaue .v. hundred peces of syluer & .v. chaunge of rayment. ¶ Then there rose vp a new kyng in Egypte which knewe not Joseph. And he sayde vnto his folke: beholde the people of the childrē of Israel are moo and mightier than we. Come on, let vs playe wisely with them: lest they multiplie, and then yf there chaunce any warre they ioyne them selues vnto our enmies and fyghte agaynst vs, and so gete thē out of the lande.

And he sette taskemasters ouer them, to kepe them vnder with burthens. And they bylde vnto Pharao treasure cities: Phiton & ¶ Rameses. But the more they vexed thē, the moare they multiplied & grewe: so ꝑ they abhorred the children of Israel. And the Egyptians helde the children of Israel in bondage without mercie, and made their lyues bitter vnto them with cruell labour in claye and bricke, and all maner worke in the feldes, & in all maner of seruice, which they caused them to worke cruelly.

And the kynge of Egypte sayde vnto the mydwiues of ꝑ Ebrue women, of which the ones name was Sephora & ꝑ other Phua: whē ye do ꝑ office of a mydwife to ꝑ womē of the Ebrues & se in the byrth tyme that it is a boye, kyll it. But yf it be a mayde, let it lyue

D Notwithstōding the mydwiues feared God & dyd not as the kynge of Egypte commaunded them: but saued the men children.

Then the kynge of Egypte called for the mydwiues and sayd vnto them: why haue ye dest on this maner and haue saued the menchildren? And the mydwiues answered Pharao that the Ebrues wemē were not as the wemen of Egypte: but were stronge women, and were deliuered ere the mydwyues came at them. And God therfore dele well with the mydwyues. And the people multiplied and waxed very mightie. And because the mydwiues feared God, he made them houses.

a. He made them houses: that is, he encreased & multiplyed them, & made housholdes of them, ge uynge the both husbandes and children, as in Gene.xlvi.a.

Thā Pharao charged all his people saying All the menchildren that are borne, cast into the ryuer and saue the maydchildren a lyue.

¶ Moses is borne and cast into the flagges. He is taken vp of Pharaos daughter. He kylleth the Egyptian. He flyeth & marryeth a wyfe. The Israelites crye vnto the Lorde.

Then Pharaos doughter sayde vnto her. Take this childe awaye and nurse it for me, & I wyll rewarde ꝑ for thy labour. And ꝑ womā toke the childe, & nursed it vp.

And when the childe was growne, she brought it vnto Pharaos doughter, and it was made hir sonne & she called it* Moses, because (sayde she) I toke him out of the water. And it happened in these dayes whē Moses was waxte great, that he went out vnto his brethren and loked on their burdens, & spied an Egyptian smytynge one of his brethren an Ebrue. And he loked round aboute and when he sawe that there was no man by he* slewe the Egyptian and hyd him in the sonde. And he went out a nother daye: & beholde two Ebrues stroue to gether. And he sayde vnto him that dyd the wronge: wherfore smytest thou thine neyghboure? And he answered: who hath made the a ruler or a iudge ouer vs: intendest thou to kill me, as thou killedst the Egyptian? Then Moses feared and sayde: of a suertie the thinge is knowne. And Pharao herde of it and went about to slee Moses: but he fled from Pharao and dwelt in the lande of Madian, and he sat doune by a welles syde.

¶ The.iij. Chapter.

Moses answered & sayde: Se they will not beleue me nor herken vnto my voyce: but will saye, the Lorde hath not apeared vnto the. Then the Lorde sayde vnto him: what is that in thine hande? and he sayde, a rodd. And he sayd cast it on the grounde, & it turned vnto a serpēt. And Moses ran awaye from it. And the Lorde sayde vnto Moses: put forth thine hande & take it by the tayle. And he put forth his hand and caught it, and it became a rodd agayne in his hand, that they may beleue þ the Lorde God of their fathers, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac and the God of Jacob hath appeared vnto the.

And the Lorde sayd further moze vnto him thrust thine hande in to thy bosome. And he thrust his hande in to his bosome and toke it out. And behold, his hand was leperous euē as snowe. And he sayde: put thine hande in to thy bosome agayne. And he put his hande in to his bosome agayne, and plucked it out of his bosome, & beholde, it was turned agayn as his other flesh. If they will not beleue the nether heare the voyce of the first token: yet will they beleue the voyce of the seconde token. But & yf they will not beleue the two signes nether herken vnto thy voyce, then take of the water of the riuer and poure it vpon the drye lond. And þ water which thou takest out of the riuer shall turne to bloude vpon the drye londe.

And Moses sayde vnto the Lorde: oh my Lorde * I am not eloquent, no not in tymes past and namely sence thou hast spoken vnto thy seruaunte: but I am slowe mouthed & slowe tongued. And the Lorde sayde vnto hī: who hath made mans mouth, or who hath made the domme or the deaff, the seynge or þ blynde: haue not I the Lorde? Go therfor and * I wilbe with thy mouth and teach the what thou shalt saye. But he sayde: oh my Lorde, send I pray the whom thou wilt. And the Lorde was angrie with Moses and sayd I knowe Aaron thy brother the leuite that he can speake. And moreouer behold, he cometh to mete the, and when he seyth the, he wilbe glad in his hert. And thou shalt speake vnto him and put the wordes in his mouth, and I wilbe with thy mouth and with his mouth, and will teach you what ye shall do. And he shalbe thy spokesman vnto the people: he shall be thy mouth & thou shalt be his God: and take this rodd in thy hande, wherwith thou shalt do myracles.

And Moses went and returned to Jethro his father in lawe agayne and sayde vnto hī let me goo (I praye the) & turne agayne vnto my brethren which are in Egypte, that I may se whether they be yet alyue. And Jethro sayd to Moses: goo in peace. And þ Lorde sayd vnto Moses in Madiā: returne agayn into Egypt * for they are dead which went aboute to kyll þ. And Moses toke his wyfe & his sonnes & put thē on an asse & went agayn to Egypte, & toke þ rodd of God in his hāde.

And the Lorde sayde vnto Moses: when thou art come in to Egypte agayne, se that thou doo all þ wōdres before Pharao which I haue put in thy hand. but I will hardē his herte, so that he shall not let the people goo. And tell Pharao, thus sayth the Lorde: Israel is myne eldest sonne, and therfore sayth vnto the: let my sonne goo, that he may serue me. If thou wilt not let him goo: beholde, I will slee thyne eldest sonne.

And it chaunced by the waye in the ynne that the Lorde mett hym & wolde haue kylled him. Than Zepora toke a stone & circumcised hyr sonne & fell at hys fette, and sayde: a bloudy husband art thou vnto me. And he lett him goo. She sayde a bloudy husbonde, because of the circūcision. Than sayde the Lorde vnto Aaron: go mete Moses in þ wildernesse. And he wēt & mett him in þ mount of God & kissed hym. And Moses told Aaron all the wordes of þ Lorde which he had sent by hym, & all the tokens which he had charged him with all. So went Moses & Aaron and gathered all the elders of the children of Israel. And Aaron told all the wordes which the Lorde had spokē vnto Moses, & dyd the myracles in the syght of the people, & þ people beleued. And whē they herde þ the Lorde had visited the children of Israel and had loked vpon their tribulacion, * they bowed thē selues and worshipped.

b They bowed the knees, that is, gaue thākes & prayed the Lorde.

¶ Moses & Aaron goeth vnto Pharao. The people of Israel are oppressed more and more, and they crye out vpon Moses & Aaron therfore.

¶ The.v. Chapter.

Then Moses & Aaron went & told Pharao thus sayth the Lord God of Israel. Let my people goo that they may kepe holye daye vnto me in þ wildernesse. And Pharao answered: what felowe is the Lorde/that I shulde heare his voyce for to let Israel goo. a. I knowe not the Lorde nether will I let Israel goo. And they sayde: the God of the Hebrewes hath mett with vs: let vs goo we praye the) iii. dayes iourney into the desert, that we maye sacrifice vnto the Lorde oure God: lest he smyte vs ether with pestilence or with swerde. Then sayde the kynge of Egypte vnto them: wherfore do ye Moses and Aaron let the people from their worke, get you vnto your labour. And Pharao sayd furthermore: beholde there is moch people in the lande/and ye make them playe and let their worke stonde.

a. I know not the Lorde that is: I feare him not/ I beleue not in him: neither have I any thyng to do with him. And euen thus sayeth all hardened hartes that have not the feare of the Lorde before their eyes

And Pharao cõmaunded the same daye vnto the taskemasters ouer the people/ & vnto the officers saying: se that ye geue the people no more strawe to make bricke with all/ as ye dyd in tyme passed: let them goo & gather them strawe them selues/ and the nombre of bricke whyche they were wont to make in tyme passed/ laye vnto their charges also/ & B minysh nothinge therof. For they be ydill & therfore crye sayinge: let vs goo and do sacrifice vnto oure God. They must have more worke layed vpon them/ that they maye labour therin/ and than will they not turne them selues to false wordes.

Than went the taskemasters of the people and the officers out and tolde the people sayinge: Thus sayeth Pharao: I will geue you no moare strawe/ but goo your selues & gather you strawe where ye can fynde it/ yet shall none of youre labour be minysshed. Than the people scatered abrode thorowe out all the land of Egypte for to gather them stubyll to be in stead of strawe.

C And the taskemasters hasted thẽ forward saying: fulfill youre werke daye by daye/ euẽ as when strawe was geuen you. And the officers of the children of Israel which Pharaos taskmasters had sett ouer them/ were beaten. And it was sayde vnto them: wherfor have ye not fulfilled youre taske in makyng bricke, both yesterdaye and to daye/ as well as in tymes past.

Than went the officers of the children of Israel & complayned vnto Pharao sayinge: wherfore dealest thou thus with thy seruaũtes? there is no strawe geuen vnto thy seruauntes/ and yet they saye vnto vs: make bricke. And loo/ thy seruaunts ar beaten/ D and thy people is foule intreated. And he answered: ydill ar ye ydill and therfore ye saye: let vs goo and do sacrifice vnto the Lorde. Goo therfore and worke/ for there shall no strawe be geuen you, and yet see that ye deliuer the hole tale of bricke.

When the officers of the children of Israel sawe them selfe in shrode case (in that he sayde ye shall minysh nothinge of youre dayly makinge of bricke) than they mett Moses and Aaron standinge in there waye as they came out from Pharao/ and sayde vnto them: The Lorde loke vnto you and iudge/ for ye have made the sauoure of vs stincke in the sighte of Pharao and of his seruauntes, and have put a swerde in to their handes to slee vs.

b. Ye have made vs stincke in the syght of Pharao/ that is by your workes & meanes: all the wrath & displeasure of Pharao is brought vpon vs/ that he vtterly hateth & abhorreth vs.

Moses returned vnto the Lorde & sayde: Lorde wherfore dealest thou cruelly with this people: & wherfore hast thou sent me? For sence I came to Pharao to speke in thy name he hath vexed vnlli with this folke, & yet thou hast not delyuered thy people at all. Then the Lorde sayde vnto Moses: Now shalt thou see what I will doo vnto Pharao for with a myghtie hande shall he let them goo/ and with a myghtie hand shall he dryue them out of hys lande.

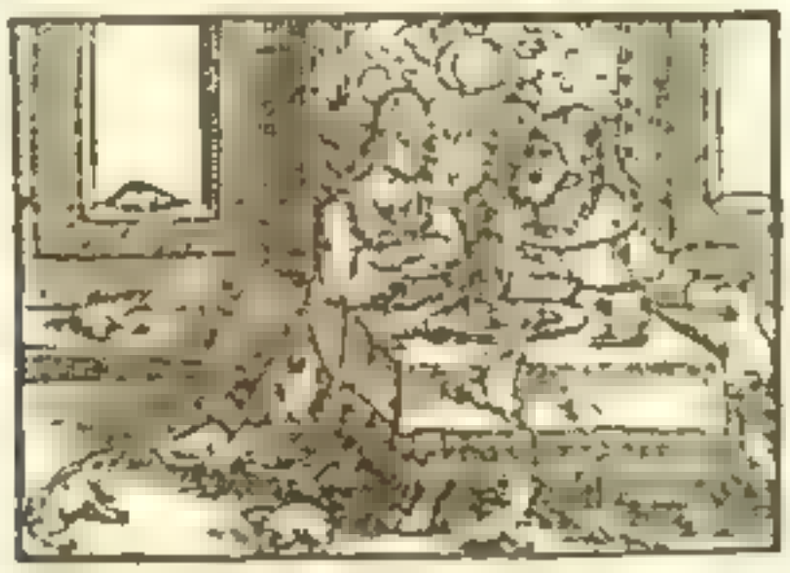
¶ The plage of froggers. Moses prayeth for Pharao

The plage of flyes.



¶ The viij. Chapter.

THe Lorde spake vnto Moses: Goo vnto Pharao and tell hym / thus sayeth the Lorde: * lett my people goo, ỹ they may serue me. If thou wilt not let them goo: beholde, I wyll smyte all thy londe wt frogges. And the ryuer shall scrale with frogges, and they shall come vp and goo in to thyne house & in to thy chaumbre where thou slepest & vpon thy bedd / & in to the houses of thy seruauntes / and vpon thy people/ and in to thyne ouens / and vpon thy vitels which thou hast in store. And the frogges shall come vpon the and on thy people and apon all thy seruauntes.

* Exo.vij.c. xx.xxj.a

And the Lorde spake vnto Moses / saye vnto Aaron: stretche forth thine hande with thy rodd ouer the stremes/ryuers & pondes. And bringe vp frogges apon the londe of Egypte. And Aarō stretched his hand ouer the water of Egypte & ỹ frogges came vp & couered ỹ lond of Egypte. And ỹ sorcerers dyd lykewyse with theire sorcery/ & the frogges came vp apon the lande of Egypte.

The.ij. plage.

Then Pharao called for Moses & Aaron and sayde / praye ye vnto the Lorde that he may take awaye the frogges from me and from my people / and I will let the people goo / that they maye do sacrifice vnto the Lorde. And Moses sayde vnto Pharao: Appoynte thou the tyme vnto me, when I shall praye for the & thy seruauntes and thy people, to dryue awaye the frogges from the & thy house, so ỹ they shall remayne but in ỹ ryuer only. And he sayde to morow. And he sayde: euen as thou hast sayde, ỹ thou mayst knowe that there is none like vnto the Lorde oure God. And the frogges shall departe frō the and from thyne houses and from thy seruauntes and from thy people, and shall remayne in the ryuer only.

And Moses & Aarō went out from Pharao/ and Moses cryed vnto the Lorde apon ỹ apoyntmēt of frogges which he had made vnto Pharao. And the Lorde dyd accordinge to the saying of Moses. And ỹ frogges dyed out of the houses / courtes and feldes. And they gathered them together vpon heppes: so that the lande stanke of them.

But when Pharao sawe that he had rest geuen him, he hardened his herte and herkened not vnto them/ as the Lorde had sayde.

The.iij. plage.

And the Lorde sayde vnto Moses: saye vnto Aaron streth out thy rodd and smyt the dust of the lande that it maye turne to lyse in all the londe of Egypte. And they dyd so. And Aaron stretched out his hande with his rodd & smote the dust of the erth, & it turned to lyse both in man and beest/ so that all the dust of the lande turned to lyse / thorowe out all the lande of Egypte.

And the enchaunters assayde lykewyse wt their enchauntmentes to bringe forth lyse/ but they coulde not. And the lyse were both apon man and beest. Then sayde the enchaūters vnto Pharao: it is the a fingre of God. Neuertheles Pharaos hert was hardened & he regarded thē not, as the Lorde had sayd.

a. What the fynger of God doth signifie is expounded in Luke.xj.c.

And the Lorde sayde vnto Moses: ryse vp early in the morninge & stonde before Pharao, for he will come vnto the water: & saye vnto him, thus sayth the Lorde: let my people goo, that they maye serue me. If thou wilt not let my people goo / beholde/ I wyll sende all maner flyes both apon the and thy seruauntes / and thy people / and into thy houses. And the houses of the Egyptians shalbe full of flies / and the grounde where on they are. But I will seperate the same daye the londe of Golan where my people are/ so that there shall no flyes be there: that thou mayste knowe that I am the Lorde vpon the erth. And I will putt a deuisiō betwene my people and thyne. And euen to morow shall this myracle be done.

And the Lorde dyd euen so: and there came noysom flyes in to the house of Pharao and in to his seruauntes houses and in to all the londe of Egypte: so ỹ the londe was marred with with flyes. Then Pharao sent for Moses & Aaron & sayde: Go & do sacrifice vnto youre God in the land. And Moses answered: it is not mete so to do. For we must offer vnto ỹ Lorde oure God/that which is an abominacyon vnto the Egyptians: beholde/ shall we sacrifice that which is an abominaciō vnto the Egyptiās before their eyes/ & shall they not stone vs? we will therfore goo .iij. dayes iourney in to the deserte & sacrifice vnto the Lord oure God as he hath cōmaunded vs.

And Pharao sayde: I will let you goo / & ye maye sacrifice vnto the Lord youre God in the wildernes: only goo not farre awaye/ & se that ye praye for me. And Moses sayde: beholde / I will goo out from the and praye vnto the Lorde/ & the flyes shall departe frō Pharao & from his seruaūtes and from his people to morow. But let Pharao frō hence forth deceaue no more/ that he will not let the people goo to sacrifice vnto the Lorde.

And Moses went out from Pharao and prayed vnto the Lord. And the Lorde dyd as Moses had sayd/ & toke awaye the flyes frō Pharao & frō his seruaūtes & frō hys people so ỹ there remayned not one. But for all ỹ/ Pharao hardened his herte euen then also & wolde not let the people goo.

And the Lorde sayde vnto Moses/ goo vnto Pharao & tell him / thus sayeth ỹ Lord God of the Ebrues: let my people goo that they maye serue me. If thou wilt not let them goo but wilt holde them styll: beholde / the hande of the Lord shalbe apon thy catell which thou hast in ỹ feld/ apon horses/ asses/ camels/ oxē & shepe/ wt a mightye great morayne. But the Lord shall make a deuysiō betwene the beestes of the Israelites/ & the beestes of the Egyptiās: so ỹ there shall nothing dye of all that perteyneth to the childrē of Israel. And as many as feared the worde of the Lorde amonge the seruauntes of Pharao made their seruaūts and their beestes flee to house: and they that regarded not the worde of the Lorde / left their seruauntes & their beestes in the felde.

And the Lord sayde vnto Moses: stretche forth thyn hand vnto heauē / that there may be hayle in all the land of Egypte: apō mā & beest/ & apon all ỹ herbes of the felde in the feld of Egypt. And the hayle smote all the herbes of the feld and broke all the trees of the felde: only in the land of Golan where the children of Israel were / was there no hayle. And Pharao sent and called for Moses and Aaron / and sayde vnto them: I haue now synned, the Lorde is righteous and I & my people are b weked. Praye ye vnto the Lord, that the thonder of God & hayle maye ceasse, and I will let you goo and ye shall tarie no longer. And Moses sayde vnto him: assone as I am out of the citie, I will spreade abrode my handes vnto the Lorde, and the thonder shall ceasse, neither shall there be any moare hayle: that thou mayst knowe how that the erth is the Lordes. But I knowe & thou & thy seruaūtes yet feare not the Lord God. The flare and the barly were smytten / for the barly was shott vp and the flare was boulled: but the whete and the rye were not smeten / for they were late sowne.

And Moses went out of the citie frō Pharao and spreade abrode his handes vnto the Lorde and the thunder and hayle ceased nether rayned it any moare vpon the erth, whē Pharao sawe that the rayne and the hayle & thunder were ceased / he synned agayn and hardened his herte: both he & his seruaūtes. ¶ The heart of Pharao is hardened of God. The grashoppers. The thicke darckenes.

¶ The.x. Chapter.

And the Lorde sayde vnto Moses: goo vnto Pharao: neuertheles * I haue hardened his herte & the hert of hys seruauntes / that I myght shewe these my sygnes amongest thē / & that thou tell in the audience of thy sonne & of thy sonnes sonne / the pageantes whiche I haue playd in Egypte and the miracles which I haue done amonge thē: that ye may knowe how that I am the Lorde. Than Moses & Aaron went in vnto Pharao / & sayde vnto hym: Thus sayth the Lorde God of the Hebrews: how long shall it be or thou wylt submyt thy selfe vnto me? * Let my people goo that they maye serue me. If thou wilt not let my people goo: beholde / to morow will I bringe grashoppers in to thy land / and they shall couer the face of the erth that it can not be sene / and they shall eate the residewe which remaynyth vnto you and escaped the hayle: and they shall eate all youre grene trees vpon the felde / and they shall fill thy houses and al thy seruauntes houses / and the houses of all the Egyptians after soch a maner: as nether thy fathers nor thy fathers fathers haue sene / sence the tyme they were apon the erth vnto thys daye. And he turned him selfe aboute, and went out from Pharao

And Pharaos seruauntes sayde vnto him: How lōge shall we be thus euell intreated? Let the men goo that they maye serue the Lorde their God: wilt thou not yet knowe that Egypt is destroyed? And than Moses and Aaron were broughte agayn vnto Pharao and he sayde vnto them: Goo and serue & Lord youre God but who are they & shall go? And Moses answered: we wyll go with ponge & olde: ye & wt oure sonnes and wt oure doughters / & wt oure shepe & oxen must we go. For we must holde a feast vnto the Lord.

And he sayde vnto them: let it be so? The Lorde be with you / shulde I lett you goo / and youre children also? Take heede / for ye haue some myschefe in hande. Nay not so: but goo ye that are men and serue the Lorde for that was youre desyre. And they thrust them out of Pharaos presence.

And the Lord sayd vnto Moses: Stretch out thyne hande ouer the lande of Egypte for grashoppers / that they come apon the lande of Egypt and eate all the herbes of the lande, and all that the hayle left vntouched. And Moses stretched forth his rodd ouer the lande of Egypte / and the Lorde brought an east wynde vpon the lande, all that daye and all nyght. And they ate all the herbes of the lande and all the frutes of the trees which the hayle had lefte: so & there was no grene thinge lefte in the trees & herbes of the felde thorow all the lande of Egypte.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moses & Aarō in the land of Egypt saying: This moneth shall be youre chefe moneth: euē of the fyrst moneth of the yere shall it be vnto you. Speake ye vnto all the felowshyp of Israel saynge: That they take the x. daye of this moneth to euery housholde, a shepe. And when he seyth the bloud vpon the vpper doorposte & on the two syde postes he wyll passe ouer the doore and wyll not suffre the destroyer to come in to youre house to plage you. Therfore se that thou obserue this thynge, that it be an ordynaūce to the & thy sonnes for euer.

And when ye be come in to the lande which the Lorde wyll geue you accordyng as he hath promysed, se that ye kepe thys seruyce.* And when youre children aye you what maner of seruyce is this ye do? Dyd not we tell the this in Egypte sayinge / let vs be in rest & serue the Egyptians? for it had bene better for vs to haue serued the Egyptiās / than for to dye in the wyldernesse. And Moses sayde vnto the people: feare ye not but stonde styll and beholde how the Lorde shall saue you this daye: for as ye se the Egyptians thys daye / shall ye se thē nomore for euer tyll the worldes ende. The Lorde shall fyghte for you and* ye shall holde youre peace.

But lyfte thou vp thy rodd & stretch out thy hand ouer the see and deuyde it a sonder, that the childrē of Israel may goo on drye grounde thorow the myddest therof. And beholde I wyll harden the hertes of the Egyptiās that they maye folowe you. And the childrē of Israel went in thorow the myddest of the see vpon the drye groūde. And the water was a walle vnto thē / both on their ryghthāde & on their lefte hande. And the Egyptians folowed & fet wēt in after them to the myddest of the see / with all Pharaos horses, & hys charettes & his horsemen. And in the morninge watch / the Lorde loked vnto the hoste of the Egyptians out of the fiery and clowdy pyller / and troubled their hoste & smote of their charett wheles and caste them doune to the groūde. Than sayde the Egyptians: Let vs fle from Israel, for the Lord fyghteth for thē agaynst vs. Thā sayde the Lord vnto Moses: stretch out thyne hande ouer the see / that the water maye come agayne vpon the Egyptiās vpō their charettes and horsemen.

¶ The.xix. Chapter.

In the thyrde moneth after the chyldre̅ of Israel were gone out of Egypt: the same daye they came in to the wyldernesse of Sinai. * For they were departed frō Raphidim / & were come to the desert of Sinay and had pitched their tentes in the wyldernesse. And there Israel pitched before the mounte. And Moses wēt vp vnto God. And ꝧ Lorde called to hym out of the moūtayne, saying: thus saye vnto the house of Iacob, & tell the chyldren of Israel: ye haue sene what I dyd vnto the Egyptiās and how I toke you vp vpon egles wynges/ & haue brought you vnto my selfe. Now therfore yf ye wyll heare my voyce & kepe myne appoyntemēt: ye shall be myne awne aboue all nacions, for all the erth is myne.) Ye shall be vnto me a kyngdome of prestes & an holy people: these are the wordes which thou shalt saye vnto the chyldren of Israel.

And Moses came & called for the elders of Israel/& layde before the̅ all these wordes which the Lorde had cōmaunded hym. And the people answered all to gether and sayde: All that the Lorde hath sayde/ we wyll doo. And Moses brought the wordes of the people vnto the Lorde. And the Lorde sayde vnto Moses: Lo / I wyll come vnto the in a thycke clowde/ that the people maye heare when I talke with the & also beleue the for euer. And Moses shewed the wordes of the people vnto the Lorde.

a. To sanctyfye is here to purge & clense them from the fylthynes of bothe their body and garmentes as is in this same chapter beneth at. d. & xxxi. c.

And the Lorde sayde vnto Moses: Go vnto the people & sanctyfye them to daye & to morow & let them wash their clothes: that they maye be redy agaynst the thyrde daye. For the thyrde daye ꝧ Lorde will come doune in the syght of all the people vpon mounte

Synai. And set markes rounde about the people & saye: beware that ye go not vp in to the mounte/ & that ye touch not the bordres of it/ for whosoeuer toucheth the mounte/ shall surely dye. There shall not an hande touch it/ but that he shall ether be stoned or elles shot thorow: whether it be beast or man/ it shall not lyue / when the horne bloweth: than let them come vp in to the mountayn.

And Moses went downe from the mounte vnto the people and sanctyfyed them/ & they washed their clothes: And he sayde vnto the people: be redye agaynst the thyrde daye/ & se that ye̅ come not at youre wyues. And the thyrde daye in the morning there was thunder & lyghtenyng & a thicke clowde vpō the moūte & the voyce of the horne waxed exceadyng lowde & all the people that was in the hoste was afrayed. And Moses brought the people out of the tentes to mete with God, & they stode vnder the hyll.

b. Come not at youre wyues / that is when ye wyll serue the Lorde ye shal put frō you all lustes and fleshly concupiscences geuing youre selfe holy to prayer & abstynence as Paul teacheth. 1. Corint. vij. c that they that haue wyues shulde be as though they had none.

And mounte Sinai was all to gether on a smoke: because the Lorde descended downe vpō it in fyre. And the smoke therof ascended vp as it had bene the smoke of a kylne/ & all the mount was exceadyng fearfull. And the voyce of the horne blewe & waxed lowder & lowder. Moses spake & God answered hym & ꝧ with a voyce. And ꝧ Lorde came downe vpon mounte Sinai/ euē in the toppe of the hyll/ & called Moses vp into the toppe of the hyll. And Moses went vp.

And ꝧ Lord sayde vnto Moses: go downe & charge the people that they presse not vp vnto the Lorde for to se hym / & so many of thē perish. And let ꝧ prestes also which come to the Lordes presence sanctyfye thē selues: lest the Lorde smyte thē. Then Moses sayde vnto the Lorde: the people can not come vp in to ꝧ moūte Sinai for thou chargedest vs saying: set markes about the hyll/ & sanctifie it. And the Lorde sayde vnto hym: awaye/ & get the downe: & come vp both thou & Aaron with the. But let not the Prestes & the people presume for to come vp vnto the Lorde: lest he smyte them. And Moses went downe vnto the people/ and tolde them.

AND God spake all these wordes & sayd: I am ỳ Lorde thy God which haue brought the out of the lande of Egypte and out of the house of bondage. Thou shalt haue none other goddes in my syght. Thou shalt make the no graue ymage nether any symilitude ỳ is in heauē above ether in the erth benethe or in the water that is benethe the erth. Se that thou nether bowe thy sylf vnto them nether serue thē: for I the Lorde thy God am a *gelouse God, & vyset the synne of the fathers vpon the chyldrē vnto the thyrd and fourth generacyon of thē that hate me: and yet shewe mercye vnto thousandes amōge them that loue me and kepe my commaundmentes.

a. I am gelouse that is: I am the Lorde that watcheth and looketh narowly vnto your workes / & wyll punysshe accordyngly and angrye. B that feruently loueth your goodnes & will reward it aboundātly.

Thou shalt not take the name of ỳ Lorde thy god in vayne for ỳ Lorde will not holde him gyltelesse that taketh his name in vayne. *Remēbre the Sabbath daye that thou sanctifie it. Sixe dayes mayst thou laboure & do all ỳ thou hast to do: but the seuenth daye is the Sabbath of the Lorde thy God in it thou shalt do no maner worke: nether thou nor thy sonne nor thy doughter nether thy man seruaunte nor thy mayde seruaunte, nether thy catell nether yet the straunger ỳ is within thy gates. For in sixe dayes ỳ Lorde made both heauen & erth & the see & all that in them is and rested the seuenth daye: wherfore the Lorde blessed the Sabbath daye & halowed it. b Honoure thy father and thy mother ỳ thy dayes may be longe in the lande which the Lorde thy God geueth the.

b. To honor father and mother not only to shew obedience to them: ¶ but also to helpe them in their age yf they be poore & nedy / as Ephe. vi. a. Colo. iij. d. Mar. vij. b. Mat. xv. c. Roma. xiij b.

Thou shalt not kyll.

¶ The.xxi.Chapter.

THese are the lawes which thou shalt set before the. *If thou bye a seruaūte that is an hebrue / syxe yeres he shall serue / & the seuenth he shall goo out fre payinge nothinge. If he came alone / he shall goo out alone: If he came maried, his wyfe shall goo out with him And yf his master haue geuen hym a wyfe & she haue borne hym sonnes or doughters: then ỳ wyfe & hyr childrē shalbe hir masters & he shall goo out alone. But and yf the seruaunte saye I loue my master & my wyfe & my childrē, I wyll not goo out fre. Then let his master bringe him vnto the a Godds and sett hym to the doore or the dorepost / & bore his eare thorow with a naule, and let him be his seruaunte for euer.

Lawes.

*Deute. xv. c. Jere. xxxiij. c Leuitici. xxv. f

a. Judges and princes are called in the scripture often tymes goddes: because they receaue their office of God / as in Exo. xxij. b. which the apostle calleth the mynisters of God. Roma. xiij. a

If a mā sell his doughter to be a seruaūte: she shall not goo out as the men seruauntes doo. If she please not hir master / so that he hath geuē her to no mā to wife, then shall he let hir go fre: to sell her vnto a straūge nacyō shall he haue no power / because he despyted her. If he haue promysed her vnto hys sonne to wyfe, he shall deale with her as men do with their doughters. If he take hym another wife / yet hir fode / raymēt & dutie of mariage shall he not mynisshe. If he do not these thre vnto her, then shall she goo out fre & paye no money. *He ỳ smyteth a man ỳ he dye / shall be slayne for it. If a mā laye not awayte but God delyuer him in to his hāde / then I wyll poynte the a place whether he shall fle. If a man come presumptuously vpon his neyghboure & slee him with gyle / thou shalt take him fro myne alter that he dye. And he that smyteth his father or his mother / shall dye for it.

*Deute. xix. a

He that stealeth a man & selleth him (yf it be proued vpon hym) shall be slayne for it. *And he that curseth his father or mother / shall be put to deth for it. If men stryue together & one smyte another wyth a stone or with his fyste / so that he dye not / but lyeth in bedd: yf he ryse agayne & walke wythout vpon his staffe then shall he that smote him go quyte: saue only he shall bere his charges whyle he laye in bed & paye for his healyng.

If a mā smyte his seruaūte or hys mayde wt a staffe & they dye vnder his hād/ it shalbe ¶ auenged. But and yf they cōtinue a daye or two/it shall not be auenged for they are hys money. When men stryue & smyte a woman wt chylde so that hyr frute departe frō her & yet no mysfortune followeth: then shall he be mersed, accordynge as the womans husbond will laye to his charge/ & he shall paye as ỳ dayes men appointe him. But * and yf any mysfortune followe / then shall he paye lyfe for lyfe/eye for eye/ toth for toth / hande for hand, fote for fote, burnynge for burnynge/ wounde for wounde and strype for strype.

*Leui.xxiiij.c Deute.xix.d & Mat.v..f.

If a mā smyte his seruaunte or hys mayd in the eye & put it out, he shall let thē goo fre for the eyes sake. Also yf he smyte out his seruauntes or his maydes toth/ he shall lett thē go out fre for the tothes sake. If an ore gore a man or a womā that they dye, then the* ore shalbe stoned/ & hys flesh shall not be eaten: and his master shall go quyte.

*God so abhorreth murther/ that the vnreasonable beastes must dye therfore. And their flesh cast awaye

If the ore were wont to rumme at men in tyme past & it hath bene tolde hys master / & he hath not kepte hym / but ỳ he hath kylled a man or a womā: then the ore shalbe stoned and hys master shall dye also. If he be lett to a summe of money/ then he shall geue for ỳ delyueraunce of his lyfe/accordynge to all ỳ is put vnto him. And whether he hath gored a sonne or a doughter, he shalbe serued after the same maner. But yf it be a seruaunt or a mayde that the ore hath gored / then he shall geue vnto their master the summe of xxx.* sycles/ & the ore shall be stoned.

*Sicle/after the Iewes is accounted but after the grekes & Latynes it is but the fourth part of an ounce. And it cōteyneth .xx. grees as in Ero.xxx. whych is ten penee sterlyng or therabouts

If a man open a well or dygge a pyt & couer it not, but that an ore or an asse fall therin / the owner of the pyt shall make it good & geue money vnto their master / and the dead beest shalbe his.

If one mans ore hurte anothers ỳ he dye: then they shall sell the lyue ore & deuyde the money & the deed ore also they shall deuyde. But & yf it be knowē that the ore hath vsed to pushe in tymes past, then because hys master hath not kepte him/ he shall paye ore for ore/and the deed shalbe his alone.

¶ The.xxii. Chapter.

If a man steale an ore or shepe and kylle it or selle it / he shall restore v. oxen for an ore and.iiii. shepe for a shepe. If a thefe be founde breakynge vp & be smyttē that he dye/ there shall no bloude be shed for hym: except the sonne be vp when he is founde / then there shalbe bloude shed for hym.

Thefte.

A thefe shall make restitucyon: If he haue not wherwith / he shalbe sold for his theefte. If the thefte be founde in his hāde alyue (whether it be ore / asse or shepe) he shall restore double. If a mā do hurte felde or vyneyarde/ so that he put in his beest to fede in another mans felde: of the best of his owne felde/ and of the best of hys awne vyneyarde / shall he make restytucyon.

If fyre breake out & catch in thornes/ so that the stackes of corne or the stondynge corne or felde be consumed therwith: he that kyndled the fyre shall make restytucyon.

If a man delyuer his neighboure money or stuffe to kepe/ & it be stolen out of his house: If ỳ theefe be foūde/ he shall paye double. If the theefe be not founde / then the goodmā of the house shalbe brought vnto the goddes & swere/ whether he haue put hys hande vnto his neighbours good.

And in all maner of trespace/ whether it be ore, asse/ shepe / rayment or ony maner lost thynge which another chalengeth to be his/ the cause of both parties shall come before the goddes. And whō the goddes cōdemne: ỳ same shall paye double vnto his neighboure.

If a man delyuer vnto his neighboure to kepe/ asse/ ore/ shepe or what soeuer beest it be & it dye or be hurte or dryuen awaye and no man se it. then shall * an othe of the Lorde goo betwene them, whether he haue put his hande vnto his neighbours good: & the owner of it shall take the othe, and the other shall not make it good: If it be stollē frō him/ then he shall make restitucion vnto the owner. If it be torne with wylde beestes / then let hym bryng recorde of the torynge: & he shall not make it good. When a mā borroweth ought of his neighbour yf it be hurte or elles dye and yf the owner therof be not by he shall make it good: If the owner therof be by / he shall not make it good namely yf it be an hyred thynge and came for hyre.

* An othe is the ende of stryfe and dout vpon wherwith is lawfull to be ¶ done when it is ether to the glorie of God or profyte of our neyboure or for the comen wealth or elles not / as Mat.v.f

If a man begyle a mayde that is not betrouthed & lyt with her, he shall endote her/ and take her to his wyfe: If hir father refuse to geue her vnto hym / he shall paye money accordynge to the dowre of virgens.

And he toke the boke of the appoyntmẽt & red it in the audience of ỹ people. And they sayd. All ỹ the Lorde hath sayde, we will do & obeye. And Moses toke the bloude and sprynkeld it on the people and sayde: beholde / this is the bloude of the appoyntment which the Lorde hath made wt you apõ all these wordes

B Then went Moses & Aaron, Nadab and Abihu and the.lxx. elders of Israel vppe and [b] sawe the God of Israel and vnder his feate as it were a brycke worke of Saphir & as it were the facyõ of heuẽ when it is cleare/ & vpon the nobles of the childrẽ of Israel he sett not his hande. And when they had sene God they ate and dronke.

b. They sawe God, that is: they sawe wt certayne wt certayne token that he was there present and they sawe him as in a vision / not in his godly substance: but as it were by a certayne reuelacion.

And the Lorde sayde vnto Moses: come vp to me in to the hyll and be there, & I wyll geue the tables of stone and a lawe and commaundmẽtes which I haue wrytte to teach thẽ. Then Moses rose vppe & his minister Josua, & Moses went vppe in to the hyll of God/ & sayd vnto the elders: tarye ye here vntyll we come agayne vnto you: And beholde here is Aaron & Hur wyth you. If any man haue any maters to do/ let him come to thẽ.

The .xxviij. Chapter.

And take thou vnto the Aaron thy brother and his sonnes with hym/ frō among the chyldrē of Israel/ ỳ he may mynystre vnto me/ bothe Aaron/ Nadab/ Abihu/ Eleazar & Ithamar Aarons sonnes. And thou shalt make holye rayment for Aaron thy brother/ both honorable & gloryous. Moreouer speake vnto all that are wyse harted/ which I haue fylled wt the spryte of wysdome: that they make Aarōs rayment to cōsecrate hym wt, that he may mynystre vnto me.

a Brestlappe or brestnappe is lyke a lappe as it were the brest of a cope.

These are the garmēētes which they shal make: a brestlapp & Ephod a tunycle, a straye cote a myter and a gyrdell. And they shall make holye garmentes for Aaron thy brother & his sonnes that he maye mynystre vnto me. And they shall take therto golde / iacinte, scarlet, purpull & bysse. And they shall make ỳ Ephod of golde/ iacyncte, scarlet, purpull and whyte twyned bysse with brodred worke. The two sides shall come together, closed vp in the edges therof. And the gyrdel of the Ephod shalbe of ỳ same workmanshyppe & of the same stuffe / euen of golde, iacyncte/ scarlette, purpull & twyned bysse.

And thou shalt take two onyx stones, and graue in them the names of the chyldrē of Israel: sixe in the one stone & the other sixe in the other stone: accordyng to ỳ order of their birth. After the worche of a stonegrauer that cūnyngly graueth seales as signettes are graue: shalt thou graue the .ij. stones with the names of the chyldrē of Israel, & shalt make them to be set in ouches of golde. And thou shalt put the two stones vpō the two shoulders of the Ephod / & they shalbe stones of remembraunce vnto the chyldrē of Israel. And Aarō shall beare their names before the Lorde vpon hys two shoulders for a remembraunce. And thou shalt make holes of golde & two chaynes of fyne golde: lyke worke and wrethed / and fasten the wrethed chaynes to the holes.

And thou shalt make the brestlappe of iudgemēt wt brodred worke: euē after the worke of the Ephod shalt thou make it: of golde/ iacynct scarlet purple and twyned bysse shalt thou make it. For square it shalbe & double *an hand brede longe & an hand brede brode. And thou shalt fyll it wt .iiij. rowes of stones. In the fyrst rowe shalbe a Sardios / a Topas & *Smaragd. The second rowe / a *Rubye/ Saphir & Diamonde. The thyrd. Lygnios an Achat & Imanist. The fourth: a Tursas Onyx and Jaspis. And they shalbe set in golde in their inclosers. And the stones shalbe graue as signettes be graue: wt the names of the chyldrē of Israel euē with .xij. names acordyng to their .xij. tribes.

* Sapi. ỳ .ij.

* Or an Emeraude

* Some rede carbuncle.

And thou shalt make vpon the brestlappe two fastenyng chaynes of pure golde & worthen worke. And thou shalt make lykewyse vpon the brestlappe .ij. ringes of golde & put them on the edges of the brestlappe, & put the .ij. wrethen chaynes of golde in the .ij. ringes which are in ỳ edges of the brestlappe. And ỳ .ij. endes of the .ij. chaynes thou shalt fasten in ỳ .ij. ringes, & put thē vpō the shulders of the Ephod on ỳ forepart of it. And thou shalt yet make .ij. ringes of gold & put thē in ỳ .ij. edges of the brestlappe euen in the borders therof towarde the inwyde of the Ephod that is euer against it. And yet .ij. other ringes of golde thou shalt make / & put thē on the .ij. sydes of the Ephod beneth ouer against ỳ brestlappe alowe where the sydes are ioyned to gether vpon the bordered gyrdell of the Ephod. And they shall bynde the brestlappe by his ringes vnto the ringes of the Ephod wyth a lace of iacyncte, that it maye lye close vnto the bordered gyrdel of the Ephod, that the brestlappe be not loosed from the Ephod.

And Aarō shall bere the names of the chyldren of Israel in the brestlappe of iudgemēt vpō his hert when he goth in to ỳ holy place for a remembraūce before the Lorde alwaye. And thou shalt put in the brestlappe of iudge-

nient* him and Thumim: that they be euen vpon Aarōs herte when he goeth in before the Lorde and Aaron shall bere the ensample of the chyldren of Israel vpon his herte before the Lorde alwaye.

And thou shalt make the tunycle vnto ꝑ Ephod all to gether of Iacynct. And there shalbe an hole for the heed in the myddes of it, and let there be a borde of wouen worke rounde aboute the coler of it, as it were the coler of a parlet) that it rent not. And beneth vpō the hem, thou shalt make pomgranates of Iacynct, of scarlet and of purpul rounde aboute the hem/ and belles of golde betwene them rounde aboute: that there be euer a golden bell and a pomgranate a golden bell and a pomgranate rounde aboute vpon the hem of the tunycle. And Aarō shall haue it vpon him when he mynistreth/ ꝑ the sounde maye be herde when he goeth in to the holy place before the Lorde and when he cometh out that he dye not.

And thou shalt make a plate of pure golde and graue there on as ingnettes are grauen, b The holynes of the Lorde, ꝑ put it on a lace of Iacynct ꝑ tye it vnto the mytre/ vpon the forefront of it, ꝑ it be vpon Aarōs forehed: that Aaron bere the ‘ synne of the holy thynges whych the chyldren of Israel haue halowed in all their holye gyftes. And it shalbe alwayes vpon Aarons forehed, ꝑ they maye be accepted before the Lorde.

And thou shalt make an albe of bysse and thou shalt make a mytre of bysse ꝑ a gyrdell of nedle worke.

And thou shalt make for Aarons sonnes also cotes, gyrdels and bonettes honourable and glorious and thou shalt put them vpon Aaron thy brother and on hys sonnes wyth him ꝑ shalt anoynte them ꝑ fyll their hands and cōsecrate them that they maye mynistre vnto me. And thou shalt make them lynen breches to couer their preuyties: from the loynes vnto the thyes shall they reach. And they shalbe vpon Aaron ꝑ his sonnes/ when they goo in to the* tabernacle of witnesse, or when they go vnto the altare to mynistre in holynes/ that they bere no synne and so dye. And it shalbe a lawe b for euer vnto Aaron ꝑ his seed after him.

¶ The.xxix.Chapter.

THis is the thynge that thou shalt doo vnto them whē thou halowest them to be my preastes. Take one oxe ꝑ two rāmes that are wythout blemysh/ and vnleuended bred and cakes of swete bred tempered wyth oyle ꝑ wafers of swete bred anoynted wyth oyle(of whete floure shalt thou make them) ꝑ put thē in a maūde and bringe them in the maunde with the oxe and the.ij.rammes.

C The.xxxi. Chapter.

*Exo.xxxv.b.

AND the Lorde spake vnto Moses sayinge: beholde * I haue called by name Bezaleel the sonne of Ury sonne to Hur of the tribe of Iuda. And I haue fylled him wt the spirite of God/ with wysdome/ vnderstandynge and knowledge: euen in all maner worke, to fynde out

And Moses turned his backe & wẽt doune from the hyll. & the.ij. tables of wytnesse in his hãd: which were writtẽ on both ye sydes and were the worke of God/ & the writynge was the writynge of God grauen vpon the tables. And whẽ Josua herde the noyse of the people people as they shouted, he sayde vnto Moses: there is a noyse of warre in ỹ hoste. And he sayde: it is not the crye of them that haue the maistrye, nor of thē that haue the worse: but I doo heare the noyse of syngynge.

And as soone as he came nye vnto the hoste and sawe the calfe and the daunsynge, hys wrath waxed hote, and he cast the tables out of his handes, and brake them euē at the hyll foote. And he toke the calfe whych they had made and burned it with fyre, and stampt it vnto powder and strawed it in the water, & made the chyldren of Israel drynke. And thā Moses sayde vnto Aaron: what dyd thys people vnto the that thou hast brought so great a synne vpon them.

And Aaron sayde: let not the wrath of my Lord waxe fearse, thou knowest the people ỹ they are euen lett on mischefe: they sayde vnto me: make vs a god to go before vs, for we wote not what is become of Moses the felow ỹ brought vs out of the land of Egypt And I sayde vnto them: let them that haue golde, take and bryng it me: and I cast it in to the fyre, and there of came out this calfe.

When Moses sawe that the people were naked (for Aaron had made them naked vnto their shame when they made insurrectiō) he went & stode in the gate of the hoste & sayde: If any man pertayne vnto the Lord, let him come to me. And all the sonnes of Leui gathered them selues together and came vnto him. And he sayde vnto them, thus sayeth the Exo.xxxij.c. Lord of Israel put euery man hys swerde by his syde, and goo in and out from gate to gate thorow out the hoste: and slee euery mā his brother euery man his frende and euery man his neighboure. And the chyldrē of Leui 1.Cor.x.b dyd as Moses had sayde. And there were slayne of the people the same daye, aboute thre thousande men. Then Moyses sayde: fyll youre handes vnto the Lorde this daye euery man vpon his sonne & vpon his brother: to bringe vpon you a blessynge this daye.

And on the morowe, Moyses sayde vnto ỹ people: Ye haue synned a great synne. But now I wyll goo vp vnto the Lorde, to wyte whether I can make an attonemēt for youre synne.

And Moses went agayne vnto the Lorde & sayd: Oh, this people haue synned a great synne & haue made them a god of golde: Yet forgeue them their synne I praye the: If not *wype me out of thy boke which thou hast writtē. And the Lorde sayde vnto Moses: I wyll put him out of my boke that hath synned agaynst me. But go & bringe the people vnto the lāde which I sayd vnto the: beholde, myne angell shall goo before the. Neuerthelater in the daye when I vyset. I wyll b vyset their synne vpō thē. And the Lord plaged the people, because they made the calfe whych Aaron made.

a. To vyset their synne, is to haue their synne in remēbraunce to ponyshe it as in Genes.l.

The Lord sendeth an angell before his people. The Lorde denyeth to goo vp with the people. The people lament their synne. Moses talketh wyth the Lorde & desyreth to se his face, and is commaunded to stande vpon the rocke.

The.xxxiij.Chapter.

And the Lorde sayde vnto Moses: Departe & goo hence: both thou & ỹ people which thou hast brought out of the land of Egypt, vnto the lande which I swore vnto Abraham, Isaac and Jacob sayinge: vnto thy seed I will geue it.* And I wyll sende an angell before the, & *Exo.xxiij.c. wyll cast out the Cananytes, the Amorites, the Hethites, the Pherezites, the Heuites, & the Jebusytes: that thou mayst go into a lāde that floweth with mylke and honye. But I wyll not goo among you my selfe, for ye are a styffnecked people: lest I consume you by ỹ waye. And when the people heard this euell tydinges they sorowed: and no man dyd put on his best rayment.

And the Lord spake vnto Moses, sayinge vnto the chyldren of Israel: ye are a styffnecked people: I must come once sodenly vpon you, & make an ende of you. But now put youre goodly raymēt from you, that I maye wete what to do vnto you. And the chyldren of Israel layde their goodly rayment from them euen vnder the mount Horeb.

And Moses toke the tabernacle & pytched it without the hoste a ferre of frō the hoste, & called it ỹ tabernacle of wytnesse. And all that wold aske any questiō of the Lorde wēt out vnto the tabernacle of wytnesse which was without the hoste. And when Moses went out vnto the tabernacle, all the people rose vp and stode euery man in his tent doore and loked after Moses, vntyll he was gone in to the tabernacle. And as sone as Moses was entred in to the tabernacle, the clouden pyller descended and stode in the doore of the tabernacle and he talked with Moses. And when all the people sawe the clouden pyller stande in the tabernacle doore, they rose vp & worshipped: euery man in his tent doore.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moses *face to face, as a man speaketh vnto his frende. And when Moses turned agayne in to the hoste, the ladd Josua his seruaūte the sonne of Nun departed not out of the tabernacle. And Moses sayde vnto the Lorde: se, thou sayest vnto me: leade this people forth, but thou shewest me not whom thou wylt sende with me. And the Lorde sayd vnto Moses: I wyll doo thys also that thou hast sayde / for thou hast founde grace in my syghte / and I knowe the by name.

And he sayde: I beseche the / shewe me thy glorie: And he sayd: I will make all my good goo before the / and I wyll be called in thys name Iehouah before ȳ / & will shewe mercy to whom I shew mercy / and wyll haue compassion on whom I haue cōpassion. And he sayde furthermore: thou mayst not se my face, for b there shall no man se me and lyue.

b. There shall no man se my face and lyue. For that the face of god which is the face of lyfe / is the cause of death to them that se it for the syghtes that are in heauen do in dede se it. ¶ The .xxxiiij. Chapter.

And the Lorde sayde vnto Moses: hewe the .ii. tables of stone like vnto the fyrst that I maye wryte in thē the wordes which were in the fyrst .ii. tables, which thou brakest. And be redye against the morninge that thou mayst come vp early vnto the mount of Sinai and stande me there vpon the toppe of the mount But let no man come vp with the / nether let any man be sene thorow out all the mount / nether let shepe nor otē fede before the hyll.

And Moses hewed .ii. tables of stone lyke vnto the fyrst and rose vp early in the morninge and went vp vnto the mounte of Sinai as the Lorde commaunded him: and toke in his hande the .ii. tables of stone. And the Lord descended in the cloude / and stode with him there: and he called vpō the name of the Lorde. And when the Lorde walked before him he cryed: Lorde * Lorde God full of cōpassion and mercy / which art not lyghtly angrye but abundant in mercy and trueth, and kepest mercy in store for thousandes / and for geuest wyckednesse / trespace and synne (for there is no man innocent before the) and visitest the wyckydnesse of the fathers vpon the chyldren and vpon childrens children, euen vnto the thyrd and fourth generacion. AND Bezaleel wrought & Aholiab & all wise harted men to whom the Lorde had geuen wysdome and vnderstandynge/to knowe how to worcke all maner worcke for ꝑ holye seruyce/ in all that the Lorde cōmaunded. And Moses called for Bezaleel Aholiab & all ꝑ wyse herted men in whose hertes ꝑ Lord had put wysdome/euē as many as their hartes cozaged to come vnto ꝑ worcke to worcke it. And they receaued of Moses all ꝑ heueoffrynge which the chyldrē of Israel had brought for the worcke of the holye seruice to make it wᵗ all. And they brought besyde that wyllynge offrynges euery mornyng.

And all the wyse men that wrought all the holye worcke/came euery man frō his worcke which they made/ and spake vnto Moses sayinge: the people brynge to moch & aboue that is ynough to serue for the werke which the Lorde hath commaunded to make. And then Moses gaue a cōmaūdmēt/ & they caused it to be proclamed thorow out the hoste sayinge: se that nether man nor woman prepare any moare worcke for the holy heueofrynge/and so the people were forbidden to brynge: for the stuffe they had/was sufficiēt for them vnto all the worcke / to make it and to moch.

And all the wyse harted men amonge thē that wroughte in the worcke of the habytacyon made: euē .x. coztaynes of twyned bysse/ Jacyncte, scarlet and purple / and made thē full of Cherubyns with broderd worcke. The length of one curtayne was .xxviij. cubytes and the bredth .iiij. and were all of one syse. B And they coupled fyue curtayns by them selues/and other fyue by thē selues. And they made fyftye louppes of Jacyncte alonge by the edge of the vtmost curtayne / euen in the selnege of the couplynge courtayne: And lykewyse they made on the syde of the vtmost couplynge curtayne on the other syde/fyftie loupes they made in the one curtayne / and fyftye in the edge of ꝑ couplynge courtayne on the other syde: so that the loupes were one ouer agenst another.

And they made fyftye rynges of golde / & coupled the curtaynes one to another wyth the rynges: and so was it made a dwellynge place.

And they made .xi. curtaynes of gootes hayre to be a tent ouer the tabernacle .xxx. cubites longe a pece and .iiij. cubytes brode/ & they all .xi of one syse. And they coupled .v by them selues, and .vi. by them selues / and they made fyftye loupes alonge by the bozder of the vtmost couplynge courtayne on the one side, and fyftie in the edge of the couplynge curtayne on the other syde. And they made fyftye rynges of brasse to couple the tent together that it might be one. And they C made a couerynge vnto the tent of rammes skynnes red, and yet a nother of taxus skynnes a boue all.

And they made bordes for the dwellynge place of sethim wod that stode vpright euery borde .x. cubites longe & a cubite & an halfe brode. And they made .ij. fete to euery boorde of the dwellynge place ioyninge one to another. And they made .xx. boordꝭ for the southside of the habytacion/ & .xl. sockettes of syluer vnder the .xx. boordes .ij. sockettes vnder euery boorde/euen for the .ij. fete of thē. And for the other syde of the dwellynge towarde the north/they made other .xx. boordes wyth xl. sockettes of syluer .ij. sockettes vnder euery boorde. And behynde in the ende of the tabernacle towarde the west / they made .vi. boordes & .ij. other bordes for the corners of the habytacion behynde/& they were ioyned close both beneth and also aboue with clāpes and thus they dyd to both the corners: so D they were in all .viij. boordes and .xvi. sockettes, vnder euery borde two sockettes.

And

And they made barres of Sethim wood.b for the bordes of the one syde of the habytacyon.v.for the other/& fyue for the bordes of the west ende of the habytacyon. And they made the myddell barre to shote thorowe the bordes: euen from the one ende to the other/ and ouerlayde the bordes with golde. & made thē ringes of gold to thrust the barres thorow/ and couered the barres with golde. And they made an hangyng of iacincte/ of scarlet/ purple and twyned bysse with Cherubyns of broderd worke. And made therunto.iiij.pyllers of Sethim wodd/& ouerlayde them with gold. Their knoppes were also of gold. & they cast for thē.iiij.sockettes of syluer. And they made an hangynge for the tabernacle dore: of Iacincte/scarlet, purple & twyned bysse of nedle worke/& the pyllers of it were fyue with their knoppes, and ouerlayde the heades of them and the whooppes with gold, with their fyue sockettes of brasse.

¶ The arcke of witnesse. The mercyseate. The table. The candelsticke. The lyghtes. The altare and the incense.

¶ The.xxxbij.Chapter.

And Bezaleel made the arcke of sethym wodd two cubyttes & an halfe long & a cubyte and a halfe brode/ & a cubyt & a halfe hye: & ouerlayde it with fyne golde bothe within & without/& made a crowne of golde to it rounde about/& cast for it.iiij.ringes of golde for the.iiij.corners of it: two ringes for the one syde & two for the other/ & made staues of Sethim wodd/ & couered thē with golde/ and put the staues in the ringes alonge by the syde of the arcke to bere it with all.

And he made the * mercyseate of pure gold two cubites & a halfe longe and one cubite & a halfe brode/ and made two Cherubyns of thycke golde vpon the two endes of the mercyseate: One Cherub on the one ende/ & another Cherub on the other ende of the mercyseate. And the Cherubyns spredde out their wynges aboue and hye/ & couered the mercyseate therwith. And their faces were one to another: euen to the mercyseate warde, were the faces of the Cherubyns.

And he made the table of sethim wodd two cubytes longe and a cubite brode/ and a cubite and a halfe hyghe/ and ouerlayde it with fyne golde/& made therto a crowne of golde rounde aboute/ and made therto an whope of an hande brede rounde aboute/ and made vnto the whope a crowne of golde rounde aboute/ and cast for it.iiij.ringes of golde & put the ringes in the.iiij.corners by the fete: euē vnder the whope to put staues in to bere ¶ the table with all. And he made staues of Sethim wodd and couered them with golde to bere the table with all, and made the vessels/ & were on the table of pure golde/ the dysshes spones, flatpeces & pottes to poure with all.

And he made & candelsticke of pure thicke golde: bothe the candelsticke and hys shaft: with braunces, bolles, knoppes and floures procedyng out of it. Sixe braunches procedynge out of the sydes therof. iij. out of the one syde/ & iij. out of the other. And on euery braūche were.iij.cuppes lyke vnto almōdes with knoppes & floures thorow out the sixe braūches & proceded out of & candelsticke. And vpon the candelsticke selfe were.iiij. cuppes after the facyon of almondes with knoppes & floures: vnder euery two braunches a knoppe. And the knoppes & the braunches proceded out of it/ & were all one pece of pure thycke golde. And he made seuen lampes therto/ and the snoffers therof/ and fyrepānes of pure gold. An hundred weyght of pure golde, made bothe it and all that belonged therto.

And he made the cēs alter of Sethim wodd of a cubit lōg & a cubyt brode: euē.iiij.square & two cubytes hye with hornes procedynge out of it. And he couered it with pure golde/ both the toppe & the sydes rounde about and the hornes of it/ & made vnto it a crowne of golde rounde about. And he made two ringes of golde vnto it/ euen vnder the croune vpon either syde of it/ to put staues in for to bere it with all: & made staues of Sethim wodd/ & ouerlayde them with golde. And he made the holy anoyntynge oyle & the swete pure incēs after the apothecarys craft.

¶ The altare of burntoffrynges. The brasen lauer. The somme of that the people offred to the buyldyng of the habytacyon of the Lorde.

And he made the burntoffryng alter of Sethim wodd.v.cubytes lōg & v. cubytes brode: euē.iiij.square/ and.iij.cubytes hye. And he made hornes in the.iiij.corners of it procedyng out of it/ & ouerlayde it with brasse. And he made all the vessels of & alter: & cauldrōs/ shouels/ basyns/ fleshokes & colepannes all of brasse.

And he made a brasen gredyrē of networke vnto the alter rounde about alowe beneth vnder the compasse of the alter: so that it reached vnto halfe the altare/ & cast.iiij.ringes of brasse for the.iiij.endes of the gredyren to put staues in. And he made staues of sethim wodd & couered them with brasse/ & put the staues in the ringes alonge by the alter syde to bere it with all/ & made the alter holowe with bordes. And he made the lauer of brasse & the fote of it also of brasse in the syghte of them that dyd watch before the dore of the tabernacle of wytnesse.

* Mercyseate was the place where godspake vnto the children of Israel, wherfore he was vpō the arcke of witnesse kyngynge Christ as it is sayde Hebr.ix.b.

And he made the courte with hangynges of twyned bylle of an hundred cubytes long vpon the southsyde/ & .xx. pylers with .xx. sockettes of brasse: but ỹ knoppes of the pylers & the whopes were syluer. And on the nozth syde ỹ hanginges were an hundzed cubytes longe wyth .xx. pylers and .xx. sockettes of brasse/ but the knoppes & the whopes of the pylers were of syluer. And on the west syde/ were hangynges of .l. cubytes longe/ & .x. pylers wyth their .x. sockettes/ & the knopes & the whopes of the pylers were siluer. And on the east syde towarde the sonne rysyng, were hangynges of .l. cubytes: the hangynges of the one syde of the gate were fiftene cubytes longe/ and their pylers .iii. with therr .iii. sockettes. And of the other side of the court gate were hangynges also of .xv. cubytes longe/ and their pylers .iii. with .iii. sockettes. ¶ And all the hãginges of the courte rounde about/ were of twyned bysse/ and the sockettꝭ of the pylers were brasse: but the knoppes and the whoopes of the pylers were syluer/ and the heedes were ouerlayde with syluer/ & all the pylers of the courte were whoped about with syluer. And the hangynge of the gate of the courte was nedlewozke/ of iacyncte, scarlet/ purple/ & twyned bysse. xx. cubytes long and fyue in ỹ bredth accozdyng to the hangyngꝭ of the courte. And the pylers were .iiij. wyth .iiij. sockettes of brasse, & the knoppes of syluer/ & the heedes ouerlayde wyth syluer and whoped aboute with siluer/ & all the pynnes of the tabernacle and of the courte rounde about were brasse.

This is the summe of the habitaciõ of witnesse, which was counted at the cõmaundement of Moses: and was the office of the Leuytes by the hande of Ithamar sonne to Aaron the preast. And Bezaleel sonne of Uri sonne to Hur of the tribe of Juda / made all that the Lozde commaunded Moses/ & with him Aholiab sonne of Ahisamach of ỹ tribe of Dan/ a cõnyng grauer & a wozker of nedle wozke in iacincte/ scarlet / purple & bysse.

All the golde that was occupyed vpon all the wozke of the holy place (which was the golde of the waueofferynge) was .xxix. hundzed weyght and seuen hundzed and .xxx. sycles / accozdynge to the holy sycle. And the summe of syluer that came of the multitude was .v. scoze hundzed weyght & a thousande seuẽ hundzed & .lxxv. sycles of the holy sycle. Euery man offrynge halfe a sycle after the weyght of the holy sycle amõge thẽ that wẽt to be nõbzed frõ .xx. yere olde & aboue/ amõge vi hundzed thousande and .iii. thousande and v. hundzed and .l. men.

And the .v. scoze hundzed weyght of syluer went to the castynge of the sockettes of the sanctuary & the sockettꝭ of the vayle: an hundzed sockettꝭ of the fiue scoze hundzed weight an hundzed weyght to euery sockette. And the thousande seuẽ hundzed & lxxv. sycles/ made knoppes to the pylers/ & ouerlayde ỹ heedes and whoped them.

And the brasse of the waueofferynge was lxx. hundzed weyght and two thousande, and iiii. hundzed sicles. And therwith he made the sockettꝭ to the doze of the tabernacle of witnesse, & the brasen altare/ and the brasen gre dyzen that longeth therto/ & all the vessels of the alter/ & the sockettes of ỹ courte rounde about/ & the sockettꝭ of the courte gate/ and all the pynnes of the habitacyon/ and all the pynnes of the courte rounde aboute.

¶ The makynge of Aaron & hys sonnes apparell. All that the Lozde commaunded was offred.

¶ The .xxix. Chapter.

And of the iacynete/ scarlet/ purple and twyned bysse, they made ỹ vestymentes of mynystracyon to do seruyce in that holy place, & made the holy garmẽtes that pertayned to Aarõ/ as the Lozde commaunded Moses.

And they made the Ephod of gold/ iacincte scarlet/ purple/ and twyned bysse. And they dyd beate ỹ golde in to thynne plates, & cutte it into wyres: to wozke it in ỹ iacincte/ scarlet/ purple & the bysse/ with brodera wozke. And they made the sydes come to gether, and clooled them by by the two edges. And the brodzyng of the gyrdell that was vpõ it was of the same stuffe & after the same wozcke of golde, iacincte, scarlet purple and twyned bysse/ as the Lozde commaunded Moses.

And they wzought Onix stones clooled in ouches of golde & grauen as sygnettes are grauen with the names of the chyldzẽ of Israel/ & put thẽ on the shoulders of the Ephod that they shulde be a remembzaunce of the chyldzen of Israel, as the Lozde commaunded Moses.

And they made the brestlappe of conning wozke, after the wozke of the Ephod: euẽ of golde iacincte, scarlet / purple and twyned bysse. And they made it .iii. square & double/ an hande breadeth long & an hande breadeth brode. And they fylled it wyth .iiii. rowes of stones the fyrst rowe Sardios, a Topas & *Smaragdus: the second rowe, a *Rubye a Saphir & a Diamõde: ỹ .iii. rowe, Ligurios an Achat and an Amatist: the fourth rowe: a Turcas, an onix & a Jaspis) closed in ouches of golde in their inclosers. And the .xii. stones were grauen as sygnettes wyth the names of the chyldzen of Israel: euery stone wyth his name/ accozdyng to the .xii. tribes.

*Or an Emerande

*Or a carbuncle

And they made vpon the brestlappe/ two faltenyng cheynes of wrethẽ wozke & pure golde.

golde. And they made two hokes of gold and two golde rynges/& put the two rynges vpō the two cozners of the brestlappe. And they put the two chaynes of gold in ỹ .ii. rynges/ in the cozners of the brestlappe. And the two endes of the two chaynes they fastened in the two hokes/ and put them on the shoulders of the Ephod vpon the fozefront of it.

And they made two other rynges of golde and put thē on the two other cozners of the brestlappe a lōge vpō the edge of it/ toward the inzde of the Ephod that is ouer against it. And they made yet two other golde rynges/ & put them on the two sydes of the Ephod/ beneth on the fozesyde of it: euē where ỹ sydes go together/ about vpon the brodzyng of the Ephod/& they strayned the brestlappe by his rynges vnto the rynges of the Ephod/ with laces of iacincte/ that it myght lye fast vpon the brodzynge of the Ephod/ & shulde not be lowsed from of the Ephod: as the Lozde commaunded Moses.

And he made the tunycle vnto the Ephod of wouen wozke/ & all together of iacincte/ & the heade of the tunicle was in the middest of it as the coler of a partlet/ with a bonde rounde aboute the coler/ that it shulde not rent. And they made beneth vpon the hem of the tunycle: pōgranates of iacincte/ scarlet/ purple & twyned bysse. And they made lytle belles of pure golde/ & put them amonge the pomgranates rounde aboute vpon the edge of the tunycle a bell & a pomgranate/ a bell & a pomgranate rounde about the hemmes of the tunycle to mynystre in/ as the Lozde commaunded Moses.

And they made cotes of bysse of wouen wozcke for Aaron and his sonnes/ & a myttre of bysse/ & goodly bonettes of bysse/ & lynen brzeches of twyned bysse/ & a gyrdell of twyned bysse/ iacyncte/ scarlet and purple: euen of nedle wozcke/ as the Lozde commaunded Moses. And they made the plate of the holy croune of fyne golde/ & wrote vpon it wyth grauen wozke/ the holynes of the Lozde: and tyed it to a lace of iacincte to fasten it an hye vpon the myttre/ as the Lozde commaunded Moses.

Thus was all the wozke of the habitaciō of the tabernacle of witnesse fynyshed. And the chyldzen of Israel dyd accozdynge to all that the Lozde had cōmaunded Moses. And they brought the habitaciō vnto Moses: the tent & all his apparell therof: the buttones/ boozdes/ barres/ pylers & sockettes: and the couerynge of rams skynnes red/ & the couerynge of taxus skynnes/ & the hāgyng vayle/ & the arcke of witnesse with the staues therof/ and the mercyseate: the table & all the ordinaunce therof/ and the shewbred/ & the pure candelstycke/ and the lampes prepared therunto with all the vessels therof/ and the oyle for lyghtes/ and the golden altare/ and the anoyntynge oyle and the swete cens/ and the hangynge of the tabernacle dooze/ & the brasen alter/ and the gredyzen of brasse longynge therunto wyth hys barres and all hys vessels/ and the lauer with his fote/ and the hangynges of the courte with his pylers and sockettes/ & the hanging to the courte gate/ his boozdes & pynnes/ & all the ordynaunce that serueth to the habitacyō of the tabernacle of witnesse/ and the mynystringe vestymentes to serue in the holy place/ and the holy vestymentes of Aaron the preast and hys sonnes raymentes to mynystre in: accozdynge to all that the Lozde commaunded Moses: euē so the chyldzē of Israel made al the wozke. And Moses beheilde all the wozke: & se/ they had done it euen as the Lozde commaunded: and then Moses† blessed them. † Luke Gen.ij

The tabernacle is reared vp. The glozye of the Lozde appereth in a clowde couerynge the tabernacle.

The.xl. Chapter.

And the Lozde spake vnto Moses saying: In the fyrst daye of ỹ fyrst moneth shalt thou sett vp the habitaciō of the tabernacle of witnesse and put therin the arcke of witnesse/ & couer the arcke with the vayle/ & brynge in the table & apparell it/ & bryng in the candelsticke and put on his lampes/ and sett the cens alter of golde before the arcke of witnesse/ and put the hangyng of the dooze vnto the habitacion. And set the burntoffrynge alter before the dooze of the tabernacle of witnesse/ & sett the lauer betwene the tabernacle of wytnesse & the alter/ & put water therin/ and make the courte rounde aboute/ and sett vp the hangynge of the courte gate.

*And take the anoynting oyle and anoynt the habitaciō & all that is therin/ & halowe it and all that belongeth therto: that it maye be holye. And anoynte the altar of the burntoffrynges & all his vessels/ and sanctifye the altar that it may be moost holy. And anoynte also the lauer & his fote/ & sanctyfye it. * Exod.xxx.c.

Than bryng Aaron and hys sonnes vnto the dooze of the tabernacle of wytnesse/ and wash them with water. And put vpon Aaron the holy vestymētes/ and anoynte hym & sanctyfye hym that he maye mynystre vnto me/ that their anoyntyng may be an euerlasting preasthode vnto them thorow out their generacyons. * And Moses dyd accozdynge to all that the Lozde commanded him. * Exod.xxx.a.

Thus was the tabernacle reared vp the fyrst daye in the fyrst moneth in the seconde yere. And Moses reared vp the tabernacle & fastened his sockettes/ and set vp the boozdes

and

and put in their barres/and reared vp the pil lers/ & spred abrode the tent ouer the habita-cyon/ & put the couerynge of the tent an hye aboue it:as the Lorde commaunded Moses.

And he toke and put the testymonye in the arcke/and set the staues to the arcke / & put the mercyseate an hye vpon the arcke / and brought the arcke into the habitacyon & hanged vp the vayle & couered the arcke of witnesse, as the Lorde commaunded Moses.

And he put the table in the tabernacle of witnesse in the north syde of the habytacyon with out the vayle/ and set the bred in ordre before the Lorde/euen as the Lorde had cō-maunded Moses.

And he put the candelsticke in the taberna cle of witnesse ouer agaynst the table in the south syde of the habitacyon/ and set vp the lampes before the Lorde:as the Lorde com-maunded Moses. And he put the golden al-ter in the tabernacle of witnesse before the vayle / and brent swete cens theron as the Lorde commaunded Moses. And set vp the hangynge in the dore of the habytacyon/and set the burntoffering alter before the dore of the tabernacle of witnesse/and offred burnt-offrynges and meatoffrynges theron as the Lorde commaunded Moses.

* Exo.xxx.c. *And he set the lauer betwene the taber-nacle of wytnesse and the alter, and poured water therin to wash w all. And both Mo-ses, Aarō & hys sonnes washed their handes & their fete therat: both when they went in to the tabernacle of witnesse / or when they went to the alter/as the Lorde commaunded Moses. And he reared vp the courte rounde about the habytacyon and the alter/ & set vp the hangyng of the courte gate: and so Mo-ses fynyshed the worke.

a Numer.ix.c *And the clowde couered the tabernacle of wytnesse, and the glorye of the Lorde fylled the habytacyon: so that Moses coulde not entre in to ȳ tabernacle of witnesse/because the clowde abode therin / and the glorye of the Lorde fylled the habytacyon.

When the clowde was taken vp frō of the habitacion, the chyldren of Israel toke their iorneys as ofte as they had iorneyed. And yf ȳ clowde departed not/they iorneyed not tyll it departed: for the clowde of the Lorde was vpon the habitacyō by daye/ & fyre by nyght: in the syghte of all the house of Israel in all their iorneyes.

¶ The fyrst Chapter.

And the Lorde called Mo ses and spake vnto hym oute of the tabernacle of wytnesse saying: Speake vnto the chyl dren of Israel, & saye vnto thē: who soeuer of you shall bringe a gyfte vnto the Lorde, shall bryng it of the catell:euen of the oxen and of the shepe.

If he bryng a burntoffrynge of the oxen he shall bryng a male without blemysh/ & shall bringe him to the dore of the tabernacle of witnesse/that he maye be accepted before the Lorde. And let hym ª put hys hande vpon ȳ heed of ȳ burntsacrifice/ & fauoure shalbe geuē hym to make an attonemēt for hym/ & let him kyll the oxe before the Lorde. And let the preastes Aarōs sonnes bryng the bloud & let them sprynckell it rounde aboute vpon the alter that is before the dore of the taber-nacle of wytnesse. ¶ The.ij. Chapter.

IF any soule wyll offer a meatoffryng vnto the Lorde/his offrynge shalbe fine floure/& he shall poure therto oyle/ & put franckencens theron/& shall bringe it vnto Aarons sonnes the Preastes. And one of thē shall take therout his handfull of the floure, & of the oyle w all the franckencens & burne it for a memorial vpon the alter: an offryng of a swete sauoure vnto the Lorde. And the remnaunt of the meatoffring shalbe Aarōs & hys sonnes/ as a thynge most holy of the sacrifyces of the Lorde. If any man bringe a meatoffring & is baken in the ouen let hym bringe swete cakes of fyne floure myngled with oyle/ and vnleuended wafers anoynted with oyle. If thy meatoffryng be baken in the fryēg pan/ then it shalbe of swete floure myngled with oyle. And thou shalt mynce it small, & poure oyle theron: & so it is a meatoffrynge.

All & meatoffringes which ye shall bringe vnto the Lorde/shalbe made without leuen. For ye shall nether burne leuen nor honye in any offering of the Lorde: Notwithstandyng ye shall bringe the fyrstlynges of them vnto the Lorde: but they shall not come vpon the alter to make a swete sauoure.

b. All offrynges must be salted with salt/ whiche signyfieth that all our good workes must be directed after the doctryne of the Apostles & prophetes/for then shall they be acceptable in the syghte of the Lorde pf they sauer of the salt therof/& elles not.

All thy meatoffrynges thou shalt salt with salt: nether shalt thou soffre the b salt of the couenaunt of thy God to be lackynge from thy meatoffrynge: but vpon all thyne offrynges thou shalt bringe salt.

If thou offre a meatoffryng of & fyrst ripe frutes vnto the Lorde, then take that which is yet grene & dryc it by the fyre and beat it small & so offer the meatoffryng of thy fyrst rype frutes. And than poure oyle therto and put franckencens theron: & so it is a meatoffrynge. And the preast shall burne parte of the beatē corne & parte of that oyle wyth all the franckencēs/ for a remembraūce. ¶ That is an offryng vnto the Lorde.

¶ The order of peaceoffringes/whyche were offered for the keppynge of peace/made of oxen/shepe/ lambes and goates.

¶ The.iij. Chapter.

IF any man bringe a* peaceoffring A of the oxen: whether it be male or * Exo. xxiij. b female/he shall bringe soche as is without blemish/before the Lorde: & let hym put his hande vpon the heed of his offeryng/and kyll it before the dore of the tabernacle of witnesse. And Aarons sonnes the Preastes shall sprynkle the bloud vpō the alter rounde aboute. And they shall offre of the peaceoffring to be a sacrifice vnto the Lorde: the fatt that coūereth the inwardes & all the fatt that is vpō the inwardes: & the two kydneys with the fatt that lyeth vpō the loynes: and the kall that is on the lyuer they shall take awaye with the kydneyes. And Aarōs sonnes shall burne them vpon the alter with the burntsacrifice which is vpō the wodd on the fire. ¶ That is a sacrifyce of a swete sauoure vnto the Lorde.

If a man bringe a peaceoffrynge vnto the Lorde from of the flocke/ whether it be male or female/ it shalbe without blemyssh. If he offre a lambe/ he shall bringe it before the Lorde, and put his hande vpon his offrynges heede/ & kyll it in the doore of the tabernacle of wytnesse/ & Aarons sonnes shall sprinkle the bloude therof rounde about the alter.

And of the peaceoffryng they shall bringe a sacrifyce vnto the Lorde: the fatt therof & the rompe all to gether which they shall take of harde by the backe bone: & the fatt that coūereth the inwardes & all the fatt that is vpō the inwardes & the two kydneys with & fatt that lyeth vpon them and vpon the loynes, & the kall that is vpon the lyuer he shall take awaye wyth the kydneyes. And the Preast shall burne them vpon the alter to fede the Lordes offrynge withall.

If the offrynge be a goote, he shall bringe it before the Lorde/& put his hande vpon the head of it, and kyll it before the tabernacle of wittnesse and the sonnes of Aarō shall sprinkle the bloude therof vpon the alter rounde about. And he shall bringe therof his offryng vnto the Lordes sacrifice: the fatt that coueretth the inwardes & all the fatt that is vpon the inwardes & the two kydneys & the fatt that lyeth vpon them and vpon the loynes/ & & shall & is vpō the lyuer he shall take awaye with & kydneyes. And the Preast shall burne them vpō the alter to fede the Lordes sacrifice w all, & to make a swete sauoure. And thus shall all the fatt be the Lordes/and it shalbe a lawe forener amonge youre generacyons after you in youre dwellynge places: that ye eate nether fat nor bloude.

AND the Lorde spake vnto Moses saying. Speake vnto the chyldren of Israel & saye: when a soule synneth throwe ignorauncе, and hath done any of those thinges which the Lorde hath forbydden in his cōmaundemētes to be done: Yf the Preast that is anoynted synne & make ỳ people to do amysse / he shall bryngе for hys synne which he hath done: an ore without blemyth vnto the Lorde for a synneoffring. And he shall bryngе the ore vnto the dore of the tabernacle of wytnesse before ỳ Lorde/ & shall * put hys hande vpon the ore heade. and kyll hym before the Lorde. And the Preast that is * anoynted shall take of the ore bloude, and bryngе it in to the tabernacle of witnesse / & shall dyppe his fynger in the bloud & sprynkle therof. vij. tymes before the Lorde: euen before the hanging of ỳ holy place. And he shall put some of the bloude vpon the hornes of ỳ alter of swete cens before the Lorde which is in ỳ tabernacle of witnesse/ & shall poure all the bloude of the ore vpon the botome of the alter of burntoffrynges which is by the dore of ỳ tabernacle of witnesse. And he shall take awaye all the fatt of the ore that is the synne offryng: the fatt that coureth the inwardes and all the fatt that is aboute them/ & the. ij. kydneyes with the fatt that lyeth vpon thē & vpon the loynes, and the hall vpon the lyuer let them take awaye also w̄ the kydneyes: as it was taken frō the ore of the peaceoffring/ & let the Preast burne them vpon the altare of burntoffringes. But the synne of the ore & all his flesh with his heade, his legges, hys inwardes with his dōge, shall he caye altogether out of the hoste vnto a clene place: euē where ỳ ashes are poured out/ & burne him on wodd wyth fyre: euen vpon the heape of ashes. Yf the hole comenalte of the chyldrē of Israel synne throwe ignorauncе/ & the thyng be hyd from their eyes: so that they haue commytted any of these thinges which the Lorde hath forbydden to be done in his commaundemētes and haue offended/ & the synne whiche they haue sinned be afterwarde knowne/ thā shall they offre an ore for a synneoffryng & shall bryngе him before ỳ tabernacle of witnesse/ & the elders of the multytude shall put their handes vpon his heed before the Lorde. And the Preast ỳ is anoynted shall bryngе of hys bloud into the tabernacle of witnesse/ & shall dyppe hys fynger in the bloude / and sprynkle it seuē tymes before the Lorde: euē before the vayle. And shall put of the bloude vpon the hornes of the alter which is before the Lorde in the tabernacle of wytnesse/ and shall poure all the bloude vpō the botome of the alter of burntoffringes which is by the dore of ỳ tabernacle of witnesse/ & shall take all hys fatt from hym/ & burne it vpō the alter/ & shall do with his ore as he dyd with the synneoffryng ore. And the Preast shal make an attonemēt for them/ & so it shalbe forgeuen thē. And he shall bryngе the ore without the hoste/ & burne him as he burned the fyrst: so is this ỳ synneoffryng of the comenalte.

When a Lorde synneth and commytteth throwe ignorauncе any of these thinges which the Lorde his God hath forbydden to be done in his commaundementes & hath so offended: when his synne is shewed vnto hym / which he hath synned / he shall bryngе for hys offryng an he goote without blemyth & laye his hande vpon the heed of it/ & kyll it in the place where the burntoffringes are kylled before ỳ Lorde: this is a synneoffring. Then let the Preast take of the bloude of the synne offryng with hys fynger/ & put it vpon the hornes of the burntoffryng alter/ and poure hys bloude vpon the botome of the burntoffryng alter/ & burne all hys fatt vpon the alter, as he dothe the fatt of the peaceoffringes. And the Preast shall make an attonement for hym as cōcernyng his synne/ and so it shalbe forgeuen hym.

If one of ỳ comē people of the lande synne throwe ignorauncе & commytte any of the thynges which the Lorde hath forbydden in his commaundementes to be done & so hath trespased, when hys synne which he hath synned is come to his knowlege/ he shall bryngе for his offering a fayr goote without blemyth for his synne which he hath synned/ and laye his hande vpon the heed of the synneoffryng/ & slee it in the place of burntoffringes. * And the Preast shall take of the bloude with hys fynger/ & put it vpō the hornes of the burntoffryng alter/ & poure all the bloude vpon the botome of the alter / & shall take awaye all his fatt as the fatt of the peaceoffringes is taken awaye. And the Preast shall burne it vpō the alter for a swete sauoure vnto the Lorde/ and the Preast shall make an attonement for hym/ & it shalbe forgeuen hym.

If he bryngе a lambe & offer it for a synne offryng he shall bringe a female wythout blemyth & laye his hande vpō the heed of the synneoffryng/ & slee it in the place where the burntoffringes are slayne. And ỳ Preast shall take of the bloude of the synneoffryng with his fynger/ and put it vpon the hornes of the burntoffryng alter/ & shall poure all ỳ bloud therof vnto the botome of the alter. * And he shall take awaye all the fat therof/ as the fat of the shepe of the peaceoffringes was takē awaye. And the Preast shall burne it vpō the alter for the Lordes sacrifice, and the Preast shall

And the Lorde talked with Moses sayinge: speake vnto Aaron & vnto his sonnes & saye: This is ỹ lawe of the synne offryng. In the place where ỹ burntoffring is kylled / shall the synneoffryng be kylled also before the Lorde, for it is moost holy. The Preast that offreth it shall eate it in the holy place: euē in the courte of the tabernacle of witnesse. Noma shall touche the flesh therof / saue he that is halowed. And yf any rayment be sprynckled therwith / it shalbe washed in the holy place, & the erthē pot that it is sodē in shall be broken. Notwithstondynge no synneoffrynge that hath hys bloude brought in to the tabernacle of witnesse to reconcyle wyth all in the holy place / shalbe eaten: but shalbe burnt in the fyre.

C Trespaceoffrynges. Synne offrynges and peaceoffrynges. The fatt and the bloude maye not be eaten.

C The. vii. Chapter.

This is the lawe of the *trespaceoffrynge which is most holy. In the place where the burntoffrynge is kylled the trespaceoffrynge shalbe kylled also: & his bloude shalbe sprynkled rounde about vpō the alter. And all the fat therof shalbe offered: the rompe and the fat that couered the inwardes. & the .ii. kydneys with the fatt ỹ lyeth on thē & vpō the loynes & the hall on the lyuer shalbe takē awaye wt the kydneyes: & the Preast shall burne them vpon the altare to be an offrynge vnto the Lorde: this is a trespaceoffrynge.

All the males amōge ỹ preastes shall eate thereof in the holy place for it is most holy. As the synneoffrynge is so is the trespaceoffryng one lawe serueth for both: & it shall be the Preastes that reconcyleth ther with. And the preast that offered a mans burntoffrynge shall haue the skynne of the burntoffryng which he hath offered. And all ỹ meat offrynges that are baken in the ouen / and all that is dressed vpon the gredyren and in the frynge pan / shalbe the preastes that offreth them. And all the meatoffrynges that are myngled wt oyle or dry, shall pertayne vnto all the sonnes of Aarō, & one shall haue as moche as another. This is the lawe of the peaceoffringes which shalbe offred vnto the Lorde. If he offer to geue thanckes / he shall bringe vnto his thanckoffrynge: swete cakes myngled with oyle and swete wafers anoynted wyth oyle & cakes myngled with oyle of fyne floure fryed / & he shall bringe his offerynge vpon cakes made of leuended bred vnto ỹ thanckoffryng of his peaceoffrynges / & of them all he shall offer one to be an heue offrynge vnto the Lorde / and it shall be the Preastes that sprynckleth the bloude of the peaceoffringes. And the flesh of the thanckoffrynge of hys peace offrynges shalbe eaten the same daye that it is offred / and there shall none of it be layde vp vntyll the morynge.

And the Lorde talked with Moses saying: speake vnto ỳ children of Israel & saye: he ỳ offreth his peaceoffrung vnto the Lorde, shall bryngе his gyfte vnto the Lorde of his peace offrynges: his awne handes shall bryngе the offrynge of the Lorde: euen the fatt vpon the brest he shall bryngе wyth the brest to waue it a waueoffrunge before the Lorde. And the Preast shall burne the fatt vpō the alter, & ỳ brest shalbe Aarōs & his sonnes. And ỳ right shoulder they shall geue vnto ỳ preast / to be an heueoffrung / of their peaceoffrynges. And ỳ same that offreth the bloud of the peaceoffrynges & the fatt / amōge the sonnes of Aarō shall haue the right shoulder vnto hys parte / for the wauebrest & the heueshoulder I haue taken of the chyldren of Israel / euen of their peaceoffrynges / & haue geuē it vnto Aarō the Preast & vnto hys sonnes: to be a dutye for euer of the chyldren of Israel.

This is the anoyntynge of Aaron & of the sacrifices of the Lorde / in the daye whē they were offered to the Preastes vnto the Lorde / which the Lorde cōmaunded to be geuē them in the daye when he anoynted thē / of the chyldren of Israel / & to be a dutie for euer amōge their generacions. This is the lawe of burntoffrynges / of meatoffrung / of synneoffrung / of trespaceoffrung / of fulloffrung / of peaceoffrynges / which ỳ Lorde cōmaunded Moses in ỳ mount of Sinai / in ỳ daye when he commaūded ỳ chyldrē of Israel to offer their offrung vnto ỳ Lorde in ỳ wildernesse of Sinai.

¶ The viij. Chapter.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moses saynge: take Aaron & hys sonnes with hym / & the vestures & the anoyntyng oyle / & an oxe for a synneoffrynge & two rammes & a basket of swete breed: & gether all the congregacyon to gether vnto the dore of the tabernacle of witnesse. And Moses dyd as the Lorde cōmaunded hym / & the people gathered thē selues to gether vnto the dore of the tabernacle of witnesse. And Moses sayde vnto the people: this is ỳ thyng which the Lorde commaunded to do.

And Moses brought Aaron & hys sonnes & washed them with water / & put vpon him the albe & gyrded hym with a gyrdell / & put vpon him the tunycle / & put the Ephod therō / and gyrded hym wyth the broderd gyrdell of the Ephod / & bounde it vnto hym therwith. And he put the brestlappe theron, and put in the brestlappe* Urim and Thumim. And he put the myter vpon his heed / & put vpon the myter euen vpon the forefront of it the golden plate of the holy croune / as the Lorde cōmaunded Moses.

* Lobt in Exo. xxv.v.c.4.f. Numerj.xxv.d.

And Moses toke the anoyntyng oyle and anoynted the habitacyō & all ỳ was therin / and sanctified them / & sprynkled therof vpō the alter seuē tymes / and anoynted the alter & all his vessels, & the lauer with his fote / to sanctyfye them. And he poured of the anoyntynge oyle vpon Aarons heed / and anoynted hym to sanctifie hym. And he brought Aarōs sonnes & put albes vpō them / & gyrded them with gyrdels / and put bonettes vpon their heedes: as the Lorde commaunded Moses.

And the synneoffrynge was brought. And Aaron & hys sonnes put their handes vpon the heed of the oxe of the synneoffrynge. And when it was slayne / Moses toke of ỳ bloud / & put it vpon the hornes of the alter rounde about with his fynger / & purified it / & poured the bloud vnto the botome of the alter & sanctyfyed it & reconcyled it. And he brought the ram of ꝑ burntoffryng ℞ & Aaron & his sonnes put their handes vpon the head of the ram/& it was kylled. And Moses sprinkled the bloud vpō the alter rounde about/ and cut the ram in peces & burnt the head/the peces & the fatte/ & washed the inwardes & the legges in water/and burnt the ram euery whit vpon the alter. That was a burntsacrifyce of a swete sauoure / and an offryng vnto the Lorde/ as the Lorde commaunded Moses.

And he brought the other ram that was ꝑ fulloffryng, & Aaron & his sonnes put their handes vpon the head of the ram: and when it was slayne / Moses toke of the bloude of it/& put it vpon the typpe of Aarons ryghte eare/and vpon the thombe of his ryght hand & vpon the great too of hys ryght fote. Then ℭ were Aarons sonnes brought / and Moses put of the bloude on the typpe of the ryghte eare of them/and vpon the thombes of their ryghte handes/and vpon the greate toors of their righte fete/and sprinkled the bloud vpō the alter rounde aboute.

And he toke the fatt and the rompe and all the fatt that was vpon the inwardes/and the hall of ꝑ lyuer/& the .ij. kydneyes with their fatt and their ryghte shoulder. And out of the basket of swete bread that was before the Lorde, he toke one swete cake of oyled breed & one wafer/ & put them on the fatt & vpon ꝑ ryghte shoulder: & put altogether vpō Aarons handes & vpon hys sonnes handes/and ℣ waued it a waueoffryng before the Lorde. And then Moses toke the frō of their handes agayne / & burnt them vpon the alter / euen vpon the burntoffringe: These are the fulloffringes of a swete sauoure & a sacrifice vnto the Lorde. And Moses toke ꝑ breaste & waued it a waueoffryng before ꝑ Lorde/of the ram of the fulloffringes: and it was Moses parte/as the Lorde commaunded Moses.

And Moses toke of the anoyntyng oyle & of the bloude which was vpon the alter/ and sprinkled it vpō Aaron & vpō his vestimētes & vpō his sonnes & on their vestymētes with hym/ & sanctified Aaron & his vesturs & his sonnes & his sonnes vesturs also. Then Moses sayde vnto Aaron & his sonnes: boyle the ℭ flesh in ꝑ doze of the tabernacle of wytnesse/ & there* eate it wyth the bread that is in the basket of fulloffryng/ as the Lorde cōmaunded saying: Aaron and his sonnes shall eate it: & that which remayneth of the flesh and of the bread/burne it with fyre.

And se that ye departe not from the dooze of the tabernacle of witnesse seuē dayes lōge vntyll the dayes of youre fulloffringes be at an ende. For.viij. dayes must youre handes be fylled/as they were this daye: euē so ꝑ Lorde hath cōmaunded to do/to reconcyle you with all. Se therfore that ye abyde, in the doze of the tabernacle of wytnesse daye & nyght seuē dayes longe: & kepe the watche of the Lorde that ye dye not: for so I am cōmaunded. And Aarō & his sonnes dyd all thinges which the Lorde cōmaunded* by the hande of Moses. *Lode in the .iij. of the kyngs. & the .xix. cha. d

ℭ The.ix. Chapter.

And the.viij. daye Moses called Aaron & his sonnes/& ꝑ elders of Israel / & sayde vnto Aarō: take a calfe for a synne offryng/& a ram for a burntoffring: both without blemysh, & bring them before the Lorde. And vnto the chyldrē of Israel he spake saying: take ye an he goote for a synneoffryng/& a calfe & a lambe bothe two of a yere olde/ & without blemysh for a burntsacrifice/& an oxe & a ram for peaceoffrynges, to offer before ꝑ Lorde / & a meateoffryng myngled w oyle/for to daye ꝑ Lorde wyll appere vnto you. And they brought ꝑ ℣ which Moses cōmaunded vnto the tabernacle of witnesse/ & all the people came & stode before the Lorde. And Moses sayde: thys is the thynge which the Lorde cōmaunded that ye shulde do: and then the glorye of the Lorde shall appeare vnto you. And Moses sayde vnto Aaron: go vnto the alter & offer thy synne offryng/& make an attonement for the and for the people: and then offer the offeryng of the people / and reconcyle them also / as the Lorde commaunded Moses.

And Aaron went vnto the alter/and slewe the calfe that was his synneoffryng. And the sonnes of Aaron brought the bloude vnto hym/& he dypte hys fynger in the bloude and put it vpon the hornes of the alter/ & poured the bloude vnto the botome of the alter. And the fatt & the two kydneyes with the hall of the lyuer of the synneoffryng he burnt vpō the alter/as the Lorde cōmaunded Moses: but the flesh & the hyde / he burnt with fyre without the hoste. After warde he slewe the ℭ burntoffryng/& Aarons sonnes brought the bloud vnto hym / and he sprinkled it rounde about vpon the alter. And they brought the burntoffrynge vnto him in peces & the head also/and he burnt it vpon the alter / and dyd washe the inwardes and the legges/& burnt them also vpō the burntoffring in the alter.

Then he slewe the oxe & the ram that were the peoples peaceoffringes/& Aarōs sonnes brought the blood vnto hym/& he sprynkled it vpon the alter rounde about and toke the fatt of the oxe & of the ram: the rōpe and the fatt that coueryth the inwardes and the kydneyes & the hall of the lyuer: & put them vpō the brestes & burnt it vpon the alter: but the brestes and the ryght shoulders Aarō waued before the Lorde / as the Lorde cōmaunded Moses. And Aaron lyfte vp hys hande ouer the people & blessed thē/& came doune from offryng of synneoffringes, burntoffringes & peaceoffrynges. Then Moses & Aaron went in to the tabernacle of wytnesse & came out agayne and blessed the people/and the glorye of the Lorde appered vnto all ỳ people. And there came a fyre out from before the Lorde/ and consumed vpō the alter the burntoffrynge and the fatt. And all the people sawe it / and showted/and fell on their faces.

AND Nadab and Abihu the sonnes of Aaron toke ether of thē his censor/& put fyre therin/and put ens vpon/& brought straunge fyre before the Lorde: which he cōmaunded thē not/ & there went a fyre out from the Lorde / and consumed thē, & they dyed before the Lorde. Then Moses sayde vnto Aaron: this is that the Lorde spake saying: I will be sanctified in thē that come nye me, & before all the people I wylbe glorifyed. And Aaron held hys peace. And Moses called Misael and Elisaphan the sonnes of Oziel the vncle of Aarō/ and sayde vnto them: goo to and carye youre brethren frō the holy place out of the hoste. And Moses sayde vnto Aarō & vnto Eleazar & Ithamar his eldest sonnes: vncouer not youre heed nether rent youre clothes, lest ye dye and wrath come vpon all the people / let youre brethren the hole house of Israel bewepe the burnynge whyche the Lorde hath burnt. But go ye not out frō the dore of the tabernacle of witnesse/lest ye dye: for the anoyntynge oyle of the Lorde is vpō you. And they dyd as Moses bad.

And the Lorde spake vnto Aaron saying: drynke no wyne no stronge drynke/nether thou nor thy sonnes wyth the: when ye goo in to the tabernacle of witnesse/lest ye dye. And let it be a lawe for euer vnto youre chyldren after you: that ye may put differēce betwene holy & vnholy/& betwene vnclcane & cleane/ and that ye may teach the chyldren of Israel all the ordynaunces which the Lorde hath cōmaunded them by the handes of Moses.

And Moses sayde vnto Aaron and vnto Eleazar & Ithamar hys sonnes ỳ were lefte: take the meatoffrynge that remayneth of the sacrifyces of the Lorde/ & eate it without leuen beside the alter for it is most holy: eate it therfore in the holy place / because it is thy dutye and thy sonnes dutye of the sacrifice of the Lorde: for so I am commaunded. And Moses soughte for the goote ỳ was the synneoffrynge/and se it was burnt. And he was angrye with Eleazar & Ithamar the sonnes of Aaron, whyche were lefte a lyue sayeng: wherfore haue ye not eatē the synneoffrynge in the holy place, seynge it is moost holye: and for as moche as it is geuen you to bere the synne of the people, and make agrement for thē before the Lorde? Beholde, the bloude of it was not brought in within the holy place therfore shulde ye haue eaten it in the holy place, as I commaunded. And Aarō sayde vnto Moses: beholde thys daye haue they offered their synneoffring & their burntoffringe before the Lorde and it is chaunced me after thys maner. If I shulde eate of the synneoffring to daye, wolde the Lorde be content with all? And when Moses hearde that/ he was content.

The offringes must haue bene eate in gladnesse / but Aaron coulde not but mourne for hys sonnes.

¶ Of beastes which be cleane/& which vncleane.

¶ The.xj. Chapter.

AND the Lorde spake vnto Moses and Aaron sayinge: speake vnto the children of Israel & saye these are the beastes which ye shall eate amonge all the beastes that are on the erth: what soeuer hath hoofe and deuydeth it in to two clawes & cheweth cud amõge the beastes that shal ye eate. Neuertheles, these shal ye not eate of thẽ that chewe cud & haue hoofes. The camel for he cheweth cud but he deuydeth not the hoofe in to two clawes, therfore he shall be vncleane vnto you. And the conye for he cheweth the cud but deuydeth not the hoofe in to two clawes / therfore he is vncleane to you. And the hare, for he lykewyse cheweth the cud, but deuydeth not ꝑ hoofe in to two clawes, he is therfore vncleane to you. And ꝑ swyne, for though he deuyde the hoffe in to .ii. clawes yet he cheweth not the cud, & therfore is vncleane to you. Of their flesh se that ye eate not / & their carkalles se that ye touche not, for they are vncleane to you.

B These shall ye eate of all ꝑ are in the waters: what soeuer hath finnes & shales in the waters seas & ryuers, ꝑ shall ye eate. And all that haue not finnes & shales in the seas and ryuers of all that moue & lyue in ꝑ waters shall ye abhorre. Se that ye eate not of their flesh and also that ye abhorre their carkales: for all that haue no finnes nor scales

C in the waters shalbe abominaciõ vnto you. These are the foules which ye shall abhorre & which shall not be eatẽ, for they are an abhominaciõ. The egle, the gosshauke, the cormoraũte the kyte the vultur & all his kynd & all kynde of rauens, the estrich the nightcrowe, the cocow the sparowhauke & all the kynde: the lytle oule, the storcke, the great oule, the bach / the pellicane the pye the heron, the laye with the kynde, ꝑ lappwynge & the swalowe. And all foules that crepe and goo vpon all foure shalbe an abominacyon vnto you.

D Yet these maye ye eate of all the foules ꝑ moue and goo apon .iiii. fete: euen those that haue no knees aboue vpon their fete to lepe wyth all vpon the erthe / euen these of them ye maye eate: the *arbe & all his kynde: the Solaam with all his kynde: the Hargol and all the kynde, the Hagab & all his kynde. All other foules ꝑ moue & haue .iiii. fete, shalbe abhominacyon vnto you. In soch ye shalbe vncleane, whosoeuer touche the carkesse of thẽ shalbe vncleane vnto the euen, & whosoeuer bereth the carkasse of thẽ / shall washe his clothes, & so shalbe vncleene vntyll euen.

Amonge all maner beastes / that haue hoofes & deuyde thẽ not in to two clawes or that chewe not the cud shalbe vncleene vnto you: & all that toucheth thẽ shalbe vncleane.

And all that goeth vpon his handes amõge E allmaner beastes ꝑ goo on all foure fete are vncleene vnto you: & as many as touche their carkalles / shalbe vncleene vntyll the euen. And he that beareth the carkasse of thẽ / shall washe his clothes & be vncleane vntyll the euen, for soche are vncleane vnto you.

And these are also vncleene to you amonge the thynges that crepe vpon the erth: the wesell / the mouse, the toode & all his kynde / the hedgehogge, Stellio, the lizerte, ꝑ snayle & ꝑ moule: these are vncleane to you amõge all that moue / & all that touche them when they be dead, shalbe vncleane vntyll the euẽ. And what soeuer any of ꝑ dead carkasses of them fall vpon shalbe vncleane. whatsoeuer vessell of wodd it be / or rayment, or skynne / or bagge or what soeuer thing it be that any worke is wroughte withall. And they shalbe plunged in ꝑ water / & be vncleane vntill the euen / & then they shalbe clene agayne.

All maner of erthen vessell wher in to any F of thẽ falleth is vncleane with all that therin is: and* ye shall breake it. All maner meate ꝑ *Leuit.vi.d is eaten yf any soche water come vpon it, it 6.fa. shalbe vncleane. And all maner drynche that is drõcke in all maner soche vessels shalbe vncleane. And whether it be ouẽ or kettel it shal be broken. For they are vncleane and shalbe vncleane vnto you: Neuertheles ryet / ꝑ fosse taynes and welles & pondes of water / shalbe cleane styll. But whosoeuer toucheth their carkasses / shall be vncleane.

If the dead carkasse of any soch fall vpõ any seed sted to sowe / it shall yet be cleane styll: but and yf any water be poured vpõ the seed and afterward the dead carkesse of them fall theron / then it shalbe vncleane vnto you.

If any beast of which ye may eate dye / he ꝑ toucheth ꝑ dead carkasse shalbe vncleane vntyll the euen. And he that eateth of any soche dead carkasse / shall washe hys clothes & remayne vncleane vntyll ꝑ euẽ. And he also ꝑ beareth the carkesse of it / shall washe hys clothes / and be vncleane vntyll euen.

All that scrauleth vpõ the erth / is an abho- G minacyon / and shall not be eaten. And what soeuer goeth vpõ the brest, and whatsoeuer goeth vpon .iiii. or moo fete amonge all that scrauleth vpõ ꝑ erth of that se ye eate not: for they are abhominable. Make not youre soules abominable with nothinge that crepeth nether make youre soules vncleane wt them: that ye shulde be defyled therby. For I am the Lorde youre God *be sanctified ther for ye maye be holy for I am holy: & defile not youre soules with any maner thing that crepeth vpõ the erth. ¶ The Preestes are appoynted to iudge who are Lepers.

AND the Lorde spake vnto Moses & vnto Aaron saying: when there appeareth a rising in any mans flesh ether a scabbe or a glistring white: as though the plage of leprosye were in the skynne of his flesh then let hym be brought vnto Aaron the Preeste or vnto one of hys sonnes the Preestes & let the Preest loke on the sore ꝑ is in the skynne of hys flesh. If the hayre in ꝑ soore be turned vnto whyte, & the sore also sene to be lower then the skynne of his flesh then it is surely a leprosye & let the Preest loke on hym & iudge hym vncleane.

If there be but a whyte plecke in ꝑ skynne of his flesh and sene not to be lower then the other skynne nor ꝑ hayre therof is turned vnto whyte: then let the Preest shut hym vp seuē dayes. And let the Preest loke vpon hym the vij. daye: yf the sore seme to him to abyde styll & to go no further in the skynne / then let the Preest shutt him vp yet. vij. dayes moo. And let the Preest loke on hym agayne the. vij. daye. Then yf the soore be wared blackish/ & is not growen abrode in the skynne / let the Preest make him clene, for it is but a skyrf. And let hym washe his clothes, & then he is clene. But & yf the scabbe growe in ꝑ skynne after that he is sene of the Preest agayne. If the Preest se ꝑ the scabbe be growen abrode in the skynne, let him make him vncleane: for it is surely a leprosye.

If ꝑ plage of leprosye be in a mā let hym B be brought vnto the Preest, & let the Preest se hym. If the ryspynge appeare whyte in the skynne/& haue also made the hayre whyte/ & there be rawe flesh in the sore also: then it is an olde leprosye in ꝑ skynne of his flesh. And the Preest shall iudge him vncleane, and shall not shutte hym vp for he is vncleane.

If a leprosye breake out in the skynne and couer all ꝑ skynne frō the heed to the foote ouer all whersoeuer the Preest loketh/ then let the Preest loke vpon hym. If the leprosye haue couered all his flesh, let hym iudge the b. Or ouer all his flesh. &c. disease clene: for in as moche as he is altogether whyte he is therfore cleane. But and yf there be rawe flesh on hym whē he is sene then C Here is that called a leper which yet is none in dede but semyth to be one: where as the rotnesse of humours breking forth into the vtter partes of the bodye ouer-cast led a leper and yet must it be iudged to be cleane. he shalbe vncleane. Therfore when ꝑ Preest seeth the rawe flesh / let hym iudge hym vncleane. For in as much as his flesh is rawe, he is vncleane & it is surely a true leprosye. But & yf the rawe flesh departe agayne & chaūge vnto whyte then let him come to the preest, & let the Preest se hym: If the soore be chaunged vnto whyte, let the Preest iudge the disease cleane and then he is cleane.

When there is a byle in the skynne of any mans flesh & is healed & after in the place of the byle there appeare a whyte ryssing ether a skynnynge whyte somwhat redysh/ let hym be sene of ꝑ Preest. If when the Preest seyth hym it appeare lower than the other skynne & the hayre therof be chaūged vnto white/ let the Preest iudge hym vncleane: for it is a very leprosie/ that is broken out in the place of the byle. But & yf when the Preest loketh on it there be no whyte hayres therin nether the scabbe lower then the other skynne & be somwhat blackesh, then the Preest shall shutt hym aparte. vij. dayes. If it spreade abrode in the meane season / then let the Preest iudge hym vncleane: for it is a leprosye. But & yf the glystrynge whyte abyde styll in one place & go no further/ then it is but the ryssynge of the D byle / & the Preest shall iudge hym cleane.

When the skynne of any mās flesh is burnt

a. The leprie signifyeth proprely mannes doctrine / whyche spreadeth abrode lyke a canker: & to be short all infection of vngodlynes therfore must the Lupartes geue diligent hede therto: for a lytell leuen sowreth the whole lompe of dough.

wyth fyre that it be rawe & there appere in ꝑ burnyng a glysterynge whyte that is somwhat redyth or altogether whyte / let the Preast loke vpō it. If the hayre in that bryghtnesse be chaunged to whyte, and it also appeare lower then the other skynne / then it is a lepr̄sye that is broken out of the place of the burnyng. And the Preast shall iudge hym vncleane for it is a lepr̄sye. But and yf, when the Preast loketh on it, he se that there is no whyte hayre in the bryghtenesse, & ꝑ it is no lower then the other skynne / & that it is also blackish then let the preast shut him vp seuē dayes. And yf, wh̄e the Preast loketh on him the seuenth daye it be growen abrode in the skynne let hym iudge hym vncleane: for it is a lepr̄sye But & yf that bryghtnesse abyde styll in one place & go no further in ꝑ skynne & be blackish, then it is but a rysyng in the place of the burnynge / and the Preast shall make hym cleane: for it is but the pynne of the burnynge only.

¶ When ether man or woman hath a breakyng out vpon the heed or the beerde let the preast se it. And yf it appeare lower than the other skynne & ther be therin golden hayres & thyn, let ꝑ Preast iudge hym vncleane for it is a breakyng out of lepr̄sye vpō the heed or berde. If (when the Preast loketh on the breakynge out) he se that it is no lower then the other skynne & ꝑ there are blacke hayres therin, let hym shut hym vp. vij. dayes. And let ꝑ Preast loke on the dysease the. vij. daye: & yf the breakyng out be gone no further ne ther be any golden hayres therin nether the scabbe be lower then the other skynne, then let him be shaven but lett him not shaue the scabbe: & let ꝑ preast shut him vp vij dayes moo. And let the preast loke on the breaking out ꝑ. vij. daye agayne: If the breakyng out be gone no further in the skynne nor moare lower then ꝑ other skynne, then let ꝑ preast iudge hym cleane / and let hym washe hys
F clothes, & then he is cleane. If the breakyng out growe in the skynne after that he is once iudged cleane let the Preast see him. If it be growne abrode in dede in the skynne, let the preast seke no further for any golde hayres / for he is vncleane. But and yf he se that the scabbe stande styll & ꝑ there is blacke hayre growne vp therin, then the scabbe is healed & he is cleane: & the Preast shall iudge hym cleane. If there be founde in ꝑ skynne of the flesh of man or woman a glysterynge whyte / let the Preast se it. If there appeare in their flesh a glysterynge whyte somwhat blackish / then it is but freckels growē vp in ꝑ skynne: and he is cleane.

If a mās hayre fall of his heed / then he is heedbaulde & cleane. If his hayre fall before in his forehede / then he is forheedbalde & cleane. If there be in ꝑ baulde heed or baulde forheed a redysh white scabbe, then there is lepr̄sye sprongē vp in hys baulde heed or baulde forehede. And let the preast se it: and yf the rysynge of the sore be reddysh whyte in his baulde heede or forehede after ꝑ maner of a lepr̄sie in the skynne of the flesh then he is a leper & vncleane: & ꝑ Preast shall iudge him vncleane, for the plage of his heed. And G the leper in whome the plage is / shall haue his clothes rēt & his heede bare & his mouth mofled & shalbe called vncleane. And as lōg as the disease lasteth vpon him he shalbe vncleane: for he is vncleane, and shall therfore dwell alone, & cuē without the host shall hys habitacyon be.

¶ When the plage of lepr̄sye is in a cloth: whether it be lynē or wollen, ye & whether it be in the warpe or wolfe of the lynē or of the wollen: ether in a skynne or any thyng made of skynne, yf the dysease be pale or somwhat redysh in the cloth or skynne: whether it be in the warpe or wolfe or any thynge ꝑ is made of skynne, then it is a very lepr̄sye & must be shewed vnto ꝑ preast. And wh̄e the preast seyth ꝑ plage let him shut it vp. vij. dayes / & let hym loke on ꝑ plage the. vij. daye. If it be increased in ꝑ cloth: whether it be in ꝑ warpe or wolfe or in a skynne or in any thynge that is made of skynne, then ꝑ plage is a freating lepr̄sye, & it is vncleane: & that cloth shalbe burnt, ether warpe or wolfe, whether it be wollen or lynē or any thynge that is made of skynne where in the plage is for it is a freatynge lepr̄sye, & shalbe burnt in the fyre.

If ꝑ preast se ꝑ the plage hath freatē no further in the cloth ether in ꝑ warpe or wolfe or in whatsoeuer thyng of skynne it be, then let the preast cōmaunde thē to washe ꝑ thynge wherin the plage is, & let hym shut it vp. vij. dayes moo. And let ꝑ preast loke on it agayne after ꝑ the plage is washed. If ꝑ plage haue not chaūged his facion though it be spred no further abrode, it is yet vncleane And se ꝑ ye burne it in ꝑ fyre, for it is freat inward: whether in parte or in all to gether. But & yf the preast se ꝑ it is somwhat blackysh after that it is washed, let him rēt it out of the cloth, or out of the skynne or out of ꝑ warpe or wolfe. But & yf it appeare any moare in the cloth ether in the warpe or in the wolfe or in any thynge made of skynne / then it is a warynge plage. And se ꝑ ye burne that in fyre, wherin the plage is. Forouer ꝑ cloth ether warpe or wolfe or whatsoeuer thing of skynne it be which thou hast washed & the plage be departed frō it / shalbe washed once agayne: & then it is cleane. ¶ This is ꝑ lawe of ꝑ plage of lepr̄sie in a cloth whether it be wollē or lynē: ether whether whether it be in the warpe or woofe / or in any thynge made of skynnes / to iudge it cleane or vncleane.

¶ The cleansynge of the leper / and of the house that he is in.

¶ The xiiij. Chapter.

A And the Lorde spake vnto Moses saying: * this is the lawe of a leper when he shalbe cleensed: He shalbe brought vnto the Preast / and the Preast shall go out without the hoste & loke vpon him. If the plage of leprosye be healed in the leper / then shall the Preast cõmaunde that there be brought for hym that shalbe cleensed two lyuynge byrdes that are cleane / and cedar wood / & a pece of purple cloth and yssope. And the Preast shall cõmaunde ye one of the byrdes be killed in an erthen vessell vpon rennyng water. And the Preast shall take ye lyuyng byrde & the cedar wodd & the purple & the yssope / & shall dyppe thẽ & the lyuynge byrde in the bloude of the slayne byrde / & in the rẽnyng water & sprynkle it vpõ him that must be cleensed of hys leprosye seuen tymes and cleense hym / & shall let the lyuynge byrd goo fre in to the feldes.

* Matt. viij. Marc. i. Luc. v. & xvij.

B And he ye is cleensed shall washe his clothes & shaue of all his hayre / & wash hym selfe in water / & then he is cleane. And after that he shall come into ye hoste / but shall tarye without his tent. vij. dayes. When the seuech daye is come / he shall shaue of all his hayre bothe vpon his heade & his berde & on his browes: & euẽ all the hayre ye is on him / shalbe shauẽ of. And he shall washe his clothes & his flesh in water / and then he shalbe cleane.

And when ye. viij. daye is come / let him take ij. lambes without blemysshe & a yewe lambe of a yere olde without blemysh / and iij. tenth deales of fyne floure for a meatoffring myngled with oyle / and a logge of oyle. & han let the Preast ye maketh hym cleane / bryng the man ye is made cleane vnto those thyngs before the Lorde vnto the doze of the tabernacle of wytnesse. And let the Preast take one of the lambes & offer him for a trespaceoffringe / & the logge of oyle: and waue them before the Lorde. And then let him slee the lambe in the place where the synneoffringe & the burntoffryng are slayne: euẽ in the holy place. For as the synneoffryng is / euẽ so is the trespace offring the Preastes: for it is mooste holy.

¶ Then let the Preast take of the bloud of ye trespaceoffring & put it vpõ the typpe of the ryght eare of him that is cleensed / & vpon the thombe of hys ryghte hande / & vpõ the great too of hys ryghte foote. ¶ Then let the Preast take of the logge of oyle / & poure it in to the palme of hys lefte hande & dyppe hys ryght fynger in the oyle ye is in ye palme of his left hand / & let him sprynkle it with his fynger. vij. tymes before the Lorde. And of the rest of the oyle that is in hys hande / shall the preast put vpõ the typpe of ye ryghte eare of hym ye is cleensed / & vpon the thombe of hys ryghte hande / & vpõ the great too of his ryghte fote: euen vpon the bloud of the trespaceoffringe: And the remnaunte of the oyle that is in the Preastes hande he shall poure vpõ the heed of hym that is cleensed: & so shall the Preaste make an attonemẽt for him before ye Lorde.

Then let the Preast offer the synneoffryng & make an attonemẽt for him that is cleensed for his vncleannesse. And then let ye burntoffryng be slayne / & let the preast put both the burntoffryng & the meatoffryng vpõ the alter: & make an attonemẽt for hym / & then he shalbe cleane. If he be poore & can not gett so moch / then let hym bringe one lambe for a trespaceoffryng to waue it & to make an attonemẽt for him / & a tẽth deale of fyne floure myngled with oyle for a meatoffring / & a logge of oyle / & two turtyll doues or two yoũge pigeons whiche he is able to gett & let the one be a synneoffryng & ye other a burntoffring. And let hym bringe thẽ the. viij. daye for his cleensyng vnto the Preast to ye doze of the tabernacle of witnesse before the Lorde.

D And let the Preast take the lambe that is the trespaceoffryng & the logge of oyle / and waue them before the Lorde. And when the lambe of the trespaceoffryng is killed / the Preast shall take of the bloud of the trespace offryng. & put it vpõ the typpe of hys ryghte eare that is cleensed / & vpon the thombe of his ryghte hande / and vpon the greate too of hys ryght fote. And the Preast shall poure of the oyle into hys ryghte hande / & shall sprynkle with his fynger of the oyle that is in hys lefte hande seuen tymes before the Lorde.

And the Preast shall put on the oyle that is in his hande (vpõ the typpe of the ryghte eare of hym that is cleensed / & vpon the thombe of his ryghte hande / & vpon the great too of his ryghte fote: euẽ in the place where the bloude of the trespaceoffring was put. And the reste of the oyle that is in his hand / he shall poure vpon the heed of hym that is cleensed: to make an attonemẽt for hym before the Lorde. And he shall offer one of the turtyll doues or of ye yoũge pigeons / soche as he can gett: the one for a synne offeryng & the other for a burntoffryng vpõ the alter. And so shall the Preast make an attonemẽt for hym that is cleensed before the Lorde. ¶ Thys is the lawe of hym that hath the plage of leprosye / whose hande is not able to gett that whych pertayneth to hys cleensyng.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moses & Aarõ saying: when ye be come vnto the lande of Ca naan which I geue you to possesse: yf I put the plage of leprosye in any house of ȳ lande of youre possessyon / let hym that oweth the house go & tell the preast sayeng: me thynke that there is as it were a leprosy in ȳ house. And the Preast shall cōmaunde them to ryd all thyng out of the house/before the Preast goo in to se the plage: that he make not all that is in the house vncleane / and then the preast shall go in & se the house.

b. The lepre of the howses as any thynge therto pertaynynge wherby the owelier might take harme in helth of body/ in hurtyng of hys goodes or otherwyse as yf it stoode in ani euel ayre. & cc.

If the preast se that the plage is in ȳ walles of the house & that there be holowe strakes pale or redde which seme to be lower then ȳ other partes of the wall then let the Preast go out at the house dores, & shut vp ȳ house for vii. dayes. And let ȳ preast come agayne the seuēth daye & se it: yf the plage be increased in the walles of the house let the Preast cōmaunde them to take awaye the stones in which the plage is and let them cast them in a foule place without the citie, & scrape the house within rounde about: & powre out the dust without the cytye in a foule place. And let them take other stones, & put them in the places of those stones, and other morter, and plaster the house with all. If now the plage come agayne & breake out in ȳ house, after that they haue takē awaye the stones & scraped the house & after that the house is playstered anewe: let the Preast come & se it. And yf then he perceaue that the plage hath catē further in the house, then it is a fretynge leprosye that is in the house/ & it is vncleane. Then they shall breake doune ȳ house: both stones, tymbre & all the morter of the house/ & carye it oute of the cītye vnto a foule place. Moreouer he that goeth in to the house all the whyle that it is shut vp/ shalbe vncleane vntill nyght. And he that slepeth in the house shall washe his clothes, & he also that eateth in the house shall washe hys clothes.

G But and yf the Preast come & se that the plage hath spredde no further in the house after ȳt it is new plastered, then let him make it cleane, for the plage is healed. And let hym take to clense the house with all: two byrdes/ cedar wodd/ & purple clothe & yssope. And let hym kyll one of the byrdes in an erthē vessell with runnyng water: & take the cedar wodd/ the yssope, the purple & the lyuyng byrde/ and dyppe them in the bloude of the slayne byrde & in the runnyng water/ & sprynkle vpon the house seuen tymes/ & clense the house with the bloud of the byrde & with ȳ runnyng water/ & with the lyuyng byrd/ & with the cedar wodd/ and the yssope/ and the purple clothe. And he shall lett the lyuynge byrde flee oute of the towne in to the wylde feldes, & so make an attonement for the house / and it shalbe cleane. This is the lawe of all maner plage of leprosye & breakyng out/ & of the leprosye of clothe and house: and of rysinges/ scabbes and glysterynge whyte / to teache when a thyng is vncleane or cleane. This is ȳ lawe of leprosye.

¶ The maner of purgyng the vnclennes bothe of men and women.

¶ The.xv. Chapter.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moses & Aaron sayinge: Speake vnto ȳ chyldrē of Israel/ & saye vnto thē: Euery man that hath a runnynge ylue in hys flesh/ is vncleane by the reason of hys ylue. And hereby shall it be knowne when he is vncleane. If hys flesh runne/ or yf hys flesh congele by the reason of his ylue then he is vncleane. Euery couche wheron he lyeth and euery thyng wheron he sytteth shal be vncleane. ☞ He that toucheth his couche shall wash his clothes, & bath hym selfe with water/ and be vncleane vntyll the euen.

☞ He that sytteth on ȳ wheron he satt, shall wash hys clothes and bathe hym selfe wyth water/ and be vncleane vntyll the euenynge. And he that toucheth hys flesh shall washe his clothes/ and bathe hym selfe in water / & be vncleane vnto the euen. If any soche spyt vpon hym that is cleane/ he must washe hys clothes/ and bathe hym selfe in water/ and be vncleane vntyll euen. ☞ And what soeuer saddell that he rydeth vpon/ shalbe vncleane. And whosoeuer toucheth any thynge ȳ was vnder hym / shalbe vncleane vnto the euen. And he that beareth any soche thynges shall wasshe his clothes, and bathe hym selfe in water & be vncleane vnto the euen/ and whosoeuer he toucheth (yf he haue not fyrst washed his handes in water) must washe his clothes & bathe hym selfe in water and be vncleane vnto the euenynge. *And yf he touche a vessell of erth it shalbe broken: and all vessels of wodd shalbe rynsed in water. *Leuit. vi. d. & xi. f.

☞ When he that hath an ylue is clensed of his ylue let hym numbre. vii. dayes after he is cleane/ & washe his clothes, and bathe his flesh in runnynge water/ & then he is cleane. And the. viii. daye let hym take two turtyll doues or two yōnge pygeons/ & come before the Lorde vnto the dore of the tabernacle of wytnesse/ & geue them vnto the Preast. And the Preast shall offer thē: the one for a synne offrynge, and the other for a burntoffryng: & make an attonemēt for him before the Lord as concernynge hys ylue.

¶ The.xix. Chapter.

AND the Lorde spake vnto Moses sayeng: speake vnto all the multi= I tude of the childrẽ of Israel, & saye * Leui.xi.g. 1. Petri.i.d
vnto thẽ.* Be holy for I the Lorde youre God am holye. Se that ye feare euery mã his father & his mother / & ꝑ ye kepe my Sabothes / for I am the Lorde youre God. Ye shall not turne vnto ydoll̃ nor make you goddes of metall: I am the Lorde youre God.

When

When ye offre youre peaceofferynges vnto the Lord/ye shall offer them that ye maye be accepted. And it shalbe eatē the same daye ye offer it & on the morowe/ but whatsoeuer is lefte on the thirde daye shalbe burnt in the fyre. If it be eatē ye thyrde daye/it shalbe vncleane & not accepted. And he that eateth it shall bere his synne/ because he hath defiled the halowed thynges of the Lorde / and that soule shall perish from amonge his people.

* Whē ye reape doune ye rype corne of youre land ye shall not repe doune the vtmost borders of youre fieldes / nether shalt thou gather ye which is lefte behynd in thy harueste. Thou shalt not pluche in all thy vyneyarde clene nether gather in the grapes that are ouerscraped. But thou shalt leaue thē for the poore & straunger. I am the Lord youre God.

Ye shall not steale nether lye/nether deale falsely one with another * Ye shall not sweare by my name falsely: that thou defyleste not the name of thy God. I am the Lorde. Thou shal not begyle thy neyghboure with cauyllacions, nether robbe him violently / nether shall the workmans laboure abyde with the vntyll the morowe. Thou shalt not curse ye deafe, nether put a stōblynge blocke before the blynd: but shalt feare thy God. I am the Lorde. Ye shall doo no vnryghteousnes in iudgement. * Thou shalt not fauoure the poore nor honoure the myghtie / but shalt iudge thy neyghboure ryghteously.

Thou shalt not goo vp & doune a * prieuy accuser amōge thy people/nether shalt thou helpe to shede the bloude of thy neyghboure: I am the Lord. * Thou shalt not hate thy brother in thyne hart but shalt in any wyse rebuke thy neyghbour: ye thou bere not synne for his sake. * Thou shalt not auēge thy selfe nor bere hate in thy mynde agaynst the chyldren of thy people but shalt loue thy neyghboure euen as thy selfe I am the Lorde.

a. Cattell maye not gendre with a cōtrary kynde agaynst the order of nature: muche lesse reasonable creatures made to the ymage of God as mē & wemē. ¶ The felde maye not be sowen wyth mare seede that is / youre clothes & woordes maye not be myngled with vnpacerely. Nether maye youre garmētes be made of lynē & woll that is we maye not Keepe myne ordinaunces. a Let none of thy cattell gendre w a cōtrary kynde nether sowe thy felde w myngled seed nether shalt thou put on any garment of lynen and woollen.

If a man haue to doo wyth a woman that is bonde and hath bene medled wyth all of another man whych nether is bought nor fredome geuē her there shalbe a payne vpō it: but they shall not dye because she was not made fre. And he shall bringe for hys trespaceofferynge vnto the Lorde: euen vnto the doore of the tabernacle of witnesse a ram for a trespaceofferynge. And ye preest shall make an attonemēt for hym w the ram of the trespaceofferynge before the Lord for his synne which he hath done: & it shalbe forgeuē him/ as cōcerninge the synne which he hath done.

And when ye come to the lande and haue plāted al maner of trees where of men eate, ye shall holde thē vncircūcised as cōcerninge their fruite: euē thre yere shall they be vncircumcised vnto you & shall not be eatē of, and the fourth yere all ye fruite of thē shalbe holy & acceptable to the Lorde. And the fifth yere maye ye eate of the fruite of thē / & gether in the increase of them: I am the Lorde youre God. * Ye shall eate nothynge w the bloude, ye shall vse no witchcraftе nor observe dismall dayes, ye shall not rounde the lockes of youre heedes / nether shalt thou marre the tuftes of thy beerde. Ye shall not rēt youre flesh for any soules sake / nor pryute any markes vpō you: I am the Lord. Thou shalt not pollute thy daughter, that thou woldest maynteine her to be an whoore: lest the lande fall to whoredome, and ware full of wickednesse. Se ye kepe my Sabbothes & feare my sanctuary: I am the Lorde. Turne not to them that worke with spyrytes / nether regarde thē that obserue dyselmall dayes: that ye be not defyled by them, for I am the Lord youre God.

Thou shalt ryse vp before the hoorehed/ & reuerence the face of the old mā & dread thy god for I am the Lorde. * If a straunger sourne by the in youre lande/se that ye vexe him not: But lett the straūger that dwelleth with you, be as one of youre selues / & loue him as thy selfe, for ye were straūgers in the lande of Egypt. I am the Lorde youre God.

Ye shall do no vnrighteousnes in iudgement nether in metеyerde / weyght or measure. But ye shall haue true balances / true weyghtes, a true Epha & a true hin. I am the Lorde youre God which brought you out of the land of Egypt / that ye shulde obserue all myne ordinaunces and iudgementes and that ye shulde kepe them: I am the Lorde.

¶ They that geue of their seede to Moloch shall dye therfore. Other goodly lawes necessarye to be vsed in cōmen wealthes.

¶ The.xx. Chapter.

And the Lorde talked with Moses sayinge: tell the chyldrē of Israel, whosoeuer he be of the chyldrē of Israel or of the straūgers ye dwell in Israel that geueth of his seed vnto * Moloch he shall dye for it: the people of the land shall stone him with stones. And I will sett my face vpon that felowe and will destroye him frō amonge his people: because he hath geuen of his seed vnto Moloch for to defyle my sanctuary and to polute my holy name. And though that the people of the lāde hyde their eyes from that felowe / whē he geueth of his seed vnto Moloch / so that they kyll him not: yet I will put my face vpon ye man and vpon hys generacion, and will destroy him

☞ If any soule turne him to enchaũters or expounders of tokens and goo a whoorynge after thẽ I wyll put my face vpõ that soule & wyll destroye him frõ amonge hys people. Sanctifye youre selues therfore & be holye for I am the Lord youre God. And se that ye kepe myne ordinaunces and doo them. For I am the Lorde which sanctifye you.

☞ Whosoeuer curseth his father or mother shall dye for it his bloud on his head because he hath cursed his father or mother. ☞ He that breaketh wedlocke with another mans wyfe shall dye for it/ because he hath broke wedlocke with his neyghbours wyfe/ and so shall he lykewise. ☞ If a man lye with his fathers wyfe & vncouer his fathers secrett̄/ they shall both dye for it/ their bloude be vpõ their heedes. ☞ If a mã lye wt his daughter in lawe they shall dye both of thẽ: they haue wrought abhominacyon/ their bloud vpon their heed̄. ☞ If a man lye with mankynde after ỹ maneras wt womã kynde/ they haue both cõmytted an abhominacion & shall dye for it. Their bloude be vpon their heades.

☞ If a mã take a wyfe & her mother therto/ it is wickednesse. Men shall burne with fyre both him and them / that there be no wickednesse amonge you. ☞ If a man lye wyth a beast he shall dye/ and ye shall slee the beast.

☞ If a woman go vnto a beast & lye doune therto: thou shalt kyll the woman and the beast also / they shall dye/ and their bloude be vpõ their heades. If a man take his syster his fathers daughter or his mothers daughter, & se her secrettes, and she se his secrettes also: it is a wicked thynge. Therfore lett thẽ perysh in the syghte of their people/ he hath sene his systers secretnesse / he shall therfore beare his synne. ☞ If a man lye wt a womã in tyme of her naturall dysease and vncouer her secrettes and open her fountayne / & she also open the fountayne of her bloude / they shall both perysshe from amonge the people.

☞ Thou shalt not vncouer the secrettes of thy mothers syster nor of thy fathers syster/ for he ỹ doth so / vncouereth hys nexte kyn: and they shall beare their mysdoynge:

☞ If a mã lye wt his vncles wyfe he hath vncouered his vncles secrettes: they shall beare their synne/ and shall dye chyldlesse.

☞ If a mã take his brothers wyfe / it is an vncleane thyng he hath vncouered his brothers secrett̄, they shalbe childlesse therfore.

D * Se that ye kepe therfore all myne ordinaunces and all my iudgemẽtes and that ye doo them: that the land whether I bringe you to dwell therin, spewe you not out. And se that ye walke not in the maners of the nacyõs whyche I cast oute before you: for they cõmytted all these thynḡ/ & I abhorred thẽ.

But I haue sayde vnto you that ye shall enioye their lande/ & that I wyll geue it vnto you to possesse it: euẽ a lande that flowyth with mylke and honye. I am the Lord youre God, whyche haue separated you from other nacions: * that ye shulde put difference betwene cleane beastes and vncleane/ and betwene vncleane foules and them that are cleane. Make not youre soules therfore abhominable with beastes and foules/ & wyth all maner thinge ỹ crepeth vpõ the groũde/ which I haue separated vnto you to holde them vncleane. Be holy vnto me / for I the Lorde am holy and haue severed you from other nacions: that ye shulde be myne. *Leui. xi.

* If there be a mã or womã that worketh with a spyryte or ỹ expounderth tokens they shall dye for it. Men shall stone them wyth stones/ & their bloude shalbe vpon them. *Deut. xviij. b. 1. Reg. xxviij. a

¶ The preest is forbydde to be at the death of any of his people nether of his kynne except preestes may not be shaue neither on the head nor pet of the beard. The preestes wyfe must be a mayde. The preestes daughter may not be an harlote.

¶ The .xxi. Chapter.

And the Lorde sayde vnto Moses: speake vnto the preestes ỹ sonn̄ of Aaron and saye vnto them. A preest shall defile him selfe at the deth of none of his people but vpõ his kynne ỹ is nye vnto him: as his mother father sonne daughter & brother: & on his syster as longe as she is a mayde & dwelleth nye him & was neuer geuen to man: on her he maye defyle him selfe. But he shall not make hym selfe vncleane vpon a ruler of his people to polute him selfe with all.

A ¶ The preestes be warned that they shall not come at the cõmyne wayling & lamentacyons of the dede lest they shuld thereby be the more vnapte to do their sacrifyces wherunto they were properly appoynted/ and lest they shulde by thrise weyping geue an occasion to destroye the beleue of 23 the resurrection of the dead.

☞ They shall make them no baldnesse vpon their heedes or shaue of the lockes of their beardes nor make any markes in their flesh. They shal be holy vnto their God / and not polute the name of their God. for the sacrifices of the Lorde and the bread of their God they do offer: therfore they must be holy.

☞ They shall take no wyfe ỹ is an whoore or poluted or put from her husbande: for a preest is holy vnto his God. Sanctifie him therfore/ for he offereth vp the bread of God: he shall therfore/ be holy vnto the / for I the Lorde whiche sanctifye you/ am holy.

☞ If a preestes daughter fall to playe the whore/ she poluteth her father: therfore she shall be burnt with fyre.

☞ He ỹ is the hye preest amõgest his brethre vpon whose head the anoyntynge oyle was poured & whose hande was fylled to put on the vestimentes/ shall not vncouer his head nor nor rent his clothes/nether shall goo to any C deed body nor make hym selfe vncleane: no not on his father or mother/ nether shall go out of the sanctuarye/that he polute not the holy place of his God / for the croune of the anoyntynge oyle of God, is vpon him. I am the Lorde.*He shall take a mayde vnto his wyfe:but no wedowe nor deuorced nor polu ted whoore. But he shall take a mayde of his awne people to wyfe/that he defyle not his seed vpon his people:for I am the Lorde which sanctifye him.

And the Lord spake vnto Moses sayinge/speke vnto Aaron and saye: No man of thy seed in their generacions that hath any defor= myte vpon hym, shall preace for to offer the D bred of his God: for none that hath any ble= mysh shall come nere: wether he be blynde/lame, snot nosed or that hath any myshapē mēbre or brokē foted, or broken handed or croke backed, or perleyed / or gogeleyed / or maūge, or skaulde, or hath hys stonȝ brokē.

No man ꝑ is deformed of the seed of Arō
the preast, shall come nye to offer the sacrifi= ces of the Lorde. If he haue a deformyte/ he shall not preace to offer the bred of his God.
Notwithstandynge he shall eate of the bred of his God: euen as well of the most holy/as of the holy: but shall not goo in vnto ꝑ vayle nor come nye the alter / because he is defor= med that he polute not my sanctuary / for I am the Lorde that sanctifie them. And Mo= ses tolde it vnto Aaron and to his sonnes/ & vnto all the Chyldren of Israel.

C What maner persones ought to abstayne from eatyng the thynges that were offred. How/ what/ & when they shulde be offerd.

C The.xxij. Chapter.

And the Lorde comened with Mo= ses sayng: byd Arō & his sonnes that they abstayne from the halo= wed thynges of the chyldrē of Is= rael which they haue halowed vnto me/that they polute not my holy name: for I am the Lorde. Saye vnto them: whosoeuer he be of all youre seed amōge youre generacō after you/ ꝑ goeth vnto the halowed thynges which the chyldrē of Israel shall haue halo= wed vnto the Lorde / hys vnclennes shalbe vpon him: and that soule shall perysh from out of my syghte. I am the Lorde/

None of the seed of Aaron that is a leper or that hath a runnyng sore shall eate of the halowed thingȝ vntill he be cleane. And who soeuer toucheth any vncleane soule or man whose seed runneth from him by nyghte / or whosoeuer toucheth any worme that is vn= cleane to him/ or man ꝑ is vncleane to him/whatsoeuer vnclennesse he hath: the same soule that hath any soch thynge/ shalbe vn= cleane vntill euen / and shall not eate of the halowed thynges vntill he haue washed his flesh with water. And then when the sonne B is doune he shalbe cleane & shall afterward eate of the halowed thyngȝ: for they are hys fode.* Of a beest ꝑ dieth alone or is rent vp wylde beastes, he shall not eate / to defyle him selfe therwith: I am the Lorde. But let them kepe therfore myne ordynaunce / lest they lade synne vpon them & dye therin whē they haue defyled them selues: for I am the Lorde which sanctyfye them.

There shall no straunger eate of the ha=
lowed thinges/nether a gest of the preastes/or an hyred seruaunte. But yf the preast bye any soule with money he maye eate of it / & he also that is borne in his house maye eate of his bred. If the preastes daughter be ma= ryed vnto a straunger / she maye not eate of the halowed heueoffrynge. Notwithstādyng yf the preastes daughter be a wedowe or de= uorced & haue no childe but is returned vnto her fathers house agayne / she shall eate of her fathers bred as well as she dyd in her youth. But there shall no straunger eate therof. If a man eate of the halowed thyngȝ vnwittingly/he shall put ꝑ fyfte parte ther vnto/ & make good vnto the preast the halo= wed thynge. And let the preastes se / ꝑ they defyle not the halowed thynges of the chyl= dren of Israel which they haue offered vnto
the Lord/lest they lade thē selues with mys=
doynge & trespace in eatynge their halowed thingȝ for I am ꝑ Lorde which halowe thē.

And the Lord spake vnto Moses sayng: C speake vnto Aaron & hys sonnes & vnto all the chyldren of Israel & saye vnto thē/what= soeuer he be of the house of Israel or straū= ger in Israel that wyll offer his offerynge:
whatsoeuer vowe or frewyllofferynge it be which they wyll offer vnto the Lorde for a burntofferynge to reconcyle them selues, it must be a male without blemysh of ꝑ oxen/shepe or gootes/let thē offer nothynge that is deformed for they shall gett no fauoure therwith.

If a mā will offer a peaceoffrynge vnto the Lord and separate a vowe or a frewyll offe= rynge of the oxen or the flocke / it must be without deformyte / ꝑ it maye be accepted.
There maye be no blemysh therin: whether it be blynde/brokē/wounded or haue a wen/or be maunge or scabbed/ se that ye offre no soch vnto the Lorde/nor put an offerynge of any soch vpon the alter vnto the Lorde.

An oxe or a shepe that hath any membre out of proporciō/ mayst thou offer for a fre= willofferynge: but in a vowe it shall not be accepted. Thou shalt not offer vnto ꝑ Lord that which is broosed broken / plucked out or cutt

or cut awaye, nether shalt make any soch in youre lande / nether of a straungers hande shall ye offer an offeryng to youre God of any soch. For they marre all in ỳ they haue deformites in them / & therfore can not be accepted for you. And ỳ Lord spake vnto Moses sayinge: when an ore / a shepe or a goote is brought forth / it shalbe seuen dayes vnder ỳ dãme. And frõ the .viij. daye forth / it shalbe accepted vnto a gyfte in the sacrifyce of the Lorde. And whether it be ore or shepe / ye shall not kyll it & her yõge both in one daye.

a thankofferyng / that is an offeryng of thankes geuynge. Thankes geuynge is when the benefytes of God are recyted / wherby the fayth to Godward is strengthened the more ferfully to loke for the thyng that we hope for of God Ephe. v. a. 1. Timo. iij. a. 1. b.

When ye wyll offre a ª thankofferyng vnto the Lord, ye shall so offre it that ye maye be accepted. And the same daye it must be eaten vp / so ỳ ye leaue none of it vntill the morowe. For I am the Lorde / kepe now my commaundementes & do thẽ / for I am the Lord. And polute not my holy name, that I maye be halowed amonge the chyldren of Israel. For I am the Lorde which halowe you, and brought you out of the lande of Egypt, to be youre God: for I am the Lorde.

¶ Of the holy dayes / as the Sabboth / Ester whytsontyde / the feast of the fyrst frutes. ¶ The feast of clensyng. The feast of trompettes. The feast of the tabernacles.

¶ The .xxiij. Chapter.

AND the Lorde spake vnto Moses sayinge: speake vnto the childrẽ of Israel / & saye vnto thẽ. These are the feastes of the Lorde which ye shall call holy feastes. Syx dayes ye shall worke / & the seuẽth is the Sabboth of reast an holy feast: so that ye maye doo no worke therin / for it is the Sabboth of the Lorde / whereseuer ye dwell. These are the feastes of the Lorde whiche ye shall proclayme holy in their seasons. * The .xiiij. daye of the fyrst moneth at euẽ is the Lordes * Passouer. And the .xv. daye of the same moneth is the feast of swete bred vnto ỳ Lord. vij. dayes ye must eate vnleuended bred. The fyrst daye shalbe an holy feaste vnto you / so that ye maye do no laborious worke therin. But ye shall offer sacrifices vnto the Lord. vij. dayes / & the seuẽth daye also shalbe an holy feast / so that ye maye do no laborious worke therin.

And the sonne of an Israelitish wyfe whose father was an Egyptian/ went oute amōge the chyldren of Israel. And this sonne of the Israelytish wyfe and a mā of Israel / stroue together in ꝑ hoste. And the Israelitish womans sonne blasphemed the * name & cursed, & they broughte hym vnto Moses. And hys mothers name was Salomyth / the doughter of Dibry of the tribe of Dan: and they put him in warde / that Moses shulde declare vnto thē what the Lord sayd therto.

* Heb: nechem that is / name that is blessed above all name

☞ And ꝑ Lord spake vnto Moses sayeng/ bringe hym that blasphemed without the C hoste/ and lett all that herde hym / put their handes vpon his heed/ and lett all the multitude stone him. And speake vnto the chyldrē of Israel sayinge. Whosoeuer b curseth his God shall bere his synne: And he that blasphemeth thename of the Lorde shall dye for it: all the multitude shall stone him to deeth. And the straunger as well as the Israelite yf he curse the name, shall dye for it.

b. Curseth: he curseth God & blasphemeth the name of God / that despyseth and despyseth godes ordynaunces statutes & commaundementes/ or that magnifyeth menues traditions and lawes aboue Godes/ or that D setteth as moche therby/ as by the precepte of the most merciful God.

He that killeth any man shall dye for it but he that killeth a beast shall paye for it/ beast for beast. If a mā mayme hys neyghboure, as he hath done, so shall it be done to him agayne: broke for broke, eye for eye and toth for toth: euen as he hath maymed a mā, so shall he be maymed agayne. Sonowe he that killeth a beast, shall paye for it: but he that killeth a man, shall dye for it. Ye shall haue one maner of lawe amonge you: euen for the straūger as well as for one of youre selues, for I am the Lorde youre God.

And Moses tolde the chyldren of Israel/ that they shulde bringe him that had cursed/ out of the hoste/ and stone him wyth stones. And the chyldren of Israel dyd as the Lorde commaunded Moses.

¶ The Sabboth of the.vij. yeres and of the yere of iubelie otherwyse called the fyfty yere.

¶ The.xxv. Chapter.

AND the Lorde spake vnto Moses in mount Sinai sayinge/ speake vnto the chyldren of Israel & saye vnto them. When ye be come in to the lande whyche I geue you, let the lande rest a Sabboth vnto the Lorde. Sixe yeres thou shalt sowe thy felde/ and syxe yere thou shalt cut thy vynes & gether in thy frutes. But the seuenth yere shall be a Sabboth of rest vnto the lande. ¶ The Lordes Sabboth it shalbe, and thou shalt nether sowe thy felde/ nor cut thy vynes.

The corne that groweth by it selfe thou shalt not repe/ nether gether the grapes þ growe without thy dressynge: but it shalbe a Sabboth of rest vnto the land. Neuertheles the Sabboth of the lande shalbe meate for you: euen for the and thy seruaunte and for thy mayde and for thy hyred seruaunte & for the straunger that dwelleth with the: and for thy catell and for the beastes that are in thy lande/ shall all the encrease therof be meate. Then nombre seuē * weekes of yeres/ that is, seuen tymes seuē yere: and the space of the seuen weekes of yeres wyll be vnto þ xlix. yere. And then thou shalt make an horne blowe: euen in the tenth daye of the seuenth moneth/ which is þ daye of attonemēt. And then shall ye make the horne blowe/ euen thorowe out all youre land. And ye shall halowe the fyftieth yere/ & proclayme lyberty thorowe out the lande vnto all the inhabiters therof. It shalbe a yere of ᵇiubelie vnto you & ye shall returne: euery man vnto hys possession and euery man vnto hys kynred agayne. A yere of iubelye shall that fyftieth yere be vnto you. Ye shall not sowe nether repe the corne that groweth by it selfe/ nor gether the grapes that growe without thy labour. For it is a yere of iubelye and shalbe holy vnto you: how be it/ yet ye shall eate of the encrease of the felde. And in thys yere of iubelye ye shall returne/ euery mā vnto his possession agayne.

☞ Whē thou sellest ought vnto thy neyghboure or byest of thy neyghboures hande, ye shall not oppresse one another: but accordyng to the nombre of yeres after þ iubelye yere thou shalt bye of thy neyghboure/ and accordyng vnto the nombre of frute yeres, he shall sell vnto the. Accordynge vnto the multytude of yeres, thou shalt encrease the price therof and accordynge to the fewnesse of yeres thou shalt mynysh the price: for the nombre of frute he shall sell vnto the. And se that no man oppresse his neyghboure, but feare thy God. For I am the Lorde youre God. Wherfore do after myne ordinaūces and kepe my lawes and do them, that ye maye dwell in in the land in safetie. And the lōde shall geue ber frute/ and ye shall eate youre fille and dwell therin in safetie.

If ye shal saye, what shall we eate the seuenth yere in as moche as we shall not sowe nor gether in oure encrease. I wyll sende my blessynge vpon you in the syxte yere, and it shall bringe forth frute for thre yeres: and ye shall sowe the eyghte yere and eate of olde frute vntyll the.ix. yere, and euen vntyll her frute come, ye shall eate of old stoare. Wherfore the lande shall not be solde for euer/ because that the lande is myne/ & ye but straūgers and sojourners with me: and ye shall thorowe oute all the land of youre possessiō/ let the lande go home fre agayne.

* When thy brother is waxed poore and hath solde awaye of his possession: yf any of his kyn come to redeme it, he shall by out þ whiche his brother sold. And though he haue no man to redeme it for him/ yet yf hys hand can get sufficiēt to bye it oute agayne/ then let hym counte how longe it hath be solde/ and delyuer the rest vnto hym to whome he solde it/ & so he shall retourne vnto hys possession agayne. But an yf his hande can not gett sufficient to restore it to hym agayne/ then þ whiche is solde shall remayne in the hand of him that hath boughte it/ vntyll the iubelye: and in the yere of Jubelye it shall come out/ & he shall retourne vnto his possession agayne.

If a mā sell a dwellyng house in a walled cytie/ he maye bye it out agayne any tyme within a hole yere after it is solde: and that shalbe the space in which he maye redeme it agayn. But & yf it be not bought out agayn within the space of a full yere/ then þ house in the walled cittie shalbe stablished for euer vnto him that boughte it and to his successoures after him and shall not go out in the yere of iubelye. But the houses in vyllages which haue no walles rounde aboute them/ shalbe counted lyke vnto the feldes of the countre/ & maye be boughte out agayne at any season/ and shall go out fre in the yere of iubelye.

Notwithstandynge the cytics of the leuytes and the houses in the cyties of their possessions the leuytes maye redeme at all seasons. And yf a mā purchase ought of the Leuites: whether it be house or cytye þ they possesse the bargyne shall go out in the yere of iubelye for the houses of the cytes of the leuytes/ are their possessiōs amōge the chyldrē of Israel. ¶ Images are forbydden. Blessed are they that kepe those thynges that God bydeth and most cursed are they that kepe them not.

I Am the Lord youre God. Ye shall make you no idolles nor grauen ymage / nether reare you vp any pyller / nether ye shall sett vp any ymage of stone in youre land to bowe youre selues therto: for I am the Lorde youre God: kepe my Sabbothes & a feare my sanctury: for I am the Lorde. a. To feare the sanctuarie is / diligently to performe the true worshyppyng & seruyce of God to true of no thynge / to obserue and kepe the purenes. both of bodye & mynde / wherby & not ypocrytelike to beleue that he knoweth / whole heth / doeth & suffereth all thynges: to beware of offendynge hym and with all feare and dylygence to walke in the pathes of his lawes.

If ye shall walke in myne ordinaunces & kepe my cōmaundements & do them, then I will sende you rayne in the ryght season & youre lande shall yelde her encrease and the trees of the fe de shall geue their frute. And ȳ threshyng shall reach vnto wyne haruest, & the wyneharuest shall reach vnto sowyng tyme, and ye shall eate youre bread in plenteousnes / & shall dwell in youre lande peasably. And I wyll rydd euell beastes out of youre lande / and there shall no swerde goo thorowe out youre lande. And ye shall chace youre enemyes, & they shall fall before you vpon the swerde. And fyue of you shall chace an hundred, & an hundred of you shall put .x. thousande to flyghte / & youre enemyes shall fall before you vpon the swerde. And I wyll tourne vnto you and encrease you & multyplye you and sett vp my testament with you And ye shall eate olde stoare / and cast out ȳ olde for plenteousnes of the newe.* I wyll make my dwellynge place amonge you / and my soule shall not lothe you. face agenste you: ye shall fall before youre enemyes/ & they that hate you shall raigne ouer you/and ye shall flee when no man followeth you.

God begineth & augmenteth his plagis more and more as the people harden their hertes agenste him.

And yf ye wyll not yet for all this herken vnto me, then will I punish you seuē tymes more for youre synnes and wyll breake the pryde of youre strength. For I wyll make ỹ heauen ouer you as harde as yron, & youre lande as hard as brasse. And so youre laboure shalbe spent in vayne for youre land shall not geue her encrease/nether the trees of the lande shall geue their frutes.

And yf ye walke contrary vnto me and wyll not herken vnto me/I wyll bringe seuen tymes moo plages vpon you acordinge to youre synnes. I will sende in wilde beastes vpon you / which shall robbe you of youre chyldren and destroye youre catell / & make you so fewe in nombre ỹ youre hye wayes shall growe vnto a wyldernesse.

And yf ye wyll not be lerned yet for all this but shall walke cōtrarye vnto me/then wyll I also walke contrarye vnto you and wyll punysh you yet seuē tymes for youre synnes. I wyll sende a swerde vpō you, that shall auenge my testament with you. And when ye are fled vnto youre cytes / I wyll sende the pestilence amonge you ye shall be delyuered in to the hādes of youre enemyes. c. Seuen tymes: by that nombre vnderstande all tymes as in this Chapter c

b. To breake the staffe of their bread, is to breake the strength thereof and to myse bre so that they should not haue nowghe to lyue by.

And yf ye wyll not yet for all this herke̅ vnto me/but shall walke cōtrarye vnto me/ then I wyll walke contrarye vnto you also wrathfully and wyll also chastice you seuen tymes for youre synnes: so that ye shall eate the flesh of youre sonnes & the flesh of youre daughters. And I will destroye youre alters bylt vpon hye hylles/and ouerthrowe youre E ymages/ and cast youre carkasses vpon the bodyes of youre ydolles / and my soule shall abhorre you. And I wyll make youre cyties desolate, and bringe youre sanctuaries vnto nought/ and will not smell the sauoures of youre swete odoures.

And I wyll bringe the lande vnto a wyldernesse: so that youre enemyes which dwell therin shall wonder at it. And I will strawe you amōge the hethen / and wyll drawe out F a swerde after you / and youre lande shalbe waste / and youre cyties desolate. Then the lande shall reioyse in her Sabbothes / as longe as it lyeth voyde and ye in youre enemyes lande: euen then shall the lande kepe holye daye and reioyse in her Sabbothes. And as longe as it lyeth voyde it shall rest/ for that it coulde not reste in youre Sabbothes/ when ye dwelt therin.

And vpon them that are left alyue of you I wyll sende a fayntnesse in to their hertes in the land of their enemyes: so ỹ the sounde of a leef that falleth shall chace them & they shall flee as though they fled a swerde / and shall fall no man folowinge them. And they shall fall one vpō another/as it were before a swerde euen no man folowynge them/and ye shall haue no power to stāde before youre enemyes: And ye shall perysh amonge the hethen, and the land of youre enemyes shall eate you vp.

And they that are left of you / shall pyne awaye in their vnryghteousnes euē in their enemyes lande, and also in the mysdeades of their fathers shall they consume. And they shall confesse their mysdeades and the mysdeades of their fathers in their trespaces which they haue trespaced agaynst me & for ỹ also ỹ they haue walked cōtrary vnto me. Therfore I also wyll walke contrary vnto them, and wyll bringe them in to the lande of their enemyes. And then at the leest waye their vncircumcysed hertes shall be tamed/ and then they shall make an attonement for their mysdeades.

G

Mercy is neuer denyed vnto him that repenteth.

And I will remembre my bonde with Jacob and my testament wyth Isaac / and my testament with Abraham / and wyll thynke on the lande. For the lande shall be lefte of thē and shall haue pleasure in her Sabbothes/whyle she lyeth wast without them / & they shall make an attonemēt for their mysdeades/because they despysed my lawes and their soules refused myne ordinaunces. And yet for all that when they be in the lande of their enemye * I wyll not so cast thē awaye nor my soule shall not so abhorre them/that I wyll vtterlye destroye them and breake myne appoyntment with them: for I am the Lorde their God. I wyll therfore remembre vnto them the fyrst couenaunt made when I brought them out of the lande of Egypte in the syghte of the hethen to be their God: for I am the Lorde.

Of Nephtali. Among the chyldren of Nephthali: their generacyon, in their kynredes and houses of their fathers (when their names were tolde) from.xx. yeres and aboue / whatsoeuer was mete to warre: were nombred in the tribe of Nephthali thrye and fyftye thousand and viii.hundred.

These are the nombres which Moses and Aaron nombred wyth the.xii. princes of Israel: of euery house of their fathers a man. And all the nombres of the chyldren of Israel / in the houses of their fathers / from twentye yere and aboue / whatsoeuer was mete for the warre in Israel / drewe vnto the somme of fyue hundred and thre thousande / fyue hundred and fyftye. But the Leuites in the tribe of their fathers were not nombred amonge them.

And the Lord spake vnto Moses sayinge: only se that thou nombre not the tribe of Leui / nether take the somme of thē amonge the chyldren of Israel. But thou shalt appointe the leuites vnto the habitacīō of witnesse / and to all the apparell therof and vnto all that lōgeth therto. For they shall beare the tabernacle and all the ordinaūce therof / and they shall mynistre it and shall pytche their tentes rounde aboute it. And when the tabernacle goeth forth the leuites shall take it doune: and whē the tabernacle is pitched / they shall sett it vp: for yf any straūger come nere / he shall dye. And the chyldren of Israel shall pytch their tentes / euery man in his owne companye and euery mā by his awne standert throrow out all their hostes. But the leuites shall pytche rounde aboute the habitacyō of wytnesse / that there fall no wrath vpon the congregacion of the chyldrē of Israel & the leuites shall wayte vpon the habitacion of wytnesse. And the chyldren of Israel dyd accordynge to all that the Lord commaunded Moses.

¶ The order of the pytchyng of the tentes rounde about the tabernacle of wytnesse. The heades and cheke Lordes of the kynredes of Israel are named.

¶ The.ii. Chapter.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moses and Aaron sayinge: The chyldren of Israel shall pitch: euery man by his owne standert with the armes of their fathers houses / a waye from the presence of the tabernacle of wytnesse.

On the east syde the cōpanye of Juda / Isachar & Zabulon.

On the east syde toward the rysynge of the sonne / shall they of the standert of the hoste of Juda pytch wyth their armes: And Nahesson the sonne of Aminadab shalbe captayne ouer the sonnes of Juda. And his hoste and the nombre of them, lxxiii. thousande and.vi. hundred. And nexte vnto hym shall the tribe of Isachar pytche and Nathaneel the sonne of Suar captayne ouer the chyldrē of Isachar / his hoste and the nombre of them viii.thousande and.iiii.hundred.

And then the tribe of Zabulon: & Eliab the sonne of Helon, captayne ouer the chyldrē of Zabulon / and his hoste in the nombre of them.lvii.thousande & .vii.hundred. So that all all they that parteyne vnto the hoste of Juda / are an hundred thousande. lxxvi. thousande and .iiii .hundred in theyr tentpanyes: and these shall go in the forefront / when they journey.

On the southsyde the companye of Ruben / Simō & Gad.

And on the southsyde, the standert of the hoste of Ruben shall lye with their companyes & the captayne ouer the sonnes of Ruben / Elizur the sonne of Sedeur / and his hoste and the nombre of thē.xlvi.thousande / & .v.hundred. And fast by hym shall the tribe of Simeon pytche / and the capteyne ouer the sonnes of Simeon. Salumiel the sonne of Zuri Sadai / and his hoste and the nombre of them.lix. thousande and.iii. hundred. And the tribe of Gad also: And the captayne ouer the sonnes of Gad / Eliasaph the sonne of Deguel and his hoste and the nombre of them.xlv. thousande.vi. hundred and.l. So that all the nombre that pertayne vnto the hoste of Ruben / are an hundred thousande li.thousande.iiii.hundred and fyftye / wyth their companyes / & they shall be the seconde in the journey.

The lewytes with the tabernacle in the myddes.

And the tabernacle of wytnesse wyth the hoste of the leuites / shall go in the myddes of the hostes: as they lye in their tentes, euē so shall they procede in ỳ journey, euery mā in his quarter aboute the standertes.

On the west syde the cōpany of Ephraim Manasse and Benjamin.

On the westsyde, the standarte and the hoste of Ephraim shall lye with their companyes / And the captayne ouer the sonnes of Ephraim / Elisama the sonne of Ammihud: and his hoste & the nombre of them.xl.thousande and.v.hundred.

And fast by hym / the tribe of Manasse / and the captayne ouer the sonnes of Manasse / Gamaliel the soune of Peda Zur and his hoste ānd the nombre of them.xxxii. thousande and.ii.hundred. And the tribe of Ben Jamin also: and the captayne ouer the sonnes of Ben Jamin / Abidan the sonne of Gedeoni / and his hoste and the nombre of them.xxxv.thousande & .iiii. hundred. All the nōbre ỳ perteyned vnto ỳ hoste of Ephraim / were an hundred thousande.viii. thousande and an hundred in their hostes: & they shalbe the thryd in the iourneye.

On the northsyde the company of Dan / Asser and Nephthali.

And the standert & the hoste of Dan shall lye on the northsyde wyth their companyes: and the captayne ouer the chyldrē of Dan / Ahiezer

Ahiezer the sonne of Ammi Sadai: and his hoste & the numbre of thē. lxii. thousande & bij. hundred. And fast by hym shall the trybe of Aser pitche: & the captayne ouer ꝑ sonnes of Aser, Pagiel the sonne of Ocran: and hys hoste & the nombre of them, xli. thousande & vi hundred. And the tribe of Nephthali also & the captayne ouer the chyldren of Nephtali: Ahira the sonne of Enan: & his hoste and the numbre of thē. liij. thousande & .iiij. hundred. So that the hole numbre of all ꝑ pertayned vnto the hoste of Dan, was an hūdred thousande. lvij. thousande & .vi. hundred. And they shal be ꝑ last in ꝑ iourney wt their standerds.

These are the summes of the chyldrē of Israel in the houses of their fathers: euē all the nombres of the hostes wt their cōpanyes. vj. hundred thousande. iij. thousande. v. hundred & fyftye. And yet the Leuites were not nombred amōge the chyldrē of Israel, as ꝑ Lorde cōmaunded Moses. And ꝑ chyldrē of Israel dyd accordyng to all that the Lorde cōmaunded Moses, & so they pitched with their standerdes, & so they iourneyd euery man in hys kynred, and in the housholde of his father.

¶ The Leuites are not nombred to go to batell, but to mynistre to the holy place or sanctuary. They must also pitch their tentes next to the habytacyon.

¶ The .iij. Chapter.

These are the generacyons of Aarō & Moses, when the Lorde spake vnto Moses in mount Sinai, and these are the names of the sonnes of Aaron: Nadab the eldest sonne, & Abihu, Eleazar and Ithamar. These are the names of the sonnes of Aaron which were Preastes anoynted & their handes fylled to mynistre, but* Nadab & Abihu dyed before the Lorde, as they brought straunge fyre before the Lorde in the wyldernesse of Sinai, and had no chyldren. And Eleazar and Ithamar mynistred in the syght of Aaron their father.

*Leuit. x. a. Numer. xxvi. g.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moses saying: Bringe the tribe of Leui, and let them before Aaron the preast, & let thē serue hym & wayte vpon hym & vpō all the multitude, before the tabernacle of witnesse, to do the seruyce of ꝑ habitacyon. And they shall wayte vpon all the apparell of the tabernacle of witnesse, & vpon the chyldren of Israel to do the seruice of the habitacyō. And thou shalt geue the Leuites vnto Aaron & hys sonnes, for they are geuen vnto him of the chyldrē of Israel. And thou shalt appoynte Aaron & hys sonnes to wayte on their Preastes office: & ꝑ straūger that cometh nye, shall dye for it.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moses saying: ¶ Beholde* I haue takē the Leuites frō amōge the chyldrē of Israel for all the fyrstborne ꝑ openeth ꝑ matrice amōge the chyldrē of Israel, so ꝑ the Leuytes shalbe myne: because all the fyrstborne are myne: for ꝑ same daye that I smote all the fyrstborne in the lande of Egypte I halowed vnto me all ꝑ fyrstborne in Israel, both man and beast, & myne they shalbe: for I am the Lorde.

*Exod. xiii. a. Numer. viij. c.

a. Leuyte sometyme signifyeth only a mynyster or seruaunt as here and Esa. lxvi. g.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moses in the wyldernesse of Sinai saynge: Nombre the chyldren of Leui in the houses of their fathers & kynredes, all that are males frō a moneth olde & aboue. And Moses nombred thē at the worde of the Lorde, as he was commaunded. And these are the names of ꝑ chyldren of Leui: Gerson, Cahath and Merari. And these are ꝑ names of the chyldrē of Gerson in their kynredes: Libni & Semei. And the sonnes of Cahath in their kynredes were Amram, Jezehar, Hebron & Oziel. And the sonnes of Merari in their kynredes were Maheli and Musi. These are the kynredes of Leui in the houses of their fathers.

And of Gerson came ꝑ kynred of the Libnit. s and the Semeites which are the kynredes of the Gersonites. And ꝑ summe of thē (when all the males were tolde) from a moneth olde and aboue, were .vij. thousande and fyue hundred. And the kynredes of the Gersonites pitched behynde the habitacion west warde. And the captayne of the most auncīēt house amōge the Gersonites, was Eliasaph the sonne of Lael. And ꝑ office of the chyldrē of Gerson in the tabernacle of witnesse was to kepe the habitacyō & the tente with the couerynge therof & the hangynge of the doze of the tabernacle of wytnesse, and the hangynges of the courte, and the curtayne of the ooze of the courte: which courte went rounde about the dwellyng, and the alter, & the cozbes ꝑ pertayned vnto all the seruyce therof.

And of Cahath came the kynred of the Amramites and the kynred of the Jezeharites & of the Hebronites and of the Ozielites: and these are the kynredes of the Cahathites. And the nombre of all the males from a moneth olde and aboue, was .viij. thousande and sixe hūdred: which wayted on the holy place. And the kynred of the children of Cahath, pitched on the southside of the dwelling. And the captayne in the most auncyēt house of the kynredes of the Cahathites, was Elisaphan the sonne of Oziel, & their office was to kepe the arcke, the table, the candelstyck, & the alter, & the holy vessels to mynistre wt & the vayle wyth all that serued therto. And Eleazar the sonne of Aaron the preast, was captayne ouer all the captaynes of the Leuites, and had the ouersyght of them that wayted vpon the holy thynges.

¶ The Cahathites are allygned to the southyde.

And of Merari came the kynredes of the Maheli tes and of the Musites: and these are the kynredes of the Merarites. and the nombre of them(when all ꝑ maies frō a moneth olde & aboue was tolde) drewe vnto.vi. thousande & .ii hundred. And the captayne of the moſt auncient house amōge the kynredes of the Merarites/was Zuriel the sonne of Abihael which pitched on the north syde of ꝑ dwellyng. And ꝑ office of ꝑ sonnes of Merari was to kepe ꝑ bordes of the dwellyng & the barres, pylers with the sockettes therof, and all the instrumentes therof & all that serued therto: and the pylers of the courte rounde aboute & their sockettes with their pynnes & cordes. But on the forefrōt of the habitacyō & before ꝑ tabernacle of witnesse eastwarde/ shall Moses & Aaron & hys sonnes pytch & wayte on the sanctuary in the steade of the chyldren of Israel. And the straūger that cometh nye/ shall dye for it. And the hole summe of the Leuites which Moses & Aaron nombred, at the cōmaundemēt of ꝑ Lord throughout their kynredes, euen of all the maies of a moneth olde & aboue, was .xxii. thousande.

Moses & Aarō & their sonnes on the eastside.

And the Lorde sayde vnto Moses: Nombre all the fyrst borne ꝑ are males amōge ꝑ chyldrē of Israel, frō a moneth olde & aboue & take the nombre of their names. And thou shalt appointe the Leuites to me the Lorde/ for all the fyrstborne amonge the chyldren of Israel, & the catell of the Leuites for ꝑ fyrst borne of the chyldren of Israel. And Moses nombred as the Lorde cōmaunded hym/all ꝑ fyrstborne of ꝑ chyldrē of Israel. And all the fyrstborne males in the summe of names/ from a moneth olde & aboue/ were nombred .xxii.thousande.ii.hundred and.lxxiij.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moses saying: take the Leuites for all the fyrstborne of the chyldrē of Israel, & the catell of the Leuites for their catell: and the Leuites shalbe myne which am the Lorde. And for the redemynge of the two hundred and.lxxiij. which are moo then the Leuites in ꝑ fyrstborne of the chyldren of Israel, take.v.sycles of euery pece/ after* the sycle of the holy place. xx. geras the sycle. And geue the money wherwith ꝑ odde nombre of them is redemed vnto Aarō and his sonnes. And Moses toke the redempcyō money of the ouerplus that were moo then the Leuites, amōge the fyrstborne of the children of Israel: and it came to a thousande.iij. hundred & .lxv sycles/ of the holye sycle. And he gaue that redempcyon money vnto Aarō & his sonnes at the worde of the Lorde/ euen as the Lorde commaunded Moses.

AND the Lorde spake vnto Moses & Aaron, and bad them take the summe of the chyldren of Cahath from amōge the sonnes of Leui/ in their kynredes & houses of their fathers/ from .xxx. yere & aboue vntyll fyftye/ all that were able to warre/ for to do ꝑ worke in the tabernacle of witnesse. This shalbe the office of the chyldrē of Kahath in the tabernacle of witnesse which is moost holy. And when the hoste remoueth/ Aaron and hys sonnes shall come & take doune the bayle/ & couer ꝑ arcke of wytnesse there with/ & shall put theron a couerynge of tayns skynnes/ & shall spreade a cloth ꝑ is altogether of iacynct aboue all/ & put the staues therof in. And vpō the shewe table/ they shall spreade abrode a cloth of iacinct/ & put theron the dyshes/ spones/ flat peces and pottes to poure wyth/ & the dayly bread shalbe theron: & they shall spreade vpō them a couerynge of purple/ and couer the same with a couerynge of tayns skynnes/ & put the staues therof in.

And they shall take a cloth of iacinct & couer the candelstycke of lyght & her lampes & and her snoffers, & fyre pānes/ & all her oyle vessels which they occuppe aboute it/ & shall put vpon her and on all her instrumentes/ a couerynge of tayns skynnes/ & put it vpon staues. And vpon the golden alter they shall spreade a cloth of iacynct/ and put on her staues. And they shall take all the thinges which they occuppe to mynistre with in ꝑ holy place/ & put a cloth of iacynct vpō them and couer them with a couerynge of tayns skynnes and put them on staues. And they shall take awaye the asshes out of the alter, and spreade a scarlet cloth theron: and put aboute it/ the fyre pannes/ the flesh hokes/ the shouels, the basens & all that belongeth vnto the alter/ and they shall spreade vpon it a couerynge of tayns skynnes/ & put on the staues of it. And whē Aaron & his sonnes haue made an ende of couerynge the sanctuary & all the thinges of the sanctuarye/ agenst that the hoste remoue/ then the sonnes of Cahath shall come in for to beare/ & so let them not touche ꝑ sanctuary least they dye. And this is ꝑ charge of the sonnes of Cahath in the tabernacle of witnesse. And Eleazar the sonne of Aaron the preast, shall haue the charge to prepare oyle for the lightes and swete cens/ & the dayly meat offrynge & the anoyntinge oyle/ and the ouersyght of all the dwellynge and of all that therin is/ both ouer the sanctuary and of all that pertayneth therto.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moses & Aaron sayenge: destroye not ꝑ trybe of the kynredes of the Cahathites/ from amonge the Leuites. But thus do vnto them that they may lyue and not dye / when they go vnto the moost holy place. Aaron and hys sonnes shall go in and put thē euery man vnto hys seruyce and vnto his burthen. But let them not go in to se when they couer the sanctuarye, lest they dye.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moses sayenge Take the summe of the children of Gerson / in the houses of their fathers & in their kynredes: from .xxx. yere and aboue / vntyll .l. all that are able to goo forth in warre / for to do seruyce in the tabernacle of witnesse. And this is ꝑ seruyce of the kynred of the Gersonites / to serue & to beare. They shall beare ꝑ curtaynes of the dwellyng & ꝑ rouffe of the tabernacle of witnesse and his couerynge & ꝑ couerynge of taxus skynnes that is an hye aboue vpon it / and the hangynge of the doore of the tabernacle of witnesse: & the hangyng of the courte and the hangynge of the gate of the courte that is rounde about the dwellynge & the altare / and the cordes of thē / & all the instrumentes that serue vnto them & all that is made for them. And at the mouth of Aaron and his sonnes / shall all ꝑ seruyce of the children of the Gersonites be done / in all their charges and in all their seruyce / and ye shall appoynte them vnto all theyr charges that they shall wayte vpon. And this is the seruyce of the kynred of the children of the Gersonites in the tabernacle of witnesse / & their wayte shalbe in the hande of Ithamar the sonne of Aaron the preast.

And thou shalt nombre the sonnes of Merari in their kynredes & in ꝑ houses of their fathers / from .xxx. yeres and aboue vnto .l. All that is able to go forth in warre / to do the seruyce of the tabernacle of witnesse. And this is the charge that they must wayte vppon in all that they must serue in the tabernacle of witnesse: The bordes of the dwellynge / & the barres / pylers / & sokettes therof and the pylers of the courte rounde aboute / and their sokettes / pynnes & cordes with all that pertayneth and serueth vnto them. And by name ye shal reken the thynges that they must wayte vpō to beare. This is ꝑ seruyce of the kynredes of ꝑ sonnes of Merari in all theyr seruyce in ꝑ tabernacle of witnesse vnder ꝑ hād of Ithamar ꝑ sonne of Aarō the preast.

And Moses and Aaron and the princes of the multitude nombred the sonnes of the Cahathites in their kynredes and houses of theyr fathers / from .xxx. yere and aboue vnto fyfty / all that were able to go forth in the hoste and to do seruyce in the tabernacle of witnesse. And the nombre of thē in theyr kynredes were two thousande / seuen hundred and .l. These are the nombres of the kynredes of ꝑ Cahathites / of al that dyd seruyce in the tabernacle of witnesse / whych Moses and Aaron dyd nombre at the commaundement of the Lorde by the hande of Moses.

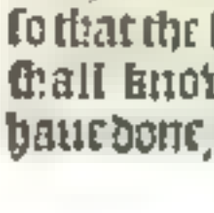
And the sonnes of Gerson were nombred in theyr kynredes and in the houses of theyr fathers / frō .xxx. yere vp vnto fyfty / all that were able to go forth in the hoste for to do seruyce in the tabernacle of witnesse. And ꝑ nombre of them in theyr kynredes / & in the houses of theyr fathers / was two thousand fyue hundred and .xxx. This is the nombre of the kynredes of the sonnes of Gerson / of all that dyd seruice in the tabernacle of witnesse / which Moses and Aaron dyd nombre at the commaundement of the Lorde.

And the kynredes of the sonnes of Merari were nombred in theyr kynredes and in ꝑ houses of theyr fathers / from .xxx. yere vp vnto fyfty: all that were able to go forth wyth the hoste / to do seruice in ꝑ tabernacle of witnesse. And the nombre of them was in theyr kynredes thre thousande and two hundred. This is the nombre of the kynredes of the sonnes of Merari / whiche Moses and Aaron nombred at the byddynge of the Lorde / by the hande of Moses.

The whole summe which Moses / Aaron and the lordes of Israell nombred amonge the Leuites in their kynredes & housholdes of their fathers / from .xxx. yere vp vnto .l. euery man to do his office and seruyce and to beare his burthē in the tabernacle of witnesse: was .viij. thousande / fyue hundred and .lxxx. which they nombred at the commaundement of the Lorde by the hande of Moses euery man vnto his seruyce and burthen: as the Lorde commaunded Moses.

¶ Who they be that ought to be cast out of the hoste. The knowlegynge of synne. The cleansyng of synne done of ignorance. The lawe of the fyrst frutes / & of gelousye.

¶ The fyfte Chapter.



And the Lorde spake vnto Moses sayinge: commaunde the chyldren of Israel that they put out of the hoste / all the lepers & all that haue yssues and all that are defyled vpon the deed / whether they be males or females ye shall put thē out of ꝑ hoste / that they defyle not ꝑ tentes amōge whych ye dwell. And ꝑ children of Israel dyd so / & put them out of the hoste euen as the Lorde commaunded Moses / so dyd the children of Israel.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moses sayenge: speake vnto ꝑ children of Israel: whether it be man or woman when they haue synned any maner of synne which e mā doeth where with a man* trespaseth agenst the Lorde / so that the soule hath done amysse: then they shall knowledge their synnes whyche they haue done, and restore agayne the hurte that must the hurt be restored and the fyfth parte moare thereto; If the prieste remayned not to whom the restitucyon was due ner any of his kynsfull heares then must it be the prieastes wages whiche at that tyme had no nother lyuelode.

they haue done in the hole / and put the fyfte parte of it moare thereto / and geue it vnto him whom he hath trespased agenste. But and yf he that maketh the amendes haue no mā to do it to then the amendes that is made shalbe the Lordes and the Preastes / beside the ram of the attonement offeryng wherwith he maketh an attonement for him selfe. 18 And all heue offeryngs of all the halowed thinges which the chyldren of Israel bryng vnto the prieste shalbe the prieastes & euery mans halowed thynges shalbe hys awne / but what soeuer any man geueth the priest / it shalbe the preastes.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moses sayēg: Speake vnto the chyldren of Israell / and saye vnto them. If any mās wyfe goo a syde and trespase agaynst hym / so that another man lye with her fleshely and the thynge be hyd from the eyes of her husbande and is not come to lighte that she is defyled (for ther is no wytnesse agenst her) in as moche as she was not taken with the maner, and the spyrite of b gelousye cometh apon him and he is gelouse ouer his wyfe and she defyled / or happely the spyrit of gelousye cometh vpō him and he is gelouse ouer his wife and she yet vndefyled. Then let her husband bryng her vnto the prieste and bryng an offeryng for her: the tenthe parte of an Ephia of barlye meele, but shall poure none oyle thereonto, nor put frankencens theron: for it is an offeryng of gelousye, and an offeryng that maketh remembraunce of synne.

And let the preast bryng her and sett her before the Lorde ādresse him take holy water in an erthen vessell & of the dust that is in the floore of the habytacyon and put it in to the water And the preast shall set ỹ wyfe before the Lorde and vncouer her head, and put the memoryall of the offeryng in her handes whiche is the gelousye offeryng, & ỹ preast shall haue bytter and curlynge water in his hande and he shall conture her and shall saye vnto her. If no man haue lyen with the nether haste gone aside / and defyled thy selfe be lynde thy husbande / then haue thou no harme of this bytter curlynge water.

But and yf thou hast gone aside behynde thyne husbande and art defyled & some other man hath lyē with the beside thyne husbāde (and let the preaste conture her with the conturacyon of the curse and saye vnto her) the Lorde make the a curse and a coniuracyon amonge thy people: so that the Lorde make thy thye rotte and thy belly swell & this bitter curlynge water goo in to the bowels of the / that thy belly swell and thy thye rotte, and the wyfe shall saye: Amen Amen.

And the preast shall wrytte this curse in a byll and washe it out in the bytter water. And when the curlynge watter is in her that it is bytter, then let the preast take the gelousyofferynge out of the wyfes hande / & waue it before the Lorde, and bryng it vnto the alter: and he shall take an handefull of the memoryall offeryng and burne it apon the alter and then make her drynke the water and when he hath made her drynke the water If she be defyled and haue trespased agenst her husband / then shall the curlynge water goo in to her & be so bitter that her bely shall swell and her thye shall rotte, and she shalbe a curse amonge her people. And yf she be not defyled but is cleane / then she shall haue no harme / but that she maye conceaue.

This is the lawe of gelousye / when a wyfe goeth a syde behynde hyr husbande and is defyled / or when the spirite of gelousye cometh apon a mā / so that he is gelouse ouer his wife then he shall bryng her before the Lorde / and the preast shall ministre all this lawe vnto her / and the man shalbe giltlesse / and the wyfe shall beare her synne.

¶ The lawe of them that take vppon them abstynence & the maner of blessyng the people.

¶ The vi. Chapter.

AND the Lorde spake vnto Moses sayenge: speake vnto the chyldren of Israel and saye vnto them: when ether man or womā appoynteth to a bowe a bowe of abstinēce for to abstayne vnto the Lorde he shall abstayne frō wyne and stroge drynke and shall drynke no vynagre of wyne or of stroge drynke, nor shall drynke what soeuer is pressed out of grapes: & shall eate no fresh grapes nether yet dryed as lōge as his abstinence endureth. ¶ Forcouer he shal eate nothyng that is made of ỹ vyne tre no not so moch as the cornels or the huske of the grape.

And as longe as the bowe of his abstinēce endureth / there shall no rasure nor sheres come apon his heed / vntill his dayes be out which he fasteth vnto the Lorde / and he shalbe holy and shall let the lockes of his hayre growe As lōg as he abstaynyth vnto ỹ Lord he shall come at no dead bodye: he shall not make him selfe vncleane at the death of his father mother brother or syster: for the b abstynence of hys God is vpon hys head. And therfore as longe as his abstynence lasteth / he shalbe holy vnto the Lorde.

And yf it fortune that any man by chaunce dye sodenly before him, and defile the heed of his abstinence then must he shaue his heed the daye of his clēsynge: euen the seuēth daye he shall shaue it. And the eyght daye he shall bryng .ii. turtels or .ii. yōge pigeons to the preast, vnto the dore of the tabernacle of witnesse.

And when Moses was gone in to the tabernacle of witnesse to speke with him / he harde ꝑ voyce of one speakinge vnto him frō of the mercyseate that was vpon the arcke of witnesse: euen from betwene the two cherubyns he spake vnto him.

¶ The disposicion and ordre of the lampes. The forme of the candelstyck. The cleansyng and offryng of the Leuytes. The age of the same.

¶ The.viij. Chapter.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moses saying: speake vnto Aaron & saye vnto him: * when thou puttest on ꝑ lampes se that they lighte all seuē vpon the forefront of the candelsticke. And Aaron dyd euen so / and put the lampes vpon the forefront of the candelsticke / as ꝑ Lorde commaunded Moses / and the worke of the candelsticke was of fyne golde: both the shaft & the floures therof. And accordynge vnto the vi|pon whiche the Lorde had shewed Moses euen so he made the candelsticke.

And ꝑ Lorde spake vnto Moses sayenge:

take the Leuites from amonge the chyldren of Israel / and cleanse them. And this do vnto them when thou cleansest thē / sprynckle water of purifyenge vpon them and make a rasure to runne alonge vpon all the fleshe of them / and let them washe theyr clothes / and then they shall be cleane. And let them take a bullocke and his meatofferynge / fyne floure myngled with oyle: & another bullocke shalt thou take to be a synneofferynge.

Then bryng the Leuites before the tabernacle of witnesse and gether the hole multitude of the chyldren of Israel together. And bringe the Leuites before the Lorde, and let the chyldren of Israel put their handes vpon ꝑ Leuites. And let Aaron heue the Leuites before the Lorde for an heueofferynge geuen of ꝑ chyldren of Israel / & then let thē be appointed to wayte vpon ꝑ seruyce of ꝑ Lorde

And let the Leuytes put theyr handes vpō the heedes of the bullockes / & then offer thē: the one for a synneofferynge and the other for a burntofferyng vnto the Lorde, to make an attonemēt for the Leuites. And make the Leuites stande before Aaron and hys sonnes / & heue them to be an heueofferynge vnto ꝑ Lorde. And thou shalt separate the Leuites from amonge ꝑ chyldren of Israel, that they be myne: and after that let them go and do the seruice of the tabernacle of witnesse.

Cleanse them & waue thē / for they are geuen vnto me from amonge the chyldren of Israel for * I haue taken them vnto me for all the fyrst borne that open any matryce amonge the chyldren of Israel.

* For all the fyrstborne among the chyldren of Israel are myne both man & beest: because the same tyme that I smote the fyrstborne in the lande of Egypte / I sanctyfyde them for my selfe: and I haue taken the Leuites for all the fyrstborne amonge ꝑ chyldren of Israel / and haue geuen them vnto Aaron and his sonnes from amonge the chyldren of Israel to do the seruyce of the chyldren of Israel in the tabernacle of witnesse and to make an attonement for the chyldren of Israel / that there be no plage amonge the chyldren of Israel / yf they come nye vnto the sanctuary.

* Exod. xxix. a.

And Moses and Aaron and all the congregacyon of the chyldren of Israel dyd vnto the Leuytes accordynge vnto all that the Lorde commaunded Moses. And the Leuites purifyed them selues and washed their clothes. And Aaron waued them before the Lorde, and made an attonement for them to cleanse them. And after ꝑ they went in to do theyr seruyce in the tabernacle of wytnesse / before Aarō & his sonnes. And accordynge as the Lorde had cōmaunded Moses as concernynge ꝑ Leuites, euen so they dyd vnto thē.

And

And the Lorde spake vnto Moses sayēg:
Nume.iij.c. this shalbe the maner of the Leuites: from xxv. yere vpwarde they shall go in to wayte vpon ꝑ seruyce in the tabernacle of witnesse/ & at fyftye they shall ceasse waytyng vpon ꝑ seruyce therof / and shall laboure no moare: but shall minystre vnto their brethren in the tabernacle of witnesse, and there wayte / but shall do no moare seruyce. And se that thou do after this maner vnto the Leuites in their waytynge tymes.

* Or gyde.

And they departed from the mount of the Lozde iii. dayes iourney, & ꝑ arcke of ꝑ testament of ꝑ Lozde went before thẽ in the iii. dayes iourney to serche out a restynge place for thẽ. And ꝑ cloude of ꝑ Lozde was ouer thẽ by daye, when they went out of the tentes.

And when ꝑ arcke wẽt forth Moses sayde Ryse vp Lozde & let thyne enemyes be scattered & let thẽ that hate the flee before the. And whẽ ꝑ arcke rested he sayde returne Lozde vnto the many thousandes of Israel.

¶ The people murmureth & is punnyshed with fyre. They desyre flesshe. They loothe mãna. The murmuryng and wauerynge fayth of Moses. The Lozde vpladeth the burden of Moses to seuentye of the auncyentes / and they prophesye. Eldad and Medad do also prophesye in the hoste. It rayneth quayles. The fleshly lauerers are punnyshed.

¶ The.xi. Chapter.

And the people * complayned and it displeased the eares of the Lozde. And when ꝑ Lozde herde it ye was wroth / and the fyre of the Lozde burnt amonge them and consumed the vttermost of the hoste. And the people cried vnto Moses / and he made intercession vnto the Lozde & the fyre quẽched. And they called the name of the place * Thaberah because the fyre of the Lozde burnt amonge them.

The Manna was as it had bene coziander seed / and to se to lyke Bedellion. And the people went aboute and gathered it / & grynde it in milles or bett it in mozters and baked it in pannes and made kakes of it. And the taste of it was lyke vnto the taste of an oyle kake. And when the dewe fell aboute ꝑ hoste in the nyght / the Manna fell therwith.

And when Moses herde the people wepe in their housholdes euery man in the doze of his tent / then the wzath of the Lozde waxed

And Moses sayde vnto the Lorde: wherfore dealest thou so cruelly with thy seruaunte? wherfore do I not fynde fauoure in thy syght seynge that thou puttest the weyght of this people vpon me? haue I conceaued all this people / or haue I begotte them / that thou shuldest saye vnto me / carye them in thy bosome (as a nurse beareth ỹ suckynge childe) vnto the lande which thou sware vnto their fathers? where shulde I haue flesh to geue vnto all this people? for they wepe vnto me sayenge: geue vs flesh that we maye eate. I am not able to bere all this people alone / for it is to heuy for me. Wherfore yf thou deale thus with me / kyll me / I praye ỹ / yf I haue founde fauoure in thi syght and let me not se my wretchednesse.

And the Lorde sayde vnto Moses: gether vnto me .lxx. of ỹ elders of Israel, which thou knowest ỹ they are the elders of the people and officers ouer them / & bringe them vnto the tabernacle of witnesse and let thẽ stande there with the. And I wyll [b] come doune and talke wt the there, & [a] take of ỹ spirite which is vpon the and put apon the and apon them and they shall bere with the in the burthen of the people, & so shalt thou not beare alone.

And saye vnto ỹ people: halowe youre selues against to morow that ye maye eate flesh for ye haue whyned in the eares of the Lorde sayenge: who shall geue vs flesh to eate / for we were happie when we were in Egypte? therfore ỹ Lorde will geue you flesh / and ye shall eate: Ye shall not eate one daye only ether .ij. or .v. dayes / ether .x. or .xx. dayes: but euen a moneth longe, & vntill it come out at ỹ [*] nostrels of you / ỹ ye be ready to parbrake: because that ye haue cast ỹ Lorde a syde which is amonge you / and haue wepte before him sayenge: why came we out of Egipte.

* Or, mouthes

And Moses sayde: sixe hundred thousande fotemen are there of ỹ people / amõge which I am. And thou hast sayde: I will geue them flesh & they shall eate a moneth longe. Shall ỹ shepes the oxẽ be slayne for thẽ to fynde thẽ ether shall all the fysh of the see be gethered together to serue them? And the Lorde sayde vnto Moses: is ỹ Lordes hãde waxed shorte? Thou shalt se whether my worde [*] shall come to passe vnto the or not.

* After the greke is the shalbe: Some of what value it shalbe

And Moses went out and tolde ỹ people the sayenge of the Lorde / and gethered the lxx. elders of the people / and set them roundе aboute the tabernacle. And the Lorde came doune in a cloude & spake vnto him / & toke of the spryte that was vpon him / and put it vpon the .lxx. elders. And as the spirite rested vpon them / they [c] prophecied & [*] did nought els. But there remayned .ij. of the men in the hoste: the one called Eldad, & ỹ other Medad. And the spirite rested vpon thẽ for they were of them that were written, but they went not out vnto the tabernacle. and they prophecied in the hoste.

c. To prophecye is other to

And there ran a younge man & tolde Moses and sayed: Eldad & Medad do prophecye in the hoste. And Josua the sonne of Nun the seruaũte of Moses which he had chosen out answered and sayed: master Moses, forbyd them. And Moses sayed vnto him: enuyest thou for my sake? wolde God ỹ all the Lordes people couldе prophecye / & ỹ the Lorde wolde put his spirite vpon them. And then both Moses and the elders of Israel, gat thẽ in to the hoste.

And there went forth a wynde frõ ỹ Lorde and brought quayles from the see and let thẽ fall aboute the hoste / euen a dayes iourney rounde aboute on euery syde of the hoste and .ij. cubites hye vpon the erth. And the people stode vp all that daye & all that nyghte and on the morowe / & gethered quayles. And he that gethered the lest, gethered .x. homers full. And they kylled them rounde aboute the hoste.

And whyle the flesh was yet betwene their teeth / yer it was chewed vp, the wrath of the Lorde waxed whott vpon the people, and the Lorde slewe of ỹ people an exceading myghtie slaughter. And they called the name of the place [*] Kibroth hathauah: because they buryed the people that lusted there.

* That is the graues of lust.

And the people toke their iourney frõ Kibroth hathauah vnto Hazeroth / and bode at Hazeroth.

¶ Aaron and Mir Jam grudge agaynst Moses. Miriam was stricken with the leper and healed at the prayer of Moses.

¶ The .xii. Chapter.

And Mir Jam & Aaron spake agẽst Moses because of his wife of Ynde which he had taken: for he had takẽ to wife one of Ynde. And they sayde doth the Lorde speake only thorow Moses? doth he not speake also by vs? And the Lorde herde it. But Moses was a very meke man aboue all the men of the erthe. And ỹ Lorde spake attonce vnto Moses vnto Aaron and Mir Jam: come out ye .iij. vnto ỹ tabernacle of witnesse: and they came out all thre.

And the Lorde [*] came doune in the piler of the cloude and stode in the dore of the tabernacle & called Aaron & Mir Jam. And they went out both of them. And he sayede heare my wordes If there be a prophet of ỹ Lordes amonge you / I will shewe my selfe vnto him in a visiõ & will speake vnto him in a dreame But my seruaunte Moses is not so / which is

And the Lorde was angrye with the and went his waye and the cloude departed frō of the tabernacle. And beholde / Myriam was become leprous, as it were snowe. And when Aaron loked vpon Miriam and sawe that she was lepprous / he sayde vnto Moses: Oh I beseche the my Lorde put not the synne vpon vs which we haue foolishly committed and synned. Oh / let her not be as one that came dead oute of his mothers wombe: for halfe her flesshe is eaten awaye.

And Moses cryed vnto the Lorde saying: Oh God, heale her. And the Lorde sayde vnto Moses: If her father had b spitte in her face / shulde she not be ashamed. vii. dayes / let her be shutte out of the hoste vii. dayes / and after that let her be receaued in agayne. And Miriam was shutt out of the hoste. vii. dayes and the people remoued not / tyll she was brought in agayne. And afterwarde they remoued from Hazeroth / and pitched in the wildernesse of Pharan.

b. To spytte in her face is to pumysshe her & cause her to be ever after The Lorde is a father & pumysheth his chyldren not to dame them but to correcte them / & to driue them to earnest repentaunce. After. vii. dayes was she receaued agayne in to the hoste so after repentaunce had must we be receaued in to the congregacion.

Certen are send to searche the land of Canaan: which bryng with the a clouster of grapes for a signe of fertylytye and frutefulnes.

The. xiii. Chapter.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moses saying: * Sende men out to serche the lande of Canaan, whyche I geue vnto the chyldrē of Israel: of euery tryde of their fathers a man & let the all be soche as are rulers amonge them. And Moses at the commaundemēt of the Lorde sent forth out of the wildernesse of Pharan: soche men as were all heades amonge the chyldren of Israel, whose names are these.

In the tryde of Ruben / Sammua the sonne of Zacur: In the tryde of Symeon / Saphat the sonne of Hori. In the tryde of Iuda Caleph the sonne of Iephune. In the tryde of Isachar / Igeal the sonne of Ioseph. In the tryde of Ephraim / Hosea the sonne of Nun. In the tryde of Ben Iamin / Palthi the sonne of Raphu. In the tryde of Zabulon / Gadiel the sonne of Sodi. In the tryde of Ioseph: that was of Manasse / Gaddi the sonne of Suli. In the tryde of Dan / Amiel the sonne of Gemali. In the tryde of Aser Sethur the sonne of Micheel. In the tryde of Nephthali Nahebi the sonne of Maphli. In the tryde of Gad / Guel the sonne of Machi. These are the names of the men whiche Moses sent to spye out the lande. And Moses called the name of * Hosea the sonne of Nun, Iosua.

a. Hosea or Osee signifieth saluyng or sauyour. Iosua or Iehosua signifyeth the saluacion of the Lorde

And Moses sent them forth to spie out the lande of Canaan / & sayde vnto the: gett you southwarde & go vp into the hye countrey. & se the lande what maner thynge it is & the people that dwelleth therin: whether they be stronge or weake / ether fewe or many / and what the lande is that they dwell in whether it be good or bad / & what maner of cities they dwell in whether they dwell in tentes or walled townes / & what maner of lande it is: whether it be fatt or leane / and whether there be trees therin or not. And be of a good courage / and bryng of the frutes of the lande. And it was aboute the tyme that grapes are fyrst rype.

And they wēt vp & searched out the lande from the wyldernesse of Zin vnto Rehob / as men go to Hemath / & they ascended vnto the south & came vnto Hebron / where Ahiman was & Sesai and Thalmai the sonnes of * Enacke. Hebron was bylt. vii. yere before * Zoan in Egipte. And they came vnto the ryuer of Escol & they cutt doune there a braunch with one clouster of grapes & bare it vpō a staffe betwene twayne / and also of the pomgranates and of the fygges of the place. The ryuer was called b Nahel Escol, because of the clouster of grapes whiche the chyldren of Israel cutt doune there.

And they turned backe agayne frō searchinge the lande, at. xl. dayes ende. And they went and came to Moses and Aaron & vnto all the multitude of the chyldren of Israel / vnto the wildernesse of Pharan: euen vnto Cades / and brought them worde and also vnto all the congregacyon / and shewed them the frute of the lande. And they tolde hym saying: we came vnto the lande whether thou sendest vs / and surely it is a lande that flowith with mylke and honye & here is of the frute of it. Neuertheles the people that dwell in the lande / and the cytyes are walled and exceadynge grate / and moreouer, we sawe the chyldren of Enack there. c. Flowith with mylcke & honye that is full of good pasture betwene beis / catell lyngs / trees pleasaunt woodes so that vnder brik there was not a more chosen peace of grounde for abundance and plentousnes.

And Caleb stylled the murmur of the people agenst Moses saynge: let vs go vp and conquere it / for we be able to ouercome it. But the men that went vp with him / sayde: We be not able to go vp agēst the people / for they are stronger then we: And they brought vp an euel reporte of the lāde which they had serched, vnto the chyldren of Israel, saynge: The lande whyche we haue gone thorowe to serche it out is a lande that d eateth vp the inhabiters therof, and the people that we sawe in it are men of stature. And there we sawe also geauntes, the chyldren of Enack which are of the geauntes. And we

AND all the multitude cryed out / & the people wepte thorow out that nyght, & all the children of Israel murmured agenst Moses & Aarõ And the whole congregacion sayde vnto thẽ: Wolde God that we had dyed in the land of Egipte, other we wolde that we had dyed in this wildernesse. Wherfore hath the Lorde brought vs vnto this lande to fall vpon the swerde / that oure wyues / & also oure children shulde be a praye: is it not better & we retourne vnto Egipte agayne? And they sayde one to another: let vs make a captayne and retourne vnto Egipte agayne.

And Moses and Aaron fell on their faces before all the congregacion of the multitude B of the childrẽ of Israel. And Josua the sonne of Nun / & Caleb & sonne of Jephune which were of them that serched the lande rent their a. And Moses sayde vnto the Lorde: then & Egiptiãs shall heare it / for thou broughtest this people with thy myght from amonge them. And it wilbe tolde to the inhabiters of this lande also for they haue herde likewise / that thou the Lorde art amõge this people / and that thou art sene face to face, and & thy cloude standeth ouer them & that thou goest before thẽ by daye tyme in a pyller of a cloude and in a pyller of fyre by nyght. If thou shalt kill all this people as they were but one man then the nacions which haue herde the fame of the, will speake sayinge: because & Lorde was not able to bringe in thys people in to the lande which he sware vnto thẽ / therfore he slewe them in the wyldernesse.

So now let the power of my Lorde be greate / acordyng as thou hast spokẽ sayng: the Lorde is longe yer he be angry / and full of mercy / and suffereth synne and trespace / and leaueth no man innocent / and visiteth & vnryghteousnesse of the fathers vpon the chyldren / euẽ vpon the thirde and fourth generaciõ / be mercyfull I beseche the therfore D vnto the synne of this people acordynge vnto thy greate mercy / and accordinge as thou hast forgeuen this people from Egipte euen vnto this place.

And the Lorde sayde: I haue forgeuẽ it / accordynge to thy request. But as truly as I lyue, all the erth shalbe fylled with my glorye. For of all those mẽ which haue sene my glorye & my myracles which I dyd in Egipte & in the wildernesse / & yet haue tẽpted me now this .x. tymes & haue not herkened vnto my voyce, there shal not one se & land which I sware vnto their fathers, nether shall any of thẽ that rayled vpon me, se it. But my seruaunt Caleb: because there is another maner spirite with him / and because he hath followed me vnto the vtmost: him I will bringe into the lande which he hathe walked in / and his seed shall conquere it / and also the Amalechites and Cananites whiche dwell in the lowe contres. ses / with other of the chyldren of Israel. ij.
hundzed and fyftie / heedes of the congrega-cion / and councelers / and men of fame / and they gathered them selues together agenst Moses and Aaron and sayed vnto them: ye haue done ynough. Foz all the multitude are holy euery one of them & the Lozde is amon gethẽ. Why therfoze heue ye oure selues vp aboue the congregacyon of the Lozde.

When Moses hearde it / he fell vpon his face and spake vnto Cozah and vnto all his companye sayenge: to mozow the Lozde will shewe who is his and who is holy / and wyll take them vnto hym / and whom so euer he hath chosen / he will cause to come to him.
This do: take fyzepannes / thou Cozah and all thy companye / and do fyze therin & put cens therto before the Lozde to mozowe.
And then whõ soeuer the Lozde doth chose / the same is holy. Ye make ynough to do ye chyldren of Leui.

And Moses sayed vnto Cozah: heare ye childrẽ of Leui Semeth it but a small thyn- 25 ge vnto you / that the God of Israel hath separated you from the multitude of Israel to bzynge you to hym / to do the seruyce of the dwellynge place of the Lozde / and to stande before the people to mynystre vnto them? he hath taken the to him and all thy bzethzen & sonnes of Leui with the / & ye seke the office of the pzeast also. Foz which cause both thou and all thy companye are gathered together agenst the Lozde: foz what is Aaron / that ye shulde murmure agenst him.

And Moses sent to call Dathan & Abi-ram the sonnes of Eliab / and they answered we will not come. Semeth it a small thynge vnto the that thou hast bzoughte vs out of a lande that floweth with mylke and honye / to kyll vs in ỹ wildernesse. But that thou shuldest raygne ouer vs also? Moze ouer thou hast bzoughte vs vnto no lande that floweth with mylke and honye / nether hast geuen vs possessions of feldes oz of vynes. Ether wilt thou pull out the eyes of these men? we wyll not come.

And Moses waxed very angrye and sayed vnto ỹ Lozde: Turne not vnto their offerynges. I haue not taken so moch as an asse C from them / nether haue hered any of them.
Then Moses sayed vnto Cozah: Be thou & all thy cõpanye before the Lozde: both thou they and Aaron to mozowe. And take euery man his censer and put cens in them / and come before the Lozde euery man with hys cẽser: two hundzed and fyftie censers / and Aaron with his censer. And they toke euery man his censer and put fyze in them & layed cens theron / and stode in the doze of the tabernacle

tabernacle of witnesse / and Moses and Aaron also. And Corah gethered all the congregacyon agenst them vnto the doze of the tabernacle of wytnesse.

And the glozye of the Lozde apered vnto all the congregacyon. And the Lozde spake vnto Moses and Aaron sayenge: seperate youre selues from this congregacion / that I maye consume thē atonce. And they fell vpō theyr faces & sayed * O most myghtie God of the spirites of all flesh, one man hath synned and wilt thou be wroth with all the multitude? And the Lozde spake vnto Moses sayenge. speake vnto the congregacion and saye: Gett you awaye from aboute the dwelynge of Corah / Dathan and Abiram. And Moses rose vp and went vnto Dathan and Abiram / & the elders of Israel folowed him. And he spake vnto the congregacyō sayenge departe from the tentes of these wicked men & touche nothinge of theires: lest ye perysshe in all their synnes. And they gate them frō the dwellynge of Corah / Dathan and Abirā on euery syde. And Dathan & Abiram came out and stode in the doze of their tentes with their wyues / their sonnes & their chyldren.

And Moses sayed: Herevby ye shal knowe that the Lozde hath sent me to do all these wozkes, & that I haue not done thē of myne awne mynde: If these men dye & conten deth of all men oz yf they be * visyted after the visytacyon of all men / then the Lozde hath not sent me. But and yf the Lozde make a newe thinge and the erth open hir mouthe & swalowe them and all that pertayne vnto them / so that they go doune a quycke in to hel: then ye shall vnderstand that these men haue rayled vpon the Lozde.

And as sone as he had made an ende of speakyng al these wozdes / the grounde cloue a sonder that was vnder them / and the erth opened her mouthe and swalowed them and their houses and all the men that were with Corah and all theyr goodes. And they and all that pertayned vnto them / went doune alyue vnto hell / and the erthe closed vpon them / and they perysshed from amonge the congregacyon. And all Israel that were aboute thē fledde at the crye of them. For they sayed: The erthe myghte hapelye swalowe vs also.

And there came oute a fyre from the Lozde and consumed the two hundred & fyftye men that offred cens.

And the Lozde spake vnto Moses sayēge: Speake vnto Eleazar the sonne of Aaron the preaste and let him take vp the censers oute of the burnynge & skatter the fyre here and there, for the b censers of these synners are halowed in theyr deathes: and let them be be beaten in to thyn plates and fastened vpō the altare. For they offred them before the Lozde, and therfore they are holye and they shalbe a sygne vnto the chyldren of Israel.

And Eleazar the preast toke the brasen censers which they that were burnt had offered / & beat them and fastened thē vppon the altare / to be a remēbraunce vnto the chyldrē of Israel / that no straunger which is not of the seed of Aaron / come nere to offer cens before the Lozde / that he be not made lyke vnto Corah and his companye: as the Lozde sayed vnto him by the hande of Moses.

And on the morowe all the multitude of the chyldren of Israell murmured agenste Moses and Aaron sayenge: ye haue kylled the people of the Lozde. And when the multitude was gethered agenste Moses & Aarō they loked towarde the tabernacle of witnesse. And beholde / the cloude had couered it and the glozye of the Lozde appeared. And Moses & Aaron went before the tabernacle of witnesse. And the Lozde spake vnto Moses sayenge: Gett you from this congregacyon / that I maye consume them quycklye. And they fell vpon theyr faces.

And Moses sayde vnto Aarō: take a censer and put fyre therin out of the alter / and poure on cens / & go quyckly vnto the cōgregacyon and make an attonement for them. For there is wrath gone out from the Lozde and there is a plage begone. And Aaron toke as Moses commaunded him / and ran vnto the congregacyon: & beholde / the plage was begonne amonge the people / and he put on cens & made an attonement for the people. And he c stode betwene the deed, and thē that were alyue and the plage ceased. And the nombre of them that dyed in the plage were xiiii. thousande and seuē hundred: beside thē that dyed about the busynes of Corah. And Aaron went agayne vnto Moses vnto the doze off the tabernacle of witnesse / and the plage ceased.

¶ Aarons rodde budeth and beareth blossomes.

¶ The. xvij. Chapter.

And the Lozde spake vnto Moses sayenge: speake vnto the chyldren of Israel and take of thē / for euery prynceppall house a rod, of theyr prynces ouer the houses of theyr fathers: euen. xii. roddes / & wryte euery mans name vpon his rod. And wryte Aarons name vpon the staffe of Leui: for euery heedman ouer the houses of their fathers shall haue a rod. And put them in the tabernacle of witnesse where I wyll mete you. And his rod whom I chose / shall blossome: So I wyll make cease from me the grudgynges of the chyldrē of Israel wherby they grudge agenst you.

And se that ye serue/for I haue geuen youre preasties office vnto you for a gifte to do seruyce: and the straunger that cometh nye/ shall dye.

* Vnderstande ye take not heade that it be not touched.

And the Lorde spake vnto Aaron: beholde I haue geuen the the kepynge of myne heue offerynges in all the holowed thynges of the chyldren of Israel. And vnto the I haue geuē them vnto anoyntynge and to thy sonnes: to be a dutye for euer. This shall be thyne of moste holy sacrifyces. All their giftes/thorow out al their meatofferynges synneofferynges and trespassofferynges whiche they bringe vnto me. They shalbe most holy vnto the & vnto thy sonnes. And ye shal eate it in ỹ most holye place: all that are males shall eate of it for it shalbe holye vnto the.

And this shalbe thyne: the heueoffrynges of their gyftes/thorow out all the waueoffrynges of the chyldren of Israel / for I haue geuē thē vnto ỹ & thy sonnes/ & thy daughters with the to be a dutye for euer: and all that are cleane in thy house, shall eate of it, all the fatt of the oyle/of the wyne and of the corne: their fyrst frutes which they geue vnto the Lorde that haue I geuen vnto the. The fyrst frutes of all that is in their landes whych they bringe vnto the Lorde / shalbe thyne: and all that are cleane in thyne house / shall eate of it.

All dedicate thinges in Israel/ shalbe thyne. All that breaketh the matrice of all flesh that men bringe vnto the Lorde/bothe of mā and beast/shalbe thyne. And the Lorde spake vnto Aaron: thou shalt haue none enheritaunce in their lande nor parte amonge them. For I am thy parte and thy enheritaunce among the chyldren of Israel. And beholde I haue geuen the chyldrē of Leui/the tenth in Israel to enheryte / for the seruyce which they serue in the tabernacle of witnesse / that the chyldren of Israel henceforth come not nye the tabernacle of witnesse / and beare synne and dye. And the Leuites shall do the seruyce in ỹ tabernacle of witnesse and beare theyr synne / & it shalbe

a lawe for euer vnto youre chyldren after D you: But amonge the chyldren of Israel they shall enheret none enheritaunce. For the tithes of the chyldren of Israel whyche they heue vnto the Lorde / I haue geuen the Le-uites to enherct. Wherfore I haue sayed vnto them: Amonge the chyldren of Israell ye shall enherett none enheritaunce.

And ꝑ Lorde spake vnto Moses sayenge:
speake vnto the Leuites and saye vnto thē:
when ye take of the chyldren of Israel the tithes whiche I haue geuē you of thē to youre enheritaunce / ye shall take an heueoffrynge of that same for the Lorde: euen the tenth of that tythe. And it shalbe rekened vnto you for youre heueofferynge / euen as though ye gaue corne out of ꝑ barne or a fulloffrynge from the wyne presse.
And of this maner ye shall heue an heueoffe-rynge vnto the Lorde / of all youre tithes which ye receaue of the chyldren of Israell / and ye shall geue thereof the Lordes heueofferynge vnto Aaron the preast. Of all youre gyftes / ye shall take out the Lordes heue of-ferynge: euen the fatt of all they? halowed thynges.

And thou shalt saye vnto them: when ye haue take awaye the fatt of it frō it / it shalbe counted vnto the Leuites / as the encrease of corne and wyne. And ye shall eate it in all places both ye and youre housholdes / for it is youre rewarde for youre seruyce in the tabernacle of witnesse. And ye shall beare no synne by the reason of it / when ye haue take from it the fatt of it: nether shall ye vnhalo-we the halowed thynges of the chyldren of Israel / and so shall ye not dye.

¶ Of the redde kowe. The lawe of him that dyeth in the tabernacle: and of hym also that toucheth any vncleane thyng.

¶ The.xix. Chapter.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moses & Aaron sayenge: this is the ordyna-unce of the lawe which the Lorde cōmaundeth sayenge: speake vnto the chyldren of Israel and let them take the a redd kowe with out spot wherin is no blemyshand which neuer bare yocke vpon her And ye shal geue her vntō Eleazar the preast and he shall bringe her with out the hoste & cause her to be slayne before him.

And Eleazar the preast shall take of her bloude vpō his synger / & sprynkle it streyght towarde ꝑ tabernacle of witnesse. vii. tymes.
And he shall cause the kowe to be burnt in his syghte: both skyn / flesh and bloude / with the doūge also. And let the preast take Cedar wodd / and Isope and purple cloth / and cast it vpon the kowe as she burneth. And let the preast wash hys clothes and bathe his flesh in water / and then come in to the hoste / and the preast shalbe vncleane vnto the euen.

And he that burneth her shall wash his B clothes in water & bathe his flesh also in water & be vncleane vntill euen. And one that is cleane shall go and take vpp the asshes of the kowe and put them without the hoste in a cleane place / where they shall be kepte to make sprynklynge water for the multitude of ꝑ chyldren of Israel: for it is a synofferynge And let him that gathered the asshes of the kowe wash his clothes & remayne vncleane vntyll euen. And thys shalbe vnto the chyldren of Israel and vnto the straunger that dwelleth amonge them a maner[a] for euer.

He that toucheth any deed persone shalbe vncleane. vii. dayes. And he shal purifye him selfe with the asshes the thyrde daye and then he shalbe cleane the seuenth daye. And yf he purifye not him selfe the thyrde daye, then ꝑ seuenth daye he shall not be cleane. Whoso-who soeuer toucheth one that is slayne with a swerde in the feldes / or a deed persone, or a bone of a deed man, or a graue: shall be vncleane. vii. dayes.

And they shal take for an vncleane perso-ne of the burnt asshes of the synofferynge & put runnynge water therto in to a vessell.
And a cleane persone shal take Isope & dippe
it in the water and sprynkle it vpon ꝑ tent & vpon all the vessels & on the soules that were there / and vpon him that touched a bone or a slayne persone or a deed body or a graue. And the cleane persone shall sprynkle vpō the vncleane the thyrde daye and the seuenth daye.
And ꝑ seuenth daye he shall purifye him selfe

¶ Mir Jam dyeth. The people murmur. They haue water enough out of the rocke. Edom denyeth the Jsraelites passage thorow his reaulme. The death of Aaron in whose roume Eleazar succedeth.

¶ The.xx. Chapter.

AND the whole multitude of ỹ chyldren of Jsrael/ came in to the desert of Sin in the first moneth/ & ỹ people dwelt at Cades. And there dyed Mir Jam/ and was buried there. Wore ouer there was no water for the multitude/ wherfore they gathered thẽ selues together against Moses & agẽst Aarõ. And the people chode wt Moses & spake sayenge: wold God that we had perysched whẽ oure brethren perysched before ỹ Lord. Why haue ye brought the congregacõ of the Lorde vnto this wildernesse ỹ both we & oure catell shulde dye here? Wherfore brought ye vs out of Egipte to bringe vs in to this vngracious place/ which is no place of seed nor of figges nor vynes nor of pomgranates / neither is there any water to drynke?

And Moses & Aaron went frõ the congregacõ vnto the dore of the tabernacle of witnesse/ & fell vpon theyr faces. And the glorye of the Lorde appered vnto thẽ. And ỹ Lorde spake vnto Moses sayenge: take ỹ staffe/ & gether thou & thy brother Aarõ ỹ congregacõ together/ & saye vnto ỹ rocke before their eyes/ that he geue forth his water. And thou shalt bringe thẽ water out of ỹ rocke & shalt geue ỹ cõpany drynke/ and their beasts also.

And Moses toke the staffe frõ before the Lorde/ as he commaunded him. And Moses and Aaron gethered the congregacion together before the rocke/ and he sayed vnto them heare ye rebellyons/ must we fett you water out of this rocke? And Moses lifte vp his hãde with his staffe and smote the rocke. ij. tymes. and the water came out abundantly & the multitude drancke and their beestes also

And the Lorde spake vnto Moses & Aaron: because ye beleued me not to [a] sanctifye me in the eyes of the chyldren of Jsrael/ therfore ye shall not bringe this congregacion in to the lande which I haue geuen them.

This is the water of stryfe / because the chyldren of Jsraell stroue with the Lorde/ & he was sanctifyed vpon them.

And Moses sent messengers from Cades vnto the kynge of Edom. Thus sayeth thy brother Jsrael: Thou knowest all the trauell ỹ hath happened vs. how oure fathers went doune in to Egipte / and how we haue dwelt in Egipte a longe tyme / and how the Egiptians vexed bothe vs and oure fathers. Then we cryed vnto the Lorde and he herde oure voyces, and sent an angell & hath fett vs out of Egypte. And beholde, we are in Cades a citie harde by the borders of thy coũtre let vs go a good felowshipe thorow thy coũtre * we wyll not go thorow the feldes nor thorow ỹ vyneyardes / nether wyll we drynke of the water of the fountaynes/ but we wyll go by the hye waye and nether turne vnto ỹ ryghte hãde nor to ỹ lefte/ vntil we be past thy countre. And Edom answered him: Se thou come not by me / lest I come out agenst the with the swerde. And the chyldren of Jsrael sayed vnto him: we will go by the beaten waye: and yf ether we or oure catell drynke of thy water/ we will paye for it/ we wyll do no moare but passe thorow by fote only. And he sayed: ye shall not go thorow. And Edom came out agenst hym with moche people and with a myghtie power. And thus Edom denyed to geue Jsrael passage thorow his coũtre. And Jsraell turned a waye from him.

Numer.xxi.c.

And the chyldren of Jsrael remoued from Cades and went vnto mount Hor with all ỹ congregacyon. And the Lorde spake vnto Moses and Aaron in mount Hor harde bỹ the costes of the lande of Edom sayenge: let Aaron be put vnto his people / for he shall not come in to the lande which I haue geuen vnto the chyldren of Jsrael: because ye disobeied my mouth at ỹ water of stryfe. Take Aaron and Eleazar his sonne, and bringe them vp in to mount Hor and stryppe Aarõ out of his vestimentes and put them vpon Eleazar his sonne/ and let Aaron be put vnto his people and dye there.

And Moses dyd as the Lorde commaunded: and they went vp in to mount Hor in the syghte of all the multitude. And Moses toke off Aarons clothes and put them vpon Eleazar his sonne. & Aaron dyed there in ỹ toppe of the mount. And Moses and Eleazar came doune out of the mount. And all the house of Jsrael mourned for Aaron xxx. dayes.

¶ Jsrael vanquesheth kyng Arad. The fyerye serpentes stynge them: but when they loke at the brasen serpent which the Lorde commaunded Moses to lyft vp/ they are healed. The kynges/ Sehon and Og are ouercome in bateil.

¶ The.xxi. Chapter.

AND when kynge Arad the canamite which dwelt in the south partyes/ harde tell that Jsrael came by the waye that the spies had foũde out he came & foughte with Jsrael & toke some of them prisoners. Then Jsrael vowed a vowe vnto the Lorde and sayed: If thou wilt geue this people in to oure handes, we wyll destroye theyr cyties. And the Lorde herde the voyce of Jsraell, and deliuered them the Cananites. And they destroyed both them & theyr cyties, and called the place Horma.

Then

a. To sanctifye here is / to shewe and declare to be holy/ as in Mach. vi. b

BThen they departed from mount Hor toward the redd see: to cõpasse the land of Edõ. And the soules of the people saynted by the waye. And the people spake agenst God and agenst Moses: wherfore hast thou brought vs out of Egypte / for to dye in the wyldernesse for here is nether bread nor water, and oure soules lotheth this * lyghte bread.

* Or that is so lyeth worth.

¶ The plage of serpentes

Then the Lord sent fyerie serpẽtes amõge the people, which stonge them: so that moch people dyed in Israel. And the people came to Moses and sayed: we haue synned, for we haue spoken agenst the Lorde and agenst ỹ ¶ make intercession to the Lorde, that he take awaye the serpẽts frõ vs. And Moses made intercession for the people. And the Lorde sayde vnto Moses: make the a serpent and hange it vp for a sygne / and lett as many as are bytten loke vpon it and they shall lyue. And Moses made a serpent of brasse & set it vp for a sygne. And when the serpentes had bytte any man / he went and beheilde the serpent of brasse and recouered.

And the chyldren of Israel remoued and pitched in Oboth. And they departed from Oboth and laye at Egebarim in the wyldernesse which is before Moab on the east syde And they remoued thence / and pitched vpon the ryuer of Zarad. And they departed thence and pitched on the other syde of Arnõ, which ryuer is in the wyldernesse / and cometh out of the costes of the Amorites: for Arnon is ỹ border of Moab, betwene Moab & ỹ Amorites. Wherfore it is spoken in the * boke of D the warre of the Lorde: goo with a vyolence / both on the ryuer of Arnõ and on the ryuers heed, whiche shoteth doune to dwell at Ar, & leaneth vpon the costes of Moab.

* Some thinck it to be the boke of iudges.

And frõ thence they came to Beer, whiche is the well wherof the Lord spake vnto Moses: gether the people together / that I maye geue them water. Then Israel sange this songe: Aryse vp well / synge therto: The well wyche the rulers dygged and the captaynes of the people wt the helpe of the lawegeuer and with their staues.

¶ And from this wyldernesse they went to Matana, and from Matana to Nahaliel / & from Nahaliel to Bamoth / & from Bamoth to the valay that is in the felde of Moab in ỹ toppe of* Phasgah which boweth toward * Jesimon. And Israel sent messengers vnto Sehon, kyng of the Amorites saying: let vs go thorow thy lande: we will not tourne in to thy feldes nor in to thy vyneyardes / nether drynke of the water of the welles: but we will go alonge by the cõmen waye vntill we be past thy coũtre. And Sehõ wolde geue Israel no licence to passe thorow hys coũtre / but gethered all his people together & went out agenst Israel in to the wyldernesse. And he came to Jaheza and foughte with Israel.

And Israel smote him with the edge of the swerde & conquered his lande / from Arnon vnto Jabock: euẽ vnto the childrẽ of Ammõ. For the borders of the chyldren of Ammon / are stroũge. And Israel toke all these cytyes & dwelt in all the cytyes of the Amorites: in Hesbon & in all the townes ỹ longe therto. For Hesbon was ỹ citie of Sehon the kyng of the Amorites which Sehon had fought before with the kynge of the Moabites, and had takẽ all his lande out of his hande / euẽ vnto Arnon. Wherfore it is a prouerbe / go to Hesbon & lett the cytie of Sehon be bylt & made readie for there is a fyre gone out of Hesbon & a flame from the citie of Sehon & hath consumed Ar of the Moabites and the men of ỹ hylles of Arnõ. Wo be to ỹ Moab: o people of* Chamos ye are vndone. His G sonnes are put to flyght and his daughters brought captyue vnto Sehon kynge of the Amorites. Their kyngdõ is out from Hesbon vnto Dibon and we made a wyldernesse euẽ vnto Nopha whiche reacheth vnto Medeba. And thus Israel dwelt in ỹ land of the Amorites. And Moses sent to serche oute Jaezer / & they toke the townes belongynge therto & conquered the Amorites that were there.

* Chamos is the name of a certen image.

And then they tourned & went vp toward Basan. And Og the kynge of Basan came out agenst them / both he and all his people / to warre at Edrei. And the Lorde sayde vnto Moses: feare hym not, for I haue delyuered him in to thy hãdes with all hys people & his lãde. And thou shalt do vnto him as thou dydest vnto Sehon the kynge of the Amorites which dwelt at Hesbon. And they smote him & hys sonnes and all his people / vntyll there was nothynge left him. And they conquered hys lande and the chyldrẽ of Israel remoued and pytched in the feldes of Moab / on the other syde of Jordane, by Jericho.

¶ Kyng Balac sendeth for Balam / to thyntent that he shuld curse Israel: but Balam can do nothynge agaynst the wyll of the Lorde Balams asse speaketh to him in the waye.

¶ The .xxij. Chapter.

AND Balac ỹ sonne of Ziphor sawe all ỹ Israel had done to the Amorites / and the Moabites were sore afrayed of the people, because they were many / and abhorred the chyldren of Israel: And Moab sayde vnto the elders of Madian / now shall this companye lycke vp all that are rounde aboute vs / as an ox lycketh vp the grasse of the felde. And Balac the sonne of Ziphor was kynge of the Moa- B bites at that tyme.

* Deut.xxiij.a And he sent messangers vnto * Balam the sonne of Beor/ the interpreter whiche dwelt vpon the ryuer of the lande of the childzen of his folke/ to call him sayinge: beholde/ there is a people come out of Egypte which coue-reth the face of the erthe and lyeth euē harde by me. Come nowe a felloshippe and curse me this people. For they are to myghtie for me/ so peraduēture I might be able to smyte them & to dryue them oute of the lande. For I wote þ whome thou blessest shalbe blessed, and whome thou cursest shalbe cursed.

And the elders of Moab went wyth the elders of Madiā/ & the rewarde of the sothe sayinge in their handes. And they came vn-to Balam and tolde him the wordes of Ba-lac. And he sayde vnto thē/ tary here all nighe and I wyll bringe you worde / euen as the Lorde shall saye vnto me. And the lordes of Moab abode with Balam.

¶ And God came vnto Balam & sayd: what men are these which are with the? And Balā sayde vnto god: Balac the sonne of Ziphor kynge of Moab hath sent vnto me sayinge: beholde/ there is a people come out of Egypt and couereth the face of the erthe: come now therfore and curse me thē/ that so peradue-ture I maye be able to ouercome thē in ba-tell, & to dryue thē out. And God sayde vnto Balā: thou shalt not go wt thē / nether curse the people, for they are blessed.

And Balam rose vp in the morynge and sayde vnto the lordes of Balac: get you vnto youre lande, for the Lord wyll not suffre me to go with you. And the lordes of Moab rose vp & went vnto Balac and sayd. Balā wolde not come with vs. And Balac sent agayne a greatter cōpanye of lordes & more honora-ble then they. And they came to Balam and tolde him: ¶ Thus sayeth Balac the sonne of Ziphor: oh/ let nothynge let the to come vn-to me/ for I wyll greatly promote the vnto great honoure, and will do whatsoeuer thou sayest vnto me / come therfore I praye the/ curse me this people.

* Num.xxiij.c D And Balam answered and sayde vnto þ seruātes of Balac. * If Balac wolde geue me his housfull of siluer and golde, I can go no further then the worde of the Lorde my God/ to do lesse or moare. Neuertheles tarie ye here all nyghte: that I maye wete / what the Lorde wyll saye vnto me once moare. And God came vnto Balam by nyghte and sayde vnto him: If the men come to fett the/ ryse vp and go with them: but what I saye vnto the, that onlye thou shalt do.

And Balam rose vp early and sadelde hys asse and went with the lordes of Moab. But God was angrye because he went. And the angell of the Lord stode in the waye agenste him. And he ryd vpō his asse & two seruātes with him. And when the asse sawe the angell of the Lorde stande in the waye & his swerde drawen in his hand, she turned a syde oute of the waye & went out in to the felde. And Ba-lam smote þ asse / to turne her in to þ waye. ¶

And the angell of the Lorde went & stode in a path betwene þ vineyardes, where was a wall on the one syde & another on þ other. When the asse sawe the angell of the Lorde/ she wrenched vnto the walle and thrust Ba-lams fote vnto the wall / and he smote her agayn. And þ angel of the Lord wēt forther and stode in a narowe place / where was no waye to tourne / ether to the ryght hande or to the lyfte. And when the asse sawe þ angell of the Lorde/ she fell downe vnder Balam: & Balam was wrath and smote the asse with a staffe. And the Lorde opened the mouthe of the asse/ & she sayed vnto Balam: what haue I done vnto the/ þ thou smytest me thus .iij. tymes? And Balam sayde vnto the Asse: be-cause thou hast mocked me? I wolde that I had a swerde in myne hande / that I myghte now kyll the. And the asse sayd vnto Balam: am not I thyne Asse whiche thou hast rydden vpon sence thou wast borne vnto this daye? Was I euer wont to do so vnto the? And he sayde, nay. ¶

And the Lorde opened the eyes of Balam þ he sawe the angell of the Lorde standinge in the waye, with his swerde drawen in hys hande. And he bowed him selfe & fell flat on his face. And the angell of the Lorde sayde vnto him: Wherfore smytest thou thyne asse thus .iij. tymes? behold I came oute to resyst the, for the waye is contrary vnto me / & the asse sawe me and auoyded me thre tymes: or else (had she not turned fro me) I had surely slayne the and saued her alyue. And Balam sayde vnto the angell of the Lorde: I haue synned: for I wist not that thou stodest in the waye agēst me. Now therfore yf it displease thyne eyes, I wyll turne agayne. And þ an-gell sayd vnto Balam/ go with the men: but in any wyse/ what I saye vnto the / þ saye. And Balam went with the lordes of Balac.

And when Balac herde that Balam was come he went out agenst him vnto a cytie of Moab þ stode in þ border of Arnō / whiche was the vtmost parte of hys countre. And Balac sayd vnto Balam: dyd I not sende for the/ to call the? wherfore camest thou not vn-to me? thinkest thou þ I am not able to pro-mote þ vnto honoure? And Balā sayd vnto Balac: Loo I am come vnto the. But I can saye nothyng at all saue what God putteth in my mouthe that must I speake. And Ba-lam went with Balac & they came vnto the *large cytie. And Balac offered orē & shepe/ and

AND on the morynge Balac toke Balam and brought hym vp into the hye place of Baal, and thence he sawe vnto the vtmost parte of the people. And Balam sayde vnto Balac: bylde me here seuē alters & prouide here seuē bullockes and seuē rammes. And Balac dyd as Balam sayde. And Balac and Balam offered on euery alter a bullock and a ram. And Balam sayde vnto Balac: stande by the sacrifyce/whyle I goo to wete whether the Lorde wyll come & mete me / & whatsoeuer he sheweth me/I will tell the/& he wēt forth with. And God came vnto Balā/ and Balā sayde vnto hym: I haue prepared.vij. alters/ & haue offered vpon euery alter / a bullock and a ram. And the Lorde put a sayinge in Balams mouth and sayde: go agayn to Balac & saye on this wyse. And he went agayne vnto hym and loo, he stode by hys sacrifyce/ both he and all the lordes of Moab. And he began his parable & sayde: Balac the kynge of Moab hath fett me frō Mesopotamia Kahath begate Amram, and Amrams wyfe was called Jochebed a daughter of Leui / which was borne him in Egypte. And she bare vnto Amram / Aaron Moses & Mir Jam their syster. And vnto Aarō were borne Nadab, Abihu Eleazar & Ithamar. But Nadab & Abihu dyed / as they offered straunge fyre before ꝑ Lord. And the nombre of thē was .xxiij. thousand / of all the males from a moneth olde & aboue For they were not nombred amōge the childzen of Israel, because there was no enheritaunce geuen them amonge the childzen of Israel. These are the nombres of the childrē of Israel which Moses & Eleazar the preast nombred in the feldes of Moab / fast by Jozdane nye to Jericho. And amonge these there was not a man of the nombre of the childrē of Israel which Moses and Aaron tolde in the wyldernesse of Sinai. For the Lord sayd vnto thē / that they shulde dye in the wyldernesse and that there shulde not be lefte a mā of them: saue Caleb the sonne of Jephune & Josua the sonne of Nun.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moses saying: geue the chyldrē of Israel a charge & saye vnto them / ☞ they take heade to offer vnto the offeryng of my *bread in the sacrifyce of swete sauoure / in his due season. And saye vnto thē. This is the offeryng which ye shall offer vnto ☞ Lorde. ij. lambes of a yeare olde with out spot daye by daye to be a burntofferyng perpetually. One lambe thou shalt offer in the morninge / & the other at euen / And therto the tenth parte of an Epha of floure for a meatofferynge myngled with beat en oyle / the fourth parte of an hin: which is a dayly offe-rynge ordened in the mount Sinai vnto a swete sauoure in the sacrifyce of the Lorde.
And the drynkofferynge of the same: ☞ fourth parte of an hin vnto one lambe / & poure the drynkofferynge in the holy place / to be good drynke vnto the Lorde. And the other lambe thou shalt offer at euen / with the meatofferynge & the drynkofferynge after the maner of the morninge: a sacrifyce of a swete sauoure vnto the Lorde. And on the Sabboth bodye / or any other thyng as it is sayd Leui. xxvii.

If a damsell bowe a bowe vnto the Lord and bynde her selfe beynge in her fathers house and vnmaryed. If her father heare her bowe & bonde wherwith she hath made vpon her soule / & holde his peace therto: then all her bowes & bondes which she hath made vpon her soule shall stande in effecte. But & yf her father forbyd her the same daye & he heareth it / none of her bowes nor bondes wherwith she hath made vpon her soule shalbe of value / & the Lorde shall forgeue her / because her father forbade her.

If she had an husband when she bowed or pronounced ought out of her lyppes wherwith she bonde her soule / and her husbande hearde it & helde his peace there at the same daye he heard it: Then her bowes and her bondes wherwith she bounde her soule / shal stande in effecte. But & yf her husbande forbade her the same daye that he heard it, then hath he made her bowe which she had vpon her of none effecte / & that also which she pronounced w̄ her lyppes wherwith she bounde her soule / & the Lorde shall forgeue her.

The bowe of a wedowe and of her that is deuorced / & all that they haue bounde their soules with all / shall stande in effecte w̄ thē.

If she bowed in her husbandes house or bounde her soule with an oth / & her husband hearde it and helde his peace and forbade her not: then all her bowes & boundes wherwith she bound her soule / shall stande. But yf her husbāde disanulled them the same daye that he heard them / then nothyng & proceded out of her lyppes in bowes & bondes wherwith she bounde her soule shall stande in effecte: for her husbande hath loused them. And the Lorde shall forgeue her.

All bowes & othes that bynde to humble the soule / maye her husbande stablysh or breake. But yf her husband holde hys peace frō one daye vnto another / then he stablisheth all her bowes & bondes which she had vpon her / because he helde his peace the same daye & he heard thē. And yf he afterwarde breake them / he shall beare her synne himselfe.

These are the ordynaunces whych the Lorde commaunded Moses / betwene a mā and hys wyfe / and betwene the father & hys daughter / beynge a damsell in her fathers house.

And as soone as all the men of warre were D

begynne to sende the feare and dreade of the vpon all nacions that are vnder all poztes of heauen: so that when they heare speake of the they shall tremble & quake for feare of the.

Then I sent messengers out of the wylder-nesse of the easte vnto Sehon kynge of Hes-bon, wt wordes of peace sayinge: *Let me go thorow thy lande. I will go al wayes alonge by the hye waye & will neither turne vnto the righte hande nor to the left. Sell me meate for money for to eate / & geue me drynke for money for to drynke. I will go thorowe by fote only (as the chyldren of Esau dyd vnto me which dwell in Seir and the Moabites which dwell in Ar) vntyll I be come ouer Jordan / in to the lande which the Lorde oure God geueth vs.

But Sehon the kynge of Hesbon wolde not let vs passe by him for ỹ Lorde thy God had hardened his spirite and made his herte tough because he wold delyuer him in to thy handes as it is come to passe this daye.

And the Lorde sayde vnto me: beholde I haue begonne to set Sehon & his lande* be-fore the: go to & conquere ỹ thou mayst pos-sesse his lande. Then both Sehon and all his people came out agēst vs vnto battell at* Ja-haza. And the Lorde set him before vs & we smote hym and his sonnes & all hys people.

And we toke al his cities the same season and destroyed all the cities with men / wemē and chyldren & let nothinge remayne / saue ỹ catell only we caught vnto oure selues & the spoyle of the cities which we toke, frō Aroer vpon the brynke of the ryuer of Arnon / and the citie in the ryuer, vnto Galaad: there was not one citye to stronge for vs. The Lorde oure God delyuered all vnto vs: only vnto ỹ lande of the chyldren of Ammon ye came not nor vnto all the coste of ỹ riuer Jabock nor vnto ỹ cities in ỹ moūtaynes / nor vnto what soeuer the Lorde oure God forbade vs.

Then we turned & wēt vp the waye to Basan.* And Og ỹ king of Ba-san came out agenst vs: bothe he & all his people to battel at Edrai. And the Lorde sayde vnto me: feare him not for I haue deliuered him & al hys people & his land in to thy hand & thou shalt deale wt him as thou dealedst wt Sehon kynge of ỹ Amo-rites which dwelt at Hesbon. And so ỹ Lorde oure God delyuered in to oure handes / Og also the kinge of Basan & al his folcke. And we smote him vntyll noughte was left him.

And we toke all his cities the same season (for there was not a citie which we toke not frō them) euen .lx. fore cities / al the regiō of Argob the kyngdome of Og in Basan. All these cities were made stronge wt hye walles gates & barres besyde * vnwalled townes a greate meanye. And we vtterly destroyed thē as we played with Sehon kynge of Hesbon bringing to nought al ỹ cities wt men / wemē and chyldren. But all the catell & the spoyle of the cities, we caught for oure selues.

And thus we toke ỹ same season / ỹ lande out of ỹ hande of two kynges of ỹ Amorites on the other syde Jordan / from the ryuer of Arnon vnto mout Hermon (which Hermō ỹ Sidons call Sirion / but the Amorites call it Senyr) al ỹ cities in ỹ playne & al Galaad & all Basan vnto Salecha & Edrai / cities of the kyngdome of Og in Basan. For only Og kynge of Basan remayned of the remnaūt of ỹ geauntes: behold, his yrō bed is yet at Ra-bah amonge the chyldrē of Ammō. ix. cubi-tes longe & .iiij. cubites brode / of ỹ cubites of a mā. And when we had conquered this lāde the same tyme, I gaue from Aroer which is vpon the riuer of Arnō / & halfe moūt Galad & the cities therof vnto the Rubenites / & Ga-dites. And the rest of Galaad & all Basan the kingdome of Og / I gaue vnto ỹ halfe tribe of Manasse: all the region of Argob with al / Basan was called ỹ lande of geauntes. Jair ỹ sonne of Manasse toke al ỹ regiō of Argob vnto ỹ costes of Gesuri & Maachati & called them after his owne name: Basan* Hauoth Jair vnto this daye. And I gaue halfe Galaad vnto Machir. And vnto Ruben & Gad I gaue frō Galaad vnto the ryuer of Arnon & halfe the valey & the coste / euē vnto the ryuer Ja-bock which is the border of the chyldren of Ammon / and the feldes and Jordan with the coste / from Cenereth euē vnto the see in the felde which is ỹ salt see vnder ỹ* springes of Phasgah eastwarde.

And I cōmaunded you the same tyme (ye Ruben & Gad) saying: the Lorde your God hath geuen you this lande to enioye it: se that ye go harnessed before your brethren ỹ chil-dren of Israel all ỹ are men of warre amōge you. And I warned Josua ỹ same tyme sayīg: Dy thyne eyes haue sene all that the Lorde youre God hath done vnto these two kynges / euen so the Lorde wyll do vnto all kynkdomes whither thou goest. Feare thē not for ỹ Lorde

Also now herken Israel vnto the ordinaunces & lawes which I teache you, for to do them / that ye maye lyue & go and conquere the lande which the Lorde God of youre fathers geueth you. Ye shall *put nothinge vnto the worde which I commaunde you neither do ought therfrom that ye maye kepe the commaundme̅tes of the Lorde youre God which I commaunde you. Youre eyes haue sene what the Lorde dyd vnto Baal Peor: for all the men that folowed Baal Peor the Lorde youre God hath destroyed fro̅ amonge you. But ye that claue vnto the Lorde youre God are alyue euery one of you this daye. Beholde, I haue taught you ordinaunces & lawes soche as the Lorde my God commaunded me that ye shulde do eue̅ so in the lande whether ye go to possesse it.

Kepe them therfore and do them* for that is youre wisdome and vnderstandynge in the sighte of the nacyons: which when they haue herde all these ordynaunces/ shall saye: O what a wyse and vnderstondynge people is this greate nacyon. For what nacyon is so greate that hath Goddes so nye vnto hym: as the Lorde oure God is nye vnto vs/ in all thinges when we call vnto him: Ye & what nacyon is so greate that hath ordinaunces and lawes so ryghteouse / as all this lawe which I sett before you this daye.

Take hede to thy selfe therfore only & kepe thy soule diligently that thou forget not the thinges which thyne eyes haue sene / & that they departe not out of thyne harte / all the dayes of thy lyfe: but teach them thy sonnes and thy sonnes sonnes. The daye that I stode before the Lorde youre God in Horeb/ when he sayde vnto me, gether me the people together, that I may make the̅ heare my wordes that they maye lerne to feare me as longe as they lyue vpo̅ the erth and that they maye teache their children: ye came and stode also vnder the hyll and the hyll burnt with fire: euen vnto the myddes of heauen / and there was darcknesse clowdes and myst. And the Lorde spake vnto you out of the fyre and ye herde +the voyce of the wordes: but sawe no ymage/ saue herde a voyce only.

And he declared vnto you his couenaunt/ which he commaunded you to do, euen x. verses & wrote the̅ in two tables of stone. And the Lorde co̅maunded me the same ceaso̅ to teache you ordynaunces & lawes / for to do them in the lande whether ye go to possesse it.

☞ Take hede vnto youre selues dyligently as pertayninge vnto youre soules / for ye sawe no maner of ymage the daye when the Lorde spake vnto you in Horeb out of the fire lest ye marre youre selues & make you grauē ymages after what soeuer likenesse it be: whether after the likenes of man or womā or any maner beast that is on the erth or of any maner feathered foule that flyeth in the ayre / or of any maner worme that crepeth on the erth or of any maner fysh that is in the water beneth the erth: Ye and lest thou lyfte vp thyne eyes vnto heuen/ & when thou seyst the sonne and the mone and the starres and what soeuer is contayned in heaue̅, shuldest be deceaued and shuldest bowe thy selfe vnto them and serue the thinges which the Lorde thy God hath dystributed vnto all nacyons that are vnder all quarters of heauen.

For the Lorde toke you and broughte you out of the *yron fornace of Egipte to be vnto him a people of enheritaūce as it is come to passe this daye. Forthermoare the Lorde was angrye with me for youre sakes & sware, that I shulde not go ouer Jordan and that I shulde not go vnto that good lande, which the Lorde thy God geueth the to enheritaūce. For I must dye in this lande, & shall not go ouer Jordan. But ye shall go ouer and conquere that good lande.

☞ Take hede vnto youre selues therfore/ that ye forgett not the appoyntment of the Lorde youre God which he made with you / & that ye make you no grauen ymage of what soeuer it be that the Lorde thy God hath forbidden the. For the Lorde thy God is a ‘consuminge fyre/ and a gelouse God.

And the Lorde shewed sygnes and wonders both greate and euell vpon Egipte / Pharao and vpon all his housholde/ before oure eyes & brought vs from thence: to bringe vs in and to geue vs ꝑ lande which he sware vnto oure fathers. And therfore cōmaunded vs to do all these ordinaunces & for to feare ꝑ Lorde oure God, for oure welth alwayes and that he myght saue vs, as it is come to passe this daye. For ouer it shalbe * rightousnes vnto vs before ꝑ Lorde oure God yf we take hede to kepe all these commaundmentes as he hath commaunded vs.

AND whē Adonizedec kynge of Jerusalem had heard how Josua had taken Ai, and had destroyed it / and how ỹ * as he had done to Jericho and her kyng / euen so he had done to Ai and her king / and how the Enhabitoures of Gabaon had made peace wyth Israell & dyd remayne among them: then they feared exceadingly / for Gabaon was a great cytye / as any cytie of the kyngdome / & therto greater then Ai / and all her men were myghtye. *Josu.viii.c.and ix.a.

Wherfore Adonizedec king of Jerusalem sent vnto Hoham king of Hebron, and vnto Pharam kynge of Jermoth / & vnto Japhia king of Lachis / & vnto Dabir king of Eglon saying. Come vp vnto me and healpe me / ỹ we may smyte Gabaon: for they haue made peace wyth Josua & the chyldren of Israell. And

AND when Jabin kynge of Hazor had herde that he sent to Jobab kinge of Madon, and to the kinge of Semeron, and to the kynge of Achaph. And vnto the kynges that are by northe in the mountaynes / and playnes / on the southesyde of Cineroth / and in the lowe countreys and in the regions of Dor vpō the see / and vnto the Cananites bothe by Easte and weste: and vnto the Amorites, Hethites / Pherezites / and Jebusites in the mountaynes: and vnto the Heuites vnder Hermon in the lande of Mazphah: which came oute and all their hostes wyth them a multytude of folke cuē as the sandes of the see in nombre wyth horses and charettes exceding manye. And all these kynges mett to geather / and came and pitched to geather vpon the water of Merom, for to fight with Israell.

And the Lorde sayde vnto Josua: be not afrayde of them: for to morowe aboute this tyme I wyll delyuer them all slayne / before all Israel: & thou shalt houghe their horses / Josu.x.b. & burne their charettes with fire. And Josua came & all the men of warre wt him agaynst them, vnto the water of Merom / sodenlye / & felle vpon them. And the Lorde delyuered thē into the handes of Israell: and they smote thē & chased them / vnto great Sidon / & vnto * wyett waters / & vnto the valeye of Maz- *Gre. Ma- phah Eastwarde: & smote thē vntill they had none remaynyng of them. And Josua serued them as the Lorde badde him, houghed their horses and burnt theire charettes with fyre.

Then Josua at that tyme turned backe & tolde Hazor and smote her kynge wyth the swerde For Hazor before tyme was the head of all those kyngdomes. And they smote all the soules that were therin wyth the edge of the swerde / vtterlye destroying thē / that no breathe was lefte remayne. And burnt Hazor with fyre and all the cyties of those kynges / ℭ with all the kynges of them, Josua toke and smote them wyth the edge of the swerde, and *Exod.xxiij.b vtterlye destroyed them * as Moses the ser- and.xxxiij.b. uaunt of the Lorde commaunded. Deut.vij.a.

But Israell burnt none of the cyties that stode vpon hilles, saue Hazor onlye that Josua burnt: but all the spoyle of ỹ sayde cities and the catell, the chyldren of Israell caught vnto them selues: But the men onlye they smote with the edge of the swerde vntill they had destroyed thē, and had leafte no breathe remaynynge. As the Lorde commaunded *Deut.vij.c. Josua / and euen so dyd Josua * and myny- shyde no worde of all that the Lorde com- maunded Moses.

And so Josua toke all ỹ lande the hylles and all the southe contreye / and all the lande of Gosan, and ỹ lowe contrey, & the playnes / & the * mountayne of Israell with the lowe *In which coūtrey of the same euen frō mounte Halak Jacob had that gothe vp to Seir vnto Baal Gad in ỹ dwelled. valeye of Libanon / vnder mounte Hermon. And all the kynges of the same / he toke and smote them / and slewe them.

Josua made warre longe tyme with those kinges: for there was no citie ỹ made peace wyth the chyldren of Israell, saue those He- thites that enhabited Gabaon: All other they toke wyth battell: for it came of the Lorde to harden their hartes / that they shulde come agaynst Israell in battell: euen to destroye thē vtterlye, that they shulde haue no mercy / but to bryng them to nought. As the Lorde commaunded Moses.

And that same reason / Josua went & de- stroyed the * Enakites oute of ỹ mountaynes, *Loke Jud.i.d. & out of Hebron / Dabir / & Anab / & oute of all the mountaynes of Juda / & oute of all the mountaynes of Israell. And Josua destroyed them vtterlye wyth their cities. So ỹ there was not one Enakite leafte in ỹ lande of the chyldren of Israell: only in Asah / Geth / and Asdod, there remayned of them.

And Josua toke the hole lande accordyng to all that the Lorde sayde vnto Moses, and gaue it a possessyon vnto Israell euery man his parte in their trybes: and the lande rested from warre.

¶ The lotte of the chyldren of Juda and the names of the cytyes and vyllages of the same.

¶ The.xv.Chapter.

I And the lotte of the trybe of the chyldren of Juda in their kynredes was the wyldernesse of Syn that stretcheth to the costes of Edō southwarde, and is the vtmoost parte of the southe costes. And their southcostes were from the brinck of the salt see and frō a certē poynte of the see that leaneth southwarde.
And it went out on the southe syde of the goyng vp to Acrabim / and went a long to Zimma / and ascended vp on the southe syde of Cades Barne / and went a long to Hezrō & went vp to Adar, & fette a cōpase to Karca & went a long to Azmon / & it went oute to the ryuer of Egypt: so ỹ the ende of that coste is the

is the see. And these are their southe costes.

And their easte costes are the salt see vnto ꝑ edge of Jordan. And their borders in the northe quarter were frō a nother poynte of the see where Jordan endeth. And went vp to Bethhagla and went a long by the northside of Betharabah and went vp to the stone of Bohen the sonne of Ruben. And then wēt vp to Dabir from the valeye of Achor, and so northwarde, turnyng towarde Galgall that lyeth before the goyng vp to Adorim, which is of the southe syde of the Ryuer. And then went a longe to the water of Ensemes, and ended at the well of Rogell. And then went vp to the valeye of the sonne of Hennō, euen vnto the southe syde of the Jebusites the enhabitoures of Jerusalem. And then went vp to the toppe of the hille that lyeth before the valeye of Hennom westwarde, & by the edge of the valeye of Raphaim northwarde: And [illegible] from the sande hille vnto the fountayne of water called Nephthoah, and gothe oute at the cities of mount Ephron: & draweth to Balah, otherwyse called Kariathiarim: and then it compaseth from Balah westwarde, vnto Ekr, & then gothe alonge vnto the syde of mounte Jarim, otherwyse C called Chesalon, on the northe syde therof. And cometh downe to Bethsames and gothe to Thannah, and gothe oute on the syde of Akaron northwarde: And then draweth to Secron and gothe a longe to mounte Balah, and goeth oute at Jabneel: and the ende of the costes is the see. And the west borders are ꝑ great se and the costes that lye theron. And these are the costes of the chyldren of Juda rounde aboute in their kynredes.

*Jud. 1.b. *And vnto Caleb ꝑ sonne of Jephunne was there a parte geuen amonge the chyldren of Juda by the mouthe of the Lorde to Josua, euē the cytie of Kariatharbe father of Enack whyche cytye is called Hebron. And Caleb droue thence ꝑ thre sonnes of Enack, Sesai, Ahyman, & Thalmai, the sonnes begotten of Enack. And he went vp thence, to the enhabitoures of Dabir, whose name in the olde tyme was Kariath sepher. And Caleb sayde, *Iudic.1.c. * he that smyteth Kariath sepher & taketh it: to hym wyll I geue Achsah my daughter to D wyfe. And Othniel, the sonne of Kenes the brother of Caleb toke it. And he gaue hym Achsah his daughter to wyfe. And as she wēt she moued hym, to aske of her father a felde. And she * alyghted of her asse. And Caleb sayde vnto her, what ayleth the. And she sayde geue me a blessyng: for thou hast geuē me a southwarde & drye lande: geue me also springes of water. Thē he gaue her springes of water, bothe aboue and beneethe. This is the enheritaunce of the tribe of the chyldren of Juda in their kynredes.

* Vnderstande to call at her fathers cite, and to aske at her father

And the cities of the tribe of the chyldren of Juda in all quarters, towarde the costes of Edom southwarde, were: Kabzeel, Eder, & Jagur: Kinah Dimonah, and Adada: Kedes Hazor and Jethnan: Ziph, Telem, & Baloth Hazor Hadathah, & Karioth, Hesron otherwyse called Hazor: Eman, Sama and Molada: Hazargadah, Hasmon and Bethpheleth: Hazarsual, Berlabe, and Bazliothiah: Baalah, Jim, and Azem: Eltholad, Chesil, & Horma: Ziklag, Madmenah and Sensenah: Labaoth Schilhim, Ain and Remon: all these cytes are twentye and nyne with their villages. And in the lowe countrye thy had Eschaol, Zarcah, and Asenah: Zoreah, Enganim, Thaphuah & Enam: Jarmeth Adullam, Socoh, & Azekah: Saaraim, Adithaim, Gederah and Gederothaim: fourtene cytes with their villages. C

Zenan Hadasah and Magdalgad: Dilean Mazpheh, and Jekthеel: Lachis, Bazcath and Eglon: Cabon, Lahamam, and Cethlis Gaderoth, Bethdagon, Naamah and Makkedah: Sixtene cities with their villages.

Lebnah Ether and Asan: Jephthah, Asenah and Nezib: Keilah, Kahezip and Marelah, nyne cytyes with their villages.

Akron with her townes and villages. And frō Akron oute to the see, all ꝑ lyeth aboute Asdod wyth their villages. Asdod wyth her townes and villages. Azah with her townes and villages, euen vnto the ryuer of Egypte: and the great see wt the costes that lye therō.

And in the mountaynes they had Samir Jathir, and Socoh: Danah: and Kariath sennah, which is Dabir: Anab, Esthemoh, and Anim: Gozen, Holon, and Giloh: a leuen cities with their villages. Arab, Dumah and Eskan: Janim, Beththaphuah & Aphekah: Humatah and Kariath arbe: which is Hebron & Zior: nyne cities with their villages. Maon & Carmel Siph & Jutah: Jesrahel, Jokdean, and Sanoch: Cain Gabaah and Thamnah ten cities wt their villages. Halhull Bethzur and Gedor: Maarath, Bethanoth, and Eltheeon: Sixe cities with their villages. Kariath Baal which is Kariath Jarim, & Harabba two cytyes wyth their villages.

And in the wildernesse they had Betharabah Middin and Secacah: Nebsan, the cytye of salt, and Engadi: Sixe cytyes wyth their villages. But the Jebusites that were the enhabiters of Jerusalem: the chyldren of Juda could not cast oute. Wherfore the Jebusites dwelle amonge the chyldrē of Juda vnto this daye.

¶ The Lotte or parte of Ephraim.

¶ The.xvi. Chapter.

The

AEd the lotte of the chyldren of Joseph felle from Jordan by Jerichow vnto ỹ water of Jericho Eastward/ & the wildernesse that gothe vp frō Jericho thorow out mount Bethel: and then gothe oute from Bethel to Lus/ & runneth a longe vnto ỹ borders of Ateataroth: & gothe doune westwarde/ euē to ỹ coostes of Japhlethi, & vnto ỹ coostes of Bethhoron the nether, also to Gasor, & ỹ endes of their coostes came to the see. And so the chyldrē of Joseph Manasses & Ephrai toke their enheritaūce.

B And ỹ chyldrē of Ephraim toke their coostes by kinredes. And the coostes of their enherytaunce Eastwarde were / Ataroth Addar euen vnto Bethhoron the vpper/ & wēt oute Cwestwarde to Machmathah on the Northside, & cōpased Eastwarde vnto Thaanath Silo/ & past it on ỹ Eastside vnto Janoah/ & wēt downe from Janoah to Ataroth & Naarath/ and meete at Jericho/ & wēt oute at Jordan. And their borders went frō Thaphuah westwarde vnto ỹ ryuer Kanah, & the endes were D ỹ see. This is the enheritaūce of the tribe of ỹ chyldrē of Ephraim in their kynredes, & the bordering cities of the chyldrē of Ephraim/ lye amonge the enheritaūce of the chyldrē of Manasses: euē all the cities with their villages. Notwithstanding they draue not out the Cananites ỹ dwelte in Gasor: but the Cananites dwelt amorge the Ephraites vnto this daye/ & paye tribute.

The Lotte or porcyon of the halfe tribe of Manasses. The Cananites become tributaries to the Israelites. Manasses & Ephraim require a greatter porcyon of heritage.

The.xvij.Chapter.

ANd the tribe of Manasses which was the Eldest sonne of Joseph receaued a lotte. And Machir the Eldest sonne of Manasses which was the father of Galaad (and a mā of warre) had Galaad & Basan. And the rest of the chyldren of Manasses receaued by their kynredes: which were the chyldren of Abiezer: ỹ chyldrē of Helek: the chyldren Asriel: the chyldren of Sichem/ the chyldren of Hepher: the chyldrē of Semida. These are the male chyldren of Manasses the sonne of Joseph in their kynredes.* But Zelaphead the sonne of Hepher the sonne of Galaad the sonne of Machir, & sonne of Manasses, had no sonnes saue daughters. And these are ỹ names of his daughters: Mahela Noa Hagla Melcha & Thirza: which came before Eleazar the preste, & before Josua the sonne of Nun / and before the Lordes saying: * the Lorde cōmaunded Moses to geue vs an enheritaunce amonge oure brethren. And he gaue thē at the mouth of the Lorde / an enherytaunce amonge the brethren of their fathers. And there felle ten porcyons to Manasses beyde the lande of Galaad & Basan which are on the other syde Jordan: because the daughters of Manasses dyd enherett among hys sonnes. And Manasses other sonnes had the lande of Galaad.

And the coostes of Manasses reached from Aser to Machmathah ỹ lyeth before Sichē & went a longe on the ryght hand/ euen vnto the enhabiters of Enthaphuah/ & the land of Thaphuah belonged to Manasses, which Thaphuah laye in ỹ borders betwene Manasses and the children of Ephraim. And the coostes descended vnto the ryuer Canah on whose south syde Ephraim hath cities amōg the cytyes of Manasses. For the coostes of C Manasses were on the northsyde of the ryuer & the endes of thē was the see: so ỹ the south pertayned to Ephraim/ & the northe to Manasses/ and the see is hys border. And there mette to gether in Aser northwarde/ and in Jssacar Eastwarde. And Manasses had in Jssacar and in Aser/ Bethsean/ and her townes: & the enhabitoures of Dor/ with the townes pertaynyng to the same: & the enhabitoures of Endor with the townes of the same: & the enhabitoures of Thaanath with her townes & ỹ enhabitoures of Magedo with ỹ townes of the same/ euē thre cōtreys yet the chyldren of Manasses could not ouer come those cities: But the Cananites began to dwell in ỹ same lande. Neuertheles as sone as ỹ chyldrē of Israell were waxed strong / they put the Cananites to tribute, but expelled thē not.

And ỹ chyldrē of Joseph spake vnto Josua D saying: why hast thou geuen vs but one lotte & one porcion to enheret, seing we be moche people/ and for as moche as the Lorde hath blessed vs so: and Josua answered thē: yf ye be moche people then gett you vp to the wodde contreye/ and prepare for youre selues there in the lande of ỹ Pherezites and of the* Raphaites / yf mounte Ephraim be to narowe for you. Then the chyldren of Joseph sayde agayne the hill will not begotē of vs: for all ỹ Cananites that dwell in the lowe contreye haue charettes of yron / and so haue they ỹ enhabite Bethsean/ & ỹ townes of the same & they also that dwel in the valeye of Jezreel. And Josua answered the house of Joseph/ Ephraim & Manasses saying: ye be moche people and haue great power and shall not therfore haue one lotte. But the hyll shalbe youres / for it is a wodde contreye & ye shall bryng it to facion/ and it shalbe youres euen vnto the endes of it, for ye shalbe able to cast oute the Cananites for all their yron charettes / and for all they be so stronge.

AND the whole congregacion of the childrē of Israel came together at Silo, and set vp ꝑ tabernacle of witnesse there / & the lande was in subiectiō before them. But there remayned amonge ꝑ childrē of Israel seuē tribes which had not their enheritaunce deuyded out. And Josua sayde vnto ꝑ childrē of Israel, how lōg are ye so slacke to go & possesse ꝑ lande whych ꝑ Lord God of youre fathers hath geuē you? Bring of euery tribe thre mē ꝑ I maye sende them. And ꝑ they maye ryse & walke thorowe the land & distribute it by their enheritaūces & come agayne to me. Deuide it into seuen partes. For Juda shal abyde by their coostes in ꝑ southe, & ꝑ house of Joseph shal stande to their coostes in the northe. Describe ye ꝑ lande therfore into seuen partes & bring ꝑ description to me hether, ꝑ I maye caste lottes for you here before the Lorde oure God. The Leuites haue no parte amonge you for the preastshype of the Lorde is their enheritaunce. And Gad / Ruben / & halfe the tribe of Manasses haue receaued their enheritaunce beyonde Jordan Eastwarde, which Moses the seruaunt of the Lorde gaue them.

And the men arose and went their waye. And Josua charged them ꝑ wēt to describe ꝑ lande saying: hence & go thorowe the lande & describe it, & come agayne to me hether: and I will cast lottes for you before the Lorde in Silo. And the men departed, & walked thorow the lande and described it by cities in to seuen partes in a booke, & returned to Josua into ꝑ hoste at Silo. And Josua caste lottes for them in Silo before ꝑ Lorde, and there he deuided the lande vnto the chyldren of Israell, to eche their portion. And the lotte of ꝑ tribe of the chyldren of Beniamin came vp accordyng to their kinredes. And the coostes of their lotte came oute betwene the childrē of Juda and the chyldren of Joseph. And their north coostes were frō Jordan and went vp to the syde of Jericho on ꝑ northside & went vp thorowe the moūtaynes westwarde, and they ended at the wyldernesse of Bethauen: & went frō thence to ꝑ southside of Lus, other wyse called Bethel: and descēded to Ataroth Addar vpon the hylle that lyeth on the southe syde of the nether Bethhoron. And the west coaste drawyth & cōpaseth southwarde, euen from the hille that lyeth before Bethhoron & gothe oute at Kariathbaal which is Kariath Jarim, a citie of the chyldren of Juda: & this is the west quarter: & ꝑ southe coaste gothe from the edge of Kariathiarim westwarde, & gothe oute to the waterwelle of Nephthoah and cometh doune to the edge of the hill that lyeth before ꝑ valeye of the sonne of Hennon whych is in the valeye of Raphaim northwarde / and descendeth thorowe the valeye of Hennon vnto the syde of Jebusi southwarde and gothe downe to the well of Rogel. And compaseth from the north and gothe forthe to Ensames and to the coostes that lye before the goyng vp vnto Adomim: and gothe doune to the stonne of Bohan the sonne of Ruben: and then gothe alonge towarde the syde of * the playne, northwarde: and gothe downe in to the playne: and gothe a long to the syde of Bethhaglah northwarde / and endeth at the poynte of ꝑ salt see north therfrom / and at the ende of Jordan southe therfrom. This is the southe coaste.

* Gree. Arabayah.

And Jordan is their easte coaste, thys is the enheritaunce of the chyldren of Beniamin wyth their coostes rounde aboute and by their kynredes. And these are the cytyes of the trybes of the chyldren of Beniamin in theire kynredes: Jericho / Bethhaglah / and the valeye of Kazis: Betharabah, Samarim / and Bethel: Auim / Pharah / and Ophrah: Chepar Ammonai / Ophni / and Gabai, twelue cytyes wyth their villages. This is the enheritaunce of the chyldren of Beniamin in their kinredes.

¶ The lottes or partes of Zabulon / Issachar / Aser / Nephthali / Dan / and Josus.

¶ The.xix.Chapter.

AND the seconde lotte came out vnto the tribe of the chyldren of Simeō by their kinredes. And their enheritaunce felle in the myddes of the enheritaūce of the childrē of Juda. And their enheritaunce was / Berſabe / Sabe / & Moladah. Hazorsual / Balah, & Azem / Eltholad Bethul & Hormah / Siklag. Bethmarcaboth & Hazersusah / Bethlebaoth, and Saruhen thirtene cities wt their villages. Ain / Remō Ether / & Asan / foure cities wt their villages: & therto all the villages ꝑ lye rounde about these cities / euē vnto Balasath / Beor / & Ramath / southwarde. This is the enheritaūce of the tribe of the childrē of Simeō in their kinredes oute of the portion of the chyldren of Juda, came the enheritaunce of ꝑ childrē of Simeon. For the parte of the chyldren of Juda was to moche for them: and therfore ꝑ chyldren of Simeon had their enheritaunce in the enheritaunce of them.

And the thyrde lotte came vnto the chyldren of Zabulon accordyng vnto their kynredes. And the coostes of there enheritaunce came to Sarid / and went vp to the

See /

B See/and to Marialah and touched at Dabaleth/& mette at the ryuer that lyeth before Jokneuen: and turned from Sarid eastwarde towarde the sunne rysyng vnto the border of Chisloth in mounte Thabor: and then gothe oute to Daberech and gothe vp to Japhia: and from thence gothe a longe eastwarde towarde the sunne rysyng/to Sethah/Hepher Ithah/and Jazim and gothe to Remon/Methoar/& Neah. And cōpaseth it on the northe syde and goeth to Nathan/and endeth in the valeye of Jephthahel. And Jatath/Nahalol/Semron/Jedalah/and Bethlehem: twelue cities with their villages. This is the enheritaunce of the Chyldrē of Zabulō/in their kinredes. The sayde cities with their villages.

And the fourthe lotte cā oute to the chyldrē of Issacar by their kynredes. And their costes were Jesraelah Casuloth Sunem Hapharaim/Sion/Anaharath: Rabith/Kision/and Abez: Rameth/Enganim/Enhadah/& Bethphazez. And his costes mette at Thabor Sahazimah & at Bethsames & endeth at Jordan/Syxtene cytyes wyth there villages. This is the enheritaunce of the trybe of the chyldren of Issacar by their kinredes & cities and their villages.

And the fyfte lotte cam oute vnto the tribe of the chyldren of Aser by their kynredes. And their costes were Helkath. Hali Betē and Achsaph: Alamelech/Amaad & Miseal: and mette at Carmel on the see/& at Sihor and at Labanath and turneth towarde the sunne rysyng to Bethdagon/& mette at Zabulon & in the valeye of Jephthah/& towarde the northsyde of Bethemek & Negel/& gothe oute on the lefte syde of Cabul: and Hebron/Rohob/Hamon/and Kanah euen vnto great Sidon. And then ỳ coost turneth to Ramah and to the strong citie of Tzor and turneth to Hozah and endeth at the see: by the possession of Achzibah: Amah/Aphek/and Rohob: Twentye and two cities with their villages. This is the enherytaunce of the trybe of the chyldren of Aser by their kinredes: These cities wyth their villages.

And the Syxte lotte cam oute vnto the chyldren of Nephthali by their kinredes. And their costes were from Helcph and from Elō in Zaananim/& Adami/Nekeb and Jabneel euen to Lakum/and go oute at Jordan. And then the coost turnethe westwarde to Aznoth in mounte Thabor/and then gothe oute from thence to Hukokah and meteth wyth Zabulon on the southe syde/and wyth Aser on the west/& at Juda vpon Jordan toward the sunne rysyng. And their strong cytyes are Zidim/Ber/Hamath/Racath and Cenereth Adamah/Hermah and Hazor: Kedes/Edzai/and Enhazor: Iron/Magdelel. Horem/Bethanah and Bethsames: nyneteene cytyes wyth their villages. This is the enheritaunce of ỳ tribe of the chyldrē of Nephthali by their kinredes: these cyties and their villages.

D And the seuenth lotte fell to the trybe of the chyldren of Dan by their kinredes. And the coostes of their enheritaūce was Zaraah Esthaol/Jesames/Saelabin/Ialon and Jethlah: Elon/Themnathah and Akaron: Elthekeh Gibethon and Baalath: Jehud/Banebarak and Gathremon/Meiericō and Harcon wyth the contreye that lyeth before Japho. And the coostes of the chyldrē of Dan went oute from beyonde thē. For the chyldrē of Dan went vp and fought agaynst Lesen and toke it/and smote it with the edge of the swerde/and conquered it/and dwelt therin and called it Dan/after the name of Dan their father.

This is the enheritaunce of the trybe of the chyldren of Dan in their kynredes: these cities with their villages. When they had made an ende of deuydyng the lande by her coastes then the chyldren of Israell gaue an enheritaunce vnto Josua the sonne of Nun amonge them: at the mouthe of the Lorde they gaue him the cytye which he asked/euē Thamnath serah in mounte Ephraim. And he bylte the citie and dwelt therin. These are the enheritaunces whych Eleazar the preest and Josua the sonne of Nun and the auncient fathers of the trybes of the chyldrē of Israel deuided by lotte in Silo before the Lorde/in the doore of the tabernacle of wytnesse/and so made an ende of deuydyng the contreye.

¶ Ruben, Gad, and the halfe tribe of Manasses are sende a gayne to their possessyons. They bylde an altare for a memorypall.

¶ The.xxij. Chapter.

THen Josua called vnto the Rubenites, the Gadites and to the halfe tribe of Manasses and sayde vnto thē: *ye haue kept all that Moses the seruaunt of the Lorde cōmaunded you/ & haue obeied my voyce in all ỳ I cōmaunded you: ye haue not lefte youre brethren of a log season vnto thys daye but haue kept the cōmaundement of ỳ Lord youre God. And now the Lorde hath geuē reste vnto youre brethrē as he promeled them, wherfore returne and go vnto youre tentes & vnto ỳ lande of youre possession, which Moses the seruaunt of the Lorde gaue you on the other syde Jordan.

☞ But in any wyse take exceding good heade that ye do the cōmaundement & lawe which Moses ỳ seruaūt of ỳ Lorde charged you: wbych is / that ye loue the Lorde youre God, and walcke in his wayes and kepe hys cōmaundementes/ & cleaue vnto him/ & serue hym wyth all youre hertes and all youre soules. And so Josua a blessed them and sent them awaye. And they went vnto their tētes

Vnto the one halfe of the tribe of Manasses Moses gaue possessyon in Basan: and vnto the other halfe therof gaue Josua wyth their brethrē on this syde Jordan westwarde And also when Josua sent them awaye vnto their tentes and blessed them, he sayde vnto thē returne with moche rychesse vnto youre tentes, & with very moche catell, with syluer goulde / brasse / yron / and wyth rayment aboue measure/ & deuide the spoyle of youre enemyes wyth youre* brethren.

And the chyldren of Ruben / the chyldren of Gad and halfe the tribe of Manasses returned and departed from the chyldrē of Israel out of Silo wbich is in ỳ lande of Canaan / to go vnto the contreye of Galaad / & to the lande of their possessyon / wherin they were possessed at the mouth of the Lorde by the hande of Moses. And when they came vnto the costes of Jordan that lye in ỳ lande of Canaan: there the chyldren of Ruben/the chyldren of Gad and the halfe tribe of Manasses/ bylt an altare faste by Jordan & that a great altare to se to. And when the chyldrē of Israel hearde saye: beholde the chyldren of Ruben the chyldren of Gad & the halfe tribe of Manasses haue bylte an altare in the forefrounte of the land of Canaā in ỳ borders of Jordan on the syde of the chyldren of Israell: the hole congregacyon of the chyldren of Israell gathered them together to Silo/ to go vpon them with batell. And the chyldrē of Israell sent vnto the chyldren of Ruben/ to the chyldren of Gad and to the halfe tribe of Manasses into the lande of Galaad/ Phinches the sonne of Eleazar the preaste/ and with him ten lordes of euery chefe howse a lorde thorowe out all the tribes of Israell/ wbych heades of their fathers housholdes were ouer ỳ thousandes of Israel. And they wēt vnto the chyldren of Ruben/ of Gad & to the halfe tribe of Manasses, vnto the land of Galaad and spake with them saying.

Thus saye the hole congregacyon of the Lorde: what trāsgression is this that ye haue transgressed agaynst the God of Israell / to turne awaye this daye from after the Lorde and to bylde you an altare for to rebelle this daye agaynst ỳ Lorde. Is the b wicked deade of Peor to lyttell for vs, wherof we are not cleansed vnto this daye, & there was a plage in the congregacyon of the Lorde: But that ye also shulde turne awaye thys daye from folowyng the Lorde: ye shall rebelle to daye agaynst the Lorde, and to morowe he shall be wroth wyth all the congregacion Not withstandyng ỳ the lande of youre possessyon be vncleane, then come ouer vnto the lande of the possessyon of the Lord where the Lordes tabernacle dwelleth and be possessed amõge vs. But rebell not agaynst the Lorde nor agaynst vs to buylde you anye other aulter saue the aulter of the Lorde oure God. Dyd not Achan ỹ sonne of Zareh trespase in the excõmunicate thinges, & wrath fell on all the congregacion of Israel, so that he alone perished not for his wyckednesse?

Then the chyldren of Ruben and of Gad / & halfe the tribe of Manasses answered and sayde vnto the heades ouer the thousandes of Israel: The myghty God Jehouah he knoweth, and Israel shall knowe if it be to rebelle or transgresse agaynst the Lorde / then the Lorde saue vs not this daye. Or elles if we haue bylt vs an aulter to turne from folowing the Lorde or to offer theron burnt offrynge or meatoffrynges or to offer peace offrynges theron: let the Lorde requyre it: And haue not rather done it for feare of this: least in tyme to come your chyldren shulde saye vnto oures: what haue ye to do wyth the Lorde God of Israel / seyng: that ỹ Lorde hath made Jordã a border betwene vs and you ye chyldrẽ of Ruben & of Gad: ye haue no parte therfore in the Lorde: and so shall youre chyldrẽ make oure chyldrẽ cease from fearinge the Lorde.

And therfore we sayde: Let vs cause an aulter to be made / not for burntoffrynges / nor sacrifyces / but it shalbe a wytnesse betwene vs and you and oure generacyons after vs / that we shulde serue the Lorde / wyth oure offerynges / sacrifyces and peaceoffrynges: and that youre chyldren shulde not saye to oures in tyme to come / ye haue no parte in the Lorde.

And we thought if they shuld so saye to vs or to oure generacyons in tyme to come / that we wolde saye agayne: Behold the facyon of the aulter whych oure fathers made / nether for burntoffrynges nor sacrifyces / but that it shulde be a wytnesse betwene vs and you. God forbydde ỹ we shuld rebell agaynst the Lorde and that we shulde turne this daye frõ after him / and bylde an aulter for burntoffrynges or sacrifyces / saue the altare of the Lorde / oure God that is before hys tabernacle.

And when Phinehes the Preaste and the Lordes of the congregacyõ and heades ouer the thousandes of Israell whych were wyth him hearde the wordes that the chyldren of Ruben / the chyldren of Gad and the chyldrẽ of Manasses spake / they were well contẽt. And Phinehes the sonne of Eleazar ỹ preaste sayde vnto the chyldren of Ruben / of Gad and of Manasses this daye we perceaue that the Lorde is amonge vs, because ye haue not done thys trespase agaynst the Lorde. And now ye haue rydde the chyldrẽ of Israell out of the handes of the Lorde.

And Phinehes the sonne of Eleazar the Preaste and the lordes returned frõ the chyldren of Ruben and of Gad oute of the lande of Galaad vnto the lande of Canaan to the chyldren of Israel, and brought them worde agayne. And the answere pleased the chyldren of Israel well and they praysed God / and dyd not entende to go agaynst them in batelle to destroye the lande which the chyldren of Ruben & Gad dwelt in. And the chyldren of Ruben & the chyldren of Gad called the aulter *Ed because it is a witnesse betwene vs that the Lorde is God.

*After the Hebr. That is oure wytnesse that the Lorde is God.

After Josua was dead / Juda was constitute Lorde ouer the armye when Jerusalem was besieged. The people that were not destroyed became tributaryes.

The fyrst Chapter.

After the death of Josua the chyldren of Israel asked the Lorde sayinge: Who shall go vp fyrst vnto the Cananites to fight agaynst thē? And the Lorde sayde: * Juda shall go vp: beholde I haue delyuered ꝙ lande into his handes. Then Juda sayde vnto * Simeon his brother: come vp wt me into my lotte, & let vs fyght agaynst the Cananites: And I lykewyse wyll go wt the into thy lotte. And so Simeon went with hym.

And Juda went vp, & the Lorde delyuered the Cananites & Pherezites into their handes. And they slewe of thē in Bezek ten thousand men. And they foũde * Adonibezek in Bezek. And they fought agaynst hym, & slewe the Cananites & Pherezites. But Adonibezek fled and they folowed after hym, & caught hym, & cut of his thombes and his great toes. Then Adonibezek sayde: thre score and ten kinges hauynge their thombes & great toes cut of, geathered their meate vnder my table: wherfore as I haue done so God hath done to me agayne. And they brought hym to Jerusalē, and there he dyed.

The chyldren of Juda fought agaynst Jerusalem & toke it / & smote it with the edge of the swerde, and set the cite on fyre. And after that the chyldren of Juda went euen to fyght agaynst the Cananites ꝙ dweit in the mountayne, in the southe / & in the lowe countrye. And Juda went vnto the Cananites ꝙ dweit in Hebron / which before tyme was called Kariath Arbe. And slew Sesai, Ahiman and Thalmai. And from thence they went to the inhabiters of Dabir / whose name in olde tyme was called Kariathsepher.

And Caleb sayde: he that smyteth Kariathsepher, & taketh it, to him will I geue Achsah my daughter to wyfe. And he shewed them the waye into the cytye/ and they smote it wyth the edge of the swerde/ but let the man and all hys household goo free. And the man went into the lande of the Hethites/ and bylt a cytye and called the name therof Lus which is the name therof vnto this daye.

¶ Nether dyd Manasses expelle Bethsean with her townes/ nether Thaanach with her townes/ nether the enhabitoures of Dor wt her townes/ nether the enhabitoures of Ibleam with her townes/ nether the enhabytoures of Magedo with her townes/ and so the Cananites went to & dwelt in the sayde lande. But as sone as Israell was waxed mightie/ they put the Cananites to tribute: But expelled them not.

In lyke maner Ephraim expelled not the Cananites that dwelt in Gazer/ but the Cananites dwelt styll in Gazer among them.

Nether dyd Zabulon expelle the enhabitoures of Ketron/ nether ꝑ enhabytoures of Nahalol: But the Cananites dwelt amonge them and be came tributaries.

¶ Nether dyd Aser cast out ꝑ enhabytoures of Acho/ nether ꝑ enhabytoures of Zeon/ of Ahalab/ Achzib/ Halbah/ Aphek/ nor of Rohob/ but the Aserites dwelte amonge the Cananites the enhabytoures of the lande/ and dyde them not out.

And the angell of the Lorde came vp from Galgall to Bocim/ & sayde/ I brought you out of Egypte and haue brought you vnto the lande which I sware vnto youre fathers. And I sayde that I wolde neuer breake myne appoyntement wyth you/ but ye shulde haue made no couenāt with the enhabytoures of this land/ ye shulde haue broken doune their aultares: But ye haue not obeyed my voice/ why haue ye this done? wherfore I haue lykewyse determyned ꝑ I wyll not cast them out before you: but they shalbe in the sydes of you and their Goddes shalbe snares vnto you. And when the angell of the Lorde had spoken these wordes vnto all the chyldꝛen of Israel, the people cryed out and wepte. And called the name of the sayde place/ Bocim & offered there vnto the Lorde.

And when Josua had sent ꝑ people awaye, the chyldꝛen of Israel went euerye man into his enheritaunce to possesse the lande. And ꝑ people serued the Lorde all the dayes of Josua/ and all the dayes of the elders that outlyued Josua, and had sene all the great workes of the Lorde that he dyd to Israel. And Josua the sonne of Nun the seruaunt of the Lorde dyed when he was an hundred and ten yeres olde: whom they buryed in the costes of his enheritaunce: euen in Thamnath hares in mount Ephraim on the northsyde of ꝑ hyll Gaas. And euen so all that generacion were put vnto their fathers, and there arose another generacyon after them wbych nether knewe ꝑ Lord/ nor yet ꝑ workes which he dyd vnto Israel.

m.b. And

And then the chyldren of Israel dyd wyckedly in the syght of the Lorde, and serued Baalim, & forsoke the Lorde God of their fathers, which brought them out of the land of Egypte, and folowed straunge Goddes/ euē of the Goddes of the nacyons that were round about them, and bowed them selues vnto them and angred the Lord. And so they forsoke the Lord and serued Baal & Astharoth. Wherfore the Lorde waxed angry vp Israel/ & delyuered thē into the handes of raueners to spoyle them and solde them into & hādes of their enemyes rounde about thē/ so & they had no power any longer to stande before their enemyes. But vnto whatsoeuer thyng they went, the hand of the Lorde was vpon them with euell lucke/ euen as & Lorde promysed them, and as he sware vnto them. And they were sore vexed.

Neuertheles the Lorde rayled vp Judges/ which delyuered them out of the handes of their oppressers & yet for all that they wold not harken vnto their Judges: But went a whoryng after straunge Goddes and bowed them selues vnto thē/ and turned quickly out of the waye which their fathers walked in obeying the cōmaundemētes of the Lord/ and dyd not so

And when the Lord rayled them vp Judges, he was with the Judge/ and delyuered them out of the hādes of their enemyes all the dayes of the Judge: for the Lorde had cōpassyon ouer their sorowinges which they had by the reason of them that oppressed thē and vexed them: yet for all that as sone as & Judge was dead they turned and dyd worse then their fathers in folowynge straunge Goddes/ and in seruyng thē/ and ceased not from their inuencions nor from their malycyous wayes.

Wherfore the Lorde was angry with Israel and sayde: be cause thys people hathe transgressed myne appoyntement which I cōmaūded their fathers and haue not obeyde my voyce, therfore hencefoorth I will not cast out one mā before thē of the nacyons which Josua leaft when he dyed/ and that to proue Israel thrugh thē whether they will kepe the waye of & Lord to walke therin as their fathers dyd or not. And so the Lorde leafte those nacyons alone/ and dyde not cute immedyatly / nether delyuered them in to the handes of Josua.

These are the nacions which & Lord left to tēpt Israel: euē as many of Israell as had not known all & warres of Canaan: Only for the lernyng of the generacyon of the chyldren of Israel: which before knew nothing of warre be leste the fyue Lordes of the Philistines & all the Cananites/ the Sidonites/ the Heuites that dwelt in mount Libanon: euen from mount Baal Hermon vnto Hemath. Those remayned to proue Israell by/ to wete whether they wold herken vnto the commaundementes of the Lorde/ which he commaunded their fathers by the hand of Moses.

And as the chyldrē of Israel dwelt amōge the Cananites/ hethites/ Amorites/ Pheresites/ Heuites, and Jebusytes/ they toke the daughters of them to be their wyues & gaue their owne daughters to their sonnes/ & serued their Goddes. And so the chyldren of Israell did wyckedly in the syght of the Lorde and forgate the Lorde their God and serued Baalim & Asteroth. Therfore the Lorde was angry with Israel and delyuered them vnto the handes of Chusan Rasathaim kynge of *Mesopotamia. So that the chyldrē of Israell serued Chusan Rasathaim viij. yeres.

So & hys hāde was mightie ouer Chusan Rasathaim And the lande had rest fourtye yeres. And Othoniel the sonne of Kenes died. And then the chyldren of Israel went to agayne & committed wyckednesse in the syght of the Lorde And then the Lorde hardened Eglon & kyng of the Moabites/ agaynst the chyldren of Israell, because they had committed wyckednesse before the Lorde. And Ahud came in vnto him into a somer parler which he had seuerall vnto hym selfe alone and sayde: I haue a message vnto the frō God. And he arose out of his seate. And Ahud put forth hys lefte hande and toke the dagger from hys ryght thygbe and thrust it into hys belye so that the hafte went in after the blade. And the hafte stopped in the fatte/ for he drue not the dagger out of hys belye. And the dyrt cam oute. But Ahud gat hym oute at a posterne doze, and shutte ỹ dozes of the parler vpon him and locked them.

c To do this feate was Ahud appoynted of God: therfore he had a message to him from god Eglō was fatte and stronge: & had his sworde at hande Ahud lyst handed and knapt for fighting. But yet gothe boldely in to his chamber to hym / and owyng perfectly that God wolde strengthen his healpe hym & performe hys worde vnto hym.

And when they had tarred tyll they were a shamed, for no man dyd the dozes of the parler open: then they toke a keye & opened them And beholde their Lozde was fallen downe dead vnto the erthe. But Ahud eskaped whyle they taryed and was gone beyonde the Idolles & eskaped into Seirath.

And when he was come he blew a trompette in mount Ephraim. And the chyldren of Israel went doune wyth hym of the hylle & he before them. And he sayd vnto them, folowe me: for the Lozd hathe delyuered youre enemyes the Moabytes into youre handes And they descended after hym and toke the * Dr ferryes. * passages of Jozdan from the Moabites, & sofferd not a man to passe ouer. And Debora a Prophetysse / the wyfe of Lapidoth iudged Israell the same tyme / and dwelt vnder the paulme tre of Debora / betwene Ramath and Bethell / in mounte Ephraim.

And the chyldren of Israel came to her for iudgement. And she sent and called Barak the sonne of Abinoam / out of Cedes Nephthalim / and sayde vnto hym.

The Lozde God of Israel commaundeth the / that thou go and drawe to mounte Thabor / and take wyth the ten thousande men / of the chyldren of Nephthalim & of the chyldren of Zabulon. And I wyll bringe vnto the ryuer Kison Sisara / the Captayne of warre vnto Jabin / wyth hys charettes / and his people / and will delyuer them into thyne handes. And Barak sayde vnto her / yf thou wylt go with me / I will go: But and yf thou wylt not go wyth me / then I wyll not goo. And she answered / I wyll suerlye go wyth the / but then the prayse shall not be thyne, in the waye which thou goest / for ỹ Lozd shall delyuer Sisara into the handes of a womā. And she arose and went with Barak to Cedes. And Barak called Zabulon and Nephthalim to Cedes. And he went vp a foote wyth ten thousande men: and Debora went with hym.

But Haber the kenite was remoued out of kin, whych was of the chyldren of * Hobab the father in lawe of Moses / and pytched his tente vntill he was come to ỹ Oke of Zaanaim / by Cedes. * Of Hobab Numer. x.

And then it was shewed vnto Sisara how that Barak the sonne of Abinoam was gone vp to mount Thabor. And Sisara called for all his charettes / euen. ix. hundred charettes of yron / and for all the people that he had / from Haroseth of the gentyles vnto the ryuer of Kison. Then sayde Debora vnto Barak: vp / for thys is the daye in whych the Lozde hath delyuered Sisara in to thyne handes: for the Lozde is gone oute before the. And so Barak went downe from mount Thabor / and ten thousande men after hym.

But the Lozde trounsed Sisara and all hys charettes and all hys hoste wyth the edge of the swerde / before Barak. And Sisara lyghted doune of hys charett and fled a fote. But Barak folowed after ỹ charettes, and after the hoste / euen vnto Haroseth of the gentyles. And all the hoste of Sisara fell vpon the edge of the swerde, that there was not a man leafte. How be it Sisara fled a fote to the tent of Iael the wyfe of Haber the kenite: for their was peace betwene Jabin the kynge of Hazor/and the houshold of Haber the kenite.

And Iael went out agaynst Sisara and sayde vnto hym: turne in my Lorde / turne vnto me & feare not. And he turned vnto her into her tent: & she couered hym with a mantell. And he sayde vnto her / gene me a lyttel water to drynke/for I am thirsty e. And she D opened a bottell of mylke & gaue him drynke and couered hym. And he sayde vnto her/ stande in the doze of thy tente/ & yf any man come & aske the/ or enquere of the whether there be any man here/saye naye.

Then Iael Habers wyfe toke a nayle of the tente/and an hamer in her hand/ & wēt softly vnto him/and smote ꝧ nayle thorow the tēples of his head in to the ground/as he slombered beyng wery: And so he dyed.

And beholde as Barak folowed after Sisara/Iael came out agaynst him/and sayde vnto him: come and I wyll shew the the mā whō thou seekest. And when he came into her tente: Beholde/ Sisara laye dead & ꝧ nayle thorow his tēples. And so God brought Jaben the kyng of Canaā into subiectcyon that daye/before the chyldren of Israel. And the hande of the chyldren of Israel prospered & was sore vpon Jaben the kynge of Canaan/ vntyll they had brought hym to naught.

¶ The songe and thanckes geuyng of Debora & Barack after the victorye.

¶ The.v. Chapter.

Then debora & Barack the sonne of Abinoam / sange the same daye: saying *Prayse the Lorde in them ꝧ were wyllynge whyle other sate stylle in Israel. Heare kynges and herken Lordes. I wyll synge and geue prayse vnto the Lorde God/of Israel.

I In some reade because he hath auenged the vengeaunce done to Israelite people offeryng themselues willyngly/prayse be the Lorde.

Lorde when thou departedest out of Seir and camest frō the feldes of Edom / the erthe trembled/and the heuen rayned/& ꝧ cloudes dropped water: the mountaynes mealted before the Lorde/euen mount Sinai before ꝧ Lorde God of Israel.

In the dayes of Samgar the sonne of Anath and in the dayes of Iael, the hye wayes were vnoccupied. And a they that walked by pathes, went by wayes that set compases aboute. The vyllages were vnenhabyted in Israel were vnenhabyted: vntill I Debora arose vntyll I arose a mother in Israel.

a The meanyng is / that Sisara & other rulers in many places of Israel, were not onely ouercome: but that neither husbādmen nor trauaylers durst come other where, but kepte the hye wayes.

God chose new lordes of warre, for whē they had warre at the gates: there was not sene amōge fourtye thousand ether shyld or spere in Israel. Myne hert loueth ꝧ mayntayners of the lawe in Israel, ꝧ are wyllynge amonge the people. Blesse the Lorde ye that ryde on goodlye Asses and sytte in iudgemēt. And ye ꝧ walcke by the wayes make dittes.

How ꝧ archers dyd cease, where men draw water there shall they tell of the iustyce of ꝧ Lorde, and of the *iustyce of his vplandyshe folcke in Israel. And then the people of the Lorde went downe vnto the gates.

Vp vp Debora vp vp and syng: a songe. vp Barak/ & take thy praye / thou sonne of Abinoam. Then they ꝧ had escaped/raygned ouer ꝧ proudest of ꝧ people. The Lorde rayneth ouer the stronge.

Ephraim was ꝧ fyrst agaynst Amalech/ And after thē Benjamin/ amōge ꝧ people.

Of Machir came lerned men in the law/ and of Zabulon that well coulde drawe wt the penne of a scribe.

The Lordes of Isakar were with Debora. And as Barak, euen so was Isakar sent vnto the valeye a fote. But in ꝧ b deuysyons of Rubē, were great ymagynacīōs of herte.

b The pryde of the Rubenyte is here noted because they refused to go with Debora to ouercome the oppressours of Israel.

Wherfore abodest thou amonge the shepe folde, to heare the bleatynges of the flockes. In the deuysyons of Ruben, great were the ymagynacīōs of herte. Galaad abode on the other syde Jordan / and why taryed dan in shippes. And Aser sate in the hauens of the see/and abode styll in his owne costes. But Zabulon is a people that put their lyues in ieopardye of death/and Nephthalim in lyke maner / euen vnto the toppe of the feldes.

c By these wordes sygnyfyeth Debora that the kynges hostes of the Cananytes came to Thanach & Magedo thynkynge verely/ because of the multitude of the hoste / that they came not to fyght: but to take a praye. but they were sore deceaued. for it so chaunced that they were rather a praye to Israel/ than Israel to them.

'Kynges came and fought. Then fought the Kynge of Canaan at Thanach vnō the water of Magedo. But the syluer ꝧ they coueted, they carryed not awaye.

From heauē came battell: for the sterres beyng in their course, fought agaynst Sisara. The ryuer of Kison caught them awaye: that auncient ryuer the ryuer Kison.

Blessed be Iael the wyfe of Haber the kenyte / aboue other women: aboue other women blessed be she in the tente.

He asked water but she gaue him mylke/ and brought butter in a goodlye dyshe. She caught a nayle in her lefte hande/and a worckynge hāmer in her right/and nayled Sisara and wounded his head and pearced & wēt thorowe his temples. Betwene her fete he bowed him self, fell downe and laye stylle: Betwene her fete he bowed hym self & fell. And whether he bowed him selfe/ thyther he fell brought to nought.

And of whom I saye vnto the / thys shall go wt the/ the same shall go with the. And whosoeuer I saye vnto the/ this shall not go with the/ the same shall not go. And when he had brought doune & people vnto & water. The Lorde sayd vnto Gedeon: as many as lappe the water with their tonges / as dogges do/ them put by them selues / and so do thē that knele downe vpon their knees to drynke. And the nombre of thē that put there hādes to their mouthes and lapped / were .iij. hundred men. And all the remnaūt of the people kneled doune vpō their knees to drynke water. And the Lorde sayde vnto Gedeon/ wyth the thre hūdred men that lapped wyll I saue C you, and delyuer the Madianites into thyne hande. And all & other people shall go euery man vnto his awne whome.

And they toke vytailes with them for the folke, & their trompettes. And he sent all the rest of Jsrael/ euery man vnto his tente/ and kepte the thre hundred with him. And & host of Madiā was beneth him in a valeye. And the same nyght the Lord sayde vnto him, vp & go doune vnto the hoste/ for I haue delyuered it into thyne hande. But & yf thou feare to go doune/ then go thou doune vnto & host & Pharah thy ladde, a herkē what they saye/ and so shall thyne handes be strong, and then thou shalt go doune vnto the hoste.

Then he went doune & Pharah his ladde/ euen harde vnto the men of armes that were in the hoste. And the Madianites/ the Amalekites, and all they of the East, laye a longe in the valeye/ lyke vnto grashopers in multitude/ and their camelles were without nombre/ euen as the sande by the see syde in multitude. And whē Gedeō was come: Behold/ there was a mā that tolde a dreame vnto his D

And so Gedeon & the thre hundred men ꝑ were wt him / came vnto the syde of ꝑ host in the begynnyng of the myddell watche / and reysed vp ꝑ watche men. And they blewe wt their trōpettes & brake the pytchers ꝑ were in their hādes. And all thre cōpanyes blewe wt trōpettes & brake ꝑ pitchers & held ꝑ lāpes in their lefte handes & the trōpettes in their right / to blowe wyth all. And they cryed the swerde of ꝑ Lord & of Gedeō. And they stode stille / euery mā in his place rounde about ꝑ hoste. And all ꝑ hoste ranne & cryed & fled. And as the thre hundreth blewe with trompettes, ꝑ Lord sett euery mānes swerde vpō his neyghboure / thorow out all ꝑ hoste. And ꝑ hoste fled vntyl they came to Bethsitah / to Zererath / & to ꝑ edge of Abelmeholah beside Tabath. And ꝑ men of Israel geathered together of ꝑ tribe of Nephthalim / of Aser / & of all Manasses / & folowed after ꝑ Madianites. For Gedeon had sent messengers thorow out all moūt Ephraim saying: come downe agaynst ꝑ Madianites & take frō thē ꝑ waters bothe of Bethbarath & also of Jordan. Then all ꝑ men of Ephraim geathered together & came downe & toke ꝑ waters bothe of Bethbarath & also of Jordan. And they toke two captaynes of the Madianites / Oreb & Zeb / & slewe Oreb vpon the rocke Oreb / and Zeb at the presse Zeb and folowed after Madian. And brought the heades of Oreb & Zeb to Gedeon on the other syde Jordan.

¶ The viij. Chapter.

AND the men of Ephraim sayde vnto hym. Why hast thou serued vs thus / ꝑ thou calledst vs not / when thou wētest to fyght wt ꝑ Madianites. And they chode wt him a good. And he sayd vnto thē: What deade haue I done lyke vnto youres: are not ꝑ * clusters of Ephraim better then ꝑ wyne hervest of Abiezer? God hath delyuered into youre handes ꝑ Lordes of Madian, Oreb & Zeb. And what was I able to do lyke as you haue done. And then their spirites abated frō of him, whē he had sayde that. And then Gedeon came to Jordā & passed ouer, bothe he and the thre hundred men that were with hym verye fayntе & yet folowed the chace. And he sayd vnto the men of Socoth: geue I praye you breed vnto the people that folowe me: for they be fayntie, that I maye folowe after Zebah & Zalmona kynges of Madian. And ꝑ Lords of Socoth sayde: are the handes of Zebah and Zalmona now in thyne handes that we shulde gyue breed vnto thy companye. And Gedeon sayde, therfore when the Lorde hath delyuered Zebah and Zalmona in to myne hāde, I wyll teare the fleshe of you with the thornes of the wildernes & with breers. And he went thence to Phanuel / and spake vnto thē lykewyse. And the men of Phanuel answered him, as dyd the men of Socoth. And he sayd also vnto the men of Phanuel, whē I come agayne in peace / I wyll breake doune this towre. Zebah & Zalmona were in Karkar & their hostes with them, vpō a. xv. thousand / which were all that were lefte of all ꝑ hostes of them of the Este. And they ꝑ were slayne were a hundred & twentye thousande men that drewe swerdes.

And Gedeon went thorowe thē ꝑ dwelle in tabernacles on the este syde of Nobah & Jebahah / & smote the hoste: for the hoste dyd not feare. Zebah and Zalmona fledde But he folowed after them / and toke ꝑ two kyngs of the Madianites / Zebah and Zalmona and discomforted all the hoste.

And Gedeon the sonne of Joas returned frō battell / ꝑ sonne beyng yet vp / & caught a ladde of the men of Socoth / & enquered of him. And he wrote him of the Lordes & Elders of Socoth. lxxvij. men. Then he came vnto the men of Socoth and sayde: Beholde Zebah & Zalmona wyth which ye cast me in ꝑ tethe sayinge: are ꝑ handes of Zebah & Zalmona all redye in thyne hande / that we shuld gyue breed vnto thy faynte men. And he toke the elders of the cytie / and thornes of the wyldernesse and breers / & all to tare thē therwith. And he brake doune the towre of Phanuel and slewe the men of the cytie.

And then sayde vnto Zebah and Zalmona, what maner men were they which ye slewe at Thabor? and they answered / ꝑ lykenesse of the & thē is all one / euen after the facyon of the chyldren of a kyng. And he sayde / they were my brethrē / euē my mothers chyldren / & as truly as the Lorde lyueth / yf ye had saued their lyues / I wolde not slaye you. And he sayd vnto Jether his eldest sonne / vp & slee thē: But the ladde drue not his swerde / for he feared / because he was yet yōg. Then Zebah & Zalmona sayde. Ryse thou & falle vpō vs / for as ꝑ mā is so is his strēght. And Gedeon arose & slewe thē: & he toke awaye ꝑ chaynes ꝑ were on their camels neckes.

Then ꝑ men of Israel sayde vnto Gedeon Raygne ouer vs, bothe thou / thy sonne & thy sonnes sonne for thou hast delyuered vs out of ꝑ hands of ꝑ Madianites. And Gedeō sayd vnto thē, I wyll not raigne ouer you, neither the lande of the Amorites in Galaad. Mo-reouer the chyldrē of Ammon wēt ouer Jordan to fyght agaynst Juda, Beniamin/ & the house of Ephraim: so & Israel was sore com-bred. Then the chyldren of Israel cryed vnto the Lorde sayinge: we haue synned agaynst the: for we haue forsaken owre awne God/ & haue serued Baalim. And & Lorde sayde vnto & chyldrē of Israel: dyd not the Egyptiās/& Amorites, the chyldrē of Ammō the Philistines, the Sidonites, the Amalechites/ & the Maonites/ oppressed you? And ye cryed to me/and I delyuered you out of their hādes. And for all that ye haue forsaken me / and serue straūge Goddes, wherfore I wyll helpe you no moare But go and crye vnto the Goddes which ye haue chosen / and lett thē saue you in the tyme of youre tribulacyon.

But the chyldren of Israel sayde vnto the Lord we haue synned: do thou vnto vs whatsoeuer please the/ & delyuer vs onlye at thys tyme. And they put awaye the straunge Goddes from thē/ and serued the Lorde. And the mysery of Israel greued hys soule.

Then the chyldrē of Ammon geathered to geather & pitched in Galaad. And the childrē of Israel geathered thē to geather & pytched in Mazphah. And & cōpanye of & Lordes of Galaad sayde eche to other whosoeuer will begynne & batteil agaynst the childrē of Ammon/ the same shalbe heed ouer all & enhabi-ters of Galaad.

¶ Jephthah the sonne of a Harlot delyuereth Israel frō the Ammonites after they asked forgeuenes.

¶ The.xi. Chapter.

AN there was one Jephthah a Galaadite/ a stronge man/ which was the sonne of an harlott: How be it Galaad begat Jephthah. But Ga-laades wyfe bare hym sonnes / which when they were come to age / thrust out of Jephthah/ & sayde vnto him: thou shalt not enheret in oure fathers house / for thou art the sonne of a straunge womā. Then Jephthah fledde frō hys brethrē and dwelt in the lande of Tob. And there geathered vile people to Jephthah/ & went out wt him. But it chaun-ced in processe of tyme / & the chyldrē of Ammon made warre agaynst Israel / then & elders of Galaad wēt & fett Jephthah out of & lāde of Tob/ & sayd vnto him: come & be oure captayne/ & let vs fyght wt & chyldrē of Ammon. And Jephthah sayde vnto the elders of Galaad. Dyd not ye hate me & expelle me out of my fathers house? how happeneth it then & you come vnto me nowin tyme of youre tribulacyō? And & elders of Galaad answered Jephthah. Therfore we turne agayne to the nowe/ that thou go wt vs/ & fyght agaynst & chyldrē of Ammō/ & be owre heed ouer all & enhabiters of Galaad. And Jephthah sayd vnto the elders of Galaad: If ye bryng me home agayn to fyght wt & childrē of Ammō/then yf & Lord delyuer thē before me/ I shal-be youre heed. And & elders of Galaad sayde to Jephthah/ & Lord be witnesse betwene vs yf we do not accordyng to thy wordes. Then Jephthah wēt wt & elders of Galaad. And & people made him heed & ruler ouer thē. And Jephthah rehersed all his wordes in Mazphah before the Lorde.

Then Jephthah sent messengers vnto the kyng of & chyldrē of Ammon/ saying: what ayleth & wt me & thou comest vpō me to fyght agaynst my lāde? And & kyng of & chyldrē of Ammō ānswered vnto & messengers of Jephthah, because Israel tooke away my lād/ whē
they came out of Egypt: euē frō Armon vnto Jabok/ & frō thence vnto Jordā. Now therfore restore those lādes agayne wt fayre meanes. And Jephthah sent messengers agayne vnto & chil
drē of Ammō / & sayde vnto hym: thus sayth Jephthah. Israel toke not away & lande of Moab nor & lād of & chyldrē of Ammō. But whē Israel came out of Egypt, they walked thorowe & wyldernesse/ euē vnto & redd see/ & came to Cades/ & sent messengers vnto & king of Edō sayīg: let vs we praye & go thorow thy lande. But & kyng of Edom wolde not agree therto. And in like maner they sent vnto the kyng of Moab, but he wold not cōsent. And so Israel

so Israel abode styll in Cades. And then they went a long thorow the wylderneſſe/ & compaſed the lãde of Edom/ & ỹ lande of Moab/ and came a long by the eaſt ſyde of the lande of Moab/ & pitched on the otherſyde ỹ ryuer of Arnon/ & came not within the cooſtes of the Moabites: for Arnon was theyr vtmoſt border. And then Israel ſent meſſengers vnto Sehon kyng of the Amorites, & kynge of Hesbon/ & ſayde vnto hym: Lett vs paſſe thorow thy lande vnto owre awne contreye. But Sehon truſted not Israel/ to go thorou hys cooſtes: but gathered all hys people to geather & pytched in Jazah/ & fought wyth Israel. But the Lorde God of Israel deliuered Sehon & all his folcke into the hãdes of Israel. And ſo Israel ſmote them & conquered all the lande of the Amorites/ the enhabiters of the ſayde cõtreye. And they cõquered all the cooſtes of the Amorites/ from Arnon vnto Jabok/ & from the wyldernesſe vnto Jordan. So now ſeing the Lorde God of Israel hathe caſt out ỹ Amorites before his people Iſrael/ ſhuldeſt thou poſſeſſe the lãde: Naye/ but what people Camos thy God dryueth out/ ỹ lande poſſeſſe thou. But whatſoeuer nacyons the Lorde oure God expelleth/ that lande ought we to enioye. And therto art thou better then Balack ỹ ſonne of Zephor kynge of Moab? dyd he ſtryue wyth Israel or fyght agaynſt thẽ? all ỹ whyle Israel dwelt in Hesbon & her townes/ & in Aroer & her townes/ & in all the cyties ỹ be a longe by the cooſtes of Arnon. iij. hundred yeres? why dydſt thou not recouer thẽ in all that ſpace/ wherfore I haue not ſynned agaynſt the. But thou doeſt me wronge/ to warre agaynſt me. The Lorde therfore be iudge this daye/ betwene the childrẽ of Israel/ and the childrẽ of Ammon. How be it the kyng of ỹ childrẽ of Ammon harkened not vnto ỹ wordes of Jephthah which he ſent hym.

Then the ſpyryte of the Lorde came vpon Jephthah. And he paſſed ouer Galaad & Manaſſes/ & came to Mazphah ỹ lyeth in Galaad/ & frõ thence vnto ỹ childrẽ of Ammon. And Jephthah vowed a bowe vnto ỹ Lorde & ſayde: If thou ſhalt delyuer ỹ childrẽ of Ammon into my handes/ then that thyng ỹ cometh out of the dorres of my houſe agaynſt me/ whẽ I come home in peace/ frõ the childrẽ of Ammon, ſhalbe the Lordes & I will offer it vp a burntoffryng. And ſo Jephthah wẽt vnto the childrẽ of Ammon to fyght wt thẽ. And ỹ Lord delyuered thẽ into his handꝭ And he ſmote thẽ from Aroer vnto Menith/ xx. cytues. And ſo forth to ỹ playne of the vyneyardes & made an exceedyng great ſlaughter. And thus the childrẽ of Ammon were brought vnder/ before the childrẽ of Israel.

Then Jephthah came to Mazphah vnto his houſe. And lo his daughter came out agaynſt hym/ wt tymbrelles & daunces/ which was his onely childe: ſo ỹ beſyde her he had nether ſonne nor daughter. And when he ſawe her/ he rent his clothes & ſayde: Alas my daughter thou haſt * made me ſtoupe & art one of thẽ that trouble me for/ * I haue opened my mouth vnto the Lorde/ & cannot go backe. And ſhe ſayde vnto hym: my father, yf thou haue opened thy mouth vnto the Lord/ then do with me accordyng to that proceaded out of thy mouthe/ for as moche as the Lorde hathe auenged the of thyne enemyes ỹ children of Ammon. And ſhe ſayde vnto her father/ do this moche for me: lett me alone two monethes ỹ I maye go downe to the mountaynes & bewayle my virginite with my felowes. And he ſayde: go/ and ſo he ſent her awaye two monethes. And ſhe wẽt with her cõpanyons & lamẽted her mayden heed vpõ the moũtaynes. And after ỹ two monethes/ ſhe turned agayne vnto her father which dyd wt her accordynge to hys bowe which he had bowed/ and ſo ſhe knewe no man. And it became an ordynaunce in Israel yere by yere/ that the daughters of Israel ſhulde go & lamente the daughter of Jephthah the Galaadite/ foure dayes in a yere.

* That is/ hathe promeſed & vowed.

¶ The battell of Jephthah agaynſt Ephraim. After the deeth of Jephthah ſucceedeth Elon. After Elon Abdon.

¶ The .xij. Chapter.

And the men of Ephraim geathered thẽ ſelues to gether/ & went northwarde/ and ſayde vnto Jephthah: Wherfore wenteſt thou to fyght wt the childrẽ of Ammõ/ & dydeſt not call vs to go wt the? we will therfore burne thyne houſe vpõ the, with fyre. And Jephthah ſayde vnto thẽ: I & my people were at great ſtryfe wt the childrẽ of Ammon. And I called you But ye delyuered me not out of their hãdꝭ. And whẽ I ſawe that ye delyuered me not/ I* put my lyfe in my handes & went vpon the childrẽ of Ammon. And the Lorde delyuered thẽ into my handes. Wherfore then are ye come vpon me to fyght with me.

* That is/ I put my ſelfe in daunger & aduentured my lyfe as it is ſayd. Numm. xxvij. Job. xiij.

And Jephthah gathered to geather all ỹ men of Galaad & fought wt ỹ Ephraimꝭ. And the men of Galaad ſmote the Ephraites, becauſe they ſayde: Ye Galaadites are but rũnagates of Ephraim amonge ỹ Ephraites & ỹ Manaſſites. Moreouer ỹ men of Galaad toke ỹ paſſagꝭ of Jordan frõ ỹ Ephraites. And when thoſe Ephraites ỹ were eſcaped ſayde lett vs go ouer. Then the men of Galaad ſayde vnto thẽ: Ye are Ephraites, & they ſayde naye. Then the other anſwered: then ſaye* Sciboleth. And they ſayde Sibo-

¶ The .xiij. Chapter.

AND the chyldren of Jsrael beganne agayne to cōmytte wyckednesse in ye syght of ye Lorde. And ye Lord deliuered thē into ye handes of ye Philistines fourtye yere. And there was a mā in Zaraah of ye kynred of ye Danites named Manoah/ whose wife was barrē & bare not. And the Angell of ye Lorde apeared vnto his wyfe & sayd vnto her: Behold/ thou art barrē & bearest not: But thou shalt cōceaue & beare a sonne . And now beware / and drynke no wyne / ner strong drynke / nether eate any vncleane thyng: for se/ thou shalt cōceaue & beare a sonne. And there may no* rasor ouer hys heed: For ye ladde shalbe an abstayner vnto God/ euen frō ye tyme of his byrth. And he shall beginne to deliuer Jsrael out of the handes of the Philistines.

*Nu. vi. b. Judic. xvi. b.

Then ye wyfe went & tolde her husbande saying: a man of God came vnto me, and the facyon of him was lyke the facion of an Angell of God exceadynge fearfull. But I asked him not whence he was / nether tolde he me his name. And he sayd vnto me: *beholde thou shalt be with chylde and beare a sonne / and now drynke no wyne nor stronge drynke/ nether eate any vncleane thyng: for the ladd shalbe an abstayner to God euen from hys byrth to the daye of his death.

*Gene. xvi. c. Luce. i. c

Then Manoah made intercession to the Lorde/ and sayde: I praye the my Lorde lett ye man of God which thou sendest come once moare vnto vs & teache vs what we shall do vnto ye ladd/ whē he is borne. And God hearde ye voyce of Manoah/ & ye angell of God came agayne vnto the wyfe as she satt in the feld: But Manoah her husbande was not wt her. Then ye wife made haste & rāne & shewed her husbād & sayde to him: Beholde ye mā apeared vnto me ye came ye other daye vnto me.

And Manoah arose & wēt after hys wyfe and came to the mā and sayde vnto hym: art thou the man ye spakest vnto my wyfe? And he sayde/ yee. Then Manoah sayde/ now whē thy saying is come to passe: what shalbe the maner of the chylde/ & what shall ye do? And the Angell of the Lord sayde vnto Manoah: thy wyfe must abstayne frō all that I sayde vnto her: she maye eate of nothyng ye cometh of the vyne tree/ ner dryncke wyne or strong drynck/ nor eate any vncleane thynge: But must obserue all that I bad her . Then sayde Manoah vnto the Angell of ye Lord/ graūte vs to tarye vntill we haue made redye a kydd & haue set it before ye. And ye angell of ye Lord sayde vnto Manoah: though thou make me abyde/ I wyll not eate of thy meate. And moreouer yf thou wylt prepare a burntoffryng/ ye thou must offer vnto ye Lord. For Manoah wist not ye it was an angell of ye Lorde. And Manoah sayd vnto ye angell of ye Lord: what is thy name/ ye whē thy sayīgis come to passe/ we maye do ye some worshippe? And the angell of ye Lorde sayde vnto hym: why askest thou after my name? when it is marueloule.

And Manoah toke a kydde wt a meate offering & offered it vpō a rocke vnto ye Lord. And ye angell did wonderfully/ Manoah & his wyfe lokyng vpō. For whē ye flame came vp out of ye aultare/ ye angell of ye Lord ascēded vp in ye flame of ye aultare. And Manoah & hys wyfe loked vpō & fell flat on their faces vnto the groūde: But ye angell of ye Lord dyd nomoare apeare vnto Manoah & hys wyfe. And then Manoah knew ye it was an angell of the Lorde: & sayde vnto his wyfe: we shall suerlye dye/ because we haue sene God. But his wyfe sayde vnto hym: If ye Lorde wolde kill vs/ he wolde not haue receaued a burntoffring & a meate offring of oure hōdes/ nether wolde he haue shewed vs all these thynges/ nor wolde haue tolde vs as he hath of thynges to come. And the wyfe bare a sonne/ and called his name Samson. And the ladd grewe/ and the Lorde blessed him . And the spyrite of the Lorde beganne fyrst to be with the house of Dan/ betwene Zaraah and Eshaol.

¶ The maryage of Samson. He spyteth a Lyon. He proppoundeth a ryddle. He slyeth .xxx. men. His wyfe forsaketh hym & taketh another.

¶ The .xiiij. Chapter.

SAmson wēt doune to Thamnath & sawe a womā in Thamnath of the the daughters of the Philistines & came vp and tolde hys father & hys mother, and sayde: I haue sene a woman in Thamnath

Thamnath of ỹ daughters of ỹ Philistines. And now geue her me to wyfe. Then his father and mother sayde vnto him / is there neuer a womā of the daughters of thy brethrē / amonge all my people: but that thou must go & fette a wyfe of the vncircumcysed Philistines? And Samson sayd vnto his father / geue me this womā for she pleaseth me well But his father and mother wist not that it was the Lordes doing / and that he sought an occasyon of the Philistines, which at that
B tyme raygned ouer Israel.

Then went Samson and hys father and his mother downe to Thamnath. And when they came to the vyneyardes of Thamnath: beholde a young Lyon roared vpon hym. And the spyrite of the Lorde came vpon hym. And he tare him / as a man wolde rent a kydde / and yet had nothing in his hande. Neuerthelater he tolde not his father & mother what he had done. And he went downe and talked with the woman / which semed well fauored in the syght of Samson.

And within a shorte space after / as he wēt thither agayne to take her to wyfe / he turned out of ỹ waye / to se ỹ carkasse of ỹ Lyō. And beholde there was a swarme of bees in the carkasse of the Lyon and honye. And he toke of the honye in hys handes and went eatyng / and came to hys father and mother and gaue them also. And they dyd eate. But he tolde not them / that he had takē the honye out of the carkasse of the Lyon.

And when is father was come vnto the
C woman. Samson made there a feast / for so vsed the younge men to do. And when her frendes sawe him / they brought .xxx. companyons to beare felowshippe. And Samson sayde vnto them: I wyll put forthe a ryddle vnto you. And yf you can declare it within vii. dayes of the feast and fynde it out / I wyll geue you thyrtie shertes and thirtye chaūge of garmentes: But & yf you cannot declare it me / then shall ye geue me thirtye shertes & thirtie chaunge of garmentes. And they answered him / put forth thy ryddle and lett vs heare it. And he sayde vnto them. Out of ỹ eater came meate: and out of the strong came swetnesse. And they coulde not in thre dayes
D expounde the ryddle. And whē the seuēth daye was come / they sayde vnto Samsons wyfe. Flatter with thyne husbande / that he maye declare vs thy ryddle / or elles we wyll burne the and thy fathers house with fyre / haue ye called vs to make vs beggers or not? Then Samsons wyfe wepte vnto him and sayde / it cannot be but that thou hatest me & louest me not: for thou hast put forth a ryddle vnto the children of my folke and wylt not tell me what it meaneth. And he sayde: Beholde / I haue not tolde it my father nor my mother / and shulde I tell it the?

And she wepte vnto him .vii. dayes / while the feaste lasted. And the seuēth daye he tolde her, because she laye so sore vpō him. And she tolde it the chyldren of her folke. And ỹ men of the cyte sayde vnto him the seuenth daye before the sonne wēt downe. What is sweter then honye / and what is strōger then a Lyon Then sayde he vnto thē: If ye had not * plowed with my caulfe ye had not founde out my ryddle. Then the spyrite of the Lorde came vpō hym. And he went downe to Ashalon & slewe thyrtie men of them / and spoyled thē / and gaue their garmentes vnto them which expounded the ryddle. And he was wroth and wēt vp to his fathers house. But Samsons wyfe was geuen to one of his companyons that bare him companye.

* That is / If ye had not taken the heaipe of my wyfe as in Dict.

Samson tyeth fyrebrādes to fox tayles & letteth them runne in to the corne and burne it / to be auēged of them that tooke his wyfe from him. With the Jawe bone of an Asse he sleeth a thousand men. Out of a great tothe in the Jawe God geueth him water / to satisfye his thyrst.

The.xv. Chapter.

But it chaūced within a whyle after euen in the tyme of wheate harueste, ỹ Samson visited hys wyfe with a kidde. And when he supposed to haue gone in vnto hys wyfe into the chamber her father wolde not suffre hym to go in: But sayde: I thought that thou haddest hated her, & therfore gaue I her vnto one of thy companyons How be it, her younger sister is fayrer then she. Take her in steade of the other. Then sayde Samson vnto them: Now I am blameles cōcernyng the Philistines though I do them euell.

And Samson went out and caught thre hundred foxes, and toke fyrebrandes, & fastened tayle to tayle, and put a fyre brāde in ỹ myddes betweene two tayles. And he sett ỹ fyre brandes on fyre and put them into the corne of the Philistines, and burnt vp bothe the reped corne and also the standynge, with vynes & oliues Then the Philistines asked, B who had done that? And it was tolde thē that Samson ỹ sonne in lawe of the Thamnite / because he had taken his wyfe and geuē her to one of his cōpanyons. And ỹ Philistines came & burnt her and her father with fyre.

And Samson sayde vnto them: shulde ye do so? I wyll surelye be auenged of you / & then I wyll ceasse. And he smote them* legge & thyghe with a mightye plage. And then he wēt & dwelt in the caue of the rocke Etam.

Then the Philistines came vp & pytched agaynst Juda and laye in Lehi. And the men of Juda sayde, why are ye come agaynst vs?

* Or cause they fell as they fleeh. The Chald. readeth Interp. horsemen and foteme.

And they answered to bynde Samson are we come/euen to do him as he hathe done to vs. Then thre thousand men of Juda went downe to the caue of the rocke Etam/& sayde to Samson: wottest thou not that ỹ Philistines are rulers ouer vs? Wherfore then hast thou serued vs thus? And he answered thẽ/as they serued me/so haue I serued thẽ.

And they sayde vnto him/ we are come to bynde the & to deliuer ỹ into the hãdes of ỹ Philistines. And Samson sayde vnto them: Swere vnto me/ ỹ ye shall not hurte me youre selues. And they sayde we will not hurte ỹ/ saue only bynde ỹ and deliuer ỹ vnto their handes: But we will not kyll the. And so they bounde him with two newe cordes and brought him vp from the rocke. And when he come to Lehi / the Philistines showted agaynst him. And the spyrete of ỹ Lord came vpon hym/ and the cordes that were vpõ hys armes became as flaxe that was burnt with fire/ and the bandes loused frõ of his handes And he founde a Jaw bone of a ratten Asse/ and put forth hys hande and caught it, & slue a thousande men therwith.

And Samson sayde: wyth the Jawe of an asse/ haue I made heapes: wyth the Jawe of an asse haue I slayne a thousande men. D And whẽ he had left speakyng/ he cast awaye the Jawe out of hys hande & called the place *Ramath Lehi. And he was sore a thyrst / & called on the Lorde and sayde. Thou Lorde hast geuen this great victorye / thorowe the hande of thy seruaunt. And now I must dye for thyrst and falle into the handes of the vncircumcysed. But God brake a great tothe that was in the Jawe/ and there came water therout. And when he had droncke his spyrte came agayne & he was refreshed/ wherfore the name therof was called, *the welle of the caller on / whych is in Lehi vnto thys daye. And he iudged Israel in the dayes of the Philistines twentye yeres.

* Heb: Enhore

Samson lyfteth vp the Gates of Gaza and carryeth them vp in to the mountayne. He was betrayed by Dalilah & made blynde he pulleth downe the house vpon the Philistines and dyeth with them.

The.xvi. Chapter.

Then went Samson to Gaza/ and saw there an whore & went in vnto her. And it was tolde the Gazites that Samson was come thither. And they wẽt aboute and layde awaite for him all nyght in the gate of the cyte/ but were styll all the nyght saying: Carye tyll ỹ morning ỹ it be daye/ & then lett vs kyll him And Samson tooke his rest tyll midnyght/ and arose at midnyght and toke the dores of the gate of the cite, & the two syde postes, & rent them of, barres and all/ & put them vpõ his shoulders/ and caryed thẽ vp to the toppe of an hyll that lyeth before Hebron.

And after that he loued a woman/ vpõ the ryuer of Sorek/ called Dalilah vnto whom came the Lordes of the Philistines / & sayde vnto her: Flatter with hym & se wherin hys great strenght lyeth/ and by what meane we maye haue power ouer hym, that we maye bynde him/ to bryng him vnder/ and we will geue euerye mã a leuẽ hundred syluerlynges. B

And Dalilah sayde to Samson. Oh/ tell me where thy great strẽght lyeth / & yf thou were boũde wherwith men might cõstrayne the. And Samson sayde vnto her. If men bounde me with .vij. grene withyes ỹ were neuer dryed/ I shulde be weake & as another man. And then the Lordes of the Philistines brought her .vij. withyes ỹ were yet grene & neuer dryed/ and she bounde him therwith. Notwythstandynge she had men lyenge in wayte with her in the chãbre. And she sayde vnto him, the Philistines be vpon the Samson. And he brake the cordes as a stryngе of towe breaketh, when hit fealeth fire. And so his strenght was not knowen.

Then sayde Dalilah to Samson: Se thou hast mocked me and tolde me lyes. Now yet tell me I praye ỹ/ wherwith thou myghtest be bounde. And he sayde: If I were bounde with newe ropes that neuer were occupyed/ then shulde I be weake/ and as another mã. And Dalilah toke new ropes & bounde him therwith/ & sayde vnto him / the Philistines be vpon the Samson. And there were lyers of wayte in the chamber/ and he brake them from of hys armes / as they had bene but a threde. And Dalilah sayd vnto Samson/ hitherto thou hast begyled me & tolde me lyes: I praye the yet tell me wherwith men maye bynde ỹ. And he sayde vnto her: If thou plattedest the seuen lockes of my heed wyth an hearre lace and fastnedest thẽ wyth a nayle. And she sayde vnto hym / the Philistines be vpõ the Samson. And he awaked out of his slepe, & plucked & went awaye with ỹ nayle ỹ was in the plattyng & with ỹ hearre lace. Then she sayde vnto him: How canst thou say ỹ thou louest me/ when thyne hert is not with me: for thou hast mocked me this .iij. tymes/ & hast not tolde wherin thy great strenght lyeth. And as she laye vpõ hym with her wordes cõtinually vexyng of him, his soule was encombred euẽ vnto the death. And he tolde her all his herte, and sayde vnto her: there neuer came raser nor sheres vpõ myne heed/ for I haue bene an abstaynert to God euẽ frõ my mothers wombe. If myne hearre were cut of, my strẽght wold go frõ me & I shuld ware a be lyke all other men. And when Dalilah sawe ỹ he had tolde her all his hert / she sent for for the Philistines saying / come vp yet this once, for he hath shewed me all his herte.

Then the Lordes of the Philistines came and brought the money in their handes. And she made him slepe vpon her lappe / and sent for a man / and cut of the seuē lockes of his heed & begāne to vexe him. But his strenght was gone from him. And she sayde the Philistines be vpōche Samson. And he awooke out of his slepe and thought to go out as at other tymes before & shake him selfe & wist not that the Lorde was departed from hym. But ỹ Philistines toke him and put out his eyes, and brought hym doune to Gaza / and bounde him with fetters. And he was made to grinde in the prison house / how be it the hearre of his heed beganne to growe agayne after that he was shorne.

Then ỹ Lordes of ỹ Philistines gathered thē to gether for to offer a solempne offring vnto Dagon their God / & to reioyse: for they sayde / oure God hathe delyuered Samson oure enemye into oure handes. And whē the people sawe him / they praysed their God: for they sayd oure God hath delyuered into oure handes oure enemye / ỹ destroyed oure contreye and slue manye of vs. And when their hertz were merye they sayd: sende for Samson ỹ lett him playe before vs. And they fette Samson out of ỹ prisonhouse / & he played before thē / & they set him betwene ỹ pilliers. And Samson sayde vnto the ladd that led him by the hāde: lett me that I maye touche the pyllers that the house stande vpō / & that I maye leane to thē. And the house was full of men & wemen. And there was all ỹ lordes of the Philistines. And there were vpon the rouffe a thre thousand men & wemen / that beheld how Samson played.

And Samson called vnto the Lorde / and sayde: my Lorde Iehouah thynke vpon me / & strengthen me, at this tyme onlye O God / that I maye be auenged of the Philistines for my two eyes. And Samson caught the two myddell pyllers on which ỹ house stode and on which it was borne vp, the one in his right hande, & the other in his lefte / & sayde: my soule dye with the Philistines / & bowed them with might. And the house fell vpon ỹ lordes and vpō all the people ỹ were therin. And so the dede which he slewe at his deth / were moo then they which he slewe in his lyfe. And then his brethren and all the house of his father came downe and toke hym vp / and brought hym and buryed hym betwene Zarah and Eshaol, in the buryng place of Manoah his father. And he iudged Israell twentye yere.

Of Micah whose mother made him an Idoll of syluer. Of the young preest of the lynage of Leui of Bethlehem.

The.xvij.Chapter.

There was a mā in mount Ephraim / named Micah which sayde vnto his mother: the seuē hūdred syluerlynges ỹ were take frō the / about which thou curssedst & saydest in myne eares: Beholde the syluer is with me for I toke it awaye. Then sayd his mother / blessed be thou my sonne / in the Lord. And so he restored the seuen hundred syluerlynges to his mother agayne. And his mother sayde: I vowed the syluer vnto the Lorde of myne hande for my sonne: to make a grauē ymage & an ymage of metall. Now therfore I geue it ỹ agayne. And he restored the moneye agayne vnto his mother. Then his mother toke two hundred syluerlynges & put them to a goldsmyth / to make therof a grauē ymage and a ymage of metall, which remayned in the house of Micah. And ỹ mā Micah had a chapell of Gods / and made an Ephod and ymages, & fylled the hand of one of his sonnes which became his preest. For in those dayes there was no kyng in Israel, but euery man dyd what thought hym best.

And there was a younge mā out of Bethlehem Iuda, & out of the kynredes of Iuda: which young man was a Leuite and soiourned there. And the mā departed out of ỹ citie of Bethlehem Iuda / to go dwell where he coulde fynde a* place And he came to mount Ephraim & to ỹ house of Micah as he iourneyed And Micah sayde vnto hym / whence comest thou? and the Leuite answered him: I am of Bethlehem Iuda, & go to dwell where I maye fynde a place. And Micah sayde vnto him: dwell with me / and be vnto me a father and a preest. And I wyll geue ỹ ten syluerlynges by yere and rayment of all sortes / and thy meate and drynke.

And the Leuite went & beganne to dwell with the man / and was vnto hym as dere as one of his owne sonnes. And Micah fylled ỹ hande of the Leuite, and the young man became his preest, and cōtynued in the house of Micah. Then sayde Micah, now I am suer ỹ the Lorde will be good vnto me / seing I haue a Leuite to my preest.

¶ The childre of Dan take the Goddes & the preast of Micah awaye. They destroye Lais & after bylde it agayne.

¶ The .xviij. Chapter.

IN those dayes there was no kyng in Israel. And in those dayes the trybe of Dan sought them an enheritaunce to dwell in / for vnto that tyme there fell none enheritaunce vnto them amonge the trybe of Israel. And the childre of Dan sent of their kynred fyue men of actiuite / out of their coostes / eue out of Zarsah & Elthaol / to bewe the lande & learche it out / & sayde vnto them: go & learche out the lande. And they came to mount Ephraim / eue to the house of Micah & lodged there. And whe they were come vnto the house of Micah / they knew the voice of the yong ma the Leuite / & turned in thither / and sayde vnto him: who brought the hither? & what makest thou in this place? & what hast thou here. And he sayd vnto the / thus and thus dealeth Micah wyth me and hath hired me to be his preast. And they sayd vnto him: Aske of God I praye the / that we maye knowe whether the waye which we go / shalbe prosperous or no. And the preast sayd vnto them: go in peace / for the waye whych ye go is before the Lorde.

Then the fyue men departed and came to Lais / & sawe the people that were therin / how they dwelt carelesse / after the maner of the Sidons / stille / & without castyng of pareli / & that no ma made any trouble in the lande or vsurped any dominion / & how they were farre fro the Sidons & had no busines with any nacyon. And they came vnto their bre thre / to Zarsah / & Elthaol. And their brethre sayde vnto them: what tydynges bryng you?

And they sayd vp and lett vs go vnto the / * for we haue sene the lande & it is verye good. Haste therfore & be not slouthfull to departe & to go & conquere the lande. whe ye be come / ye shall come vnto a people that casteth no pareles / and vnto a large contrey: for God hathe geue into youre hades a place wherin is no lacke of any thyng that is in the worlde. * Iumeryij.d.

And there departed thence of the kynred of the Danites out of Zarsah and Elthaol fyue hudred men apoynted with instrumetes of warre. And they wet & pytched in Kariath Iarim in Iuda. Wherfore the place is called Mahanah Dan vnto this daye / which is on the backsyde of Kariath Iarim. And they wet thence vnto mount Ephraim / & came to the house of Micah. Then answered the fyue men that went to spye out the cotreye of Lais / & sayde vnto their brethren: wot ye not that there is in these houses an Ephod & Images / & a grae Image / and an Image of metall? Now therfore consyder what ye haue to do.

And they turned thyther warde & came to the house of the younge man the Leuite in the house of Micah / & saluted him peasably. And the fyue hudred men gyrded wt wepons of warre which were of the childre of Dan stode in the entrynge of the gate. And the fyue men that went to spye out the lande / went in thither and toke the kerued Image / & the Ephod the kerued Image / & the Image of metall. And the preast stode in the entrynge of the gate with the fyue hudred men that were armed vnto battell / while the other wet to Micahs house / and fett the kerued Image / the Ephod / the kerued Image and the Image of metall. Then sayde the preast vnto the: what do ye? & they answered hym / holde thy peace and* put thyne hande vpo thy mouthe / and come with vs and be vnto vs a father and a preast / whether is it better for the to be a preast vnto the house of one man / or to be preast vnto a tribe or a kinred in Israel? And the preast was glad and toke the Ephod and the Images / and the grauen Image / & went with the people. And they turned & departed / and put the chyldre / the catell & their coslyre thynges before them. * Or this is Iob.xxxi.d.

When they were a good waye fro the house of Micah / the men that were in the houses that were by Micahs house made an out crye / and folowed after the childre of Dan and called vnto the. And they turned their faces / and sayde vnto Micah / what ayleth the / that thou makest an outcrye: And he sayde / ye haue take awaye my Goddes which I made & also the preast / and go youre wayes wyth the: And what haue I moare / how then saye ye vnto me / what ayleth the? And the childre of Dan sayde vnto him / let not thy voyce be heard amonge vs / lest angrye felowes runne vpon the / and thou loose thy lyfe / wyth the lyues of all thyne housholde to. And so the childre of Dan went their wayes. And whe Micah sawe that they were to stronge for him / he turned & went backe vnto his house agayne.

And they toke the thynges which Micah had made / and the preast which he had / and went vnto Lais / euen vnto a people that were at reast and without mistrust / and smote the wyth the edge of the swerde and burnt the cytye wyth fyre. And there was no man to helpe / because it was farre from Sidon / and they had no medelynge wyth any other nacyon. And the cytye stode in the valeye that lyeth by Bethrehob. And they bylt the cytye and dwelt therin. * And called it Dan / after the name of Dan their father whych was borne vnto Israell. How be it in very deade the name of the cytye was Lais at the begynnynge. * Iosue.xix.d.

And the chyldren of Dan set them vp the grauen Image. And Jonathan the sonne of Gerson/the sonne of Manasses & his sonnes were the preastes vnto ỹ trybe of the Dantes/vntyll they were caried awaye out of the lande captiue. And they sett them vp the kerued Image which Micah made/all ỹ while that the house of God was in Siloh.

¶ The.xix.Chapter.

A And it chaunced in those dayes/when there was no kyng in Israell, that a certē Leuyte dwellyng on ỹ syde of mount Ephraim/toke to wyfe a concubyne out of Bethlehem Juda: whych concubine played the whore in hys house/& went awaye frō him, vnto her fathers house to Bethlehem Juda/& there cōtinued foure monethes. And her husband arose and went after her/to speake frendelye vnto her/& to bryng her home againe/& his ladd with him & a couple of Asses. And she brought him vnto her fathers house/& when the father of ỹ damosell sawe him, he reioyced of his comyng. And his father in lawe the damoselles father kept him that he abode with him thre dayes and so they ate and dranke and lodged there.

B The fourth daye they arose erlye in the mornyng/& the man rode vp to departe. But the damoselles father sayde vnto his sonne in lawe/cōfort thine harte wt a morsell of breed & then go youre waye. And they sate doune & did eate and drynk bothe of them to geather. Then sayde the damoselles father vnto the man go to I praye the and tarye all nyght & lett thyne hart be mery. How be it ỹ mā rode vp to depart: but his father in lawe cōpelled him to turne againe & to tarie all night there And he rose vp erlye ỹ fyfth daye to departe. ¶ Thē sayde ỹ damoselles father cōfort thine herte: & so made hī tarye vntill after middaye And they did eate bothe of them to geather.

And then the man arose to departe wyth his concubine and his ladde. But hys father in law the damoselles father sayde vnto him beholde the daye gothe fast awaye & draweth towarde euē, tary all night: at the least waye tarye this daye here and let thyne hert be mery. And to morowe get you erlye vpō youre waye and get the to thy tent. Neuerthelater the mā wolde not tary/but arose & departed and came as ferre as Jebus/whych is Jerusalem/& hys two asses laden/and hys* concubyne and his ladd with him. And whē they were fast by Jebus, the daye was sore spent and the younge man sayde vnto hys master/ come I praye the & let vs turne in into thys citie of the Jebusites & lodge all night there.

* Herenote that a concubyne in the scripture sygnifyeth not a whore but a maryed wyfe put in some places differing frō queenes in Lat. vxor. Heb. pilegesch.

But his master sayde vnto him we wyll not turne in to a straunge cytye that are not of the children of Israell: we wyll go forth to Gabaah. And he sayde vnto his ladde go forwarde/& we shall come to one place or other & shall lodge all nyght in Gabaah or in Ramah. And they went forwarde vpon their waye, and the sonne went downe vpon them when they were fast by Gabaah whych is in Benjamin. And they turned thitherwarde to go and lodge all nyght in Gabaah. And whē they came in/they sat thē doune in a streat of the citie/for there was no man toke them in to lodge. But beholde there came an olde man from his worke/out of the feldes at euē which was also of mount Ephraim/and but a straunger in Gabaah for the men of ỹ place were of the children of Jemini. And when he had lyfte vp his eyes/and sawe a wayefaring mā in the streates of ỹ citie he sayde: whether goest thou? And whence comest thou? And ỹ C other answerde hym, we come from Bethlehē Juda towarde the syde of mount Ephraim: from thence am I, and went to* Bethlehem Juda and go now to the house of the Lorde. But there is no man that receaueth me to house: and yet haue strawe & prouender for owre Asses, and bread and wyne for me and thy handmayde, & thy ladd that are with thy seruaunt/and lacke nothyng.

And they washed their fete/and dyd eate and dryncke. And* as they were makyng their bertes merye, the men of the citie which were wycked set the house round about, and thrust at the doze/& spake to the man of the house/the olde man saying: bryng forthe the man that came into thyne house/that we maye knowe him.

Then all the chyldren of Israell wēt out. and there gathered a congregacyon together* as it had bene but one mā, euē frō Dā to Berseba & out of the lande of Galaad vnto the lande to Maryphah and there rose folke out of all quarters of all the trybes of Israell, in the congregacyon of the people of God / foure hundred thousande fote men that drewe swerdes. And the chyldren of Beniamin hearde that the children of Israell were gone vp to Maryphah.

* That is al of one consent or generally as breth in thys Chapter.b.

Then sayde the chyldren of Israell/ tell vs how this wickednesse happened. And the leuite the womans husbande that was slayne/ answered and sayde: I came into Gabaah yt is in Beniamin with my concubyne to lodge all nyght. And the cytezens of Gabaah rose agaynst me/ and set the house rounde about vpon me by nyght / and thought to haue slayne me: and caught my concubyne and forced her, that she dyed. And I toke my concubyne and cutt her in peces and sent her thorow out all the landes of the enheritaūce of Israel. For they haue cōmitted abhominacyon and folly in Israell. Beholde ye are all chyldren of Israell. Se therfore and geue youre aduyse in the case.

Then all the people arose / as it had ben one man saying: there shall not a man of vs go to his tent, nether turne in to hys house. And now this is it that we will do to Gabaah
B and cast lottes agaynst it. And we wyll take ten men of the hundred thorow out all the trybes of Israell/ & an hundred of the thousande / and a thousande out of the ten thousande/ to fett vitayle for the people to make that they maye go agaynst Gabaah Beniamin/ accordyng to all the folye / yt they haue wrought in Israell. And so all the men of Israell geathered to geather / vnto Gabaah/ knytte to geather as it had ben but one man. And the trybes of Israell sent men thorow all the trybe of Beniamin saying: what wickednesse is this that is happened amōge you Now therfore delyuer vs the mē, those wycked wretches of Gabaah that we maye slee them, and put awaye euell from Israell.

Neuertheles the chyldren of Beniamin wolde not herken vnto the voyce of their brethren the chyldren of Israell: but geathered them selues to geather out of the cytes vnto Gabaah to come out in batayle agaynst the chyldren of Israell. But they so suffyced them not. And the people had compassyon on Beniamin/because ỳ God had *made a gappe in the trybes of Jsraell. And then the elders of the congregacyon sayde: what shall we do to the remnaunt of them/to get them wiues seyng al ỳ wiues of Beniamin are destroyed? And they sayde there must be an enheritaūce for them that be escaped of Beniamin that a trybe be not destroyed out of Jsraell: how be it we maye not geue them wyues of oure daughters. For the chyldren of Jsraell had made an adiuracion saying: curssed be he ỳ geueth a wyfe to Beniamin.

Then they sayde: beholde, there is a feast of the Lorde yerlye in Silo which is on the northsyde of Bethel, & on the east syde of the waye that gothe from Bethel to Sichem and south from Libanon. And they commaunded the chyldren of Beniamin saying: go and lye in wayte in the vyneyardes. And whē ye se that the daughters of Silo come out to daunce in a rowe, then come ye out of the vyneyardes, and catche you euerye mā a wyfe of the daughters of Silo/& gett you vnto the lande of Beniamin. The boke of Ruth

¶ The.fyrst.Chapter.

IN the tyme when the Judges iudged / there felle a darth in the lande. Wherfore a certen man of Bethlehē Juda went for to sojourne in the cōtreye of Moab with his wyfe and two sonnes. The name of the man was Elimelec/and hys wyfe Noemi / and the names of his two sonnes were / Mahalon and Chilion & they were Ephrates, out of Bethlehē Juda. And when they came into ỳ lande of Moab / they contynued there. And Elemilec Noemies husband dyed / and she remayned with her two sonnes which toke thē wyues of the nacions of the Moabites: the ones name Orphah and the others Ruth. And when they had dwelled there aboute a ten yere/Mahalon & Chilion dyed also euen both two of them/so that the wyfe was lefte desolate of her two sonnes & of her husbande therto. Then she rode vp with her daughters in lawe and returned from the contrey of Moab: for she had hearde saye / beyng in the cōtreye of Moab: how that the Lorde had vysyted hys people and geuen them fode. Wherfore she departed out of ỳ place where she was & her two daughters with her. And as they went by the waye returnyng vnto ỳ lande of Juda / Noemi sayde vnto her two daughters in lawe: go & returne eche of you vnto youre mothers house: the Lorde deale as kyndlye with you / as ye haue dealt wyth the deed & with me. And the Lorde geue you that you maye fynde rest ether of you in the house of her husbande: and so she kyssed thē.

Then they cryed and wepte & sayde vnto her we wyll go with the vnto thy folke. But Noemi sayde / turne agayne my daughters: for what cause woilde you go wt me? thynke you that ther be any moare chyldren in my bowelles/to be youre husbandes? Turne agayne my daughters & go: for I am to olde to haue an husband. If I sayde I haue hope/ also yf I toke a mā this nyght: ye and though I had all readye borne sonnes: wolde ye tarye after thē/tyll they were of age? or wolde ye for them so long refrayne from takyng of husbandes? Not so my daughters: for it greueth me moche for youre sakes/ỳ the hande of the Lorde is gone out agaynst me.

Therwith they cryed and wepte agayne how be how be it Orphah kissed her mother in lawe but Ruth aboade still by her/then she sayde: se/thy systerlaw is gone backe againe vnto her people & vnto her God: returne thou after her. But Ruth sayde: entreate me not to leaue the/and to returne from after the / for whether thou goest/I will go/& where thou dwellest /there I will dwelle: thy people are my people/and thy God is my God. Where thou diest/I will dye/and there wilbe buried a The Lorde do so and so.&c. was a maner of swearyng amongst the Hebrues. As we now cry to God be my healp. in Reg xx. & xxi. suche sayinges are properly called protestacyons.

a The Lorde do so and so to me, except that death onlye departe the and me a sonder.

When she sawe that she wolde neades go wt her she lefte speakyng vnto her. And so they went bothe togather vntyll they came to Bethlehem. And when they were come to Bethlehem it was noysed thorow all ỹ citie and the women sayde: is not this Noemi?

But she sayde vnto them calle me not* Noemi: call me* Mara, for the almightye hath made me verye bitter. I went out full: but ỹ Lorde hath brought me home empte. Why shulde ye then calle me Noemi. seing ỹ Lorde hath humbled me & ỹ almightie hathe brought me vnto aduersyte? And the tyme when Noemi wyth Ruth the Moabytesse her daughter in lawe returned out of the countreye of Moab and came to Bethlehem/was in ỹ begynnyng of barley harueste.

¶ The seconde Chapter.

And Noemi had a kynsma of her husbandes a man of myght of the kynred of Elimelec named Booz. And Ruth ỹ Moabytesse sayde vnto Noemi let me go to ỹ felde and lease & geather eares after whosoeuer I fynde grace in hys syght. And she sayde vnto her: go my daughter. And she went and came and geathered after the harueste men, and her chaunce was that parte of the felde pertayned vnto Booz wh̄ych was of the kynred of Elimelec. And beholde, Booz came from Bethlehem & sayde vnto the harueste men / the Lorde be wyth you. And they answered hym the Lorde blesse the. Then sayde Booz vnto the young man that had the ouersyght of the harueste men. Whose damosell is this? And ỹ young man that was sett to ouer se the harueste men answered and sayde: it is the Moabitish damosell that came wyth Noemi out of the countrey of Moab / and she sayde / let me I praye ỹ / lease & geather after the harueste men the eares that remayne: & so she came and hath contynued euen from the morning vnto now / and tarryed not long in the house.

Then sayde Booz vnto Ruth: hearest thou my daughter: go to no nother felde to geather/nether go from hence; but abyde by my maydens. Thyne eyes are on a felde ỹ shalbe reped: go after ỹ maydēs therfore / for I haue charged the young men / that they touche ỹ not. Moreouer when thou art a thyrst / go vnto the vessels and dryncke of that which ỹ laddes haue drawē. Then she fell on her face & bowed her selfe to ỹ grounde & sayde vnto him: how is it ỹ I haue founde grace in thine eyes/to knowe me/seing I am an alyaunt? ¶

* Gen. xxviij. a

And Booz answered & sayde vnto her: all is tolde me ỹ thou hast done vnto thy mother in lawe sence ỹ death of thine husbande/how thou hast lefte thy father & thy mother/& the lāde where thou wast borne/& art come vnto a nacō which thou knewest not in tyme paste. The Lorde quyte thy worcke/and a full rewarde be geuē ỹ of ỹ Lorde God of Israel vnto whom thou art come/to trust vnder his wynges. Thē she sayde vnto him/let me finde fauoure in thy sighte my Lorde/for thou hast cōforted me & hast spoken hartelye vnto thy mayde / whych yet cānot be lyke vnto one of thy maydes. And Booz whē ỹ tyme of refeccō was come/sayde vnto her: come hither & eate of ỹ breed / & dippe thy soppe in the vinagre. And she sat doune by the repers & he raught her* parched corne. And so she did eate & was* Iosue. v. c. sufficed & lefte parte. And whē she was rysen vp to gather/Booz sayde to ỹ youg mē saying let her gather ỹ eares & remayne & do her no despite. And therto pull out of ỹ sheues for her & let it lye, ỹ she maye gather it vp / & rebuke her not. And so she geathered vntill euē & then thressched ỹ she had gathered/& it was vpō an Epha of barleye. And she tooke it vp & wēt to the citie/& shewed her mother in lawe what she had gathered. And therto she plucked out & gaue to her ỹ she had reserued whē she had eatē ynough. Then sayde her mother in lawe vnto her / where gatheredst thou to daye? and where wroughtest thou? blessed be he ỹ knewe ỹ. And she shewed her mother in lawe wt whō she had wrought & sayde: the mannes name wt whō I wrought to daye is Booz. Then sayde Noemi vnto her daughter in law: blessed be he for he ceasseth not to do ỹ same goodnesse to ỹ dede/ ỹ he did to ỹ lyuing And Noemi sayde vnto her: ỹ mā is nye vnto vs euē of our enest kynne. And Ruth ỹ Moabite sayde: he bad me also/ ỹ I shuld cōtinew wt his young men, vntil they had ended all ỹ harueste he hath. Thē sayde Noemi vnto Ruth her daughter in law/it is best my daughter ỹ thou go out wyth his maydens / and that no man mete the in any other felde. And so she kept her by the maydens of Booz / to gather vnto ỹ ende of barley harueste and of wheate harueste also: & dwelt with her mother in lawe

¶ The iij. Chapter.

And

Then Noemi her mother in law sayd vnto her: my daughter I wyll seke rest for the, that thou mayst be in better case. For now thys Booz oure kynsman wyth whose maydens thou wast, wenoweth his barleye to nyght in the threshyng floure: washe thy selfe therfore & anoynt the & put thy rayment vpon the, and gett the to the threshing floure. But let not ỹ man beware of the, vntyll he haue leaft eatyng and dryncking. And when he gothe to slepe, marcke the place where he layth hym downe, & them go and lyfte vp ỹ clothes that are on his fete, and laye the doune and so shall he tell the what thou shalt do. And she answered her: all that thou byddist me I wyll do. And so she went vnto the floure, and dyd accordynge to all ỹ her mother in lawe bade her. And when Booz had eaten and dronckē and made hym merye, he went & laye doune by the syde of the heape. And she came softlye and lyfte vp the clothes of hys fete, & layde her doune. And at mydnyght the man was afrayde and groped. And behelde: a woman laye at his fete. Then he sayde what art thou and she answered, I am Ruth thyne handmayde, spreade thy mantell ouer thyne handmayde, for thou art the next of the kynne. And then he sayde blessed be thou in the Lord my daughter, for thou hast shewed more goodneffe in the later ende, then at the begynnyng, in as moche as thou folowedest not yonge mē, whether they were poore or ryche. And now my daughter feare not, I will do to the all that thou requerest, for all ỹ gates of my people knowe that thou art a woman of vertue. And it is true that I am of thy next kynne: how be it, there is one nyer then I. Tary all night. And when morynge is come yf he will marye the it is good, so let hym do. But and yf he will not haue the, as sure as the Lorde liueth I will haue ỹ lye still vntill ỹ morynge. And so she laye at his fete vntyll the morynge. And she arose vp before one could knowe another. And he saide: let no mā beware, that there came any womā vnto the threshing floure. And he saide: bryng thy mātell ỹ thou hast vpō the & holde it vp. And she helde it vp. And he mette in fyre measures of Barleye and layed it on her. And she gatt her into the citie: & she came in to her mother in lawe which saide: what tidynges my daughter? And she tolde her all that the man had done to her. And sayde therto, these fyre measures of barlye gaue he me and sayde: thou shalt not go empte vnto thy mother in lawe. Then sayde she: my daughter syt still, vntyll thou knowe how the matter wyll chaunce. For ỹ man will not be in reast vntill he haue fynyshed the matter thys same daye.

a. As sure as the Lorde liueth was a maner of swearing amōg the Hebrues, to shewe a dyffe-raunce of the Gētiles which sware by their Idolles. that lyued not. Ma. xxiij. b. & xxvi. b. and. xxvij. b

Then went Booz vnto the a gate & sate him doune there: and behelde, the kynsmā of whych Booz spake came by. Vnto whom he sayde come and syte doune here, and called him by hys name. And he turned in & sate doune. Then he toke ten mē of ỹ elders of ỹ citie & saide syt ye downe here. And they sat doune. Then he sayde vnto the kynsman: Noemi that is comē agayne out of ỹ cōtrye of Moab, will selle a parcell of lande whych was oure brother Elimelecs. And I thought to do the to wete and bidde the bye it before the enhabytoures and elders of my people, yf thou be dyspoced to calenge it: but & yf thou wilt not purchase it then tell me ỹ I maye wete it. For there is none to calēge it saue thou, and I nexte the. And the other answered I wyll purchase it.

a. The Gates in the scripture do oft tymes signifye the places where the people dyd cōmunlye assemble and where Iudgementes were geue and causes determined: for in olde time were suche thynges done in the Gates ỹ Reuel.a

Then sayde Booz, what daye thou byest the felde of ỹ hand of Noemi, thou must take also Ruth the Moabite the wyfe of ỹ dede, to stere vp the name of the dede vpon his enheritaunce. Then sayde the kynsman, I cannot purchase it for marryng of my owne enheritaunce: take thou my ryght to the, for I cannot purchase it. Now this was ỹ maner of olde tyme in Israell concernyng purches & chaungyng for to stablyshe all thyng: ỹ a man muste plucke of hys showe & geue it hys neyghboure, & this was a witnesse in Israel.

And the kynsman sayde to Booz, bye it thou: and so drue of hys showe. Then sayde Booz vnto the elders and vnto all the people ye are witnesses this daye, ỹ I haue bought all that was Elimelecs, & all that was Chylions and Mahelons, of the hand of Noemi. And moreouer Ruth the Moabite the wyfe of Mahelon, do I take vnto me to wyfe to stere vp the name of the dede vpon his enheritaunce, that his name be not put out from amonge hys brethren, and from the gate of hys cytye: ye are witnesses thys daye.

And all the people that were in the gate, & the elders sayde we are witnesses: ỹ Lorde make the woman ỹ is come into thyne house lyke Rahel & Lea, whych twayne dyd bylde the house of Israell: that she may* do vertuously in Ephrathah, & be famouse in Bethlehem, & that thyne house be lyke the house of Pharez whom Thamar bare vnto Juda, euen of the seed whych the Lorde shall gyue the of thys young woman.

* That is, that she may lyue well and honestlye.

And so Booz toke Ruth, and she was hys wyfe. And he wēt in vnto her, and the Lorde gaue that she conceaued and bare a sonne. And the wemen sayde vnto Noemi: blessed be the Lorde the whych hathe not left the wyth out out an heyre this daye* ꝑ shall haue a name in Israell, & that shall bryng thy life agayne and cherysshe thine olde age. For thy daughter in law which loueth the hath borne him that is better to the then seuē sonnes. And Noemi toke the chylde and layed it in her lappe, and became nourse vnto it. And her neybours gaue it a name sayng: there is a childe borne to Noemi, and called it Obed: he is the father of Isai, the father of Dauid. Thys is the generacyon of Pharez. Pharez begat Hezron: Hezron begat Ram. Ram begat Aminadab. Aminadab begat Nahason. Nahason begat Salmon. Salmō begat Booz. Booz begat Obed. Obed begat Isai. Isai begat Dauid.

* That is who se name shall remayne in Israel.

¶ Elkanah hath .ij. wiues Hannah & Phenenah. Phenēnah vpbrayeth Hānah because she is childelesse. Hānah after prayer made to God bringeth forth Samuel

¶ The .fyrst. Chapter.

THere was a man of Ramathaim Zophim / of mount Ephraim named Elkanah / ꝑ sonne of Jerohā / the sonne of Elihu, ꝑ sonne of Thohu / the sonne of Zuph an Ephrathite: which had two wiues, ꝑ one called Hannah & ꝑ other Phenēnah. And Phenēnah had childrē, but Hannah had none. And ꝑ sayde man went out of his citie euerye yeare full daye / to praye & to offer vnto ꝑ Lord of hostes: where the two sonnes of Eli (Hophni & Phinehes) were ꝑ Lordes priestes. And it fell on a daye as Elkanah had offered ꝑ he gaue to Phenēnah his wife & to all her sonnes & daughters portiōs. But vnto Hānah he gaue a' portiō wyth a heuye chere / for he loued her neuertheles the Lorde had made her barren. And therto her enemye Phenennah verred her a good in casting her in ꝑ tethe how ꝑ Lord had made her barren. And so did she yere by yere as ofte as she wēt vp to the house of ꝑ Lord. And so chafed her, wherfore Hannah wepte & ate not. Then sayde Elkanah her husband to her: Hannah why wepest thou? and why eatest thou not? & why is thyne herte so troubled? am not I better to the, then ten sonnes? Then Hannah rose vp after ꝑ they had eatē & droncke in Silo. And Eli the preaste sate vpō a stole by one of ꝑ syde postes of the tēple of ꝑ Lorde. And she was troubled in her spyrites, & prayed vnto ꝑ Lorde & wepte sore / & vowed a vowe & sayde Lorde of hostes, yf thou wilt loke on ꝑ wretchednesse of thyne handmayde & shalt remēbre me & not forget thyne hādmayde, & gyue vnto thine hādmayde a mānchylde I will geue him vnto ꝑ Lorde / all ꝑ dayes of his life & there shal nether raser or sheres come vpon his heed. And as she continued prayng before ꝑ Lord Eli marked her mouth. For Hannah she spake in her herte, & her lippes dyd but meue onlye, but her voyce was not heard. And therfore Eli toke her for dronkē & sayd vnto her how lōg wylt thou be dronkē? put away frō ꝑ ꝑ wyne ꝑ thou hast. Hannah answered & sayde: not so my Lorde / I am a woman sorowfull in myne herte / and haue dronke neither wyne nor any strong drynck / but I haue* poured out my soule before the Lorde. Count not thyne handmayde to be lyke a daughter of vnthryftines: for out of the aboundaunce of my meditacō and greate haue I spoken hytherto.

a To poure out her soule is to shewe all her herte & affeccō & declare hyr mynde effectually / to praye ernestly & wt wepyng to vtter her whole entent and thought. Psal. xli.

Eli answered and sayde: go in peace the God of Israell shall graunt the thy peticyon that thou hast asked of him. Then she sayde let thyne hādmayde fynde grace in thy sight. And so the woman went her weye / and dyd eate and loked no more so sadde. And they rose vp erlye and bowed them selues before ꝑ Lorde, & then returned & wēt to their house to Ramath. And Elkanah laye by his wyfe Hannah and the Lorde remembred her. And in processe of tyme she conceaued and bare a sonne & called his name* Samuel: because she had asked him of the Lorde. And Elkanah and all his house went vp to offer vnto the Lorde yerely the offeryngs due for the feast and all his vowes: but Hannah wēt not vp for she sayde vnto her husbande: I will tarye vntill the ladde be wened, & then I will bryng him ꝑ he maye apeare before ꝑ Lord & there abide for euer. And Elkanah her husbād sayde to her: do what semeth ꝑ best: tarye vntill thou hast wened hym, onlye ꝑ Lorde make good his saying. And so ꝑ womā abode & gaue her sonne sucke, vntill she wened hi. And thē she toke him wt her, when she had wened him, wt thre bullockes & an Epha of floure & a bottell of wine / & brought him vnto ꝑ house of the Lorde in Silo. And yet was ꝑ child wyth yōge. And they slue ꝑ bullockes & brought in ꝑ ladde to Eli, & then she sayde: Oh my Lorde: as truly as thy soule lyueth my Lorde: I am the womā ꝑ stode by ꝑ here prayng vnto ꝑ Lord & for this ladde I prayed & ꝑ Lord hath geuē me my desire which I asked of hi: & therfore I also lēde hi ꝑ Lord. as lōg as he may be lēt ꝑ Lorde. And so they prayed there vnto ꝑ Lord.

¶ The.ij.Chapter.

AND Hannah prayed & sayde: myne herte reioyseth in the Lorde, myne horne is hye in the Lorde / and my mouth is wyde open ouer mine enemyes / for I reioyse in thy sauyng. There is none so holye as ꝑ Lorde: no there is none saue thou. Nether is there any strength lyke vnto oure God. Talke not so moche proudlye: let olde thinges depart out of youre mouthes for the Lorde is a God of knowledge & Iudgeth the thoughtes. The [a] bowes of the strong are brokē: and the weake are endued with strēgth. They that were full haue hired out thē selues for breed / and they that were hongrye cease so to be: in so moche that the baren hath borne seuen / & she that had many chyldren is waxed feble.

And yf any mā sayde vnto him let the fatt be offered accordyng to the daye / & then take as moche as thine herte desireth. How be it there was no mā ꝑ moued his hād to his mouth, because that the people feared the curse. But Jonathas heard not whē hys father adiured ꝑ people, wherfoꝛe he put foꝛth the ende of ꝑ staffe ꝑ was in his hād & dipte it in an honye combe, & put his hande to hys mouth, & *his eyes receaued sight. Thē spake one of ꝑ people & sayde: thy father adiured ꝑ people saying. Cursed be ꝑ mā ꝑ eateth any sustinaunce this daye & yet the people were fayntye. Then sayde Jonathas: my father hath troubled ꝑ *lāde: foꝛ se myne eyes haue receaued light because I tasted a litle of this honye: how then yf all ꝑ people had eatē of ꝑ spoyle of their enemies which they foūd, had there not bene then a moche greater slaughter amōge ꝑ Philistines? And they layed on the Philistines that daye, frō Machmas to Ialō. And ꝑ people were exceding fayntie.

Then ꝑ people gat thē to the spoyle & toke sheepe oxen & calues & slue thē on the groūde & dyd eate with the bloude. Then men tolde Saul sayinge: Beholde the people synne agaynst the Lorde, in that they eate with the bloude. And he sayde: ye haue trespaced. But rolle a great stone vnto me now, and go abꝛoade among ꝑ people & bydd thē bꝛynge euery mā his oxe & euery man his sheepe, and slay thē heꝛe, & synne not agaynst ꝑ Lorde in eatyng wꝺ the bloude. And ꝑ people bꝛought euery mā his oxe in his hand by nyght & slue thē there. And Saul made an altare vnto ꝑ Lorde. And ꝑ was the fyꝛst altare ꝑ he made vnto the Lorde. And Saul sayde: lett vs go downe after the Philistines by nyght, & lett vs make hauoke amōge thē vntill it be daye in ꝑ moꝛning, & lett vs not leaue one of thē. And ꝑ people answered, do whatsoeuer thou thinkest best. Then sayde the preaste: lett vs come hither vnto God. And Saul asked of God: shall I go downe after ꝑ Philistines? & wilt thou deliuer thē into myne hands? But he answered hym not at ꝑ tyme. Then sayde Saul let the people come hyther out of all quarters, & know & se, in whō this synne is chaūced this daye: foꝛ as truly as the Lorde liueth which hath saued Israel, thoughe it be in Jonathas my sonne, he shall dye foꝛ it. But no man answered him of all the people.

Then he sayde vnto all Israel: be ye on one syde, & I & Jonathas my sonne wilbe on another. And ꝑ people sayde vnto Saul: what thou thynkest best that do. And Saul sayde vnto the Lorde God of Israel: geue perfect knowledge. And Saul and Jonathas were caught, & the people skaped free. Then sayd Saul: cast lott, betwene me & Jonathas my sonne. And Jonathas was caught. Then Saul sayde to Jonathas: tell me what thou hast done. And Jonathas tolde him & sayde: I tasted a lytle honye vpon the ende of my staffe ꝑ was in myne hande, & se, I must dye.

Then sayd Saul: God do so & so to me, except ꝑ thou dye Jonathas. But the people sayde vnto Saul: shall Jonathas dye which hath so myghtelye holpe Israel? God foꝛbyd. As truly as ꝑ Lorde liueth, there shall not one heaꝛe of his heed fall to ꝑ groūde: foꝛ he hath wꝛought wyth God this daye. And so ꝑ people deliuerꝛed Jonathas, ꝑ he dyed not. And then Saul departed frō folowynge the Philistines. And ꝑ Philistines went to their awne place. And Samuel answered: what meaneth then the bleatynge of the shepe in myne eares, & the noyse of the oxen which I heare? And Saul sayde: they haue brought them from the Amalechites. For the people spared the best of the shepe and of the oxen/ to sacrifyce vnto the Lorde thy God. And the remnaunt we haue destroyed.

But Samuel sayde to Saul: cease & let me tell the what the Lorde hath sayde to me thys nyght. And he sayde vnto hym: saye on. And Samuel sayde when thou wast b lytle in thyne awne syght/ wast thou not made ỹ

And then ỹ Lorde sent the on a iourneye/ & sayde vnto ỹ/ se that thou vtterlye destroye those synners/ the Amalechites & fyght agaynst them vntill ye haue vtterlye destroyed thē. And wher- C fore hast thou now not obeyed the voyce of ỹ Lorde: But dydest turne to the praye & hast wrought wickednesse in ỹ syght of ỹ Lorde?

And Saull sayde vnto Samuel: I haue obeyed the voyce of the Lorde/ and went the waye which ỹ Lorde sent me/ & haue brought Agag the kynge of the Amalechites. And haue vtterlye destroyed ỹ Amalechites. And the people toke of the spoyle/ shepe/ oxen/ & the chefest of the thynges which should haue bene destroyed, to offer vnto ỹ Lorde thy God in Galgal. Then sayd Samuel: hath ỹ Lorde as great pleasure in burnt sacrifyces & offerynges as he hath that thou shuldest obeye his voyce? Beholde/ to obaye is better then offerynge/ and to geue heade is better then ỹ fatt of rammes. For rebellyousnesse is as ỹ synne of witchcraste/ & stobburnesse is wickednesse & Idolatrye Because therfore thou hast cast awaye the worde of the Lorde therfore hathe the Lorde cast away the also, frō beyng kynge.

Then sayde Saul to Samuel: I haue synned for I haue trespaced the mouth of the Lorde and thy wordes because I feared the people & obeyed their voyce. But now take awaye my synne & turne agayne wyth me, that I maye worshyp the Lorde. Then sayde Samuel vnto Saul: I wyll not returne wt the: for thou hast cast awaye the bydynge of God & therfore the Lorde bath° cast awaye the also ỹ thou shalt not be kynge ouer Israel. And as Samuel turned to go awaye he caught the lappe of his coote and it rent. Then Samuel sayde, the Lorde hath rent ỹ kyngdome of Israel from the this daye and hath geuen it to a neyboure of thyne that is better then thou. And therto he that geueth victorye to Israel will not begyle nor repēt: for he is not a man/ that can repent.

Then he sayd: I haue synned. But yet honoure me before ỹ elders of my people/ and before Israel/ and turne agayne with me/ that I maye praye vnto the Lorde thy God. And Samuel turned agayne and folowed Saul. And Saul prayed vnto the Lorde. G Then sayd Samuel: Bryng ye hither to me Agag the kynge of the Amalechites. And Agag came vnto hym* delycately. And Agag sayde: truly ỹ bitternesse of deeth cometh on. And Samuel sayd: As thy swerde hath made wemē childelesse/ so shall thy mother be childelesse amōge other wemen. ¶ Dauid is anoynted kyng: and receaueth the holy goost. An euell spyrite cometh vpon Saul which departeth when Dauid playeth.

¶ The.xvi. Chapter.

AND then the Lord sayde vnto Samuel: How lõge wilt thou mourne for Saul/seyng I haue cast hym awaye frõ raygnyng ouer Israel? fyll an horne with oyntmẽt/and come: I will sende the to Iai ye Bethlehemite/for I haue spyed me a kynge amonge hys sonnes. But Samuel answered: how shall I goo? For Saul shall heare it & wyll kyll me. And the Lord sayde: Take an heyfer with the/ & saye thou goest to offer to ye Lord. And calle Iai to the offeryng/ & I wyll shew the what thou shalt do: And thou shalt anoynt him whom I saye vnto the. And Samuel dyd as the Lord bad him. And when he came to Bethlehem/ ye elders of the towne were astonied at hys comyng/and sayde: Betokeneth thy comynge peace? and he sayde yee/for I am come to offer vnto the Lorde.* Clense youre selues and come wt me to the offeryng. And he purified Iai & his sonnes/ & bad thẽ to the offeryng. And whẽ they were come/ he loked on Eliab & sayd: ye Lord anoynted is before him. But ye Lord sayde vnto Samuel: loke not on his fasyon nor on the heyght of his stature/ for I haue refused him. Because it is not as mã seyth. For man loketh on the outward appearaunce: but the Lorde a beholdeth the harte. Then Iai called Aminadab & made him come before Samuel. And he sayde: neither hath ye Lorde chosen this. Then Iai made Samah come/ and he sayde: neither yet hath ye Lorde chosen hym. Then made Iai seuen of hys sonnes come before Samuel. And Samuel sayde/ the Lorde hath chosen none of these.

Then sayde Samuel to Iai: are here all thy children? and he sayde: the yongest is yet behynde: Beholde/ he kepeth ye shepe. Then Samuel sayde vnto Iai: sende & fette hym for we wyll not sytte downe/ tyll he be come hither. And he sent & brought hym in. And he was browne with goodlye eyes/ and well fauored in syght. And then the Lorde sayde vp and anoynt him: for this is he. And Samuel toke the horne wyth the oyntment and anoynted him in the presens of his brethren. And the spyrite of the Lorde came vpon Dauid/ from that daye forwarde. And Samuel rose vp and went to Ramath.

But the spyrite of the Lorde departed frõ Saul & an euell spyrite sent of ye Lord vexed him. Then sayde his seruãtes vnto him: Beholde, an euell spyrite sent of God vexeth the/ lett oure Lorde therfore cõmaunde hys seruauntes to seke a man that is a cunnyng player w an harpe. And then when the euell spyrite sent of God cometh vpon the, that he maye playe w his hãde & thou shalt be eased. And Saul sayde vnto his seruãtes: seke me a man that can well playe and bryng him to me. Then answered one of hys seruantes & sayde: Beholde, I haue sene a sonne of Iai ye Bethlehemite, that can playe vpon instrumentes and is an actyue felowe and a man of warre and prudent & well made/ and the Lorde is wyth hym, wherupon Saul sent messengers vnto Iai & sayde: sende me Dauid thy sonne which is with the shepe. And Iai toke an asse ladẽ with breed, and a flacket of wyne, & a kydde, and sent thẽ by Dauid his sonne vnto Saul. And Dauid went to Saul & came before him, & he loued hym very well/ so that he was made hys harnes bearer. And Saul sent to Iai sayinge: lett Dauid remayne with me for he hath founde fauour in my syght. And when the spyrite of God came vpõ Saul, Dauid toke an harpe and played with his hande/ & so Saul was refreshed and did amend and the euell spyrite departed from him.

¶ The.xvii. Chapter.

THe Philistines gathered their hoste to battell/ & came to gether to Socoth in Iuda/ and pytched betwene Socoth and Azekah/ in the ende of Dommim. And Saul and the men of Israel came and pytched in Ockedale, & put them selues in a raye/ to fyght agaynst the Philistines. And the Philistines stode on an hyll on the one syde/ & Israel stode on an hyll on ye other syde, & a valeye betwene thẽ. And then came a mã & stode in the myddes/ out of ye tẽtes of the Philistines named Goliath/ of Geth syze cubytes & an hãdbredeth longe/ & had an helmet of brasse vpon his heed/ and a coote of mayle about him. And ye weyght of his coote of mayle was fyue thousande Cykles of brasse. And he had harneste of brasse vpõ his legges/ & a shilde of brasse vpon hys shoulders. And ye shafte of his spere was like a weuers beame. And his speare hed weyed vi. hundred sykles of yron. And one bearyng a shylde went before him.

And he stode & called vnto the hoste of Israel/ & sayde vnto them: what neadeth ye thus de come out in araye to battell? am not I a Philistine/ & you seruãtes to Saul/ chose you a mã, and lett him come downe to me/

yf he be able to fyght with me & to beate me/ then we wyll be youre seruauntes. But yf I can ouer come hym and beate hym: then ye B shalbe owre seruauntes and serue vs. And ỹ Philistine sayde: I haue defyed ỹ host of Israel this daye geue me a man & lett vs fighte to gether. When Saul & all Israel herde those wordes of ỹ Philistine/ they were discouraged and greatly afrayed. And this Dauid was the sonne of an Ephrathite of Bethlehē Juda/ named Isai/ which Isai had eight sonnes. And was an olde man in the dayes of Saul amonge ỹ people. And the thre eldest sonnes of Isai wēt & folowed Saul to battell. And the names of his thre sonnes ỹ wēt to battell/ were: Eliab the eldest/ & the next to him Abinadab/ & the thrid Samah/ & Dauid was ỹ youngest. And whē the thre eldest were gone after Saul/ Dauid went and departed from Saul/ to fede his fathers shepe at Bethlehem. And the Philistine cam forth euery morning and euenynge/ & contynued fourtye dayes.

And Isai sayde vnto Dauid his sonne: take for thy brethren this Epha of parched corne/ & these ten loues/ & runne to the hoste/ to thy brethren. And carye these ten freshe cheses vnto the captayne and loke how thy brethrē fare & * fet out their pledges. And Saul & they and all the men of Israel were in ocke batey fyghtyng w̄ the Philistines. And Dauid rose vp erlye in the morninge & lefte the shepe with a keper, & toke and wēt/ as Isai had cōmaunded him and came where ỹ host laye. And ỹ hoste was goyng out in araye/ & showted in the battell: for Israel & the Philistines had put thē selues in araye/ the one agaynst ỹ other. Then Dauid put ỹ payer from him vnto the handes of the keper of ỹ vessels/ & ranne into the hoste & came & saluted hys brethrē. And as he talked with them: Beholde there stode a mā in the middes, Goliath the Philistine by name/ of Beth, which came out of the araye of ỹ Philistines/ and spake of the maner aboue rehersed ỹ Dauid herde it. And all ỹ men of Israel/ whē they saw the mā/ ranne awaye from him/ & were sore afrayed. And euery man of Israel sayde: Se ye this man that is come forth/ euen to reuyle Israel is he come. And to hym ỹ beateth hym wyll the kyng geue great ryches/ & wyll geue hym hys daughter therto: ye and make his fathers howse free in Israel.

Then spake Dauid to the men that stode by & sayde: what shalbe done to the mā that beateth thys Philistine & taketh awaye the shame from Israel? for what is this vncircumcysed Philistine/ that he shulde reuyle ỹ hoste of the lyuyng God? And the people answered as it is rehersed sayinge: so shall it be done to the man that beateth him. And Eliab his eldest brother herde when he spake vnto ỹ men & was angrie with Dauid & sayde: Why camest thou awaye/ & with whom hast thou lefte those fewe shepe in ỹ wildernesse? I knowe thy pryde and the malyce of thyne herte/ ỹ thou art come to se the battell. And Dauid answered/ what haue I now done? is there any moare saue a worde? And departed frō by him vnto another fronte/ & spake of the same maner/ and the people answered him agayne/ as before.

And they ỹ herde the wordes which Dauid spake/ rehersed thē before Saul/ whych caused hym to be fett. And Dauid sayde to Saul: Lett no mannes hert fayle hym because of him. Thy seruaunt wyll go & fyght with this Philistine. And Saul sayde to Dauid agayne/ thou art not able to go vnto this Philistine/ to fyght with hym. For thou art but a ladd/ & he hathe bene a man of warre euē from his youthe. Then sayde Dauid vnto Saul/ as thy seruaunt kept hys fathers shepe/ there came a Lyō & lykewise a Beare/ and toke a shepe out of the flocke. And I wēt out after hym & smote him/ and toke it out of his mouthe. And when he arose agaynst me/ I caught him by the bearde and smote him & slue him. For bothe a Lyon and also a Beare hath thy seruaūt slayne. And this vncircumcysed Philistine shalbe as one of thē/ for hys rayling on the hoste of the lyuyng God. And Dauid spake moreouer/ the Lorde that delyuered me out of the hādes of ỹ Lyon and oute of ỹ hādes of ỹ Beare/ he shall delyuer me also oute of the handes of the Philistine.

Then sayde Saul to Dauid go/ & ỹ Lord be with the. And Saul put hys raymēt vpō Dauid/ and put an helmet of brasse vpō hys heede/ and put a coote of maple vpon hym/ & gyrde Dauid w̄ hys awne swerde vpon his rayment. And he assayed to go/ for he neuer proued it. Then sayde Dauid vnto Saul: I can not go in these/ for I haue not bene vsed therto and put them of him & toke his staffe in his hande/ & chose hym fyue smothe stones out of a broke & put thē in a shepards bagge which he had/ & in a poke/ & his slyng in his hande/ & went to the Philistine.

And

* It is the maner of souldyars wha they take any to be their pledges: therfore is Dauid cōmaunded to receaue his brethrens pledges.

And ỳ Philistine came & drue nere to Dauid, with the man ỳ bare a shilde before him. And whē ỳ Philistine loked & sawe Dauid: he disdayned him/for he was but a ladd/roudye and goodlye to loke vpon. And the Philistine sayde vnto Dauid: am I a dogg/ ỳ thou comest to me wyth a staffe? & he cursed Dauid in the name of his Goddes. And he sayde to Dauid: come to me and I wyll geue thy flesshe vnto the fowles of the ayre/ and to the beastes of the felde. Then sayd Dauid to the Philistine: thou comest to me with a swerde a speare & a shilde: But I come to the in the name of the Lorde of hostes/ the God of the hoste of Israel whom thou hast rayled vpon. This daye shall the Lorde delyuer the into my hande/ & I shall smyte the and take thyne heed from the/ & I wyll geue the karcases of the hoste of the Philistines this daye vnto ỳ fowles of the ayre & to the beastes of ỳ erth/ and all the worlde shall knowe/ that there is a God in Israel. And all this congregacyon shall knowe/ that the Lorde sauyth not with the swerde and speare. For the battell is the Lordes/ & he shall geue you into oure hādes.

And whē the Philistine arose & came and drue nye vnto Dauid. Dauid hasted & ranne in araye euē agaynst ỳ Philistine. And Dauid put his hande in his poke and toke out a stone and slange it/ and smote the Philistine in his forheed that the stone soncke into hys forheed, & he felle groueling to the erth. And so Dauid ouercame the Philistine wyth a slyng & a stone/ and smote the Philistine and slue him. And because Dauid had no swerde in his hande/ he ranne & stode vpon the Philistine/ & toke his swerde & drue it out of hys sheathe, & slue him and cutte of hys heed therwith. And whē the Philistines sawe ỳ their champion was deed/ they fled. And ỳ men of Israel and of Juda arose & shouted and followed after the Philistines, vntill they came to the valeye and vnto the gates of Akaron. And the Philistines fell downe deed by the waye/ euen vnto Geth & Akaron. And then the chyldren of Israel returned frō chasyng after the Philistines & robbed their tentes. And Dauid toke the heed of the Philistine & brought it to Jerusalem: But he put his armoure in hys tente.

Whē Saul sawe Dauid go forth agaynst ỳ Philistine, he sayde vnto Abner ỳ captayne of his hoste: Abner/ whose sonne is this ladd? And Abner answered/ as truly as thy soule lyueth/ O kynge/ I cannot tell. Then sayde the kynge: Enquere thou/ whose sonne the youngelyng is. And so when Dauid was returned from the slaughter of the Philistine/ Abner toke hym and brought hym before Saul, with the heed of the Philistine in his hande. And Saul sayde to him: whose sonne art thou/ thou ladd? And Dauid answered ỳ sonne of thy seruaunt Jesai ỳ Bethlehemite.

¶ The bonde betwene Dauid & Jonathas. Saul goth about to slee Dauid. Dauid marieth Michol the daughter of Saul.

¶ The xviij. Chapter.

And when he had made an ende of speakynge vnto Saul, ỳ soule of Jonathas was knyt wyth ỳ soule of Dauid. In so moche ỳ he loued him as his* awne soule. And Saul toke hym that daye & wolde let him go no moare home to his fathers house. And Jonathas & Dauid bound thē selues the one to the other/ for Jonathas loued him as his awne soule. And Jonathas put of his awne coote ỳ was vpō him/ & gaue it Dauid/ and therto his mātle/ his swerde, his bowe & his gyrdle. And Dauid went out to all that Saul sent him/ and behaued him selfe wyselye. And when Saul had sett him ouer his men of warre, he pleased all ỳ people/ & Sauls seruaūtes therto.

And it happened as they went/ when Dauid was returned frō the slaughter of ỳ Philistine/ that wemen came out of all cyties of Israel syngyng & daunsing agaynst Saul/ with tymbrelles/ with ioye/ & wyth fydilles. And the wemen that played sange therto/ & sayde: Saul hath slayne his thousande/ and Dauid his ten thousande. Then was Saul exceedyng wroth & ỳ saying displeased hym/ & he sayd: they haue ascribed vnto Dauid ten thousand/ & to me but a thousand/ & what cā he more haue saue the kyngdome? wherfore Saul loked on syde of Dauid frō ỳ daye forward. And it happened on ỳ morow, that the euell spyrete sent of God came vpon Saul, so that he prophesyed in the myddes of the house. And Dauid played on ỳ instrumēt with his hāde as he was dayly wont. And Saul had a speare in his hande, & hourled it entendyng to haue nayled Dauid to ỳ walle. But Dauid auoyded out of hys presence two tymes. For Saul was a fearde of Dauid, because the Lord was with him, & was departed from Saul. And then Saul put Dauid frō him & made hym a captayne ouer a thousand/ & he went out and in before the people. And Dauid was wyse in all that he toke in hande, and the Lorde was with him. Wherfore whē Saul sawe ỳ he was so exceedyng wyse/ he was afraid of him. But all Israel & Juda loued Dauid, because he went out and in before thē. Then sayde Saul to Dauid. Beholde my eldest daughter Merob, her I wyll geue the to wyfe: Only playe the mā & fight the Lordes battelles. For Saul thought wyth hande shall not be vpō hym, but the hāde of ỳ Philistines. 1.Reg.xviij.a had a great fauoure to Dauid, & tolde Dauid saying: Saul my father gothe about to slee the. Now therfore take hede to thy selfe, be tymes & abyde in some secret place & hyde thy selfe. And I wyll go out & stande by my father in the felde where thou art, & wyll comen wyth my father of the, and yf I can perceaue ought I wyll tell the.

And Jonathas spake the best of Dauid vnto Saul his father & sayde vnto him: lett not the kyng synne agaynst his seruaūt Dauid, for he hath not synned agaynst the, & his workes are to the warde very good. For he dyd put his lyfe* in his hande & slue the Philistine, & the Lorde gaue a great victorye to all Israel. And thou sawest it, & thou reioycedest, wherfore then shuldest thou synne agaynst innocent bloude, & slee Dauid for nought? And Saul harkened vnto the voyce of Jonathas and sware: as truly as þ Lorde lyueth, he shall not dye. Then Jonathas called Dauid & shewed him all those wordes, & brought him to Saul. And he was in his presens as in tymes past. * Or, Dauid.

And the warre began agayne, and Dauid wēt out & fought with the Philistines & slue a great slaughter, & put them to flyght. And the euell spryte of the Lord was vpon Saul as he sat in his house hauing a Jauelyng in his hande, & Dauid played with hys hande. And Saul entended to nayle Dauid to the walle with the Jauelyng: But Dauid rydde hym selfe out of Sauls presens, & he smote the speare into the walle. But Dauid fled & saued him self that same nyght. Then Saul sent messengers vnto Dauids house, to watche hym & to slee hym in the morynge. But Michol his wife tolde it him saying: If thou

And then she toke an Image & layed it in þ bed, & put a pyllow stuffed with goates hearre vnder the heed of it, & couered it with a clothe. And when Saul sent messengers to fetch Dauid, she sayde that he was sycke: Then Saul sent the messengers to se Dauid saying: bryng him to me, bed & all, that he maye be slayne. And when þ messengers were come in: Beholde there laye an Image in the bed, with a pyllow of gootes hearre vnder the heed of it. For in very deade (ye̅ as truly as ye Lorde lyueth & as truly as thy soule lyueth / there is but a steppe betwene me & deeth. Then sayde Jonathas vnto Dauid / whatsoeuer thy soule desyreth ye I wyll do vnto the. And Dauid sayde vnto Jonathas: Beholde / to morow is ye .xx. daye of the moneth / & I shulde sytt wt ye kyng at meate. But let me go ye I maye hyde my selfe in the feld vnto thys daye thre dayes at euen. If thy father mysse me / then saye: Dauid asked leaue of me / ye he myght go to Bethlehem to his awne cytie, for there is holde̅ a yerely feest for all his kynne. And ye thy father saye thus: it is well done / then thy seruaūt shall haue peace. But & yf he be angrye: then be sure that wickednesse is vterlye concluded of him. And then thou shalt shewe mercye vnto thy seruaunt / for thou hast made with me thy seruaunt a bonde in ye Lorde. Notwithstandynge yf there be in me any trespace then sley me thy selfe for what needeth the to bryng me to thy father.

a Grace for fauoure & beneuolence As Genesy. c. and xxix. a.

b. To shewe mercye for to shewe a synguler benefyte or pleasure or to declare hys good wyll erly dyngly / And syngularly to help him.

And Jonathas answered: God kepe ye frō the ye I shuld knowe, ye wyckednesse weare cōcluded of my father to come vpon the: and shulde not tell it ye. Then sayde Dauid / who shall tell me / yf thy father answer cruelly? Then sayde Jonathas to Dauid / come & lett vs go out into the feldes. And they went out both of them vnto the feldes.

And Jonathas sayd vnto Dauid: O Lorde god of Israel whē I haue groped my fathers mynde / one tyme or other wythin thys thre dayes / that it stand well with Dauid: and I then sende not vnto the and shewe it the / the Lorde do so & so vnto Jonathas. And in lyke maner / yf euell to the warde please my father / I wyll shewe the and sende the awaye / that thou mayst go in peace. And the Lorde be with the as he hath bene with my father. And thou shalt performe vnto me the mercy of the Lord / not onely whyle I lyue but euē whē I am deed plucke not thy mercy away from my * house for euer: No not when the Lorde hath destroyed the enemyes of Dauid euery one from the face of the erth.

And so Jonathas made a bonde wyth the house of Dauid / desyrynge that the Lorde shulde seke out of the hādes of Dauids enemyes their wickednesse. And wt other wordes Jonathas adiured Dauid, because he loued him. For as his awne soule he louedhim.

Then sayde Jonathas to Dauid: to morow shalbe the fyrst daye of the mone. And thou shalt be myssed / because the place shall appere emptie. But this daye thre dayes come in any wyse vnto the place where thou shalt hyde thy self / when it is worckedaye: euē by the stoone Ezell. And I wyll shote thre arowes by ye one syde therof / as though I shote at a marke / and wyll sende after a ladd / and bidde him go seke the arowes. If I saye vnto the lad: se ye arowes are on this syde ye / bryng thē: then come thou: for it is peace & nothyng to do / as sure as the Lorde lyueth. But and yf I saye thus vnto the yong felow, beholde / ye Arowes are beyonde ye / thē go / for ye Lord hath sent ye awaye. And of thys which thou & I haue spoke: beholde ye Lorde is witnesse betwene the & me for euer. And so Dauid hyd him self in the feld. And when the new mone was come / ye kyng sat him downe at meate / for to eate. And the kyng sat him doune after the olde maner / in his seate by the wall. And Jonathas arose / & Abner sate by Sauls side / & Dauids place was emptie. Neuertheles yet Saul sayd nothyng at all ye daye. For he thought some thynge had chaunced him ye he is not cleane. But on the morow which was the seconde daye of the mone / when Dauids place appered emptie. Saul sayde vnto Jonathas hys sonne: wherfore cometh not the sonne of Jsai to meate / nether yesterdaye nor to daye. And Jonathas answered vnto Saul. Dauid asked lycence of me to go to Bethlehē saying: let me go I pray ye / for oure kynrede holde an offeryng in the cytie / and my brother hath sent for me. Now therfore yf I haue found founde fauoure in thyne eyes, lett me me go & se my brother. And therfore he cometh not F vnto the table of the kyng. Then was Saul angrie with Jonathas & sayde vnto him: O frowarde and rebellyous / thynkest thou I knowe not how thou hast chosen ỹ sonne of Jsai vnto thine awne rebuke / & vnto ỹ rebuke and shame of thy mother. For as longe as the sonne of Jsai lyueth vpon the erth / thou shalt not be stablyshed / nor yet thy kyngdome / wherfore now sende and fett him vnto

But Jonathas answerred Saul his father & sayde to hym: wherfore shuld he dye? what hath he done? Then Saul cast a speare at him to hyt him / wherby Jonathas wist well / ỹ it was vtterlye determyned of hys father / to sley Dauid. And so Jonathas arose frō ỹ table in a great anger & dyd eate no meate the seconde daye of the moneth / for he was sory for Dauid / because his father had done him shame. On the next morynng Jonathas went out into the felde / at the time apoynted with Dauid / and a lytle lad with him. And he sayde vnto the boye: runne & synde out myne arowes which I shote. And as the boye ran / G he shote an arow beyonde him. And whē the lad was come to ỹ place whether Jonathas had shot the arow, Jonathas cryed after him & sayde: the arow is beyonde ỹ. And he cryed after the lad: haste / make spede and tāde not still. And Jonathas lad gathered vp ỹ arow and came to his master. But the lad wist nothyng of the matter: Only Jonathas & Da-uid wist it. Then Jonathas gaue his wepōs vnto the Lad & sayde vnto him: go and carye thē to the towne. And as sone as the lad was gone / Dauid arose out of a place that was towarde the south and fell on his face to the grounde & bowed hym self thre tymes. And they kyssed ether other and wepte to gether / but Dauid moare abundantlye. And Jonahe roase & departed. And Jonathas went in-¶ Dauid fleeth in to Nob to Ahimelech the preast & getteth on hym shew bread to satisfye hys hunger: & that with a cleane conueyed lye. After he flyeth to kyng Achis / and there fayneth him self to be mad.

¶ The .xxi. Chapter.

Then came Dauid to Nob to Ahimelech the preast: And Ahimelech was astonied at is comyng & sayde vnto him: Why comest thou thy self alone / & no man with the? And Dauid sayde to Ahimelech the preast: the kyng hath commaunded me to do a certen thynge and sayde vnto me / let no man knowe where about I sende and what I haue cōmaunded the to do.
And therfore I haue appoynted my seruaūtes to soche and soche places. And now what hast thou vnder thyne hande? geue me fyue loues of bred, or what cometh to hande.

And the preast answerred Dauid and sayd:
there is no comen bred vnder myne hande /
but there is halowed bred / yf ỹ young men had abstained only from wemen. And Dauid B answered the preast and sayde vnto him: of a truthe wemen hath benclocked vp from vs about a thre dayes, when I cam out: and ỹ *vessilles of the young men were holy. How be it * this waye is vnpure but it shalbe halowed in the vessell. And so the preast gaue him halowed bred, for there was no nother bred there saue the we breds that were taken from before the Lorde / to put fresshe bred there / the daye that it was taken awaye.

And ther was there the same daye a certē man of the seruauntes of Saul abydynge before the Lorde named Doeg an Edomite / the chefest of Sauls hearde men. And Da-uid sayde vnto Ahimelech: is not here vnder thine hāde other speare or swerde? for I haue neither brought my swerde nor myne harnes with me, because the kynges busines required haste. Then ỹ preast answered: ỹ swerde of Goliath the Philistine whom thou slewest in Ockdale that is here wrapt in a cloth behynde ỹ Ephod. If thou wilt take that, take it: for there is none to ỹ geue it me.

And Dauid arose and fled the same daye from the presence of Saul & went to Achis the kyng of Geth. And the seruauntes of Achis sayde of hym: is not this Dauid the kyng of the lande? dyd they not syng vnto this felow in daunces saying: Saul hath slayne his thousand and Dauid his ten thousand? And Dauid put those wordes in to hys heart & was sore afrayed of Achis the kyng of Geth. And he chaunged hys countenaunce before them, and raued in their handes / and scrabled on the doores of the gate, and let hys spittel falle downe vpon hys bearde.
Then sayde Achis vnto hys seruaunt. Loo ye saw that this man was belyde hym self / wherfore then haue ye brought hym to me?
lacke I madde men / ỹ ye haue brought this felow to playe the mad man in my presence?
he shall not come into my howse.

¶ Dauid fleeth in to the caue Odollam. After that into Maspha to the kynge of Moab. And thence in to Hareth. Doeg betrayeth Dauid. Ahimelech is accused of treyson and slayne / and .lxxxv. preastes mo with him: because they receaued Dauid. Nob is destroyed of Saul. Abiathar fleeth to Dauid.

And

* That is the bodyes.

a. This waye is vnpure &c. That is in the waye we take more vnclenesse (as ye wolde saye) with pollucions in the nyght or other thynges / which are spi-
C ritually by Moses law / so that perfectlye cleane are we not: but that is a small matter & will sone be cleansed / because we haue sanctyfyed our bodies frō oure wyues & kept the holy & cleane. This exaumple of Dauid teacheth that meade hath no lawe: and that man ought not to be a seruaūt D to ceremonyes: but ceremonyes ought to serue the vse of man. This to proue doth Christ send the Pharisees hyther. Matt. xij. a.

AND Dauid departed thence & escaped, and came vnto the caue Odollam. When his brethrē & all his fathers house hearde it, they wēt thither to hym. And there gathered vnto hym all men that were in combraunce and in dett & troubled in their hertes/ and he became a captayne ouer thē. And there were with him vpon a foure hundred men. And Dauid wēt thence to Mazphah in the lande of Moab/ and sayde vnto the Kynge of Moab: Let my father and mother I praye the / haue their abydynge with you/tyll I knowe what God will do vnto me. And he lefte thē with ỳ kyng of Moab/and they dwelt with him all ỳ whyle that Dauid kepte him selfe in holdes. And ỳ prophet Gad sayde vnto Dauid: Abide not in castelles/but departe & go to the land of Iuda. Then Dauid departed and came into the forest Hareth. And Saul hearde of it: for Dauid was knowē & also the men ỳ were with him. And as Saul satt in Gabaah vnder a grene vpō a hye banche with hys speare in hys hāde & all hys men about him/he sayde vnto his seruaūtes ỳ stode about him. Heare I pray you/you sonnes of Jemini: will ỳ sonne of Isai also geue euery one of you feldes & vineyardes/ & make you all captaynes ouer thousandes and ouer hundredes: that ye haue all conspired agaynst me / so that there is none of you that* openeth myne eare / in so moche ỳ my sonne hath made a bonde with the sonne of Isai / nether is there any of you that mourneth for me or sheweth it in myne eare: because my sonne hath set vp my seruaūt to lye awayte against me/as it appeareth this daye.

*That is/sheweth me any thyng.

Then answered Doeg ỳ Edomite/which had the ouer syght of the seruaūtes of Saul and sayde: I sawe the sonne of Isai / when he cam to Nob/to Ahimelech the sonne of Ahitob/which asked counsell of the Lorde for him/& gaue him vitayles / and the swerde of Goliath the Philistine also. Then the kyng sent to calle Ahimelech the preast the sonne of Ahitob / & all his fathers house: that is to saye/ ỳ preastes that were in Nob. And they ¶ cam all to the kyng. And Saul sayde: heare thou sonne of Ahitob. And he sayde: here I am my Lord. Then sayde Saul to him: why haue ye conspired agaynst me/ thou and the sonne of Isai/ in so moche ỳ thou hast geuen him vytayle & a swerde & hast asked counsell of God for him/that he shulde aryse agaynst me & lye awayte as it is come to passe thys daye. And Ahimelech answered the kyng and sayde: who is so faythfull among all thy seruauntes as Dauid & therto ỳ kynges sonne in law/and gothe at thy bydding/ and is had in honoure in thyne house? haue I this daye begōne fyrst to aske counsell of God for him?

God forbyd that from me: lett not the kyng put soche a thyng vnto his seruaunt & on all the house of my father. For thy seruaūt knoweth nothing of all this/ether lesse or moare.

But for all that ỳ kyng sayde: thou shalt surelye dye Ahimelech/both thou and all thy ✠ thy fathers house. Then sayde the kynge vnto his fote men that stode about him: turne & sley the preastes of the Lorde/ both because their hand is with Dauid/ and because they knewe when Dauid fled and shewed it not to me. But the seruauntes of ỳ kyng wolde not moue their handes / to runne vpon the preastes of the Lorde. Then sayde the Kynge to Doeg: turne thou and smyte the preastes. And *Doeg the Edomite turned & ranne vpō the preastes and slue that same daye foure score and fyue persones that dyd weare eche man a lynnen Ephod. And Nob the cytie of ỳ preastes he smote with the edge of ỳ swerde/ both man and woman/ chylde and sucklyng/ with oxe asse and shepe. *1. Reg. ỳ.

But yet one of the sonnes of Ahimelech ỳ sonne of Ahitob named Abiathar, escaped & fled to Dauid, and shewed Dauid/how that Saul had slayne the Lordes preastes. And Dauid sayde vnto Abiathar: I wist it ỳ same daye/ ỳ Doeg the Edomite which was there wold tell it Saul. And I am cause of ỳ deeth of all ỳ Soules of thy fathers house. Abide with me & feare not: he that seketh thy soule/ shall seke myne/ & with me thou shalt be in sauegard.

¶ Dauid delyuereth Keilah. He fleeth into the wyldernes of Ziph. he is comforted of Jonathas. ¶ The Ziphiens wolde haue betrayed him/but he escapeth.

The xxiij. Chapter.

THen men tolde Dauid saying: Behold/the Philistines fight agaynst Keilah, & spoyle the barnes. Then Dauid asked the Lordes aduyse sayinge: Shall I goo and smyte the Philistines? And the Lorde sayde vnto Dauid: go & smite the Philistines and saue Keilah. Then sayde Dauids mē vnto him: se we be afrayed here in Juda. What shall we then be / when we come to Keilah/to ỳ host of the Philistines. Then Dauid asked the Lorde agayne. And the Lorde answered him and sayde: vp and go to Keilah/ for I will delyuer the Philistines in to thyne handes.

And so Dauid and his men went to Keilah and fought with the Philistines / and draue awaye their catell and slue a great slaughter of them. And so Dauid saued ỳ enhabiters of Keilah. And it chaūced whē Abiathar ỳ sonne of Ahimelech fled to Dauid to Keilah that he brought an Ephod in his hande.

And it was tolde Saul/that Dauid was come to Keilah. Then sayde Saul: God hath delyuered him into myne hand. For he is shut in that he is come into a towne with gates & barres. And Saul called all the people to warre, for to go to Keilah / to besege Dauid & his men. But Dauid had knowledge that Saul imagened mischefe agaynst him/and 1.Reg.xxx.b sayde therfore to Abiathar ỳ preast:*Bring the Ephod. Then sayde Dauid, O Lord God of Israel/thy seruaũt heareth that Saul is about to come to Keilah to destroye the cytie for my sake: wyll the men of Keilah delyuer me into his hand? or wyll Saul come as thy seruaunt heareth saye? Lorde God of Israel tell thy seruaũt. And the Lorde sayde: he will come. Then sayde Dauid: wyll ỳ men of Keilah delyuer me and my men into the hande of Saul? & ỳ Lord sayde: they will deliuer you.

Then Dauid & his men which were vpon a.vi.hundred arose and departed out of Keilah & wẽt whether chaunce draue them. And when it was tolde Saul / that Dauid was fled from Keilah he let ỳ iorney alone. And Dauid abode in the wyldernesse in stronge holdes, & in a mountayne in the wyldernesse of Ziph. And Saul sought him all hys lyfe/ but God delyuered him not into his hãd. And C Dauid saw ỳ Saul was come out, to seke hys lyfe/whyle Dauid was in ỳ wyldernesse of Ziph in a thycket. And Jonathas Sauls sonne arose & went to Dauid to the thycket/ & strenghted him in God / & sayde vnto hym: feare not / for the hande of Saul my father shall not fynde the, & thou shalt be king ouer Israel/and I must be next vnto ỳ. And Saul my father therto knoweth that it shalbe so.
1.Reg.xviij.a And they made* a bõde bothe of thẽ to gether and.xx.b before the Lorde. And Dauid taryed styll in the thicket/and Jonathas wẽt to his house.

Then came ỳ Ziphites to Saul / to Gabaah saying: Dauid hydeth hym selfe fast by vs in stronge holdes that are in a thycket in the hyll of Hachilah on the ryght syde of the wyldernesse. Now therfore syr kynge / come downe with all the lust that thy soule hath to come. And oure parte shalbe to delyuer hym into ỳ hãdes of the kyng. Then sayde Saul Blessed are ye in the Lorde: for ye haue compassyon on me. Go I pray you and marke moare dylygẽtlye/& knowe & se his haunte/ where hys fote hath bene / & who hath sene him there: for it is tolde me ỳ he is very sotel. Se therfore & knows all the lourkyng places where he lourketh / & come agayne to me wt the certentye/and I wyll go with you. And then yf he be in the lãde/ I wyll hunt him out with all the thousandes of Juda.

And they arose & wẽt to Ziph before Saul. But Dauid and his men were in the wyldernesse of Maon in the wylde felde on ỳ right hand of the wyldernesse. For whẽ Saul was gone with his men to seke / it was tolde Dauid. And therfore he went vnto a Rocke and dwelt in the wyldernesse of Maon. And whẽ Saul hearde ỳ / he folowed after Dauid into the wyldernesse of Maon. And Saul and his men wẽt on ỳ one syde of ỳ mountayne/ and Dauid & his men on ỳ other. And Dauid as a mã amased made hast to get frõ Saul. For Saul & his men had compased Dauid & his men rounde about/to take them.

But there cam a messenger to Saul sayng: Hast the & come/for the Philistines are come in & roue ỳ lãd. Wherfore Saul returned frõ persecutyng Dauid/& wẽt agaynst the Philistines. And therfore ỳ place is called*. Se la Mahelecoth. And then Dauid wẽt thence and dwelt in strong holdes at Engadi.

¶ The.xxiiij.Chapter.

When Saul was come agayne frõ the Philistines/there were ỳ tolde him sayng: beholde/Dauid is in ỳ wildernesse of Engadi. Then Saul toke thre thousand chosen mẽ out of all Israel & wẽt to seke Dauid & his mẽ in ỳ Rockes where no thyng haunted but* wylde gootes. And he cam to ỳ flockes of shepe by awayes side where was a caue. And Saul wẽt in* to couer his feate. And Dauid & hys men sat a lõge by ỳ syde of ỳ caue. Thẽ Dauid arose & cutt of a lappe of Sauls cote pryuelye. And immediatly Dauids hert smote him/because he had cutt of a lapp of Sauls cote. And he sayde vnto his men: the Lord kepe me frõ doyng ỳ thynge vnto my master ỳ is the Lordes anoynted/to laye myne hande vpon him/seyng he is the Lordes anoynted. And so Dauid kept of his seruauntes wt wordes/ and suffred them not to go vpon Saul.

¶ Samuel dyeth. Dauid fleeth in to the wyldernesse of Pharan. He is angrye with Naball: but is pacyfyed by the wysdome of Abigail. Nabal dyeth and Dauid marryeth Abigail.

¶ The.xxv.Chapter.

And when Samuel dyed and all Israel gathered to geather & lamẽted him & buryed him in hys owne house at Ramath.

And Dauid arose and gat him to the wildernesse of Pharan. And there was a man in Maon whose catell was in Carmell/ and he mã was exceedyng myghtye/ & had thre thousand shepe & a thousand gootes. And he was sheryng his shepe in Carmell. The name of the man was Nabal/ & the name of his wyfe was Abigail/ and was a womã of good wildom and bewtifull. But the man was churlysshe and of shrewde condicions/ and was a Calebite. And when Dauid hearde in ꝑ wyldernesse/ that Nabal share hys shepe/ he sent out ten of his younge men/ & sayde vnto thẽ: gett you vp to Carmel and go to Nabal and B grete him in my name. And thus wyse saye vnto my frende: peace be to the/ peace be to thyne house and peace be vnto all that thou hast. I haue hearde saye that thou hast sheerers. Now thy sheperdes were wyth vs/ and we dyd thẽ no spyte/ nether was there ought myssyng vnto them/ all the whyle they were in Carmel: aske thy laddes/ & they wyll shew the. Wherfore let these young men fynde fauoure in thyne eyes (for we come in a good season) & * geue I praye the whatsoeuer cometh to thyne hand vnto thy seruauntes and to thyne sonne Dauid. * 1.Reg xxi.a.

And Dauids yõgmen came & tolde Nabal all those wordes in the name of Dauid & then stopped. And Nabal answered Dauids seruãtes & sayd: What is Dauid? and what is the sonne of Isai? there is plentye of seruauntes now a dayes/ that breake awaye euery mã from his master. I shulde take my breed/ my water & my flesshe ꝑ I haue kylled for my sheerers, and geue it men which I wot not whence they be?

And Dauids seruãtes turned their waye C and went agayne/ and came and tolde hym accordynge to all those sayinges. Then Dauid sayde vnto his men: gyrde euery man his swerde aboute hym. And they gyrded euery man hys swerde on/ and Dauid therto gyrde on hys swerde. And there folowed Dauid vpon a foure hundred men and two hundred abode by the stuffe.

But one of the laddes tolde Abigail Nabals wyfe saying: se Dauid sent messengers vnto oure master out of ꝑ wyldernesse to salute him/ and he rayled on them. And yet the men were very good vnto vs and dyd vs no displeasure/ nether myssed we any thyng/ as long as we were conuersant wt thẽ/ whẽ we were in the feldes. But they were a wall of defence vnto vs bothe by nyght and also by daye/ all the whyle we were wt them keepyng shepe. Now take hede & se what thou hast to do/ for it is concluded to do myschefe vnto D oure master and to all his housholde. And he is vngracyous to speake to. Then Abigail made hast and toke two hundred loues and two botelles of wyne and fyue shepe readye dressed and fyue measures of parched corne/ and an hundred bondelles of reasyngs/ and two hundred krayes of fygges/ & laded them on asses/ and sayde vnto her younge men: go before me/ and se I come after you/ & tolde her husband Naball nothyng therof. And as she rode on her asse and was comyng downe in a slade of the hyll/ Dauid & hys men came downe agaynst her/ and she met them.

And Dauid sayde: in vayne haue I kept all that this felowe had in the wildernesse: so that nought was myssed that pertayned vnto him/ for he hath quytte me wyth euell for good. So and so do God vnto ỹ enemyes of Dauid/as I wyll not leaue of all that pertayne to hym/by the dawnynge of the daye/ ought * that pysseth agaynst the walle.

When Abigail sawe Dauid, she hasted and lyght of her asse and fell before Dauid on her face, and bowed her self to the grounde and fell at his fete and sayde: Let this vnhappie deade be counted myne/my Lord, & let thine handmayde speake in thyne audience / and heare the wordes of thy hãdemayde. Let not my Lorde regarde this vnthryfty man Nabal, for as his name is/ so is he. * Nabal is his name & folye is with hym. But I thyne handmayde sawe not the younge men of my Lorde which thou sendest.

* That is folye

C And now my Lorde as sure as the Lord lyueth & as thy soule lyueth/ the Lorde hath withholden the frõ cõmyng to shede bloude & from aduengyng thy self with thyne awne hand. Furthermore I praye God that thyne enemyes & they that entende to do my Lorde euell/may be as Nabal. And now this blessyng which thyne hãdmayde hath brought/ let it be geuen vnto the yoũg men that folowe my Lorde. Forgeue the trespace of thyne handmayde that the Lord maye make my Lorde a suer house / because my Lorde fyghteth the battelles of the Lord/ and there coulde none euell be founde in the in all thy lyfe. And yf any man ryse to persecute the & to seke thy soule / b the soule of my Lorde be bounde in a bondell of lyfe w the Lorde thy God. And the soules of thy enemyes be slong in the myddle of a slynge. And moreouer when the Lorde shall haue done to my Lord all the good that he hath promised the, & shall haue made the ruler ouer Israel: then shall it be no grudge of conscience vnto the or discourage of herte vnto my Lorde, that thou shedde bloude causelesse and dydest auẽge thy self. And moreouer when the Lorde shall haue dealt well w my Lord then thynck on thy ne handmayde. C Then sayde Dauid to Abigail: blessed be the Lord God of Israel which sent the this daye to mete me. And blessed be thy discrecõe, & blessed be thou whych hast kept me this daye frõ comyng to shede bloud & from aduengyng my self with myne awne hand. For in very deade as sure as the Lorde God of Israel lyueth whych hath kept me backe frõ hurtyng the / excepte thou haddest hasted and met me / there had not bene left Nabal by the dawnyng of the daye / a pysser agaynst the wall. And so Dauid receaued of her hand that she brought hym/ and sayde to her: go in peace to thine house. And se I haue obeyed thy voice & haue receaued ỹ to grace.

a. Blessyng for reward or prefermẽt after the maner of ỹ tyrãnes.

b. The meaning is / The lyfe of my Lord Dauid shalbe so preserued of the Lord/ as it were in the bondell of lyfe. And the soules of his aduersaryes shalbe in the rowlyng of slynges / as it were to the same. And as concerninge his enemyes / they shalbe in the myddle of a slynge / that is / they shall be slayne.

And whẽ Abigail came to Nabal: beholde/ he helde a feast in his house lyke the feest of a kynge/and Nabals herte was merye within hym/and he was droncke a good. Wherfore she tolde hym naught nether litle nor moare/ vntyll the morow daye. But in ỹ morninge/ when the wyne was gone out of Nabail/his wyfe tolde hym these wordes / and his herte dyed within hym/ and he became as a stone/ G and vpon a ten dayes after the Lorde smote Nabal/that he dyed. And whẽ Dauid herde that Nabail was deed, he sayde: Blessed be ỹ Lord that hath iudged the cause of my rebuke of the hande of Nabal/ and hath kept his seruaũt from euell/ and hath turned the wyckednesse of Nabail agayne vpon his awne heed. And Dauid sent to comen wyth Abigail/to thyntent to take her to his wyfe. And when the seruauntes of Dauid were come to Abigail to Carmel / they spake vnto her saying: Dauid sent vs vnto the/to take the to his wyfe. And she arose and bowed her self on her face to the erth & sayde: Beholde thy handmayde, to be a seruaunt to wasshe the fete of the seruauntes of my Lord. And Abigail hasted and arose and gat her vp vpon an Asse with fyue damoselles of hers ỹ went at her fete and wẽt after the messengers of Dauid and was his wyfe. Dauid also toke Ahinoã of Jezrahel, & they were both his wyues. But Saul gaue Michol his daughter Dauids wife to Phalti ỹ sonne of Lais of Gallim. C.no.v.b.

C The.xxvi. Chapter.

After ỹ came ỹ Ziphites vnto Saul A to Gabaah sayinge: Dauid hydeth him self in the hyll of Hachilah euẽ before ỹ wyldernesse. Then Saul arose & went to the wyldernesse of Ziph and thre thousande chosen men of Israel w hym/ for to seke Dauid in the wildernesse of Ziph. And Saul pytched in the hyll of Hachilah which lyeth before the wyldernesse / by the wayes syde. But Dauid dwelt in the wildernesse. And whẽ he sawe that Saul came after him into the wyldernesse/ he sent out spyes & vnderstode that Saul was come of sure tyme.

Wherfore Dauid arose & wẽt to the place where Saul had pytched / and beheelde the place where Saul laye with Abner ỹ sonne of Ner his chefe captayne. For Saul laye with in a rownd bancke/and the people pytched rounde about him. Then answered Dauid and spake to Ahimelech the Hethite and to Abisai the sonne of Zaruiah and brother to Joab saying: who wyll go downe with me to Saul to the hoste? & Abisai sayde: I wyll B go doune with the.

And so Dauid & Abisai came to ỹ people by nyght. And beholde, Saul laye slepynge with in a rounde bãcke & his speare pitched in the

in the ground at his heed/Abner & the people lying round aboute him. Then sayde Abisai to Dauid: God hath closed in thyne enemye vnto thyne hãde this daye. Now therfore lett me smyte him a felowshippe w̃ my speare to ẏ erth/euẽ one stroke/and I wyll not smyte him ẏ secõde time. But Dauid sayde to Abisai: destroye him not/for who can laye his hãd on ẏ Lordes anoynted & be giltelesse? And Dauid sayde furthermore: as sure as the Lorde liueth/ẏ Lorde shall smyte hym/or his daye shall come to dye/or he shall descẽde into batell & there perishe: but ẏ Lorde kepe me frõ layẽg myne hand vpõ ẏ Lordes anoynted. Now then take a felowshippe ẏ speare ẏ is at his heed/& the crewse of water/& let vs go. And Dauid toke ẏ speare & ẏ crewse of water & were at Sauls heed/& they gatt them awaye/& no mã saw or wist it or awoke. For they were all a slepe/because the Lorde had ¶ sent a slõber vpõ thẽ. Then Dauid wẽt ouer to ẏ other syde & stode on the toppe of an hill a farre of (a great space beyng betwene thẽ) & cryed to the people & to Abner the sonne of Ner sayeng: Answerest thou not Abner? and Abner answerde & sayde: what art thou that ✻cryest to the kyng? and Dauid sayde to Abner: art not thou a mã & who is lyke ẏ in Israel? But wherfore hast thou not kept thy Lord ẏ kyng? For there came one of ẏ folke to destroy ẏ kynge thy Lord. It is not good ẏ thou hast done. As truly as ẏ Lord liueth ye are worthy to dye/because ye haue no better kepte ẏ Lords anoynted. And now se where the kynges speare is and ẏ crewse of water that were at his heed.

✻ What is with thy people awaked the kyng.

Then Saul knew Dauids voyce & sayde: is this thy voyce my sonne Dauid? and Dauid sayde: it is my voyce my Lord kyng. And he sayde therto wherfore doth my Lorde persecute his seruaũt? for what haue I done? or what euell is in myne hãd? Now heare therfore (my Lord kyng) ẏ wordes of thy seruaũt. ✻If ẏ Lorde haue stered ẏ vp agaynst me, he shall smell ẏ sauoure of sacrefice. But & yf they be ẏ childrẽ of mẽ, cursed be they before ẏ Lorde. For they haue cast me out frõ abydyng in ẏ enheritaũce of ẏ Lord sayeng: hẽce & go serue other Goddes. And yet I hope my bloude shall not fall to the erth before ẏ face of ẏ Lord/though ẏ kyng of Israel be come out to hunt a flee, as men hunt ẏ partrege in ẏ moũtaynes. Then sayde Saul: I haue synned/come agayn my sonne Dauid for I will do ẏ no moare harme, because my soule was precyouse in thyne eyes this daye. Beholde/I haue played the fole & haue erred exceding moche. And Dauid answered and sayde: Beholde ẏ kynges speare, lett one of the young men come ouer & fett it. The Lorde rewarde

Then thought Dauid in his hert: I shall perysshe one daye or other by the hãde of Israel. There is no better for me then to flee into ẏ lande of the Philistines, ẏ Saul of very dispayre to finde me may cease to seke me any more in all ẏ coostes of Israel. So shall I escape his hand. ¶ The Philistines move warre against Saul and the Israelites. Saul requireth counsell of God but hath no answere: and then seeketh after an enchaunter, which rayseth him vp the spirite of Samuel.

IN those dayes, ỳ the Philistines gathered their host together / entendynge to fyght with Israel. And Achis sayde to Dauid: Be sure thou shalt goo out wt me in ỳ host / and thy men also. And Dauid sayd agayne to Achis: then thou shalt know / what thy seruaunt can do. And Achis sayde to Dauid: Then I wyll make ỳ * keper of my heed for ever. Samuel was then dead / and all Israel had lamented hym / & buryed hym in Ramath his awne cyte. And Saul had put the women ỳ had spirites of prophecye / & ỳ Sorcerars oute of the lande. And the Philistines gathered to gether and came and pitched in Sunam. And Saul / & all Israel gathered to gether and pytched in Gelboe. And when Saul saw ỳ hoste of ỳ Philistines / he was afrayed / and his hert was sore astonied. And Saul asked counceil of the Lorde: But the Lorde answered him not, neither by dreame nor by Urim nor yet by prophetes.

Then sayde Saul vnto his seruaūtes: Get me a woman ỳ is maistres a of spirite of prophecye ỳ I maye go to her & aske of her. And his seruauntes sayde to hym: se there is a wyfe ỳ hath a spirite of Prophecye in her / at Endor. And Saul chaunged his clothes & put on other rayment / & then went he & two men wt him, & they came to ỳ wyfe by night. And he sayde: prophecye vnto me by ỳ spirite / & bryng me him vp whom I shall name vnto the. And the wyfe sayde vnto him: Beholde / thou knowest what Saul hath done / how he hath destroyed the women ỳ had prophecying spirites, & ỳ Sorcerars out of the lād. Wherfore then * layest thou a nett for my soule to kyll me? And Saul swore to her by the Lorde sayinge: As surely as the Lorde liueth there shall no harme chaūce ỳ for this thyng. Then sayde the wyfe: whō shall I fetche vp vnto the? and he sayde: Bryng me vp Samuel. When the womā saw Samuel she cryed wyth a lowde voyce & spake to Saul saying: why hast thou mocked me? for thou art Saul. And ỳ kyng sayde vnto her, be not afrayde: But what seyst thou. And the wyfe sayde vnto Saul: I se * a God ascendyng vp out of the erth. And he sayde: what facion is he of? And the womā sayde: there cometh vp an olde mā wt a mantell vpō him. And Saul perceaued ỳ it was Samuel & stouped wt his face to the ground & bowed him self. And Samuel sayde to Saul: why hast thou vnquieted me to make me be brought vp? And Saul answered: I am sore encombred. For ỳ Philistins make warre against me. & God is departed frō me & answereth me nomore, neither by prophets / neither by dreames. And therfore I haue called the / to tell me what I shall do. Then sayd Samuel: wherfore doest thou aske of me? whyle ỳ Lord is gone frō ỳ & is thyne enemye / ỳ Lorde wyll do to the as he sayde by my hand. For the Lorde will rent the kyngdom out of thine hand / & geue it thy neyboure Dauid / because thou obeydst not ỳ voyce of the Lord / nor executedst his fearce wrath vpō the Amalekites. Therfore hath the Lord done this vnto ỳ this daye. And moreouer the Lorde wyll delyuer Israel wt the / into ỳ hands of ỳ Philistines. And to morow shalt thou & thy sonnes be wt me / & ỳ Lorde shall geue the hoste of Israel into the handes of ỳ Philistines. ¶ Dauid cōmaundeth to slee the messenger/ that sayde he had kylled Saul. The Lamentacyon of Dauid for Saul and Ionathas.

AFter the deeth of Saul/ whē Dauid was returned frō the slaughter of the Amalekites & had bene two dayes in Ziklegh: Beholde / there cam a man the thyrde daye out of the hoste frō Saul w his clothes rent & erth vpō his heed. And whē he came to Dauid/ he fell to the erth & dyd obeysaunce. To whō Dauid sayde: whence comest thou? And he answered hym: Out of the hoste of Israel am I escaped. And Dauid sayde to hym agayne: How hath it chaunced? tell me. And he sayde: the people fleed frō the battell: & many of the people are ouerthrowen & deed: and Saul & Ionathas his sonne are deed therto.

B And Dauid sayde vnto the young mā that tolde him: how knowest thou that Saul and Ionathas his sonne be deed? and the younge man that tolde him/ sayde: I was by chaūce in mount Gelboe. And se / Saul leaned vpō hys speare / and the charettes and horsemen folowed hym at the heles. And Saul loked backe and called me. And I answered: here am I. And he sayde vnto me: what art thou? and I sayde vnto hym: I am an Amalekite. And he sayde vnto me: come on me & slee me: for anguysshe is come vpō me and my lyfe is yet all in me. And I went on him & slue hym: for I was sure that he coulde not lyue/ after that he was fallen. And I toke the crowne that was vpō his heed and the Bracelet that was on his arme and haue brought them vnto my Lorde hyther.

Then Dauid toke hys clothes and *rente thē, & so dyd all the men that were with him. And they mourned, wepte & fasted vntill euē for Saul and Ionathas hys sonne / and for the people of the Lorde / and for the house of Israel, because they were ouerthrowē wyth the swerde.

a. The rentyng of his clothes was a sygne of great sadnesse / & also of great anger for the zele of the Lorde / as in ¶ Matrrvij And tenethy. f. and. xiij. f

Then sayde Dauid vnto the yourg mā that brought hym tydyngs. Whēce art thou? And he sayde: I am the sonne of an alyaūt an Amalekite. And Dauid sayde vnto him: How is it that thou wast not afrayed to laye thyne hād on the Lordes anoynted/ to destroye him? And Dauid called one of his young men & sayde: Go to and runne vpō him. And he smote hym that he dyed. Then sayde Dauid vnto him: * thy bloude vpō thine awne heed. For thine awne

E Ye mountaynes of Gelboe, vpon you be neyther dew nor rayne / nor feldes whence hesue offeringes come. For there the shilde of ẏ myghtie were cast from them: the shilde of Saul / as though he had not bene anoynted wyth oyle. The boowe of Jonathas and the swerde of Saul turned neuer backe agayne emptie / from the bloud of the wounded and from the fatte of the mightie warryowres.

Saul and Jonathas louely and pleasaũt in their lyues / were in their deethes not deuided / men swifter then Egles and stronger then Lyons. Ye daughters of Israel / wepe ouer Saul / wbych clothed you in purple & garmentes of pleasure, and* bordered youre rayment with ornamentes of golde. How were ẏ mightye slayne in battell? ¶ The second Chapter.

A Fter thys Dauid asked the Lorde sayng: shall I go vp in to any of ẏ cities of Juda: And ẏ Lorde sayde: go. And Dauid answered whither shall I go? He answered / vnto Hebron. And so Dauid went thither with his two wyues also / Ahinoam the Jesrahelite and Abigail Nabals wyfe ẏ Carmelite. And the mẽ that were wt him / did Dauid carye vp also / euery man wyth hys house. And they dwelt in the townes of Hebron. And the men of Juda ca-

When it was tolde Dauid / how the men of Jabes in Galaad had buryed Saul, he sent messengers vnto them & sayde vnto them: blessed are ye vnto the Lorde / that ye haue shewed suche kyndnesse vnto youre Lorde Saul / and haue buryed hym. Wherfore the Lorde shew you mercye and truthe againe. And I will do you good also / because ye haue done this thyng. And now let youre handes stere thẽ & playe ye the men / though youre mayster Saul be deed. And finally ye vnderstãde ẏ the house of Juda haue anoynted me kyng ouer them. But Abner the sonne of Ner ẏ was captayne of Sauls host / toke Isboseth ẏ sonne of Saul and brought him to Mahanaim and made him kyng ouer Galaad and ouer the Assurites, & ouer Jesrahel: and ouer Ephraim and Beniamin and ouer all Israel. And Isboseth Sauls sonne was fourtye yere olde when he began to raygne ouer Israel / and raygned two yere. But the house of Juda only folowed Dauid.* And ẏ tyme which Dauid raygned in Hebron ouer the house of Juda / was.vij. yere & fyue monethes. And Abner the sonne of Ner and the seruauntes of Isboseth the sonne of Saul wẽt out of Mahanaim / to Gabaon. And Joab the sonne of Saruiah and the seruauntes of Dauid went out and mette them by the Pole of Gabaon. And they satt downe / the one parte on the one syde the Pole & the other on the other syde. And Abner sayde to Joab: let the young men arise and playe before vs. And Joab answered: be it. Then there arose D & went ouer: twelue of Beniamin by nõbre wbych pertayned to Isboseth the sonne of Saul / and twelue of the seruaũtes of Dauid. And they caught eche his felow that came agaynst hym / by the heed and thrust hys swerde in hys syde / and so felle downe all atonce. Wherfore the place was called* Helath Zurim wbych is in Gabaon. And there begainne an exceedyng cruel battel that same daye. But Abner and the men of Israel were put to the worse of the seruaũtes of Dauid.

Then Abner called to Joab and sayde: shall the swerde deuoure without ende? knowest thou not ꝑ bitternesse is wont to come in the later ende? how long shall it be/ yer thou bydde the people returne frō folowing their brethren? And Joab answered: as truely as God lyueth / yf thou haddest so sayde/ then euen in the morning had ꝑ people departed/ eche from folowyng his brother.

And Joab returned from after Abner and geathered all the people to gether. And there lacked of Dauids seruauntes nyntene persons & Asahel. But the seruaūtes of Dauid had slayne of Beniamin and of Abners men/ thre hundred & thre score men. And they toke vp Asahel and buryed him in the sepulchre of his father in Bethlehem. And Joab and hys men wēt all nyght/ and cam in the dawnyng to Hebron.

¶ Abner cōmeth to Dauid & bryngeth hym hys wyfe Michol. Joab sleeth Abner. Dauid bewepeth his death and curseth Joab.

¶ The. iij. Chapter.

THere was long stryfe betwene the howse of Saul and the howse of Dauid. But Dauid waxed stronger and stronger/ and the house of Saul waxed weaker & weaker.* And Dauid had childrē borne him in Hebrō: his eldest sonne was Amnon of Ahinoam the Jezrahelite: the seconde Cheleab of Abigail the wyfe of Nabal the Carmelite: the thyrde Absalom the sonne of Maachah ꝑ daughter of Tholmai the kyng of Gessur: the fourth Adonias the sonne of Hagith: the fyfte Saphatiah ꝑ sonne of Abital: the syxte Jethraam by Egla Dauids wife. These were borne to Dauid in Hebron. And as long as there was battell betwene the house of Saul and the house of Dauid/ Abner helde vp the house of Saul.

And Abner sent messengers to Dauid forthwith/ sayeng: whose is the lande? and he sayde therto: make a bonde wyth me/ and se/ my hand is with the/ to bryng all Israel vnto the. And Dauid answered well sayde/ I wyll make a bonde wyth the. But one thyng I requere of the/ that thou se not my face/ except thou fyrst bryng Michol Sauls daughter/ when thou comest to se me.

And Dauid sent messengers to Jsboseth Sauls sonne saying: delyuer me my wyfe Michol which I maryed wyth an hundred foreskynnes of the Philistines. And Jsboseth sent and toke her frō her husbande Phaltiel the sonne of Lais. And her husband went with her/ and cam weyng behinde her/ tyll they cā to Bahurim. Then sayde Abner vnto him go and returne. And he returned. And Abner had comunycacion with the elders of Israel saying: ye haue long gone about that Dauid shulde be kyng ouer you. Now then do it: for the Lorde hath sayde of Dauid/ by the hand of my seruaūt Dauid/ I will saue my people Israel/ out of the handes of the Philistines/ and out of the hand of al their enemyes. And like wordes had he with Beniamin/ & then went to tell in the eares of Dauid in Hebron all that Israel was content with & the whole house of Beniamin. And when Abner was come to Dauid to Hebron and twentye men with hym Dauid made him and the mē that were with him a feest. Then Abner sayde vnto Dauid: I will vp and go gather all Israel vnto my Lorde the kyng/ that they maye make an appoyntment wyth the/ that thou mayst be kyng ouer all that thyne hart desyreth. And so Dauid lett Abner depart/ and he went in peace. D

And se/ the seruauntes of Dauid & Joab came from chasyng robbers and brought a great pray with them. But Abner was not with Dauid in Hebron: for he had sent hym awaye to depart in peace. Wher Joab and all the host that was with him were come/ men tolde Joab saying: Abner the sonne of Ner came to the kyng/ & he hath sent hym awaye that he is gone in peace. Then Joab went to the kyng & sayde: what hast thou done? Se/ Abner came vnto ꝑ/ why hast thou sent hym awaye/ that he shulde skape quyte? Thou myghtest know Abner the sonne of Ner/ that he cā to flater wyth the/ and to know thy cōuersacyō and behauoure/ and to know all ꝑ thou doest. And when Joab was come out

And when it afterwarde came to Dauids eare, he ſayde: I & my kyngdom are giltleſſe before the Lorde for euer / cōcerning the bloude of Abner the ſonne of Ner. Yt fall therfore on ꝑ heed of Joab & on al his fathers houſe: ꝑ the houſe of Joab be neuer without one or other ꝑ hath runnyng iſſues or wout lepers & goers on crouches / & that fall on ꝑ ſwerde and that lacke bred. And the cauſe why Joab & Abiſai ſlue Abner was / ꝑ Abner had ſlayne their brother Aſahel at Gabaō in battell. And Dauid ſayde to Joab & to all the people ꝑ were wyth him / rent youre clothes & * put on ſacke cloth & mourne before Abner. And kyng Dauid hym ſelfe folowed the bere. And whē they had buryed Abner in Hebron, the kyng lyfte vp his voyce and wepte ouer the ſepulchre of Abner, and ſo did all ꝑ people. And the kynge lamented ouer Abner and ſayde: Abner died not as a wretche dieth. Thy handes were not manacled nor thy feete brought into gyues: but as men falle before wycked children / ſo felleſt thou. And all the people wept yet moare ouer him.

¶ The.iij. Chapter.

When Sauls ſonne heard that Abner was deed in Hebron, hys handes faynted & all Iſrael was troubled. Now this Sauls ſonne had two men that were become captaynes ouer the ſoudiars / the one called Baanah & ꝑ other Rechab / the ſonnes of Remon a Berothite / and of the chyldren of Beniamin: for Beroth was reken̄ed to pertayne to Beniamin. And theſe Berothites fled to Gethaim and ſoiourned there vntil the ſame tyme. And Jonathas Sauls ſonne had a ſonne that was lame on his feete: fyue yere olde was he whē the tydynges cam of Saul & Jonathas out of Jeſrahel. And his nource toke him vp and fled awaye. And as ſhe made haſt to flee and was amazed / ꝑ childe fell & becam halt & was called Miphiboſeth. And theſe ſonnes of Remon the Berothite, Rechab and Baanah went / & cam in the heat of the daye to ꝑ houſe of Iſboſeth / as he ſlept on a bed at none. And behalde they cam into the houſe as though they wold haue bought wheate, & ſmote hym vnder the ſhort rybbes and fled. For they cam into the houſe as he ſlept on his bed in his reſtyng chamber / and ſmote him and ſlue hym and beheded hym and toke hys heed & gat thē awaye thorow the wylde feldes all nyght. And they brought the heed of Iſboſeth vnto Dauid / to Hebron and ſayde to the kyng: behold there the heed of Iſboſeth Sauls ſonne thine enemye / which ſought thy ſoule. But the Lorde hath auenged my Lorde the kynge this daye / of Saul and of his ſeede.

* Leſt they ſhuld haue bē knowē.

And Dauid anſwered Rechab and Baanah hys brother / the ſonnes of Remon the B Berothite and ſayde vnto thē: * as ſurely as 1.Re.xxix.b. the Lorde lyueth wyche hath delyuered my 9.Reg.iij.a. ſoule out of al aduerſites: him* that tolde me how that Saul was deed, thynkyng to haue brought me good tydynges / I caught & ſlew in Siceleg to geue him a rewarde for his tydinges bringing. And how moch more ought I ſo to deale with wicked men ꝑ haue ſlayne a ryghteouſe perſon in his awne houſe vpō his bed. Now therfore thynke ye that I wyll not require his bloud of youre handes & take you from the erth? And Dauid commaunded his young men / and they ſlue them and cut of theire handes and their fete & hanged thē vp by the pole in Hebron. And they toke the heed of Iſboſeth and buryed it in the ſepulchre of Abner in Hebron.

¶ Dauid is yet a ſyne annoynted kyng: and taketh the Arche from Sion. He caſteth oute the blynde and the lame. He marieth mo wyues and getteth mo chyldren. He ſtriketh the Philiſtines.

¶ The.v. Chapter.

Then cam all the trybes of Iſrael I to Dauid to Hebrō and ſayde: ſe / we 1.Para.xi.a. are thy bones and thy fleſhe. And therto in tyme paſt when Saul was kyng ouer vs / thou leddeſt Iſrael in and oute. And the Lorde hath ſayd to the: thou ſhalt fede my people Iſrael / and thou ſhalt be a captayne ouer Iſrael. And ſo all the elders of Iſrael came to the king to Hebron. And kyng Dauid made a couenaunt wyth them in Hebron before the Lorde. And they annoynted Dauid kyng ouer Iſrael.

Dauid

Dauid was thyrtye yere olde when he begā to raygne/and he raygned fourtye yere. In Hebron he raygned ouer Juda seuen yere & syxe monethes. And in Jerusalē he raygned thirtie & thre yeres ouer all Israel & Juda.

Then went the kyng and hys men to Jerusalem/vnto the Jebusites the enhabiters
23 of the land. And they sayd vnto Dauid: except thou take awaye the blynde & the lame thou shalt not come in hyther/meanyng therby ꝑ Dauid shuld not haue come in thyther. Neuertheles Dauid toke the holde of Sion/ which is in the cyte of Dauid. Then sayde Dauid the same daye. Whosoeuer wynneth the walles and the lame and the blynd hated of Dauids soule*. Wherfore the blynd & the lame shal not come into the house. And Dauid dwelt in the towre and called it the citie of Dauid. And Dauid bylt round about it frō Mello inwarde. And Dauid waxed great and the Lorde God of hostes was with him. And Hiram kyng of Tire sent messengers to Dauid with Cedar trees and carpenters & Masons to bylde Dauid an house Wherby ¶ Dauid perceaued that the Lorde had stablished him kynge ouer Israel and had exalted his kingdō for his people Israels sake. And Dauid toke him mo concubynes and wyues out of Jerusalem / after he was come from Hebron, and mo sonnes and daughters were yet borne to Dauid. And these be the names of the sonnes that were borne hym in Jerusalem: Samua/ Sobab/ Nathan/ Salamō Jebahar, Elisua Nepheg/ Japhia/ Elisama Eliada/ and Eliphalet.

But when the Philistines heard that they had anoynted Dauid kyng ouer Israel/ they cā all vp to seke Dauid. And as sone as Dauid heard of it/ he gat him to an holde. And ꝑ Philistines cam and layd them a long in the valeye of Raphaim. And Dauid asked of the Lord saying: shall I go to the Philistines? & wilt thou deliuer them into my handes? And D the Lord sayde vnto Dauid: go for I wyll deliuer the Philistines into thy handes. And Dauid cam to* Baal Pharazim & smote thē there & said: the Lord hath deuided myne enemyes a sonder before me / as a man woold deuide water. And therfore he called ꝑ name of the sayd place/ Baal Pharazim. And there they left their Images and Dauid & his men toke them vp. And the Philistines cam yet agayne & layd them in the valeye Raphaim. And Dauid asked the Lord, & he sayd go not But compasse them on the backsyde & come vpō them frō the Peretrees. And when thou heareſt the noyse of a thing going in the toppes of the Peretrees/ then moue. For then the Lord is gone out before the/ to smyte ꝑ host of the Philistines. And Dauid did as ꝑ Lord commaunded him and smote the Philistines from Gabaah to Gezer.

¶ The arcke is brought forth of the house of Abinadab. Ozah is stryckē & dyeth because he touched the arcke. The arcke is brought into the house of Obed Edom & frō thence in to Jerusalem. Dauid daunceth before it & is therfore despysed of hys wyfe Michol.

¶ The.vi. Chapter.

After that, Dauid chose out all the chefe yong men in Israel to the ¶ soume of thyrtye thousand, & arose & went & all the folke that were wt him of the mē of Juda, to fett awaye ꝑ Arck of God vpon which is called the name of the Lord of hostes that dwellyth betweene ꝑ cherubyns. And they put the Arck of God vpō a new cart and brought it out of the house of Abinadab ꝑ dwelt at Gabaah. And Ozah and Ahio the sonnes of Abinadab drawe the new carte. And when they brought it out of ꝑ house of Abinadab that dwelt at Gabaah with the Arck of God, Ahio went before the arck. And Dauid and all the house of Israel playde before the Lorde wyth all maner instrumentes of fyne woode / wt harpes, psalteries timberelles fedyles and cymbals.
23 And when they cā to Nachons threshyng floure, Ozah put his hand to the arck of God and held it for the oxen stōbled. And the Lord was wrath wyth Ozah and God smote hym in the same place for his fault / and there he dyed by the arcke of God. And Dauid was displeased because the Lord had rent Ozah. And the name of the place was called Perez Ozah vntil this daye. And Dauid was then afraied of the Lord and sayde: how shuld the Arck of the Lord come to my house? And so Dauid wolde not bryng the Arck of the Lord with him into the citie of Dauid. But caried it into the house of Obed Edom a Gethite. And the Arcke of the Lorde contynued in the house of Obed Edom the Gethite / thre monethes and the Lord blessed Obed Edom and all hys housholde. And when it was tolde kynge Dauid how that the Lord had blessed the house of Obed Edom and all ꝑ pertayned vnto him, because of the Arck of God, he wēt ¶

And so the people departed euery man to his house.

Then Dauid returned to salute his housholde. And Michol the daughter of Saul came out against him and sayd: Oh how glorious was the kyng of Israel to daye, which stripte him self to daye before the eyes of the maydens of his seruauntes/as a lyght brayned felow is wont to stripe him self. But Dauid sayd againe to Michol/I wil make sporte before the Lord which chose me before thy father & before all his kynne / cõmaundyng me to be ruler ouer al his people Israel. And I wilbe yet more vyle then so/& wilbe meke in myne awne syght: and shall for all that of ỹ very same maydeseruauntes wiych thou speakest of, be had in honoure. In any waye where I went amonge all ỹ children of Israel, spake I one worde with any of the tribes of Israel which I cõmaũded to fede my people Israel saying: why bylde ye not me an house of Cedar tree?

Now therfore so saye vnto my seruaunt Dauid/thus sayth the Lorde of Hostes I toke ỹ out of a sheperdes cote from folowyng sheepe to be a ruler ouer my people Israel. And I was with the in all that thou wentest to/and haue destroyed all thyne enemyes out of thy syght/and haue made the a great name/like vnto the name of the great men of the worlde And I wyll appoynt a place for my people Israel/and wyll plant it and they shall continew in one place and shall moue no moare/ nether shall wycked people trouble thẽ any more as they did at the beginnyng/and sence the tyme I commaunded Iudges to be ouer my people Israel, & I wyll geue the rest frõ all thyne enemyes. And the Lorde telleth the that he wyll bylde the an houshold.

And when thy dayes be fulfilled and thou laye to* rest wyth thy fathers then I will set vp thy seede after ỹ which shall proceade out of thy bodye / & wyll stablysshe his kyngdome. And he shall bylde an house for my name & I wyll stablysshe the seate of his kyngdom for euer: I wylbe his father & he shalbe my sonne: in so moche ỹ yf he synne / I wyll but rebuke him wyth soche a rodde as nẽ be rebuked wi and with soche plages as ỹ chyldren of men be plaged with. But my mercye will I not take awaye from him/as I toke it from Saul / whom I put downe before the. And thyne house and thy kingdome shall endure without ende after ỹ / & thy seate shalbe stablysshed for euer. And when Nathan had tolde Dauid all these woordes and all this vision. Then wẽt kyng Dauid & sate him downe before the Lorde and sayde: what am I Lord Iehouah/and what is my kynne / that thou shuldest haue brought me thys farre forth? And is this a small thyng in thy syght Lorde Iehouah, but ỹ thou shuldest speake also of thy seruaũts house for a great while to come? is this a lawe amõg mẽ Lord Iehouah? And what can Dauid saye moare vnto the/ seeing *thou knowest thy seruaunt Lord Iehouah? Cuẽ for thy woordes sake & according to thine awne hert hast thou done all these great thyngs to make thẽ knowẽ vnto thy seruaũt.

* That is/thou cast thy seruaunt away, & other. b Hert for wyll as in the Actes. iij. & xxj. a Wherfore thou art great O Lorde God & there is none like ỹ, nether is there any God saue thou according to all ỹ we haue heard with oure eares. And what one people in the erth is like thy people Israel which God wẽt & deliuered to be his people/& to make him a name/ & to shewe thẽ great & terrible thyngs in ỹ erthe/before thy people which thou redemedst to the out of Egipt cuẽ* frõ ỹ people & frõ their Gods. And thou hast ordeyned thy people Israel to be thy people for euer. And thou Lord art their God. And now Lord God ỹ thing thou hast sayd of thy seruaũt & of his house make it good for euer & do as thou hast sayde. And let thy name be great for euer/ that men maye saye/ ỹ Lord of Hostes is the God of Israel: and let the house of thy seruaunt Dauid be stablysshed before the.

* Or: from the people wyth their Idols.

For thou

for thou Lorde of Hostes God of Israel hast tolde in the eare of thy seruaunt saying: I wyll bylde the an house. And therfore hath thy seruaũt found in his harte to praye thys prayer vnto ỹ. And now Lord Iehouah thou art the God / and thy woordes muste be true: for thou hast tolde thys goodnesse vnto thy seruaunt. And now go to and blesse the housholde of thy seruaunt / that it maye contynewe for euer before the. For thou Lord Iehouah hast sayde ỹ of thy blessyng the house of thy seruaunt shalbe blessed for euer.

¶ Dauid ouercometh the Philistines and maketh them to become tributaries. He ordeyneth & appoynteth hys officers.

The.viij.Chapter.

AFter that / Dauid bette the Philistines and subdued them and toke the bridell of bondage out of their handes. And he bette ỹ Moabites and a measured them wyth a lyne b makyng them lye a long on the erth & then meating the length of two lynes to slay / & the length of one lyne to saue a lyne. And so became the Moabites Dauids seruauntes & payd tribute. Dauid smote also Adadezer the sonne of Rehob kynge of Zobah as he wẽt to make the ende of his coostes at the ryuer Euphrates. And Dauid toke a thousand and seuen hundred horsemen of hys, and twentye thousand foote men and destroyed all his charettes reseruyng one hundred of them. Then came the Syrians of Damascon to succourre Adadezer kyng of Zobah. And Dauid slue of thẽ two and twentye thousand men & put soudyours in Syra Damascon. And the Syriẽs became seruauntes to Dauid payẽg tribute And thus the Lorde saued Dauid in all that he wẽt to. And Dauid toke ỹ shildes of gold ỹ were vpõ ỹ seruaũtes of Adadezer & brought thẽ to Ierusalẽ. And therto out of Betah and Berathai cyties of Adadezer he brought exceedyng great aboundance of brasse.

The.ix.Chapter.

THen sayd Dauid: is there yet any man left of the house of Saul / ỹ I maye shewe hym mercye for Jonathas sake? And there was of the household of Saul a seruaunt named Zibah which was called vnto Dauid. And the kyng sayd vnto hym: art thou Zibah. And he sayde: thy seruaunt is the man. Then sayd the kyng remayneth ther yet any man of the kynred of Saul / whom I maye shewe the mercye of God vpon? And Zibah sayd vnto the kynge: Jonathas hath yet a sonne which is lame on both feete. And the kyng sayd vnto him. where is he? And Zibah sayd vnto the kynge: behold he is in the house of Machir: the sonne of Amiel in Lodaber. Then kyng Dauid sent & fett him out of ỹ house of Machir the sonne of Amiel / out of Lodaber Now whẽ Miphiboseth the sonne of Jonathas the sonne of Saul was come vnto Dauid / he bowed hym selfe and fell on his face. Then sayd Dauid: Miphiboseth? And he answered. Behold thy seruaũt. And Dauid said: feare not, for I wil surely shewe the kindnesse for Jonathas sake and will restore the all ỹ feldes of Saul thy father / and thou shalt eate meate on myne awne table all waye. And the other bowed him selfe and sayd: what is thy seruaunt that thou shuldest voucheſafe to loke vpon soche a deed dogg as I am.

Then the kynge called vnto Zibah Sauls young mã saying vnto hym: I geue vnto thy masters sonne all that pertayned to Saul & to all hys kynne. Se therfore that thou and thy sonnes and thy seruauntes tyll the lande for him, and bring in / that thy masters sonne maye haue fode to eate. For Miphiboseth thy masters sonne shall eate meate all waye vpon my table. For thys Zibah had fiftene sonnes and twentye seruauntes. Then sayd Zibah vnto ỹ kynge: all that my Lorde hathe sayde sayde vnto his seruaunt / thy seruaunt shall do. For (sayd the kynge) Miphiboseth must eate vpon my table, as one of ỹ kynges sonnes. Thys Miphiboseth had a sonne ỹ was younge named Micha and all that dwelled in the house of Siba wer seruauntes vnto Miphiboseth. And Miphiboseth dwelt in Jerusalem for he ate euer at the kynges table / and was therto hault on bothe legges.

¶ The messengers of Dauid are spitefully & vyllanously entreated of the kyng of Moab: wherby thyng Dauid auengeth.

¶ The.x. Chapter.

3 It happened after this that ỹ kyng of ỹ childrē of Ammon died / & Hanō his sonne raygned in his steade. Then said Dauid: I wil shew kyndnesse vnto Hanon ỹ sonne of Nahas, as hys father shewed kyndnesse vnto me. And ther vpō Dauid sent to cōfort hym by the hand of his seruaūtes ouer ỹ deeth of his father. Now when Dauids seruauntes were come in to ỹ land of the chyldren of Ammon / the Lordes of the chyldren of Ammon sayd vnto Hanon their Lord: thynkest thou that Dauid dothe honoure thy father, because he hathe sent to comfort the? Naye / he hath rather sent hys seruauntes vnto the / to searche the cytie and to spye it out euen to ouerthrow it.

Wherfore Hanon toke Dauids seruauntes and shaued of ỹ one halfe of euery mannes berd & cut of their garmētes euen in the myddle euē harde by ỹ buttockes of thē and sent thē awaye. When it was tolde Dauid he sent against thē, for they were mē exceedingly ashamed: & sayd: tarye at Jericho vntill your berdes be growē, & then returne. And when B ỹ childrē of Ammon saw ỹ they stanche vnto Dauid they sent & hired ỹ sōnes of Beth rehob & of ỹ Syriēs of Zobah .xx. thousand fote mē & of king Maacah a thousand mē, & of Istob twelue thousand mē. And whē Dauid hearde of it he sent Joab & all ỹ host of strong men. And ỹ childrē of Ammon came out & waged battell before the gate & the Siriens of Zobah, of Rehob / Istob and Maacah were by them selues in the feldes.

When Joab saw that the front of the battell was before and after / he chose of all the best of Israel & put thē in araye against the Siriens. And ỹ rest of ỹ people he deliuered into ỹ hand of Abisai his brother which put thē in araye against ỹ childrē of Ammō. And C he sayd: yf ỹ Syriēs ouercome me, then succourre me. But yf ỹ chyldren of Ammon be to good for ỹ, I will come & succourre ỹ, quyte ỹ like a mā, & let vs fyght lustely for oure people & for ỹ cities of oure God. And ỹ Lord do what semyth best in his eyes. And forthwyth Joab proceded & ỹ people ỹ was wt him in to battell against ỹ Syriēs / which fled before him. And whē ỹ childrē of Ammon saw ỹ the Siriens were fled / then fled they also before Abisai / & entred into ỹ citie. And so Joab returned frō ỹ childrē of Ammon & came to Jerusalē. And whē ỹ Siriens saw ỹ they were put to ỹ worse before Israel / they gathered thē to gether. And Hadadezer sent & brought out ỹ Syriēs ỹ were beyōde ỹ ryuer. And ỹ host of them came / and Sobah the captayne of the host of Hadadezer before them.

And when it was shewed Dauid / he gathered all Israel and passed ouer Jordan and D cam to Helam: where the Syrians put them selues in araye against Dauid and fought wyth hym: how be it the Syriens fled before Israel. And Dauid destroyed seuen hundred charettes of thē and fourtye thousand horsemen / and smote Sobah the captayne of hys host / that he there dyed. And when all the kynges that were seruauntes to Hadadezer saw that they were put to the worse before Israel / they made peace wt thē & serued them. And so the Syriens feared to helpe the chyldren of Ammon any moare.

¶ The aduoutrye of Dauid with Bethsabe the wyfe of Urias. Urias is gylefully slayne. After that Dauid taketh Bethsabe to wyfe.

¶ The.xi. Chapter.

1. Parali.xx.a

And it came to passe in ỹ beginning of a new yere in ỹ tymes whē kynges are wōt to go forth to battell / that Dauid sent Joab & his seruaūtes with hym & all Israel. And they destroyed the childrē of Ammō, & besieged Rabah. But Dauid taryed styll at Jerusalē. And it chaunced in an euentyng ỹ Dauid arose frō his cowche & walked vpō the rouffe of ỹ kynges palace / & frō the rouffe saw a very bewtyfull woman washyng her selfe. And he sent to enquyre what womā it shuld be. And it was answered agayne / ỹ she was Bethsabe ỹ daughter of Eliam & wife to Urias ỹ Hethite. And Dauid sent messengers & fett her and she came vnto him and he laye wt her. And she was streyght waye purified frō her vnclēnesse, & returned vnto her house. And when the woman had perceaued that she had conceaued / she sent & tolde Dauid / and sayde: I am wyth chyld.

That is / her flowres or monethes diseace ceassed ỹ which is a token that wemen haue cōceaued.

Then

WHen Dauid sent to Joab to sende vnto hym Vrias the hethite. And Joab sent Vrias to Dauid. And whē Vrias was come vnto hym he demaunded how Joab dyd / and how the people fared / and how the warre prospered. And Dauid said moze ouer to Vrias: go downe to thyne house and washe thy fete. And Vrias departed out of the kynges palace / & there folowed hym a seruyce frō the kynges table. But Vrias slept at the doze of the kynges palace with all ꝑ seruaūtes of his Lozd / and went not downe to his house.

Then they tolde Dauid saying: Vrias descēdid not into his house. Then sayd Dauid vnto Vrias: Seyng that thou art come frō toz-neying / why dooste thou not go downe vnto thyne house? And Vrias sayd vnto Dauid: ꝑ arcke and Israel & Juda dwell in pauylyōs: and my Lozde Joab and the seruauntes of my Lozde lye in tentes vpon the flatt erthe: & shuld I then go into myne house / to eate and
ꝑ. Reg. xiij. to drynke & to lye with my wife? * By thy life and as sure as thy soule lyueth I will not do that thyng. Then sayd Dauid vnto Vrias:
Judic. xix. *tarye here this daye also / & to mozow I will lett the depart. And so Vrias abode in Jerusalem that daye and on the mozow. And Dauid called hym / and he ate & dranke befoze him / and he made hym droncke. And at euen he went out to lye on his couche with the seruauntes of the Lozde / and went not downe to hys house. Wherfoze on ꝑ mozow Dauid wrote a letter to Joab and sent it by Vrias. And he wrote in the letter saying: put Vrias in the fozefront of ꝑ battell where it is moost strong / and come back from him that he may be smytten to deeth. And as Joab besieged ꝑ citie he assigned Vrias vnto a place where he wist that strong men were. And the men of ꝑ citie cam out & fought wyth Joab. And there were certen ouer throwen of the people and of the seruauntes of Dauid, and Vrias the hethite dyed also.

Then Joab sent and tolde Dauid all the processe of the warre and charged the messengers saying: when thou hast made an ende of tellyng the storye of the warre vnto the kyng yf he begynne to fume and saye vnto the: wherfoze approched ye so nye vnto the citie to fyght? wyst ye not that men wolde hourle

And the messengers went and came & shewed Dauid all that Joab had sent hym with / and said vnto Dauid: ꝑ men preuayle agaīst vs, and cam out vnto vs vnto the felde / & we stacke vnto them, euen vnto the enteryng of the gate. And the shothers shotte from the walles / and some of the seruaūtes of ꝑ kyng be deed. And thy seruaunt Vrias the hethite is deed also. Then sayd Dauid vnto the messenger / thus wyle saye vnto Joab / let not ꝑ thyng trouble the. For the swerde deuoureth one as well as another: make thy battell moze stroge agaynst the citie and destroye it / and se that thou courage Joab. And when ꝑ wyfe of Vrias heard that her husband was deed, she mourned for hym / & as sone as the mournyng was ended / Dauid sent and fett her to his house / and she was his wife & bare him a sonne. But the deade that Dauid had comitted / displeased the Lozde.

¶ Dauid is reproued for the slaughter of Vrias / & then repenteth. The chylde conceaued in aduoutrye dyeth. After it / is Salomon borne.

¶ The xij. Chapter.

ANd ꝑ Lozde sent Nathan vnto Dauid. And he cam vnto hym and sayd vnto hym: there were two men in one citie / a ryche and a pooze. And the ryche had exceedyng great aboundaunce of shepe and oxē. But the pooze had nothyng saue one lytle lambe whych he bought & norysshed vp. And it grew vp with hym and hys childzen, and did eate of his awne meate and dranke of his awne cuppe / & slept in his bosome / & was as dere vnto hym as his daughter. And there cam a straūger vnto the ryche man. And he couldе not fynde in hys heart to take of his awne shepe noz of hys beestes to dresse for ꝑ straunger ꝑ was come vnto hym. But toke the poozes mānes lambe & dressed it for the mā that was come to hym. And Dauid was exceedyng wroth wt the man, and sayd to Nathan: as surely as ꝑ Lozde lyueth ꝑ felow ꝑ hathe done this thyng. * is ꝑ chylde of deeth and shall restoze the lambe foure folde / because he dyd thys thyng and because he had no pytye. Then Nathan sayd to Dauid: thou art the man. Thys sayth the Lozde God of Israel: I annoynted the kynge ouer Israel & rydde the out of the handes of Saul. And I gaue ꝑ thy maysters house and thy masters wyues into thy bosome, & gaue the the house of Israel and of Juda and wolde yf that had bene to lytle haue geuen the twyse so moche moare. Wherfoze hast thou despysed the cōmaundement of the Lozde, to do wickednesse in his syght? thou hast slayne Vrias ꝑ hethite wyth the swerde and hast taken his wyfe to thy wyfe / & hast slayne hym wyth the swerde of the childzen of Ammon.

* That is: to wozthye to dye

Now therfoze the swerde shall neuer de¶ part from thyne house / because (sayth the Lozde) thou hast despysed me and taken the wyfe of Vrias the hethite, to be thy wyfe.

Thus

Thus sayth the Lorde: beholde I wyll stere vp euell agaynst ye euen of thyne awne house & will take thy wiues before thine eyes, and geue them vnto thy neyboure / whych shall * That is in lyght dayes / openlye. slepe with the* in the syght of the sonne. And thou dedest it secretly yet will I do this thing before all Israel and in the open sonne lyght.

Then sayd Dauid vnto Nathan: I haue synned agaynst the Lorde. And Nathan sayd agayne to Dauid: the Lorde hath put awaye thy synne / thou shalt not dye. How be it because in doyng this deade thou hast geuen ye enemyes of the Lord a cause to rayle / ye child ye is borne the shall dye surelye. And Nathan departed vnto his house. And ye Lorde stroke ye childe that Vrias wife bare Dauid & it sickened. And Dauid besought God for ye boye & fasted & went & laye all nyght vpō the erthe. And the elders of his house arose and wēt to him to take him vp frō the erth. But he wold not / neither yet eate meat with them.

And it hapened the seuenth daye that the childe dyed. But ye seruaūtes of Dauid durst not tell him that the child was deed. For they sayd: se / while the chylde was yet alyue / we spake vnto him / and he wolde no herkē vnto oure voyce. How moche moare then wyll he vexe him self ye we tell hym that the chyld is deed? But Dauid sawe his seruauntes whysperyng and therby perceaued that the chyld was deed / and sayd vnto his seruauntes: is ye child deed. And they sayd ye. Then Dauid arose from the erth and washed & anoynted him self and chaunged hys apparell / & went into the house of the Lorde & prayed / & after cam to hys awne house & bade ye they shulde set meat before hym / and he dyd eate. Then sayd hys seruauntes vnto hym: what is thys that thou hast done? Thou fastedest & wepest for thy childe while it was a liue / and as sone as it was deed thou dyddest ryse vp and dyddest eate meate. And he answered: whyle the child was a lyue / I fasted and wepte. For I this thought: who cā tell whether God will haue mercye on me that the child maye liue. But now seyng it is deed / wherfore shuld I fast? can I bryng hym agayne any moare? I shall go to him: but he shall not come agayne to me. And Dauid comforted Bethsabe hys wyfe / & wēt in vnto her & laye with her / & she bare a sonne whose name was called * Salomon / & the Lorde loued him. And he sent by the hand of Nathan the prophete and called his name * Ieddiah, of the Lordes behalfe.

the rest of the people to gether / & come & besege ye citie & take it: lest yt I take it / ye victorye be ascribed to me. And Dauid gathered all the people to gether / & wēt to Rabah and assawted it & gatt it.* And he toke ye kynges crowne frō of his heed which wayed an hundred waight of golde / & was sett w precyous stones. And Dauid ware it on his heed. And he brought out the spoyle of the citie in exceadyng great aboundance. And he brought out ye people that was therin & sawed thē & drew harowes of yron vpon thē / and shred some of them with shredyng knyues of yron / & thrust some into fornaces. And so he serued all the cities of the chyldrē of Ammō. And then Dauid & all the people returned vnto Jerusalē.

¶ Amnon Dauids sonne defyleth his syster Thamar. Absalom therfore kylleth Amnon and after fleyth a waye for feare of hys father.

¶ The .xiij. Chapter.

And it chaunced that Absalom Dauids sonne had a fayre syster named Thamar / whō afterwarde Amnon a nother sonne of Dauid loued. And this Amnō was so vexed ye he fell sycke for ye loue of his syster Thamar: for it thoughe hym harde to come by hys purpose of her / seyng she was yet a virgyn. But Amnō had a cōpanyan called Jonadab ye sonne of Samah the brother of Dauid: whych Jonadab was a very wyse man. And he sayd vnto hym how commeth it that thou beyng the kynges sonne art thus consumed euery mornyng: mayst thou not tell it me? And Amnon answered him: I loue Thamar my brother Absalōs syster. Then sayde Jonadab vnto him: lye on thy bedde and fayne thy self sycke. And when thy father is come to se the / saye vnto him: let my syster Thamar come & geue me meate and dresse it in my syght / that I maye se it and eate it of her hande.

And Amnon laye downe & made him self sicke. And when ye kynge was come to se him Amnō sayd vnto him: let Thamar my syster come & make me a couple of frytters in my syght, ye I maye eate of her hand. And Dauid sent home to Thamar saying: go to thy brother Amnōs house & dresse hym meate. Whē Thamar came to her brother Amnōs house he laye. And she toke floure & made paste & made frytters in hys syght & did bake thē, & toke a platter & powred thē out before hym. And Amnō wolde not eate / but cōmaunded to haue out all men from him. And they wēt all out from hym. Then sayd Amnon vnto Thamar: bryng ye meate into the chambre ye I maye eate of thyne hand. And Thamar toke ye frytters which she had made & brought thē into ye chābre to Amnon her brother & set thē before hym to eate. And he toke her and sayd vnto her: come lye wt me my syster. And she answered hym: nay / my brother do not ther Amnon go wyth vs. And the kynge answered what nedeth it that he go with the. But Absalom made soche instance that he let Am-non go with hym / & all the kynges chyldren.

Then Absalō cōmaunded his young men saying: marke when Amnons hert is mery with wyne & when I byd you smyte Amnon then slill him: feare not / for it is I that bid you /
be bolde therfore & playe the lusty blondes.
F And the young men of Absalom serued Am-non euen as Absalom cōmaunded thē. And all the kynges sonnes arose & toke eche man his Mule and fled. And whyle they were yet in the waye / tidinges cam to Dauid that Absalom had slayne all the kynges sonnes / so that none was left a lyue. Then the kyng arose and tare his garmentes and laye along on the erth: & all his seruauntes stode by with their clothes rēt. Then Jonadab the sonne of Sa-mah Dauids brother answered and sayd: let not my Lord suppose that they haue slayne
all the young men the kynges sonnes / saue Amnon only is deed. For that hath bene euer in Absaloms mouth sence he forced his sister Thamar. Now therfore let not my Lorde the G kynge take that thing so greuously to thynche that all the kynges sonnes were deed, when Amnon only is deed.

But Absalom fled. And the young man that kept the watche lyfte vp hys eyes and loked aboute. And beholde, ther cam moche people by awaye that was behynde hys backe a longe by an hylles syde. Then sayd Jonadab vnto the kynge: behold, the kynges sonnes are come / and as thy seruaunt sayd / so it is.
And as sone as he had lefte speakyng: be-holde, the kynges sonnes came and lifte vp their voyces and wepte. And therto the kyng and all hys seruauntes wept excedyngly.
But Absalom escaped and went to Tholmai the sonne of Amihud kynge of Gesur. And the kynge mourned for hys sonne contynual-ly. And so Absalom escaped and went to Gesur / & was there thre yeres. And by that tyme the kynge turned hys mynde from pur-suyng Absalom. For he had left mournyng for the deeth of Amnon.

¶ By the wysdome of the woman of Thekoa Absalom is called the remembrer & Moyses of Absalō.
Absalom fyzeth Joabs corne. His father kysseth him.

¶ The .xiiij. Chapter.

When Joab the sonne of Zaruiah perceaued that the kynges hert was turned agayne to Absalom / he sent to Thekoa / and fett thence a wyse woman / and sayd vnto her: feyne thy selfe to be a mourner / and put on mournyng apparell. And anoynt not thy selfe wt oyle.
But be as a womā that had lōge tyme mourned for the deeth of some bodye. And go to the kyng and speake of this maner vnto hym. And so Joab taught her what she shuld saye.

And when the wyfe of Thekoa was come to speake with the kynge, she fell on her face to the grounde & dyd obeysaūce & sayd: helpe me O kynge. And the kynge sayd vnto her what ayleth the? & she answered. I am a we-dow / and myne husbande is deed. And thy handmayde had two sonnes which fought to gether in the feldes where was no man to go betwene thē / & the one slewe the other. And beholde, the whole kinred arose agaynst thy handmayde

handmayde & sayd: deliuer vs him that smote his brother: ꝑ we maye kyll him for ꝑ *soule of his brother whome he slue for we wyll destroye ꝑ heyre also. And so they shall quenche my sparkle which is left that he shall stere vp nether name or slue vpō ꝑ erth vnto my husbande. And the kynge sayd vnto the wyfe: go home to thyne house/ and I wyll geue a charge for the. And ꝑ womā of Thekoa sayd vnto the kynge. My Lorde kynge/ the trespace be on me and on my fathers house/ and ꝑ kyng and hys seate be giltlesse. And then sayd the kynge: yf any man saye ought vnto ꝑ/ bring him to me/ & he shall no moare trouble the. Then sayd she: lett the kynge remember hys Lorde God/ that the next of the blonde gether not on heappes to gether to destroye/ & that they slaye not my sonne. And he sayd: as sure as the Lorde lyueth/ there shall not one heare of thy sonnes heed fall to the erthe.

*That is/ for the deeth.

D Then ꝑ woman sayd: let thyne handmayde speake one woorde moare vnto my Lorde ꝑ kynge & he sayd: saye on. And ꝑ woman saide wherfore then hast thou determyned on thys same maner agaynst the people of God: that the kyng shulde speake this thyng & be sauye therin/ so that the kynge shulde not fett home agayne hys banesshed. For we must nedes dye and perysh as water spylt on the grounde which cānot be geathered vp agayne & God will not take awaye ꝑ lyfe but fynde the meanes that the banysshed be not vtterly expelled frō him. And now cōcernyng that I am come to speake of this thyng vnto ꝑ king my Lorde in the presence of the people: thy hādmayde thought: suerly I will speake vnto the kynge/ paraduenture the kyng will here E the requeste of his handmayde. And the kyng shall heare his handmayde & delyuer her out of the hand of the mā ꝑ wolde haue destroyed me & my sonne also out of the enheritaunce of God. Then thyne handmayde sayd: I pray God that the woorde of my Lorde the kynge may be *immutable. For my Lorde ꝑ kynge is as an Angel of God in hearyng of good or bad: & therfore the Lorde thy God be wt the.

*Some reade/ confortable. Some. As a scripture.

Then the kyng answered and sayde vnto ꝑ woman: hide not frō me I praye the: the thing that I shall aske the. And the womā saide: let my Lord the kyng saye on. Then sayd ꝑ king Is not ꝑ hande of Joab with the in all this matter? And the woman answered and sayd: as sure as thy soule lyueth my Lorde kynge/ it is nether on the ryght hande nor on ꝑ leafte that my Lorde the kyng hathe spoken. For thy seruaunt Joab he bad me/ and he put all these woordes euen in the mouthe of thyne handmayde. And the turnyng of my tale a nother waye that made thy seruaunt Joab. And so I se that my Lorde is wyse euē as an

*That is/ the councell.

*That is my Lorde the kyng hathe swarued on no syde but spoken euē the verye thyng as it is. Deut. v. b.

Angell of God/ to vnderstand all thyngs that are in the erthe. Then sayd the kyng to Joab beholde, I am content to do this thyng. Go therfore fett home the ladd Absalom. And Joab fell to ꝑ groūd on his face & bowed him selfe and *blessed the kynge and sayd: now thy seruaunt knoweth that I haue founde grace in the syght of my Lorde the kynge in that he hathe fulfylled the requeste of hys seruaunt. And so Joab arose & wēt to Gesur & brought Absalom to Jerusalem. Then sayd ꝑ kynge: let hym turne to his awne house/ but se that he come not in my presence. And so Absalom went to his awne house/ but came not in the kynges presence.

*That is/ prayed the kyng as in Gene. xlvij. d

Moreouer in all Israel there was not so goodlye a mā as Absalō/ or so greatly prayesed/ frō the soole of his fote to the toppe of his heed there was no blemeshe in him. And whē he shaued his heed (for at euery yeres ende he shaued it because it was heuye on hym/ and therfore he shaued it) the heare therof waied two hundred sycles weyght of the kynges weyght. And this Absalom had thre sonnes borne him & one daughter named Thamar/ G whiche was a fayre woman to loke vpon.

When Absalom had dwelt two yere in Jerusalē without comyng into ꝑ kynges presence he sent for Joab/ to haue sent hym to the kinge. But he wolde not come to him. And he sent agayne/ & for all that he wold not come. Then he sayde vnto his seruauntes: behold/ Joab hath a parcell of lande fast by myne/ & hath barlye therin. Go and set it on fire. And Absaloms seruauntes went & sett it on fyre.

Then Joab arose & came to Absalō vnto his house & sayde vnto hym: wherfore haue thy seruaūtes burnt my felde with fyre? And Absalom sayd to Joab: behold/ I sent for the desyring the to come/ because I wolde haue sent the to the kynge/ for to saye: wherfore am I come from Gesur. It had bene as good for me to haue bidde̅ there still. Now therfore let me come to the kinges presence/ or elles yf there be any trespace in me/ kill me. And Joab went to the kyng & tolde him. And he sent for Absalom: whych whan he was come/ fell to the grounde on his face before the kynge. And the kynge kissed hym.

¶ Absalom maketh insurrection agaynst his father. David is fayne to flee for feare of him.

¶ The. xv. Chapter.

After thys Absalom gatt hym charettes & horses & fyfte men to rūne before him. And ther to he vsed to ryse by erlye in the mornynges & to stand by ꝑ wayes side & led to ꝑ gate of ꝑ citie. And all the men of Israel ꝑ had cōplayntes & came to the kynge for Judgement he called vnto hym and sayd: of what citye art thou?

And when the other answered thy seruaunt is of suche a tribe of Israel. Then sayd Absalom vnto hym: se/thy matter is good & rygh-teous/& yet no man is deputed of the kynge to heare the. Then Absalom sayd moreouer: Oh, that I were a iudge in ỹ lande/& that al men which haue pleyes & matter in the law/ shuld come to me. For I wolde do thē iustice. And also when any mā came nye to him to do him obeysance/he put forth hys hand & toke him to him & kissed him. And on thys maner dyd Absalom to all Israel that came to the kynge for Iudgement & therwith * stale the B hertes of the men of Israel. And at fourtye yeres end Absalom sayd vnto the kynge: let me go I praye the to Hebron, & paye my vo-we which I haue vowed vnto the Lorde: for thy seruaunt vowed a vowe when I was in Gesur in ỹ lande of Syria saying: yf ỹ Lorde shall bringe me agayne to Ierusalē I wyll serue the Lorde. And the kynge sayd go in peace. And so he arose and went to Hebron.

* That is vnder pretence of iustice toke away their hertes/ & wane the they wist not how: and so deceaued them that they consented to him & drue on his spot.

Then Absalom sent spies thorow out all ỹ tribes of Israel saying: as sone as ye heare ỹ voyce of the trōpet blowe/saye: Absalō raig-neth kynge in Hebron. And wt Absalom wet two hundred men out of Ierusalem ỹ were called. And they went with pure hertes and wist nothing of the matter. And Absalō sent also for Ahithophel the Gilonite Dauids co-unseller/and fett hym out of his citie Giloh/ when he sacrified sacrifyces. And there was wrought strōge treason. And the people drue to Absalō in great multitude. And there cam a messenger to Dauid & sayd: the hertes of ỹ men of Israel are to folow Absalom. Then sayd Dauid vnto all his seruaūts that were with hym at Ierusalē: vp & let vs flee, for we shall not elles escape from Absalom. Make spede to depart: lest he come sodēlye & cathe vs & bringe some myscheue vpon vs/& smyte the citie with the edge of the swerde. And the kynges seruauntes sayd to him: beholde thy seruaūtes are redye to what so euer my Lord the kynge shall apoynte.

And the kīng & all his houshold departed a fote. And he left behinde hym ten wiues ỹ were his * concubynes, to kepe ỹ house. And so the kynge & all the people went out a fote & taryed farre from ỹ house And all hys ser-uaūtes wēt by hys syde. And all the Cerethi-tes & all the Pelethites and all ỹ Gethites cuen. vi. hundred men which were come a fo-te from Geth, went before the kynge. Then sayd ỹ kyng to Ethai the Gethite wherfore shuldest thou go with vs also? Returne and abide with the kynge, for thou art a straūger & art remoued from thine awne place. Thou camest but yesterdaye, and shuld I vnquyet the to daye to go with vs? I wyll go whether I go. But returne thou & carye agayne thy bre-thrē. Mercie & truthe be wt the. And Ethai answered the kynge & sayde: as surelye as ỹ Lorde lyueth, & as surelye as my Lorde the kyng lyueth in what place my Lorde ỹ kyng shalbe, whether in deeth or life, euē there will thy seruaūt be. Then sayd ỹ kynge to Ethai: come & go forwarde. And Ethai the Gethite wēt forth & all his men / & all the chyldren ỹ were with him. And all the countrye wepte with a loude voyce. And all the people went forwarde ỹ strayght waye to the wildernesse. And beholde / Sadock & all ỹ Leuites were with him & bare the arcke of ỹ appoyntmēt of God. And whē they had set downe ỹ Arcke of God/Abiathar came vp/vntill the people were all come ouer/out of ỹ citie. Then sayd the kynge vnto Sadock. Carye the Arcke of God agayne vnto ỹ citie. If I shall fynde fa-uoure in the eyes of the Lord, he will bringe me agayne/and shewe me both it and the ta-bernacle therof also. But and yf the Lorde thus saye: I haue no lust vnto the. Beholde/ here am I / let him do wyth me what semeth best in hys eyes.

The kynge sayde also vnto Sadock the F preast thou art a Sear. Returne therfore into the citie in peace. And take youre two sonnes with you: Ahimaaz thy sonne / & Jo-nathas the sonne of Abiathar. And se I will tarye in the feldes of the wyldernesse vntyll there come some woorde from you to be tolde me. And so Sadock and Abiathar caryed the Arcke of God agayne to Ierusalem / & they taryed there. And Dauid went vp on mount olyuet & wepte as he went, & had hys heed co-uered & wēt therto barefote. And all ỹ people that was wyth him, had euery man hys heed couered / and as they went wepte also. And one tolde Dauid saying: Ahithophel is one of them that haue conspired wyth Absalom. Then sayde Dauid: O Lorde / turne the co-uncell of Ahithophel into foolishenes.

When Dauid was come to ỹ toppe of the mount & had bowed him selfe vnto God: be-holde, Husai ỹ Arachite came agaynst him wt his coote torne and erth vpon his heed. Unto whome Dauid sayd: yf thou go with me thou shalt be a burthen vnto me. And yf thou re-turne to ỹ citie: then shalt thou saye vnto Ab-salō I will be thy seruaūt O kyng: thus lōge haue I bene thy fathers seruaunt / & now I am thyne. And destroye me the councell of Ahithophell. And thou hast there with ỹ Sa-dock & Abiathar ỹ preestes/vnto whych thou shalt shew all ỹ thou canst heare out of ỹ kin-ges house. And beholde/ye haue there wt you theire two sonnes: Ahimaaz Sadocks sonne/& Jonathas Abiathars sonne / by whych ye shall sende me all that ye can heare.

And

a Betwene wyues & concubi-nes in the olde testament / is this difference: wyues had the honoure (as they call it) of ỹ maistrie of ỹ house. Concu-bynes were as vnderlynges & hyrelears. Their children were also le-gytimate & lea full childe but myght not enherete / onely had they ỹ bre-quarte of their father / the pa-trymonye pre-tayned properly vnto the children of the wyues. Gene xxv. a.

And so Husai Dauids frende gat hym to the cite. And Absalō also entered into Ierusalē.

¶ Ziba bryngyng presentes to Dauid / doth falsly accuse Miphiboseth. Semei curseth Dauid & hourleth stones at hym. Absalom by ꝑ councell of Ahithophell lyeth with his fathers Concubines.

¶ The.xvi. Chapter.

I AND when Dauid was a lytle past the toppe of the hyll: beholde Ziba ꝑ seruaunt of Miphiboseth came agaynst him with a couple of Asses sadelled / & vpon thē two hundred loues & one hundred bonches of Resynges / & an hundred frayes of dryed frygges / & a bottell of wyne. Then sayd the kynge to Ziba: what hast thou there? And Ziba sayde: Asses for the kynges houshold to ryde on / and bryed & frute for the younge men to eate / and wyne to dryncke / yf anye man faynt in ꝑ wildernesse. Then sayde the kynge: where is thy masters sonne? and Ziba sayd vnto the kyng: beholde he tarryeth still at Ierusalē. For he sayde: this daye shall the house of Israel restore me the kyngdome of my father. Then sayd ꝑ kynge to Ziba: beholde / thyne are all ꝑ pertayned vnto Miphiboseth. And Ziba answered: I beseche the ꝑ I maye fynde grace in thy sight my Lord king.

B And when kynge Dauid came to Bahurim: beholde / thence cam out a man of ꝑ kinrede of the house of Saul named Semei ꝑ sonne of Gera, and he cam out cursyng. And therto he cast stones at Dauid and at all the seruauntes of kyng Dauid, all the people & all the men of warre goyng part on his right hand / & part on his lefte. And thus sayde this Semei as he cursed: come forthe / come forth thou bloudesheder and thou vnthryftie man. The Lord hath brought vpon the all ꝑ bloude of the house of Saul / in whose steade thou hast raygned / and he hathe delyuered the kyngdom into the hand of Absalō thy sonne And thou art wrapped about ꝑ thyne awne mysscheue / because thou art a bloudeshed er.

Then sayd Abisai the sonne of Zaruiah vnto ꝑ kynge: why dothe this deed dogg curse my Lorde the kynge? let me go and take of ꝑ heed of hym. And the king sayde: what haue I to do with you ye sonnes of Zaruiah: let hym curse: for ꝑ Lord hathe bydde hym curse Dauid. And who dare presume to saye wherfore dothe he so? And Dauid sayde to Abisai / & to all his seruauntes: behold / my sonne which cā out of myne awne bowelles seketh my lyfe. How moche more then maye thys sonne of Iemini do it? Suffre hym therfore to curse / for ꝑ Lord hath bidde hym: hapiye ꝑ Lord wil loke on my wretchednesse / & do me good for his cursyng thys daye And thus as Dauid & his mē wēt by ꝑ waye / Semei wēt alōge on ꝑ hilles syde ouer agaynst hym / & cursed as he went / & chrew stones at him / & cast dust. And ꝑ kynge & all that were with hym cam wery / and refreshed them selues there.

And Absalō and all the people of the men of Israel came to Ierusalem & Ahithophel with hym. And as sone as he was come: Husai the Arachite went vnto Absalom & sayde vnto hym: God saue the kynge / God saue the kyng. And Absalom sayde agayne to Husai: is this the kyndnesse thou owest to thy frēde? Why wentest thou not with hym? And Husai sayd vnto Absalom: naye not so / but whom ꝑ Lorde and this people and all the men of Israel chose / his wyll I be / and with him will I dwell. And forthermore vnto whome shall I do seruyce but euen to hys sonne? And as I was seruaunt before wyth thy father / euen so shall I be with the. Then spake Absalō to Ahithophell geue councell what is best for vs to do. And Ahithophel said vnto Absalom: get the in vnto thy fathers* cōcubines which he hath left to kepe the house. For when all Israel shall heare that thou hast made thy father to stincke / then shall the handes of all that are with the / be stronge. And so they pitched Absalō a tent vpon the *toppe of the house. And he went in vnto his fathers concubynes in the syght of all Israel.

* About in the xv. d.

* The houses were there flatte.

And the councell of Ahithophel whiche he counceled in those dayes / was as a man had asked coūcell of God: euen so was all the councell of Ahithophel / both vnto Dauid and also vnto Absalom.

¶ Ahithophel / seyng his councell disalowed of Husai and forsaken / hangeth hym selfe.

¶ The.xvii. Chapter.

MOreouer Ahithophel sayde vnto Absalom: let me chose out I praye the twelue thousand men. And I wyll vp & folow after Dauid by nyght. And I will come vpon him while he is werye and weake handed / and wyll feare hym / that all the people that are wyth hym shall flee. And so wyll I smyte the kynge onlye / & will bryng agayne all the people vnto the. And when all these men whych thou seketh are turned to the / all the people shall haue rest. And the saying pleased Absalom well and all the elders of Israel. Then sayde Absalō: call also Husai the Arachite and let vs heare hys sentēce. When Husai was come to Absalom Absalō spake vnto hym saying: Ahithophel hathe geuen soche coūcell: whether it be best we do after his saying or not / tell thou.

Then sayd Husai to Absalom: the coūcell that Ahithophel hathe geuen is not good at this tyme. For / sayd Husai / thou knowest thy father & the men ꝑ are with him / how ꝑ they be strōg mē. And they be chafed in their myndes / euē as a* Beare robbed of her whelpes. B * Prouer. xvij.

And thy father is a man practised in warre/ & will not lye a nyghtes among the cōmē people. Beholde he lurketh now in some caue or in some other place. And therto though some of his men be ouerthrowē at the fyrst brunt/ yet they that heare it will thynck the people that foloweth Abſalom be put to the worſſe. By the reaſon wherof the beſt men thou haſt whoſe herttes are as the hertes of Lyons/ ſhall thrynke therat. For all Iſrael knoweth that thy father is a man, and that they which be with hym be chyldren of actiuite.

But my coūcell is/ that all Iſrael be gathered vnto the/ from Dan to Berſabe/ as ꝑ ſande of the ſee in nombre / & that thou go to batayle in thyne awne perſon. And we wyll come vpon hym in one place or other/ where we ſhall fynde him/ & we will pitche a felde agaynſt him/ euē as thicke as ꝑ dew falleth on the grounde. And there ſhall not one of them be lefte / nether he ner any of all that are wt him. Moreouer yf he take a towne then ſhal all the men of Iſrael* bryng ropes to that cytie/ and we will drawe it into the ryuer/ vntyll there be not one ſtone found vpon a nother.

*Or/ſend.

And Abſalō and all the men of Iſrael ſayd: that the counceil of Huſai the Arachite was better then the coūcell of Ahithophell. For it was euē ꝑ Lord' determinacyon to deſtroye ꝑ *counceil of Ahithophel: which was good/ that ꝑ Lorde might bryng euell vpō Abſalō.

*Vlſ.c. and xvi.c.

*Reg.xv.g.

Then ſayd* Huſai vnto Sadock & Abiathar ꝑ preaſtes: of this & that maner dyd Ahithophel & the elders of Iſrael coūceli Abſalom. And thus & thus haue I coūceled Now therfore ſend quyckly & ſhew Dauid ſaying: tarye not all nyght in ꝑ feldes of ꝑ wildernesſe/ but gett the ouer, leſt the kynge be deuoured and all the people ꝑ are with hym. Now Jonathas & Ahimaaz abode by the well rogell: for they myght not be ſene to come into ꝑ cytye. And a wenche went and tolde them. And they to go and ſhewed kynge Dauid.

Neuertheleſſe there was a lad ſaw them whiche tolde it to Abſalom. But they went bothe of thē awaye quyckly & cam to a mānes houſe in Bahurim/ wherin had a well in his yarde/ into whiche they wēt downe. And the wife toke & ſpred a couerlet on the topp of the well & ſtrawed theron ſteaped barleye to dryge. And ꝑ thyng was not eſpyed. And whē Abſaloms ſeruauntes came to the wife to ꝑ houſe & aſked where one Ahimaaz & Jonathas were/ ꝑ wife ſayd vnto thē: they be gone ouer ꝑ lyttell brooke of water. And whē they had ſought them & couldē not finde thē/ then they returned to Jeruſalem. And as ſone as they were departed / the other came out of ꝑ well/ and went and tolde kyng Dauid & ſayd vnto him: vp & get you quyckly ouer ꝑ water for ſoche counceil hath Ahithophel geuen. Then Dauid aroſe and all the people ꝑ were with him/ & they were come ouer Jordan be that it was daye/ that there lacked not one of them ꝑ was not come ouer Jordan. And whē Ahithophel ſaw that his coūcell was not folowed / he ſadelled hys aſſe & aroſe and gate him home to his awne houſe and to his awne cytye/ and put hys houſholde in order and hanged hym ſelf and died, and was buryed in the ſepulchre of hys father.

Then Dauid came to Mahanaim. And Abſalom paſſed ouer Jordan, both he and all the mē of Iſrael wt him. And Abſalom made Amaſa captayne of the hoſte in ſtede of Joab wh̄ych Amaſa was a mannes ſonne named Jethra a Iſrahelite that went into Abigail the daughter of Naah ſyſter to Saruiah Joabs mother. And Iſrael & Abſalom pytched in the lande of Galaad. And whē Dauid was come to Mahanaim/ Sobi the ſonne of Naah out of Rabath the cytye of the children of Ammon, and Machir ꝑ ſonne of Ammiel out of Lodaber & Berzelai the Galaadite out of Rogelim/ brought beddes/ baſens / & erthen veſſelles: and alſo corne/ barly/ floure & parched corne/ beanes & rice hony/ butter / ſheepe and cheſe of kyne/ for Dauid & all the people that were wyth him to eate. For they ſuppoſed that the people ſhulde be hongrye / faynte/ and thurſtye in the wyldernesſe.

¶ Abſalom is ouercome in battell. He hangeth by the heare on an Oke. He is kylled & put in a dyche. Dauid is ſo ſorowfull for ꝑ death of Abſalō ꝑ he wepeth.

¶ The.xviij. Chapter.

And the kynge nombred the people that were wyth him / and ſett captaynes of thouſandes and of hundredes ouer them. And he ſent one parte of them wyth Joab, and a nother parte wyth Abiſai the ſonne of Saruiah Joabs brother, and the thirde parte wyth Ethai the Gethite. And the kyng ſayd vnto the people: Shall I go wyth you? And the people anſwered: nay, for yf we fle oure aduerſaries will not care for vs: nether though halfe of vs were ſlayne ſhall they regarde vs. But thou were worth ten thouſand of vs. And therto it is better ꝑ thou be readye to ſuccoure vs out of the cytie. Then ſayd the kynge: what ſemeth you beſt, that will I do.

And the kyng ſtode by the Gates ſyde, and all the people came out by hundredes and by thouſandes. And the kyng cōmaunded Joab Abiſai, and Ethai ſaying: intreate me gently my ſonne Abſalom. And all the people heard when the kynge gaue all ꝑ captaynes charge ouer Abſalom. And the people went out into the felde agaynſt Iſrael / and the batteil was in the woode of Ephraim. Where the people people of Israel were putto ꝑ worse before the seruaũtes of Dauid/& there was a great slaughter ꝑ daye/euen of twentye thousand men. And ꝑ felde was fought in dyuerse places/all abroade vpõ ꝑ erthe. And the woodes deuoured moo people that daye than dyd the swerde. And it chaũced Absalom to come before the seruauntes of Dauid ryding vpon a Mule whych caryed him vnder ꝑ thycke bowes of a great Oke. And his heed caught in ꝑ Oke/& he was lefte betwene heuẽ & erthe/ & ꝑ Mule ꝑ was vnder hym went his waye. And one ꝑ saw it tolde Joab saying: beholde/ I saw Absalom hange in an Oke: & Joab sayd vnto him that tolde him: lo/ sawest thou hym? And why dydest not thou there smyte him to the ground that I should haue geuẽ ꝑ ten sicles of syluer and a soudyoures gyrdle.

And ꝑ man answered Joab: though I had a thousand sicles of syluer tolde in my hande yet wolde I not stretche out myne hande agaynst the kynges sonne. For we herde vr oure eares whẽ the kyng charged the/ Abisai and Ethai, saying: spare me the lad Absalom. Moreouer though I had ieoparded my life & done falsite therto/ yet coulde nought of all ꝑ matter haue bene hid frõ ꝑ kynge: ye & thou thy selfe woldest be agaynst me. Then sayd Joab* I may not stand tarying with the

* That is/ it is not best ꝑ I tarye with the/ & loke that thou shuldest go slay hym

And therwyth he toke thre speares in hys hand & thrust thẽ into the hart of Absalom/ whyle he was yet a lyue on ꝑ bodye of ꝑ tree. And ten seruauntes that bare Joabs wepõs/ turned & smote Absalom and slue him. Then Joab blew a trompet/ & the people returned frõ folowyng Israel: for Joab spared ꝑ people. And they toke Absalom & cast him into a great pitt that was in the wood/ and cast a mygthye great heape of stones vpõ him. And all Israel fled euerye mã to his tent. And this Absalom yet in hys lyfe tyme/ toke & reared vp a pyller/ whiche is yet in kynges dale. For he sayde: I haue no male childe. And therfore to kepe my name in remẽbrance do I rere. And he called the piller after his awne name. And it is called vnto this daye/ Absaloms piller.

Then sayd Ahimaaz ꝑ sonne of Sadock: let me runne I praye the, & beare the kynge tydinges/ how that ꝑ Lorde hath iudged him quyte of the handes of all hys enemyes. And Joab sayd vnto him: thou art no mã to beare tydynges to daye: thou shalt beare tydynges a nother tyme: but to daye thou shalt beare none/ because ꝑ kynges sonne is dede. Then sayd Joab to Chusi: go & tell the kynge what thou hast sene. And Chusi bowed him self vnto Joab & ranne. Then sayd Ahimaaz ꝑ sonne of Sadock agayne to Joab: come what come will, let me runne I pray the after Chusi. And Joab sayd: wherfore wouldest thou runne my sonne? for and thou runne thou gettyst no rewarde: well come what will let me runne. And he sayd vnto him: runne. Then Ahimaaz ranne by the playne and ouer ranne Chusi.

And Dauid sat betwene the two gates. ¶ And the watcheman wẽt vp to ꝑ rouffe ouer the gate vnto the walle/ and lyfte vp his eyes and saw: and beholde/ there cam a man runnyng alone. And the watchmã called & tolde the kynge. And the kynge sayde: yf he come alone/ there is tydynges in his mouthe. And he cam and drew nye. And the watchmã saw a nother man runnyng/ and called vnto the porter & sayd: beholde/ there cometh a nother runnyng alone. And the kynge answered: he is also a tydynges bringer. And ꝑ watchmã sayd: me thinketh the runnyng of the formost is lyke the runnyng of Ahimaaz the sonne of Sadock. And the kyng sayd: he is a good mã & cometh with good tydinges. And Ahimaaz called and sayd to the kynge: good tydynges/ and bowed him self to the erthe vpõ hys face before the kyng and sayd: blessed be ꝑ Lorde thy God which hath* shut vp all ꝑ men that lifte vp their handes agaynst my Lorde the kynge. And ꝑ kynge sayd: is the lad Absalom safe? And Ahimaaz answered I saw a great a do, when the kinges seruaũt Joab sent me thy seruaunt. But I wotte not what it was. And the kyng sayd: turne and stande here. And he turned and stode.

* That is/ shut vp

And beholde Chusi came and sayd: tydinges my Lorde the kynge, ꝑ Lorde hath quyte the thys daye out of the handes of all that rose agaynst the. And ꝑ kyng sayde to Chusi: is ꝑ lad Absalom safe? And Chusi answered the enemyes of my Lorde the kynge and all that ryse agaynst the/ to haue ꝑ, be as thy lad is. And the kynge was moued & went vp to a chambre ouer ꝑ gate & wept. And as he went thus he sayde: my sonne Absalom, my sonne/ my sonne my sonne Absalom, wold to God I had dyed for ꝑ Absalom, my sonne, my sonne.

¶ Dauid is restored to hys kyngdome and bringht agayne to Jerusalem.

¶ The.xix. Chapter.

And it was tolde Joab/ how that the kynge wepte and mourned for Absalom. And the victorye was turned that daye into mournyng vnto all the people. For the people heard saye that daye how the kynge sorowed for hys sonne/ and the people went stealyng into the cytye/ as people cõfounded stele awaye when they flee in battell. And the kyng hyd his face and cryed wyth a loude voice: my sonne Absalom Absalom my sonne my sonne.

And Joab went into the house to the kyng and sayd: thou hast shamed thys daye the faces of all thy seruauntes/ whych thys daye haue saued thy lyfe/& the liues of thy sonnes & daughters/& ꝑ lyues of thy wyues & cōcubynes/in ꝑ thou loueſt thyne enemyes & hateſt thy frēdȝ. Thou haſt declared this daye ꝑ thou cameſt nether for thy Lordȝ nor seruaūtes. For this daye I do perceaue/ꝑt Absalom had lyued/& all we dyed thys daye/ ꝑ then it

B had pleased ꝑ well. Now therfore vp & come out/& speake kyndely vnto thy seruaūtes/I swere by ꝑ Lord except thou come out/there will not tarye one mā wꝺ ꝑ thys nyght. And ꝑ wilbe worſſe vnto the/then all ꝑ euell ꝑ fell on the from thyne youthe vnto thys houre.
Then the kynge arose and satt downe in the Gate. And it was tolde vnto all the people/ how the kynge satt in the Gate. And then all the people cam before the kynge. But Israel fled euery man to his tent.

And all the people were at stryfe thorow out all the trybes of Israel saying: the kyng deliuered vs out of ꝑ hand of oure enemyes. And he deliuered vs out of the hand of ꝑ Philistines. And now he is fled out of ꝑ land for Absalom. But Absalom whom we anoynted ouer vs is deed in battell. Now therfore why are ye so styll/ that ye bryng not the kynge
C agayne. And kyng Dauid sent to Sadock & Abiathar the preastes saying: speake vnto ꝑ elders of Iuda & saye: why shulde ye be the laſt ꝑ shulde bryngе agayne ꝑ kynge to hys house/seeing ꝑ soche tidinges is come frō all Israel vnto ꝑ kynge euē to hys house? ye are my brethren/my bones & my fleshe: wherfore then shulde ye be the laſt that shulde come to bryng the kynge home agayne? And saye to Amasa: art thou not my bone and my fleshe? And God do so to me & so therto: except thou be captaine of ꝑ Host to me for euer in ꝑ rowme of Joab. And he bowed ꝑ herttes of all ꝑ men of Iuda/as a man wolde bow ꝑ hert* of Iudic xxj. a. ij. Reg. ij. b. one man. so ꝑ they sent woorde to ꝑ kynge, ꝑ he shuld returne wꝺ all hys seruauntes. And the kyng returned & came to Iordā. And Iuda came to Galgal for to go agaynſt ꝑ kynge to conueye him ouer Iordā. And Semei ꝑ *ij. Reg. xvj. c. sonne of Gera the sonne of Iemini wheche was of Bahurim/hasted & came wꝺ the mē of Iuda agaynſt kynge Dauid & a thousande ij. Reg. xvj. a. men of Beniamin wꝺ him, and Siba the seruaunt of the house of Saul & his .xv. sonnes and twenty seruauntes with him. And they whypte ouer Iordan before the Kynge. And there wēt ouer a Botte to carye ouer ꝑ kynges housholde and to do hym pleasure.
D And Semei the sonne of Gera fell before the kynge/as he was come ouer Iordan and sayde vnto him: let not my Lord impute wickednesse vnto me/ner let him not remēber the wickednesse that thy seruaunt did/ when my Lorde the kynge departed out of Jerusalem that the kynge shuld take it to herte. For thy seruaunt dothe knowe how that I haue done amysse. And therfore beholde/I am the fyrſt this daye of all ꝑ house of Joseph ꝑ am come to mete my Lorde the kynge. But Abisai the sonne of Saruiah answered & sayd: shall Semei not dye for that cause: whych cursed the Lordes anoynted. And the kynge sayd: what matter is betwene you & me ye sōnes of Saruiah/ ꝑ ye shuld this daye be aduersaryes vnto me? There shall no man dye this daye in Israel: for I know that I am this daye kyng ouer Israel. And the kyng sayde vnto Semei: thou shalt not dye/ & sware vnto hym.

me also to mete ꝑ kynge, & had nether dressed his fete ner shauē his beerde ner washed his clothes frō the tyme ꝑ kynge departed/ vntill he came agayne in peace. And when he was come to Jerusalē towarde ꝑ kynge/ the kyng sayd vnto him: wherfore wentest not thou wꝺ me Miphiboseth? And he sayd: my Lorde kynge/ my seruaūt deceaued me. For thy seruaūt sayd: ꝑ I wolde haue mine Asse sadled to ryde theron/ for to go to ꝑ kynge/ because thy seruaunt is lame. And he hath therto cōplayned on thy seruaūt vnto my Lord ꝑ king. But my Lord ꝑ kynge is as an Angel of God: do therfore what semeth best in thyne eyes. For all my fathers house were but deedmen vnto my Lord the kynge: & yet dydeſt thou put me amōge thē ꝑ eate at thyne awne table. What right therfore haue I yet/ to crye any more vnto ꝑ kinge? And ꝑ kyng sayd: it needeth the not to speake any moare. for I haue sayd: ꝑ thou & Siba shall deuide ꝑ land betwene you. And Miphiboseth sayd vnto ꝑ kinge: yee let him take all: for so moche as my Lord ꝑ king is come in peace vnto hys awne house.

And Berselai the Galaadite came frō Ro- F
gelim & wēt ouer Iordā wꝺ ꝑ kynge/ to accōpanie him ouer Iordā: whiche Berselai was a very aged mā/ euē foure skore yeres olde/ & had prouyded ꝑ kyng of sustenaūce while he laye at Mahanaim: for he was a mā of verye great substaunce. And ꝑ king sayd vnto Berselai: come thou wꝺ me, ꝑ I may fede ꝑ wꝺ me in Jerusalē. But Berselai sayd vnto ꝑ kynge of what age am I of ꝑ I shulde go wꝺ ꝑ kyng vnto Jerusalē. I am this daye foure skore yere olde: & therfore cānot decerne sauery frō vnsauery nether hath thy seruaūt pleasure in ꝑ he eateth or drinketh: ner yet delectatiō in ꝑ songes of mē or womē. It is no nede ꝑ thy seruaūt be a burthen vnto my Lord ꝑ kinge: let thy seruaūt go a lytle waye ouer Iordā wꝺ the kynge: for why shulde ꝑ kynge render me soche a rewarde? But let thy seruaunt turne back agayne/ ꝑ I maye dye in mine awne cytye/ by the graue of my father and mother.

But

But lo here is thy seruaunt Chamaã: let him go with my Lorde the Kyng / and do to hym / what shall please the.

G And the kyng answered: Chamaam shall go with me. And I wyll do to hym that thou shalt be cõtent with. And therto whatsoeuer thou shalt require of me / that same wyll I do for the. And all the people went ouer Iordan. And whẽ the kyng was come ouer Iordan / he kyssed Berselai & toke hys leaue of him / & he went backe agayne vnto his awne place. And then the kyng wẽt to Galgal / and Chamaam went with him. Now all the men of Iuda were at the bryngynge ouer of the kyng / & but halfe the men of Israel.

Wherfore all the men of Israel came to ỹ kyng & sayde vnto him: why haue oure brethren the men of Iuda stolen the awaye / and haue brought the kyng & his housholde & all Dauids men with him ouer Iordan? And all the men of Iuda answered ỹ men of Israel: for the kyng is nere of kynne to vs: wherfore be ye angrye for that matter? thynke ye that we eate of the kynges cost / or that the kyng geueth vs any gyftes? And ỹ men of Israel answered the men of Iuda & sayde: we haue ten partes in the kyng / & haue therto more ryght to Dauid then ye. Why then dyd ye despyse vs / that owre aduyse had not ben fyrst had in restorynge owre kynge agayne? And ỹ wordes of the men of Iuda were fearcer then the wordes of the men of Israel.

Seba the sonne of Bochri reaseth Israel agaynst Dauid. Joab kylleth Amasa traterously. The heed of Seba is delyuered to Joab. Dauids receauers are nombred.

The.xx. Chapter.

A Nd there happened to be an vnthryfte felow named Seba the sonne of Bochri a mã of Semini whych blew a trompet and sayd: we haue ne parte in Dauid / nor enheritaunce in the sonne of Isai / O Israel, lett vs depart therfore euery mã to his tent. And all Israel wẽt from Dauid & folowed Seba the sonne of Bochri. But the men of Iuda claue fast vnto the kyng / frõ Iordan to Ierusalem.

And when Dauid was come to his house to Ierusalem / he toke the ten wyues hys cõcubynes ỹ he had left behynde him to kepe ỹ house / & put thẽ in warde and mynistred all thynges vnto them: but laye no moare with them. And so they were enclosed vnto ỹ daye of the deeth of thẽ / & lyued a wydowes lyfe.

Then sayde the kyng to Amasa: call me ỹ men of Iuda together with in thre dayes & present thy selfe here. And Amasa went to gather the men of Iuda together: but tarried longer then ỹ time which was apoynted him. Wherfore ỹ kynge sayde to Abisai: now shall Seba ỹ sonne of Bochri be worse to vs thẽ Absalom. Take thou therfore thy* Lords seruaũtes & folow after him: lest he get him walled cyties & escape vs. And there wẽt out after him Joabs men and the Cerethites & ỹ Phelethites & the men of myght. And they departed out of Ierusalem to folow after Seba the sonne of Bochri. And when they were come to the great stone in Gabaon / Amasa met thẽ. And Joab had his garment that he had about him / gyrde vnto him / & had gyrde ther on a knyfe toyned fast to his loynes / in soche a shethe ỹ as he wẽt it fell some tymes out. And Joab sayde to Amasa: are all thynges in rest and peace my brother? And Joab toke Amasa by the chynne with the ryght hande / as though he wolde haue * kyssed hym. And Amasa toke no hede to the knyfe that was in Joabs hand / with which Joab smote hym in the short rybbes & shed out hys bowelles to ỹ ground and smote him but one stroke / and he dyed.

* That is / Joabs.

* Prouerbij.

And then Joab and Abisai his brother folowed after Seba the sonne of Bochri. And one of Joabs men ỹ stode by him sayd: what is he that he wolde be as Joab / & what is he ỹ wold be vnto Dauid in stede of Joab? And Amasa laye walowyng in bloude in ỹ middes of the waye. And there was a man ỹ saw all the people stande styll. And whẽ he saw that *all ỹ came by him stode still he rowled Amasa out of the waye into the feld & cast a cloth vpon hym. And as sone as he was tombled out of ỹ waye / all ỹ people wẽt after Joab / to folow after Seba ỹ sonne of Bochri.

And he went thorow all the trybes of Israel vnto Abel Bethmaacah & all Barim. And ỹ people geathered vnto him & wẽt also after him. And they cam and beseged hym in Abel Bethmaacah. And they cast vp a bãcke agaynst the cytie. And it was beseged. All ỹ people ỹ was with Joab labored busely to ouerthrowe the walle. Then cryed a wyse woman out of the cytie / heare heare / byd I praye you Joab that he come hyther / that I maye speake w̃ him. When Joab was come / the woman sayd: art thou Joab? And Joab answered ỹ am I. And he sayd to him: heare ỹ wordes of thy hãdmayde? And he sayd: I am readye to heare. And she sayde: it hath bene a comen sayinge in the olde tyme / men * must aske of Abel and then go to and fynyshe the worcke. Abel is one of the quyetest & faythfullest cyties ỹ are in Israel. And thou goest about to destroye a cytie that is as a mother in Israel. Why deuourest thou the enheritaunce of the Lorde.

* Vnderstand whether it will receaue peace: accordyng to ỹ lawe of Moses. Deute.xx.c.

And Joab answered and sayd: God forbid / God forbid it me / that I shuld ether deuowre or destroye it. The matter is not so: But there is a man of mount Ephraim / Seba ꝑ sonne of Bochri by name / which hath* lyfte vp his hand agaynst kyng Dauid. Delyuer vs him only, and I wyll depart frō the cytye.

And the woman sayde vnto Joab: Beholde / his heed shalbe throwen thorow the walle to the. And then the woman went vnto all the people* in her wysdome. And they smote of the heed of Seba the sonne of Bochri, & cast it to Joab. And he blew a trompet / and they skattered from the cytie euery mā to his tent.
And Joab returned to Jerusalē vnto ꝑ king.

And Joab was ouer all ꝑ hoste of Israel And Banaiah the sonne of Jehoiada was ouer the Cerethites & the Phelethites. And Aduram was ouer the tribute. And Jehosaphat ꝑ sonne of Ahilud was* Recorder. Se-

C The .xxi. Chapter.

Then there fell an hōgre in ꝑ dayes of Dauid thre yeres / yere by yere.
And Dauid enquyred of the Lord.
And the Lorde answered: it is for Sauls sake & the house of bloude / because he slue the Gabaonites. And the kyng called the Gabaonites & sayde vnto thē. Now these Gabaonites are not of the chyldrē of Israel / but a remnaūt of the Amorites / & the children of Israel sware vnto thē. And yet Saul sought to slay thē, for a zele that he had to the chyldren of Israel & of Juda. Wherfore Da-uid sayd vnto them: what shall I do for you?
and wherwith shall I content you ꝑ ye maye
* bleſſe the enheritaūce of ꝑ Lord.

* That is / fauoure and gyft by. As in Gal. iij. d.

And the Gabaonites sayde vnto hym: we haue no matter of syluer or of golde w Saul or with his house: nether haue we any mā ꝑ we wolde kyll in Israel. Then he sayd: what B saye ye that I shall do for you? And they sayd vnto the kynge: the man that consumed and imagened to bynge vs to nought / hym we ought to destroye, that nought of him conti-new in any of the coostes of Israel / let seuen men of his sonnes be deliuered vnto vs, that we maye hang thē vp vnto the Lord / in Gabaah of Saul ꝑ lordes electe. And Dauid sayde: I wyll geue them you.

But the kyng had compaſſion on Miphiboseth the sonne of Jonathas / the sonne of Saul / because of the Lordes othe that was betwene thē. that is to saye betwene Dauid and Jonathas ꝑ sonne of Saul. But he toke the two sonnes of Rezphah the daughter of Aiah which she bare vnto Saul / Armoni and Miphiboseth / & the fyue sonnes of Michol the daughter of Saul which she bare to Adriel the sonne of Berselai the Molathite / and delyuered thē vnto the handes of the Gabeonites / which hanged thē in the hill before the Lorde. And they fell all seuen to gether in the fyrst dayes of heruest: euē in ꝑ begyn-nyng of Barley heruest.

And Rezphah the daughter of Aiah toke Sackclothe & spred it vnder her vpon the Rocke / euē frō ꝑ begynnyng of harueſt vntyll rayne dropped vpō thē out of heuen and suffered nether ꝑ birdes of the Ayre to fall on them by daye nor beastes of the felde by nyght. And when it was tolde Dauid what C Rezphah ꝑ daughter of Aiah the cōcubyne of Saul had done, he wēt & toke ꝑ bones of Saul & of Jonathas his sonne / of ꝑ men of Jabes in Galaad / which they had stolen frō the strete of Bethsan / where the Philistines had hāged thē in ꝑ dayes whē ꝑ Philistines had slayne Saul in Gelboe. And he brought thence the bones of Saul & the bones of Jo nathas his sonne / & they fett awaye ꝑ bones of thē that were hanged, & buryed them with the bones of Saul and Jonathas his sonne in the contrey of Benianun in Zela in ꝑ sepulchre of Cis his father. And whē they had perfourmed all ꝑ the kyng cōmaunded / God was then at one with the lande.

And ꝑ Philistines had yet agayne warre with Israel. And Dauid went downe and his seruauntes whim / & fought with the Philistines. And Dauid waxed fayntie, and Iesbi of * Nob one of the sonnes of * Haraphah whose speare heed wayed thre hūdred sycles of Braſſe / & was gyrde wyth a new sworde thought to haue slayne Dauid. But Abisai the sonne of Zaruiah succoured him & smote ꝑ Philistine & killed him. Then the seruauntes of Dauid sware vnto him sayeng. Thou shalt go no moare out with vs to battell / that the lyght of Israel be not put out. And there was yet after this, battell with the Philistines at * Nob / in which Sobochai the Husathite slew Saph of the sonnes of Haraphah.

And there was yet ꝑ thirde battell in Gob /
w the Philistines / where Elhanan the sonne of ꝑ Jaere Orgim / a Bethlehemite slue one Goliath a Gethite: the staffe of whose speare was as great as a weuers cloth beame.

And there was yet battell in Geth / where was a mā of a syze and had on euery hand .vi.
fyngers and on euery fote .vi. toes. xxiiij in all. And was also of ꝑ kynred of Haraphah / and defyed Israel. And Jonathas the sonne of Samach the brother of Dauid slue hym.
These fowre were of ꝑ sonnes of Haraphah in Geth / and were ouer throwen by the hand of Dauid and by the hādes of his seruaūtes.

¶ The Canticle or song of Dauid for ye delyuerance from his enemyes.

¶ The .xxij. Chapter.

AND Dauid spake the wordes of this songe vnto the Lord/what tyme ye Lord had delyuered him out of the hãdes of all his enemyes / and out of the handes of Saul.

And he sayde: the Lorde is my a rocke/ my castell and my delyuerer. God is my strẽght/ & in hym will I trust: my shylde & the horne that defendeth me: myne hye holde & refuge: O my Sauer/ saue me from wronge.

a. Godly men haue called the Lord by diuers names accordynge to their faith: that is/ as they thought of God with in the selues / as they also had proued. As Dauid here called him hys Rocke/ his castell/ hys delyuerer hys strength hys shylde his horne of defence &c. ¶ Psalm. xviij. a.

I will prayse and calle on the Lorde and so shall be saued from myne enemyes. For ye waues of deeth haue closed me aboute / and ye flodes of Belial haue feared me. The cordes of hell haue cõpased me about / & the snares of deeth haue ouertake me. In my trybulacyõ I called to the Lord, & cryed to my God. And he heard my voyce out of his tẽple / and my crye entered into his eares. And the erth trembled and quoke, and the foundacions of heuẽ moued & shoke, because he was angrie.

Smoke went vp out of his nostrelles / & cõsumyng fyre out of his mouth / that coles were kendled of him. And he bowed heuẽ and came downe/ and darcknesse vnder nethe his B fete. And he rode vpon Cherub and flew: and appered vpon the wynges of the wynde. And he made darcknesse a tabernacle roũde about him / wt water geathered to geather in thicke cloudes. Of the brightnesse / that was before him / coles were sett on fyre.

The Lorde thundred from heuen / and the most hye put out hys voyce. And he shotte arowes and shatered them / and hurled lyghtenyng and turmoyled them. And ye botome of the see appered / and the foundacions of ye worlde were sene / by the reason of the rebukyng of the Lorde / and through the blastyng of the breeth of hys nostrelles. He sent from an hye & fett me / & plucked me out of myghtye waters.

He delyuered me frõ my mightie enemye / & from thẽ that hated me and were to strong for me. When they had compased me in the daye of my trybulacion / the Lorde stayed me vp. And he brought me out into rowmeth / & delyuered me / because he delyted in me.

C The Lorde rewarded me accordyng to my ryghtwyshesse / & accordyng to the pureneſſe of my handes he dealt wyth me. For I kept the wayes of the Lorde / and dyd no wyckednesse forsakyng my God. But I had all hys lawes in my syght / & turned my face from none of his ordinaunces. But was pure vnto him ward / & kept my self frõ wickednesse.

And the Lorde dyd to me agayne / accordyng to my ryghtewesnes, and after my pureneſſe that I had in his syght. With the holy thou shalt be holy / and wyth the man that is vncorrupt / thou shalt be vncorrupt. With ye pure thou shalt be pure / & wyth the froward thou shalt be froward also. And the people that are in aduersyte / thou shalt helpe. And on ye proude shalt thou cast thine eyes. Thou art my syght O Lorde / and the Lorde shall lyght my darcknesse.

With thy helpe I wyll runne thorow an hoste of men, and by ye ayde of my God wyll I sprynge ouer a walle. The * waye of God is vndefyled and the worde of the Lorde fyned as golde / & he a shilde to all that trust in him.

* That is / the deades of God are pure & vncorrupt.

Who is a God saue the Lorde / and who myghte saue oure God? God is my strength in warre / and ryddyth the waye cleare before me. And maketh my fete as swyfte as an hyndes and setteth me fast vpon my hye hold.

And teacheth my handes to fyght / that a bowe of brasse is to weake for myne armes.

And thou hast saued me wyth thy shylde / and keppest me euer in meaknes. And thou D madest me space to walke in / that my fete shuld not stõble. I folowed myne enemyes & destroyed thẽ / and turned not agayne vntyll I had consumed them.

I wasted them and so clouted thẽ / that they could not aryse: but fell vnder my fete.

And thou compasedest me about wt might to battell / & madest them that roase agaynst me to stoupe vnder me.

* That is / to runne away fer from me.

And thou madest myne enemyes to* turne their backes to me, and them that hated me, and I destroyed them. They loked for helpe: But none came to saue them vnto the Lorde they cryed / but he heard them not.

And I wyll beate them as smalle as the dust of the erth / and wyll stampe them as the dyrte of ye strete / & wyll spreade thẽ abroade.

And thou delyueredst me from the dyssencyon of my people / & kepest me to be an heed ouer nacyõs / for ye people which I knew not became my seruauntes.

And the alyentes crouched vnto me, and obeyed me at a worde.

And the alyentes ye shrynke awaye shall tremble for feare in their * defenced places.

* That is euen there where they lurke and bide them selues: although in strõg holde.

The Lorde lyue, and blessed be he ye is my strength: and exalted be God ye strength that saueth me. It is God that auengeth me / & bryngeth downe the people vnder me. And delyuereth me from myne enemies, thou lyftest me vp on hye from thẽ that ryse agaynst me, and delyueredst me from ye wicked men.

And therfore I wyll prayse the O Lorde amonge the hethen and b will synge vnto thy name. For thy great & manyfolde sauyng of thy kynge and shewyng mercye vnto thyne anointed euẽ to Dauid, & his seede for euer.

b Or syng vnto the name of God is a cõmẽ maner of speakyng to ye psalmist for to geue thankes & to shewe ye veritie & glorie of God as in the Psalm. xxix. c

¶ The last communicacyon of Dauid / and the description of the myghty men to hym belongyng.

¶ The .xxiij. Capter.

THese be the last sayinges of Dauid. Dauid the sonne of Jsai sayde. And the mā is lyfte vp on hye / ꝑ anoynted of the God of Jacob ꝑ pleasant Psalmist of Jsrael sayd: the spyrete of ꝑ Lorde spake in me / ꝑ his wordes were on my tong. The God of Jsrael spake vnto me / and the stregth of Jsrael sayde: he that beareth rule ouer men, he that ruleth iustlye* in the feare of God. And he shalbe as the morynng light / when the sonne shyneth in a morynge in whych are no cloudes to lett the bryghtnesse / and as the grasse of the erth is by the vertue of the rayne. And is not myne house so with God: in that he hath made with me an euerlastyng couenaunt perfecte in all poyntes: ꝑ in that he shall fulfyll all ꝑ is healthesome vnto me, ꝑ all my desyres therto. When the vnthryfte men are all of thē as thornes taken out of their places / which cannot be taken w̄ handes: But the man that shall touche thē / must be armed wyth yron or a longe helue. And then shall they be burnt with fyre to cyt therby.

* Vnderstand / sayde / that he shalbe ruler ouer men / that shall be of one feare and loue / that is / that shall rule in the feare of God / that is / in the true worshyppyng of the one true God. For the kyngdome of Christ is the kyngdome of them that beleue and worshyp God in spyrite ꝑ trueth / that haue his commaundementes / and specially ꝑ touch all their true fraunce to that that pitaseth them.

B These be the names of the myghtye men ꝑ were about Dauid: * Joseb of Sebeth the Thachmonite, first of thre, otherwyse called Adino the Asonite which slue viij hūdred at one tyme. And nexte to him Eleazar ꝑ sonne of Dodi ꝑ sonne of Ahohi, one of ꝑ thre principall ꝑ were wyth Dauid / which whē they defyed the Philistines ꝑ were there gathered to gather in battell / and the men of Jsrael were gone vp arose & layed on the Philistines vntyll his hande ached and claue vnto the swerde. And the Lord made a great victorye the same daye. And ꝑ people returned & wēt after him only to spoyle. After hym was Sema ꝑ sonne of Agee the Hararite which when the Philistines were gathered together in Lahata where was a parcell of lande full of ryce / and ꝑ people were fled for feare of the Philistines, stode in the myddes of the fayde grounde, & defended it & slue the Philistines. And the Lord gaue him a great victorie.

And these thre of the thirtie of the Lordes went downe & came to Dauid in the harueste tyme vnto ꝑ caue Odolam. And the Host of the Philistines had pytched in the valeye of Geauntes. And Dauid was then in an holde And ꝑ Souldiours of the Philistines were then in Bethlehē. And Dauid longed & sayde: Oh / that I had of the water that is in ꝑ well in the gate of Bethlehem for to drynke. And anone the thre myghtie brake thorow ꝑ Host of the Philistines and fett water out of the well of Bethlehem ꝑ was in the gate, & toke and brought it to Dauid: Neuertheles he wolde not drynke therof / but offered it vnto the Lord & sayde: the Lorde forbyd ꝑ I shuld do so / shuld I drynke ꝑ bloud of men ꝑ were in ieopardye of their lyues? and so he wolde not drynke it. These thynges dyd these thre myghtye men. Then Abisai the brother of Joab, the sonne of Saruiah: he was o captayne ouer the thre / & he lyfte vp his speare agaynst thre hundred & slue them, & was named w̄ the thre. For he was nobler man then the thre & was their captayne. How be it he attayned not vnto *those thre in actes.

b. Not ouer ꝑ thre but ouer the thre ꝑ were inferiour & vnder them / that is / ouer the that were of ꝑ second degre of Dauids myghtye men or worthies.

* Vnderstande the fyrst thre.

Then Banaiah the sonne of Jehoiada ꝑ sonne of a lustye mā valyāt in actes of Kabzeel / he slue two lyons of Moab. He went downe & slue a lyō in a pyt in time of Snow. And he slue an Egyptian a goodly mā, which had a speare in his hand. And Banaiah went downe to hym w̄ a staffe & pluckt ꝑ speare out of the Egyptians hand & slue him w̄ hys awne speare: Soche thynges dyd Banaiah D the sonne of Jehoiada & was the noblest of thyrtye: But not lyke to anye of the thre in factes of warre. And Dauid made him of his councell. Asahel ꝑ brother of Joab was one of the thyrtye. Then Elchanan the sonne of Dodo of Bethlehem: Semah the Harodite: Elica the Harodite: Helez the Paltite: Ira the sonne of Akes the Thekoite: Abiezer of Anathoth: Mebonai the Husathite: Zelmon an Ahohite: Maharai the Netophathite: Heleb the sonne of Baanah an Netophathite: Ithai ꝑ sonne of Ribai of Gabaah a cyte of ꝑ chyldrē of Beniamin: Banaiah the Pharathonite: Hedai: of the ryuer of Gaas: Abialbon the Arbathite: Asmaueth a Berhomite: Eliahba a Salabonite: * Of ꝑ sonnes of Jasen Jonathas: Semah the Hararite: Ahiam the sonne of Sarar an Ararite: Eliphelet the sonne of Ahasbai the sonne of a Maachathite: Eliam the sonne of Ahithophel the Gilonite: Hezrai the Carmelite: Pharai the Arbite: Igaal the sonne of Nathan of Zobah: Bani the Gadite: Zelec an Amonite: Naharai a Berothite the Harnesbearer of Joab the sonne of Saruiah: Ira the Jethrite: Gareb ꝑ Jethrite: Urias the Hethite: in all thyrtie and seuen.

¶ Because Dauid caused the people to be nombred / as Jsrael plaged with pestilence: so that in thre dayes there dyed lxx. thousand.

¶ The .xxiij. Chapter.

AND the Lorde was wrath agayne ℣ agaynst Jsrael / & stered vp Dauid agaynst thē saying: go and nombre both Jsrael and Juda. And forthwith the kyng sayd to Joab the captayne of his Host: go abroade I praye the thorow out all the tribes of Jsrael, euē frō Dan to Berſabsabe & nombre the people that I maye know the nombre of them. And Joab sayde vnto ỳ kynge: I beseche ỳ the Lorde thy God make the people as many moo as they be: ye & an hundred tymes so many mo/ and that ỳ eyes of my Lorde the kynge maye se them. But how is it that my Lorde the kyng hath a lust in this thyng? Notwithstandyng the kynges wordes preuayled agaynst Joab & agaynst all the captaynes of the Hoste.

Then Joab and ỳ captaynes of the Host went out from the kyng, to bewe the people of Israel. And they passed ouer Jordan & pitched in Aroer on the ryght syde of the cyte ỳ lyeth in the myddes of the valeye of Gad and so forth to Jazer. And then they went to Galaad and to the nether land of Hodesi/ & from thence to Dan Jaan/ and about to Sidon/ and came to the stronge towne of Tyre/ and to all the cyties of the Heuites and of the Cananites, and then went out to the South of Juda/ euen to Berlabe. And so whē they had bene abroade thorow out all the lande they returned to Jerusalem agayne at the ende of nyne monethes and twētye dayes. And then
B Joab delyuered vp the rekenyng of the nombre of the people vnto the kynge. And there were found in Israel nyne hūdred thousand men of myght ỳ drew swerdes. And the men of Juda were fyue hundred thousand men.

And Dauids heart smote hym after that he had nombred the people. And he sayde vnto the Lorde: I haue synned exceadyngly in ỳ I haue done, And now Lorde take awaye the trespace of thy seruaunt: for I haue done foolyshely. And when Dauid was vp in a mornyng/ the worde of the Lorde came vnto the prophete Gad Dauids sear sayinge: go and saye vnto Dauid/ this sayth the Lorde. I offer the thre thynges / chose which of them I shall do to the.

And Gad came to Dauid and shewed him/ and sayde vnto him: whether wylt thou haue vii. yeres hunger in thy lāde/ or that thou flee thre monethes before thyne enemyes & they folowyng the/ or that there be thre dayes pestilence in thy lande. Now vnderstande and se/ what worde I shall bryng agayne to him that sent me. Then sayd Dauid vnto Gad: I
C am in a maruelous straite. But let me falle I praye the/ into the hādes of the Lorde / for moche is his mercye / and lett me not falle into the handes of men.

And the Lorde sent a pestilence in Israel from the morninge vnto the ende of the tyme appoynted. And there dyed of the people betwene Dan & Berlabe. lxx. thousande men. And when the Angell stretched out his hand vnto Jerusalē to haue destroyed it/ the Lorde had compassyon to do that euell, and sayde to the Angell that destroyed ỳ people: it is sufficient: let thyne hande ceasse. And the Angell was at the threshynge place of Areunah the Jebusite. Then spake Dauid vnto the Lorde whē he saw the Angell that smote ỳ people/ and sayde: loo/ it is I that haue synned / and I that haue done wyckedly. But these sheepe what haue they done? lett I praye the thyne hand be on me and on my fathers house.

And Gad came the same daye to Dauid & sayde vnto him: go vp & reare an aultare vnto the Lorde in the threshyng flowre of Areunah the Jebusite. And Dauid accordynge to the saying of Gad went vp as the Lorde commaunded. And when Areunah loked and saw D the kyng & his seruauntes comyng towarde him, he went out: and bowed hym selfe to the kyng flat on his face to the ground / & sayde: wherfore is my Lorde the kyng come to hys seruaunt? And Dauid sayd: to bye the threshynge flowre of the / for to make an aultare vnto the Lorde that the plage maye ceasse frō the people.

And Areunah sayde vnto the kyng: let my Lorde the kyng take and offer what semyth him good in his eyes: Beholde oxen for sacrefyce/ and sleades and the other instrumentes of the oxē for wood. And Areunah the kyngs frende gaue all to the kynge / and sayde moreouer vnto the kynge: the Lorde: the Lorde thy God accept the. But the kyng sayde vnto Areunah: not so / but I wyll bye it of the at a pryce/ and wyll not offer sacrefyce vnto the Lorde my God that shall cost me nought And so Dauid bought the threshyng flowre/ and the oxen for fyftye sycles of syluer. And Dauid bylt there an aultare vnto the Lorde and offered burnt sacrefyces and peace offeryngs. And so the Lorde was agreed with the lande. And the plage ceased from Israel.

¶ The young virgin Abisag kepeth Dauid in his extreme Age. Adonias occupieth the reaulme bewptyng to his father. Salomon is annopted Kynge and then Adonias fleeth.

¶ The fyrst Chapter.

I When Kyng Dauid was waxen olde & stryke in yeres/ though they couered hym w clothes yet he caught no heate. Wherfore hys seruautes sayd vnto hym: let there be sought for my Lorde the kynge a young mayden to wayte vpō him and to cherysshe hym. And let her lye in thy bosome / that my Lorde the kyng maye get heate. And so they sought for a fayre Damosell thorow out all the coostes of Israel & founde one Abisag a Sunamite & brought her to ꝧ kyng. And the Damosell was exceedyng fayre & cherysshed the kyng & ministred to him: But ꝧ kyng knewe her not.

But Adoniah the sonne of Haggith exalted himself sayng: I wylbe kynge. And he gatt him a charet and horsmen and fyfte men to runne before hym. And hys father rebuked hym not at anye tyme nor sayde so moche to him as why doest thou so. And he was therto a goodlye man & hys mother bare hym next after Absalom. And he comuned wyth Joab ꝧ sonne of Saruiah & w Abiathar ꝧ preest. And they holpe Adoniah. But Sadock the preest / Banaiah the sonne of Jehoiada / Nathan the prophet / Semei and Rei & the men of myght which were wyth Dauid fauered not Adoniah And Adoniah sacrificed shepe & oxen and fatlynges at the stone of Zoheleth which is fast* by the well of Rogell & bad all his brethren the kynges sonnes & all the men of Juda the kynges seruauntes. But Nathā the prophet & Banaiah and the mightie men and Salomon his brother he bad not.

* Some reade. by Enrogell.

Wherupon Nathan spake vnto Bethsabe the mother of Salomon sayng: hast thou not heard how that Adoniah the sonne of Haggith doth raigne vnwetting vnto ouremaster Dauid? Now therfore come ꝧ I maye geue the councell, how to saue thyne awne lyfe & the lyfe of thy sonne Salomon. Hence & get the vnto kynge Dauid & saye vnto him: dyddest not thou my Lorde kyng swere vnto thy hādmadye sayinge? Salomō thy sonne shall raygne after me and he shall sitt vpon my seate why is then Adoniah made kyng? And se / whyle thou yet talkest there with ꝧ kyng / I will come after ꝧ & will ende thy wordes.

a Here ensureth that to be sett vpon the seate / signifyeth to here

And Bethsabe went in vnto the kyng into the chambre. And the kynge was verye olde & Abisag the Sunamite ministred vnto hym. And Bethsabe stouped & made obeysaunce vnto the kyng. And the kynge sayde: what is thy matter? And she answered & sayde: My Lorde thou swarest by the Lorde thy God vnto thyne hādmayde: Salomō thy sonne shall raygne after me & he shall sytt vpō my seate. But now se / Adoniah is kynge and thou my Lord kyng wottest it not. And he hath offered oxen fatlynges & shepe aboundantly / & hath called all the sonnes of the kynge / and Abiathar the preest / and Joab the captayne of the Hoste. But Salomon thy seruaunt hath he not bydde. And now my Lorde kyng ꝧ eyes of all Israel wayte on the / to tell them who shall sytte on the seate of my Lorde the kyng after him. For elles when my Lorde ꝧ kyng is layde to rest wyth hys fathers / I and my sonne Salomon shalbe* synners.

* That is / shall seame to haue offended & synned against the / whē we be deprived frō the kyngdome.

And beholde whyle she yet talked wyth ꝧ kynge Nathan the prophet was come. And they tolde the kyng sayeng: here cometh Nathan the prophete. And when he was come before the kyng, he made obeysaunce vnto ꝧ kyng vpō his face vnto ꝧ grounde / & sayde: My Lorde kyng / hast thou sayde / Adoniah shall raygne after me / & he shall sytt vpō my seate? For he is gone downe this daye & hath offered oxen / fatlynges & shepe aboundantlye / and hath called all the kynges sonnes & the captaynes of the Hoste / and Abiathar the preest. And se, they eate and drynke before him and saye. God saue kyng Adoniah. But me thy seruaunt and Sadock the preest and Banaiah ꝧ sonne of Jehoiada / & thy seruaūt Salomon he hath not called. Is this thynge done of my Lorde the kyng & yet woldest not shewe me thy seruaunt, who shulde sytt on ꝧ seate of my Lorde the kyng after him?

Then kyng Dauid answered & sayde: call me Bethsabe. And she cam in & stode before him. And ꝧ kyng sware saying. As sure as ꝧ Lorde (that hath ryddo my soule out of all aduersyte) lyueth: euen as I sware vnto the by the Lorde God of Israel sayinge: Salomon shall raygne after me / and he shall sytt vpon my seate for me / so wyll I do this daye. And Bethsabe bowed on her face to the erth and dyd obeysaunce vnto the kynge and sayde: I praye God my Lord kyng Dauid maye lyue euer. Then sayde kyng Dauid call me Sadock the preest and Nathan the prophet and Banaiah ꝧ sonne of Jehoiada. And whē they cam before the kynge. The kynge sayde vnto them: take with you the seruauntes of youre Lorde & sett Salomon my sonne vpō myne awne Mule and carye him downe to Gihon. And let Sadock ꝧ preest and Nathā ꝧ prophet phet anoynte hym there/ to be kyng ouer Israel. And then blowe ye with a trōpet & saye: God saue kyng Salomō. And then come vp after hym/ & let him come and sytte vpon my seate. For he shalbe kyng in my stede. And him I haue cōmaunded to be captayne ouer Israel and Juda. And Banaiah the sonne of Jehoiada answered the kyng & sayde/ Amē/ & so I praye God that the Lorde God of my Lorde the kyng saye so to. And as the Lorde hath bene w̄ my Lorde the kyng/ euen so/ I praye God he maye be/ with Salomon and & he make his seate gloryouser then & seate of my Lorde kyng Dauid.

And Sadock the preast and Nathan the prophet and Banaiah & sonne of Jehoiada & the Cerethites and Pheletites wēt downe, & sett Salomon vpon kyng Dauids Mule & ledd him to Gihon. And Sadock the Preast toke an horne of oyle out of the tabernacle & anointed Salomō. And they blewe a trōpet/ and all they sayd: God saue kyng Salomon. And all the people cam vp after him pypyng with pypes and reioysyng greatlye/ so & the erth range with the sounde of them.

And Adoniah and all the gestes that were with him/ heard it euen as they had made an ende of eatynge. And when Joab hearde the sounde of the trompet, he sayde: how happeneth it that there is soche a noyse in & cytie? And as he yet spake/ se/ Jonathas the sonne of Abiathar the preast came. And Adoniah sayde: come for thou art a lustye blonde and bryngest good tydynges. And Jonathas answered & sayd to Adoniah: Verely oure Lord kyng Dauid hath made Salomō kyng. And & kyng sent with him/ Sadock & preast and Nathan the prophet: and Banaiah the sonne of Jehoiada & the Cerethites & the Pheletites/ & they haue set him vpō & kyngs Mule. And Sadock the preast and Nathan & Prophet haue anoynted him kyng in Gihon. And as they came vp agayne they reioysed that the cyte dyd sounde agayne. And that is the noyse that ye haue heard. And therto Salomon sytteth on the seate of the kyngdome. And moreouer the kynges seruauntes went in to blesse oure Lorde kyng Dauid saying: thy God make the name of Salomō moare fauoure then thyne/ and his seate more glorioure then thyne. And the kyng bowed hym selfe vpon the beed. And last of all thus sayde the kyng: blessed be the Lorde God of Israel which hath made one to sytt on my seate this daye euen myne eyes seying it.

And all the gestes that were w̄ Adoniah were afrayed & rose vp & went euery mā hys waye. And Adoniah fearyng Salomō arose & went & caught holde on the hornes of the aultare. And it was tolde Salomon, how & Adoniah for feare of kyng Salomon hathe *caught handfast by the hornes of the aultare saying: let kyng Salomon swere vnto me this daye, that he wyll not sley his seruaunt with the swerde. And Salomon sayde: yf he wylbe a chylde of vertue/ there shall not an hearre of him fall to & erth. But & yf wickednesse shalbe found in hym, he shall dye for it. And thervpon kyng Salomō sent & fet him downe from the aultare. And he came & dyd obeysaunce vnto kyng Salomon. And Salomon sayde to him: get the to thyne house.

That the Lorde maye make good hys promesse which he hath promysed me sayīg: yf thy chyldrē shall take hede to their wayes/ that they walke before me in truthe/ with all their hertes & with all their soules, *then thou shalt neuer be with out one sytting on the seate of Israel.

Act.ij.c And so Dauid rested with hys fathers & was buried in the cyte of Dauid. And the dayes which Dauid raygned vpon Israel / ℂ were fourtye yeres. seuen yeres in Hebron, & thirtie and thre yere in Jerusalē.* And Salomō sate vpon ꝧ seate of Dauid his father & his kyngdome was stablyshed myghtely.

*1. Paral. xxix.f

After that Adoniah the sonne of Hagith came to Bethsabe the mother of Salomon

1.Reg.xxvi.a And she sayd: Betokeneth thy comig peace? And he sayde: it betokeneth peace. Then sayd he/I haue a matter to shewe the. And she sayd: saye on. And he sayde: thou knowest that the kyngdome was myne / & that all Israel put their eyes on me/ ꝧ I shulde raygne/ howbeit the kyngdom was turned away & geuē to my brother/ for it was appoynted him of the Lord: & now I aske a petitiō of ꝧ/ wherof deny me not. And she sayd vnto him: tell what it is. Then he sayde: speake I pray the / vnto Salomon the kyng (for he will not saye the naye) that he geue me Abisag the Sunamite to wyfe. And Bethsabe sayde: well/ I will ℘ speake for the vnto the kyng.

And therupon Bethsabe went vnto kyng Salomon to speake vnto him for Adoniah. And ꝧ kyng rose vp agaynst her and bowed hym selfe vnto her / and satt hym downe on hys seate. And there was a seate sett for the kynges mother/ &* she sat on his right syde.

*Mar.x.c Then she sayde: I must desyre a lyttell peticyon of the: saye me not naye. And the kynge sayd vnto her: Aske on my mother: for I will not saye ꝧ naye. And she sayde: let Abisag ꝧ Sunamite be geuen to Adoniah thy brother to wyfe. And king Salomō answered & sayd vnto his mother: why dost thou aske Abisag the Sunamite for Adoniah? but rather aske for him ꝧ kyngdome/ seing he is myne elder brother: euen for hym aske it & for Abiathar the preast/ & for Joab the sonne of Zaruiah.

a. God do so & so it was a customable othe of the Hebrues, as it is sayde. Ruth.i.c. Then kynge Salomon sware by the Lorde saying:* God do so to me & so therto ꝧ Adoniah haue not spokē this worde agaynst his selfe. Now therfore as surely as the Lorde lyueth which hath stablyshed me and set me on ℂ the seate of Dauid my father, & which hath made me an house as he promysed me/ Adoniah shall dye this daye. And kyng Salomō sent by the hand of Banaiah the sonne of Iehoiada/ and smote him that he dyed.

And vnto Abiathar ꝧ preast sayde ꝧ kyng: get the to Anatoth vnto thyne awne feldes/ for thou art worthy of deeth: but I will not at this tyme kyll the/ because thou bareste ꝧ Arcke of the Lorde Iehouah before Dauid my father and because thou sufferedst wyth my father in all his afflictions. And so Salomō put awaye Abiathar frō being preast vnto the Lorde: to fulfyll the wordes of the Lorde which he spake ouer the house of Eli in Siloh. Then tydinges came to Joab: for Joab had turned after Adoniah but not after Salomon. Wherupon he fled vnto the tabernacle of the Lorde and caught * handfast on the hornes of the aultare. And it was tolde kyng Salomon how that Joab was fled vnto the tabernacle of the Lorde and stode by ꝧ aultare. Then Salomon sent Banaiah the sonne of Iehoiada saying: go and smyte him. And when Banaiah was come to the tabernacle of the Lorde he sayde vnto hym: thus sayth the kyng, come out. And he sayd naye: But I will dye euen here. And Banaiah brought the kyng worde sayinge: thus sayde Joab and thus he answered me.

* Thinckynge therby to haue saued him self: & to haue dyed of hys deeth for a tyme: in the maner dyd Adoniah/ as in the.i. Chap. of this boke.g.

And the kynge sayde: do euen as he hath sayde: smyte hym & burie him, & take awaye the bloude (which Joab shed causeleslye) from me and from the house of my father. And the Lorde bryng his bloude vpō his awne heed/ for he smote two men righteweyser and better then he/ & slue them with the swerde / my father vnwetyng: euē Abner the sonne of Ner captayne of the Host of Israel/ and Amasa ꝧ the sonne of Jether captayne of the Host of Juda. And their bloud returne vpon the heed of Joab and on the heed of his seede for euer. And prosperyte be vnto Dauid and vnto his seede/ and vnto his house/ and vnto his seate/ of the Lorde for euer.

And Banaiah the sonne of Iehoiada wēt vp and smote him and slue him & buried hym in his awne house in the wildernesse. And the kyng put Banaiah the sonne of Iehoiada in his rowme ouer the Host and put Sadock ꝧ preast in the rowme of Abiathar.

Then the kynge sent and called Semei/ and sayde to him: buylde the an house in Jerusalem & dwell there & se that thou go not once thēce any whether. For be thou sure of it/ the daye thou goest out and passest ouer ꝧ ryuer of Cedron / thou shalt dye for it/ & thy bloud shalbe on thyne awne heed. And Semei sayde vnto ꝧ kyng: it is wel sayde: as my Lorde ꝧ kyng hath sayd so will his seruaūt do. And Semei dwelt in Jerusalem many a daye. And it chaunced at the ende of thre yere that two of the seruauntes of Semei ranne awaye vnto Achis sonne of Maacah kynge of Geth. And one tolde Semei saying: se thy seruauntes be in Geth. And Semei rode vp and sadled his Asse and gat him to Geth to Achis/ to seke his seruauntes/ and came and brought them agayne from Geth.

But it was tolde Salomon how that Semei had gone from Jerusalem to Geth and & was was come agayne. And ꝑ kyng sent & called Semei & sayde vnto him: Dyd I not adiure the by the Lord/ & testifyed vnto the saying: be sure whē so euer thou goest out & walkest abroade any whether / thou shalt dye for it? And thou answeredst me/it is good tydinges that I haue heard. Why then hast thou not kept the othe of the Lorde/and the cōmaundement that I commaunded the?

ꝑ. Reg. xviii. And then the kyng sayde to Semei: *thou remembrest all the wickednesse which thyne hert knoweth ꝑ thou dydest to Dauid my father. The Lorde therfore render agayne thy wyckednesse vpon thyne awne heed: & kyng Salomon be blessed/ & the seate of Dauid be stablyshed before the Lorde for euer. And ꝑ kyng cōmaunded Banaiah the sonne of Iehoiada: which went out and smote him that he dyed. And so was the kyngdome settled in the hand of Salomon.

Salomon taketh Pharaos daughter to wyfe. The Lorde apereth to him and geueth him wysdome. The pleadyng of the .ij. harlottes who shulde owne the lyuyng chylde: and Salomons sentence therin.

The thirde Chapter.

And Salomon dyd make affinite with
ꝑ. Para. i. Pharao kyng of Egypte/ and toke Pharaos daughter & brought her into the cytye of Dauid vntyll he had made an ende of byldyng his awne house & the house of the Lorde & the walles of Ierusalem rounde aboute. Only the people sacrificed in aultares made on hylles/ because there was no house bylt vnto the name of ꝑ Lord vntill those dayes. And Salomō loued the Lorde and walked in the ordinaunces of Dauid his father/ saue only e that he sacrificed & offered incense vpō aultares in hylles.

And ꝑ kyng wēt to Gabaon to offer there: for ꝑ was a great offeryng place. And there Salomō offered a thousand burntofferyngs vpon that aultare. And in Gabaon the Lord apered to Salomon in a dreame by nyght. And God sayde: Aske what I shall geue the. And Salomon sayde: thou hast shewed vnto thy seruaūt Dauid my father great mercye/ accordynge as he walked before ꝑ in truthe & in ryghtewelnes & playnesse of herte wyth the. And thou hast kept for hym this great mercye/ ꝑ thou hast geuē him a sonne to sytt on his seate: as it is come to passe thys daye.
ꝑ. Para. i. b *And now Lord my God it is thou that hast made thy seruaunt kyng in steade of Dauid my father. Sapien. ix. a * And I am a yōg lad & wott not how to order my selfe. And thy seruaunt is in the myddes of thy people which thou hast chosen/ a people ꝑ are so many ꝑ they cānot be Sapien. ix. c. tolde nor nōbred for multytude. * Geue therfore vnto thy seruaunt an vnderstandynge hert to iudge thy people & to discerne betwene good/ and badd. For who is able to iudge this thy so waighty a people?

And it pleased the Lord well/ ꝑ Salomon had desyred this thyng. Wherfore God sayde vnto him: because thou hast asked this thing & hast not asked long lyfe / neyther hast asked ryches/ nor ꝑ lyues of thine enemyes, but hast asked the discrecion to vnderstande equyte. Se/ I haue done accordyng to thy petycion: and beholde/ I haue geuen the a wyse and an vnderstandyng hert/ so that there was none lyke the before / nether after the shall anye aryse lyke vnto the. And therto I haue geuen the ꝑ thou askedst not / bothe ryches & honoure: so that there shalbe no kynge lyke the all thy dayes. And yf thou wylt walke in my wayes/ to kepe myne ordinaūces & commaūdemēts as Dauid thy father dyd walke/ I wyll lengthen thy dayes also. When Salomon awoke/ this was his dreame. And he came to Ierusalem & presented him selfe before the Arcke of the testament of the Lord/ & offered burntofferynges & peaceofferings/ and made a feast to all his seruauntes.

Then came there two women ꝑ were harlottes vnto the kyng & stode before him. And ꝑ one of thē sayde: Oh my Lord I & this woman dwell in one house. And I was delyuered of a chylde wherin the sayde house. And the thyrde daye after ꝑ I was delyuered/ she was delyuered also: we two beyinge to gether & no straūger wt vs in ꝑ house saue we two alone. And this wyues chylde dyed in a nyght, for: she had *ouerlayde it And then she arose at mydnyght & toke my sonne from my syde/ whyle thyne handmayde slept & layde it in her bosome/ and put her dead chylde in my bosome. And when I rose vp in the morynge to geue my chylde sucke: se/ it was dead. But when I had loked moare dylygentlye vpon it in ꝑ morynge: Beholde/ it was not my sonne which I dyd beare. And ꝑ other womā sayde: it is not so: But the lyuyng is my sonne/ and the deed thyne. And she sayde agayne: thou sayest vntrue/ for the deed is thy sonne/ & the lyuyng myne. And thus they pleated before ꝑ kyng. Then sayde ꝑ kyng: the one sayeth/ this that is a lyue is my sonne/ and the deed is thyne. And the other sayth naye: But thy sonne is the deed and ꝑ lyue chylde is myne. Then sayde ꝑ kyng: bryng me a swerde. And they brought a swerde before the kyng. And then the kynge sayde: Deuyde the lyuynge chylde in two/ and geue the one halfe to the one/ and the other to the other.

* Or: smotherd.

Then spake the woman whose the lyuyng chylde was vnto ꝑ kyng for her * bowelles yerned vpon her sonne) and sayde: I beseche the my Lorde / geue her the lyuynge chylde and in no wyse slay it. And the other sayde: it

Luce.bij.c. Then ỹ kyng answered and sayde: *geue her the lyuyng chylde and sley it not/for she is ỹ mother therof. And all Israel hearde of the iudgement which the kynge had iudged and feared the kynge: for they sawe that the wisdom of God was in him to do iustice.

¶ The ỹnces and rulers vnder Salomon. The puruyaunce for his vitayles. The nombre of his horses and of his parables.

¶ The.iiij. Chapter.

ANd so kyng Salomon was kynge ouer all Israel. And these were his Lordes: Azariah the sonne of Sadock the preaste: Elihoreph and Ahiah the sonnes of Sisa/ scribes. Iosaphath the sonne of Ahilud the recorder. And Banaiah the sonne of Iehoiada was ouer ỹ Hoste. And Sadock and Abiathar were the preastes. And Azariah the sonne of Nathan was ouer ỹ generall receauers. And Zabud the sonne of Nathan was a wayter and the kynges companion. And Ahisar steward of housholde: And Adoniram sonne of Abda ouer the trybute.

And Salomon had twelue generall receauers ouer all Israel which sustayned the kyng & his housholde: eche man hys moneth in a yere. Whose names are these: the sonne of Hur in mount Ephraim: the sonne of Dekarin Maker in Salem in Bethsames, in Elon & in Bethhanan: the sonne of Hesed in Aruboth/ & to him pertayned Socoh and all
B the lande of Hepher: the sonne of Abinadab/ which had all the regions of Dor/ and Taphath ỹ daughter of Salomō was his wife: Baanah the sonne of Ahilud had Thanach Magedo and all Bethsan which is by Zarthanah beneth Jezrahel/ & from Bethsan to Abel Mehulah & vnto beyound Jecmaam. the sonne of Gaber had Ramoth Galaad/ & his were the townes of Jair ỹ sonne of Manasse which lye in Galaad/ and hys was the costes of Argob in Basan/ thre skore great cytyes with walles and Barres of Brasse.

Ahinadab the sonne of Ado had Mahanaim: Ahimaaz had Nephthalim/ & he had taken Basemath the daughter of Salomon to wyfe: Baanah the sonne of Husai had Aser and Aloth: Iehosaphat ỹ sonne of Pharuah had Issachar * Semei the sonne of Elah had Beniamin: Gaber the sonne of Ury had the contreye of Galaad and the lande of Sehon kyng of the Amorites & of Og kyng of Basan, and was alone receauer in the land. And Juda and Israel were manye euē as ỹ sand of the see in nombre, eatyng/ drynkyng and makyng merye. And Salomō raygned ouer all kyngdomes from the ryuer thorou out all the lande of the Philistines vnto the borders of Egypt/ and they brought presentes & serued Salomon all dayes of his lyfe.

And Salomōs fode was in one daye thirtie quarters of manchet floure & thre skore quarters of meleten stalled oxen/ & twentie out of the pastures & an hundred shepe and gootes/ besydes, hertes/ buckes & bubalies & fatt pultrye. For he ruled in all the regions on the other syde Euphrates/ frō Thaphsah to Gaza/ & also ouer all ỹ kynges on ỹ other syde the sayde Euphrates. And he had peace with all his seruauntes on euery syde. And Juda and Israel dwelt without feare/ euery man vnder his vyne & vnder his tygg tre frō Dan to Berfabe/ all ỹ dayes of Salomon.

And Salomō had fourtie thousand stalles
D of horses for charettes/ & twelue thousand horsmen. And ỹ forsayde generall receauers made puruyaunce for kyng Salomon and for all that came to kyng Salomons table/ euery man his moneth/ so that there lacked nothyng. And as for barlye and straw for the horses & beastes/ they brought vnto ỹ places where ỹ officers were, euery mā in his office.

*And God gaue Salomō wisdome & vnderstandyng exceedyng moche & a large hert/ euē as ỹ sande a long by the see bancke: so ỹ Salomons wysdome exceaded the wysdome of all thē of the East contreye & all the wysdome of the Egyptians. And he excelled all men in wysdome, both Ethan the Ezrahite/ & Hemā, Chalcol and Dorda ỹ sonnes of Mahol. And his name spred abroade among all nacyōs on euery syde. And Salomon wrote thre thousand prouerbes And his songes were a thousand & fyue. And he disputed of trees/ euē frō the Cedar tre ỹ groweth in Libanon vnto the Isope ỹ syngeth out of the walle. And he disputed of beastes, foules/ wormes and fysshes. And there came of all nations to heare ỹ wysdom of Salomō/ & frō all kynges of the erth which had hearde of his wysdome.

¶ Kyng Hiram sendeth Cedar tymber to the byldyng of the temple. The description of the workes.

¶ The.v. Chapter.

AND Hiram kynge of Tire sent hys seruauntes vnto Salomon/ for he had hearde that they had anoynted him kynge in the rowme of his father. And therto Hiram was euer a louer of Dauids. * And Salomō sent agayne to Hiram sayinge: thou knowest of Dauid my father/ how he coulde not bylde an house vnto ỹ name of the Lord his God for warre which he had on euery syde/ vntyll the Lorde had put thē vnder his fote. But now the Lord my God hath geuē me rest on euery syde/ so ỹ ther is nether aduersarye nor anye euell plage. And therfore I am disposed to bylde an house vnto

ỹ. Para.ij.a.

* Ther was also another Semei which Salomō caused to be kylled: of whom aboue in the fyrst Chapter of this boke: but he was the sonne of Geras of Bahurim.

vnto the name of the Lorde my God / as he B promesed Dauid my father sayig: thy sonne which I wyll put vpon thy seate for the / he shall bylde an house vnto my name. Now then cõmaunde ꝑ they hewe me Cedar trees in Libanon. And let my seruauntes be with thine / & I wyll geue ꝑ hire of thy seruaũts in all soche thyngs as thou shalt appoynte / for thou knowest ꝑ there are not amõg vs ꝑ can skyll to hewe tymber lyke vnto ꝑ Sidones.

When Hiram hearde the wordes of Salomon, he reioysed greatlye & sayde: Blessed be the Lorde this daye which hath set Dauid a wyse sonne ouer this myghtie people. And Hiram sent agayne to Salomon sayinge: I haue accept the request which thou sentest to me for / & wyll satisfye all thy lust / concernyng tymbre of Cedar trees & fyrre. My ser uauntes shall bryng thẽ frõ Libanon to the see. And I wyll conueye thẽ by shippe vnto ꝑ place that thou shalt sende me worde / & wyll cause them to be discharged there / that thou mayst receaue thẽ. And thou shalt do me this pleasure agayne / to minister fode for myne house. And so Hiram gaue Salomon Cedar trees & fyrre trees / as moche as he desyred.
And Salomõ gaue Hiram twẽtie thousand quarters of wheate to fede his household w all / & twẽtye buttes of pure oyle. And so moche gaue Salomon to Hiram yere by yere.

D And the Lorde gaue Salomon wisdome as he promesed hym. And there was peace betwene Hiram and Salomon & they were confedered to geather. And kyng Salomon areysed a tribute thoroughout all Israel. And ꝑ tribute was thirtie thousand men / which he sent to Libanon / ten thousand a monethe by course / so that they were one moneth in Libanon and two monethes at home.

And Adoniram was ouer the tribute. And Salomon had three score & ten thousande ꝑ bare burdens, & three score and ten thousand that hewed in the mountaynes besydes the Lordes he had / to ouersee ꝑ worcke / in nombre thre thousand & thre hundred / which ruled ꝑ people that wrought in ꝑ worcke. And at ꝑ commaundement of the kyng / they brought great stones and that fre stones / and hewed therto / to laye in ꝑ foundacion of the house.
And Salomons masons and the masons of Hiram dyd hew them / with them of the borders. And so they prepared both tymbre and stone to bylde the house.

¶ The frame and forme of the Temple porche and Aultare &c.

¶ The.vi. Chapter.

A Nd it came to passe the foure hundred and foure score yere after the chyldrẽ of Israel were come out of the lande of Egypt / & ꝑ fourth yere of the raygne of Salomon vpon Israel and the seconde moneth called* Zif ꝑ he begãne to bylde the temple vnto the Lorde. And the house which Salomon bylt for the Lorde was three score cubytes longe and twentye broade & thirtie cubites hye. And the porche that was before ꝑ body of the temple / was twentie cubytes longe after the measure of the bredeth of the house / and ten broade / euẽ at the verye ende of the house. And he made vnto the house windowes to open and shutt.

And vnder ꝑ walles of the house he made galaryes rounde about / bothe roũde aboute the temple and also the quere. And so made sydes rounde aboute. And the nethermost galery was .v. cubytes broade & the myddle galery .vi. And the third .vij. cubytes broade.
For he made the walles without wheron the beames laye / euer thynner and thynner / so that they were not fastened in the walles of the house. And the house was bylt of stone made perfecte all readye yer it was brought thither / so that there was nether hammer or axe ether any tole of yron heard in ꝑ house / whyle it was in bylding.

And the doore of the myddle galary was in the ende of the house on the ryghte syde. And B men went vp with winding steares into ꝑ myddle galarye / and out of the myddle into ꝑ thirde. And so he bylt the house and fynished it, and rouffte it with beames of Cedar tymber made holow and ioyned to geather. And then he bylt chambres ouer all the temple of fyue cubytes height / and coupled the house to geather with beames of Cedar.

And the worde of the Lorde came to Sa lomon saying: concernynge the house which thou art in bylding / yf thou wylt walcke in myne ordinaunces and execute my lawes & kepe all my cõmaundementes / to walcke in them: then wyll I make good vnto the / my of Israel and will not forsake my people Israel. And so therfore Salomon bylt ꝑ house and fynyshed it and syled the walles of the house within / with rybbes of Cedar tre: euẽ from the pauemẽt vnto the rouffe dyd he syle it within / and borded the floore of the house with planckes of fyrre.

And he syled twentie cubytes in the ende of the temple bothe floore & walles with Cedar / and dressed it within to be the quere and place most holye. And ꝑ fyrst house / that is to saye / the bodye of ꝑ temple / was fourtye C cubytes longe. And the Cedar of the house within was kerued with knoppes & grauen w flowres / & all was Cedar tymber / so that no stone was sene. And the quere that was within the tẽple, he prepared to set there the Arcke of the appoyntment of the Lorde. And the quere was twentye cubytes longe / and twentye in bredth & twentye in heyght. And he fyled it with pure golde / & bozded the aultare with Cedar.

And Salomon fyled the house within also with pure golde. And he made golden barres tumne a longe the quere / whych he had couered with goulde. And the whole house he oner layde with gould'ontyll he had ended it. And the aultare that was in ỹ quere he ouer layde with goulde also.

Exod.xxv.b And within ỹ quere he made two* Cherubyns of olyue tree / ten cubytes hye a pece / and euery wynge fyue cubytes longe: so that from the vttermoll parte of one wynge vnto the vttermoll parte of the other were ten cubytes.

And the other Cherub was ten cubytes hye also: so that bothe the Cherubes were of one measure and one fyse. The heyght of the one Cherub was ten cubytes / & so was it of D ỹ other. And he put the Cherubes in ỹ middle of ỹ vnner house.* And ỹ Cherubes stretched their wynges / so that the one wynge Exod.xxv.b. of the one touched the one wall / and the one wynge of the other touched the other walle. And the other two wynges of them touched one another in the myddes of the house. And he ouerlayde the Cherubes with goulde.

And all the walles of the house rounde aboute / he garnelhed with wozcke of Cherubes & paulme trees and grauen flowzes / bothe within in the quere and without in the temple. And the flooze of the house he couered with goulde bothe within in the quere & also without in the temple. And in the entetyng of ỹ quere he made two dozes of olyue tree / with the vpper and two fyde postes fyue square. And the two dozes of olyue tree / he graued with grauyng of Cherubȳ and Paulme trees and grauen flowzes / & couered thē with goulde / and layde goulde ouer the Cherubes and also the Paulme trees. And in lyke maner vnto the dooze of the tẽple he made postes of olyue tre. iiij. square / & two dozes of fyzre tree / & ether doze with two foldynge leues and grauen theron Cherubes Paulme trees and flowzes / and couered thē with goulde made playne by a ruler.

And then he bylte the vnner courte with thze rowes of hewed stone and one rowe of Cedar wodd.

¶ The byldyng of the house of Salamon. The house of Pharaos daughter. The forme of the pylers of Brasse / of the Brasen Sea. &c.

¶ The .vii. Chapter.

And Salomō bylte his awne house in .xiij. yeres pace and full fynyshed it. And he bylte the house of ỹ wood of Libanon / an hundred cubytes long and fyfty brcade / & thzrtye hye / foure square with rowes of Cedar pillars / and Cedar beames a longe vpon the pylers. And ỹ rouffe was Cedar aboue an hye vpon ỹ beames that laye an hye on the pylers / which pylers were fourtie & fyue in nombre / fyftene on a rowe / and the spaces betwene the pylers were one agaynst another thzee folde. And all the dozes with the fyde postes were foure square one agaynst another thze fold.

And he made a pozche of pylers fyftie cubytes longe and thyrtie cubytes broade: and yet a pozche before that with pylers / and a thycke pyller before that. Then he made a pozche to fytt and iudge in / fyled with Cedar thozou out all the pauemētes. And his awne house where he kept refydence in a nother courte without that pozche was of the same wozcke. And then Salomon made an house B for Pharos daughter * which he had take to 1.Reg.iij.a wyfe / lyke vnto that pozche.

And all these thynges were of ryche stones hewed after a measure & sawed with sawes within & without / euen frō the foundacyon vnto that wheron the beames were layed / & on ỹ out syde therto towarde ỹ great court. And the foundacion was of ryche stones and ỹ myghtie great stones of ten cubytes & of eyght. And aboue were ryche stones hewed accozdyng to ỹ same fyse / & also with Cedar. And the great court round about was wyth thze rowes of hewed stone and one rowe of of Cedar planckes. And lykewyse was it in the vnner courte of the house of the Lorde & of the pozche of ỹ temple.* And kyng Salo 3.Paral.ij.c.
mon sent & fet one Hiram out of Tire a wedowes sonne of the trybe of Nephtalim / hys father beynge of Tire. Which Hiram was a craftes mā in brasse / & full of wysdome / vnderstanding & connyng to wozcke all maner of wozcke in brasse. And he came to kynge Salomon and wzought all hys wozcke. He cast two pylers of brasse of .xviij. cubytes a pece hye / and a stryng of .xij. cubytes myght compase ether of them aboute. And he made two heed peces of molten brasse to set on the toppes of the pylers / of fyue cubytes longe a pece / wt garlandes of brayded wozcke & whopes of chayne wozcke foz the heed peces that were on the pylers. viij. foz ỹ one and .viij. foz the other. And he made ỹ pylers / & foz ether ¶ of the heed peces a garlande wt two rowes of po-

of pomegranetes to couer the with all. And the heed peces that were on the toppes of ỹ pilliers were wrought w lylyes in ỹ porche the space of foure cubites of them. And ỹ pomegranetes aboue & benethe on the wrethen chaynes that compased the myddle of the heed peeces were in nombre two hundred on ether heed pece. And he sett vp the pyllers in the porche of the temple/and when he had set vp the ryght pyller, he called ỹ name therof Jachin, & when he had set vp the lefte pyller he called the name therof Boaz. And ỹ toppes of the pyllers were thus wrought w lylies, & so was their workmanshyp fynished.

Then he cast a see of brasse, ten cubytes wyde frō brym to brym and rownde in compase, & fyue cubites hye. And a lyne of .xxx. cubites myght compase it about, and vnder the brym of it as it were apples compased and embraced the see of ten cubytes wyde in two rowes cast with it whē it was cast. And it stode on twelue oxen: of which thre loked North, thre West, thre South & thre East/ & the see on hye vpon them / and all their hynderpartes were inward. And it was an hand breadeth thycke / and the brym wrought lyke the brym of a cup with flowres of lylies. And it contayned * two thousand ª Bathes.

And he made ten botomes of brasse, foure cubytes long & foure cubytes brode a pece/ & thre hye. And the worckes of the botomes was on this maner that the sydes were as it were flat bordes betwene the ledges. And on the flatt bordes betwene the ledges were lyons oxen & Cherubes. And vpō the ledges that were aboue & beneth the lyons & oxen/ was ioyned pendant worcke. And euery bottom had foure brasen wheles / whose axeltrees were also of brasse. And in ỹ foure corners were vnderletters vnder the lauatorye cast eche ouer agaynst his felow.

And ỹ staicke of the lauatorye was in the middle of ỹ bottome one cubit hye/ and a cubyte & an half rounde/ & it had knoppes there on in ỹ bare places which were foure square not rounde. And vnder the sydes were foure wheles and their axeltrees ioyned fast to the bottome. And the height of euery whele was a cubyte and an halfe. And the workmanshipe of the wheles was lyke ỹ worcke of a charet whele. And the axeltrees/ ỹ nauelles/ spokes and shaftes were all moulten. And ỹ foure vnderletters in the foure corners were of the verye bottomes.

And vnder the staicke of the lauatorye in ỹ myddes of ỹ bottome was there a rounde fote of halfe a cubyt hye. And theron playne places and ledges of the selfe. And he graued in the playne & also on ỹ ledges/ Cherubes/ lyons & paulmetrees / euery where rounde about. And on this maner he made ỹ ten bottoms cast worcke: all of one measure & one fyle. Then he made ten lauers of brasse containynge fourtye Bathes a pece / and they were of foure cubyts a pece/ for euery one of ỹ bottomes a lauer. And he put fyue of those bottomes on the ryght corner of the temple/ and other fyue on ỹ lefte: And put the see on the ryght corner of the temple Eastwarde & towarde the South.

And Hiram made pottes/ shouelles & basons/ and so fynished all the worcke that he made kynge Salomon for the house of the Lord: that is to saye/ two pyllers & two knalpes of ỹ heeds ỹ were on ỹ toppes of ỹ two pyllers/ & foure hundred pomegranetes vpō two wrethes, two rowes on ether wrethe/ to couer the two knalpes of ỹ heedes that were on the toppes of the two pyllers: And the ten bottomes of brasse with ten lauers vpō thē: & a see with twelue oxen vnder it: & pottes/ shouelles & basens. And all these vesselles which Hiram made to kyng Salomon for ỹ house of the Lord were of bryght brasse. And in the playne of Jordā dyd the kyng cast thē: euē in the claye of the erth betwene Socoh and Zarthan. And Salomon left all the vesselles vnwayed/ for the exceedyng abundance of brasse that was in them.

And Salomon made all the vesselles that pertayned vnto ỹ house of the Lorde: ỹ Aultare of gouldē / and the table of gouldē wher on ỹ shew breed was put: And fyue candelsticks/ for the ryght syde / and as many for the left, before the quere/ of pure gouldē: w flowres/ lampes/ and snoffers of gouldē: and Bolles, Plaiteries/ basons/ spones and fyre pannes of pure gouldē: and hynges of gouldē both for ỹ doores of the quere/ the place most holye/ and for the doores of the temple also.

And so was ended all the worcke ỹ kynge Salomon made for the house of the Lorde. And then* Salomō brought in the thynges which Dauid his father had dedicated in syluer/ gouldē and other vessells / & put thē to the treasure of the house of the Lorde. *v. Para. v.a.

¶ The viij Chapter.

Then Salomon gathered the elders of Israel, all the heedes of the trybes and auncient Lordes of the chyldren of Israel vnto him to Jerusalem/ to bryng vp the Arcke of the appoyntment of the Lorde oute of the cytie of Dauid which is Sion. And all ỹ men of Israel assembled vnto kynge Salomon to the feast ỹ falleth in ỹ moneth * Ethanim which is the seuenth moneth. And when all ỹ elders of Israel were come/ the preastes toke vp the Arcke *That is/ September.

And kynge Salomon and all the cõgregacion of Israel that were assembled/ and were with him before the Arcke/ dyd offer shepe and oxen that coulde not be tolde nor nombred for multitude.

And so the prestes brought the Arcke of ꝑ apoyntment of the Lorde vnto his place: euẽ into the quere of the temple and place most holy/ vnder the wynges of the Cherubes. For the Cherubes stretched oute their wynges ouer the Arcke / and couered bothe it & also the staues therof a hye vpõ it. How be it the staues were so longe that the endes of them appered out of ꝑ holy place before ꝑ quere/ but were not sene without. And there they be vnto this daye. And there was a nothynge in the Arcke saue the two tables of stone which Moses put there at Horeb when the Lorde made an appoyntment with the chyldren of Israel after they were come out of Egypt.

And when the preastes were come out of the Holy place then a cloude fylled the house of the Lorde/ that the preastes coulde not endure to mynister because of the cloude: for ꝑ glorie of the Lorde had fylled the house of ꝑ Lord. Then spake Salomõ: the Lord sayde/ ꝑ he wolde dwelle in darcknesse. I haue bylt ꝑ an house to dwelle in/ & an habitacõ for ꝑ to abide in for euer. And the kyng turned his face & blessed all the congregacion of Israel/ all the cõgregacion standyng. And he sayde.

Blessed be ꝑ Lorde God of Israel/ which hath fulfylled with his *hand/ that he spake vi his mouthe vnto Dauid my father sayig: frõ the daye I brought my people Israel out of Egypt/ I chose no cytye amõge any of the trybes of Israel/ to buylde an house/ that my name myghte be there: But I haue chosen Dauid to be ruler ouer my people Israel.

* That is with his power.

And it was in the hert of Dauid my father / to bylde an house for the name of the Lorde God of Israel. But the Lorde God sayde vnto Dauid my father: in ꝑ it was in thyne hert to bylde an house for my name/ thou dydest well, that thou wast so mynded. Neuertheles thou shalt not bylde the house/ but thy sonne that shall come out of thy loynes / he shall bylde an house for my name.

C And the Lorde hath made good his worde ꝑ he spake. For I stode vp in ꝑ rowme of Dauid my father, & sate on the seate of Israel/ as the Lorde promesed/ & haue bylt an house for the name of the Lord God of Israel. And I haue prepared therin a place for the Arcke wherin ꝑ couenaũt of the Lorde is / which he made wt oure fathers / after he had brought thẽ out of the land of Egypte. And Salomon stode before ꝑ aultare of the Lorde in ꝑ sight of all the congregacion of Israel & stretched out his hãdes to heuẽ & sayde: Lorde God of Israel, there is no God like ꝑ in heuẽ aboue or in the erthe benethe/ ꝑ kepest appoyntmẽt & mercye wt thy seruaũtes ꝑ walcke before the wt all their hertes: which also hast kepte wt thy seruauntes Dauid my father/ ꝑ thou promesedst him. Thou spakest wt thy mouthe & hast fulfylled wt thyne hand, as it is come to passe this daye. And now Lorde God of Israel, kepe wt thy seruaũt Dauid my father/ ꝑ thou promesedest him sayng: thou shalt not be without one or other before me / sytting on the seate of Israel: How be it yt thy chyldren shall take hede to their wayes that they walcke before me/ as thou hast walcked before me. Now then O Lorde God of Israel/ let thy worde be stable which thou spakest vnto thy seruaunt Dauid my father.

But in deade can God dwelle on ꝑ erthe? Beholde nether heuẽ/ nor heuẽ aboue all heuens are able to contayne the: how moche lesse then this house that I haue bylt? but loke to the prayer of thy seruaunt & his supplicacion O Lorde my God/ to geue an eare vnto the voyce & prayer which thy seruaunt prayeth before the this daye that thyne eyes maye be open vpõ this house night & daye/ & vpon the place/ of which thou hast sayde/ my name shalbe there: that thou herken vnto the prayer which thy seruaũt shall praye in this place. And herkẽ vnto ꝑ supplicacion of thy seruaũt and of thy people Israel which they shall praye in this place: And heare thou vp vnto heuẽ thy dwellyng place / & when thou hearest haue mercye. And yf any mã trespace agaynst his neyboure, & his neyboure* take an adiuracion to adiure him wt all, & ꝑ adiuracio come before thine aultare at this house then herkẽ thou vp to heuẽ/ & worke & iudge thy seruaũts/ ꝑ thou cõdempne the wycked to bryg his waye vpõ his heed/ & iustefie ꝑ righteous to geue him according to his rightwelnesse. Whẽ thy people Israel be put to ꝑ worse before their enemyes, because they haue sinned against ꝑ & afterwarde turne agayne to ꝑ & prayse thy name, & praye & make supplicacõ vnto ꝑ in this b house: then heare thou vp to heuẽ & be mercifull vnto ꝑ synne of thy people Israel / & bring thẽ agayne vnto the lande which thou gauest vnto their fathers.

And Hadad gat great fauoure in ỳ syght of Pharao, so that he gaue hym to wyfe the syster of his awne wife, the syster of Thahaphynes the Quene. And ỳ syster of Thahaphynes bare hym Genubath hys sonne. And Thahaphnus wened him in Pharaos house. And he was in Pharaos house amonge the sonnes of Pharao. And when Hadad heard saye in Egipte ỳ Dauid was layde to slepe with his fathers and that Joab the captayne of the host was deed also, he sayde to Pharao let me departe / ỳ I maye go to myne awne coūtreye. Then sayd Pharao vnto him: what lackest thou here wyth me, ỳ thou woldest go to thyne awne countreye? And he sayde/ nothing: how be it let me go. And God stered vp an other aduersary, one Rezon the sonne of Eliada whych fled from Hadadezer kyng of Zobah his master. Which Rezon geathered men vnto him & became captayne ouer the companye, when Dauid slue them. And they went to Damasco and dwelt therin/ & raygned in Damasco. And he was an aduersary to Israel all the dayes of Salomon, & the euell ỳ Hadad did/ whych abhorred Israel and raygned in Syria.

And Jeroboam the sonne of Nabat an E Ephrathite of Zaredah (whose mother was called Zeruah & was a wydowe & he Salomons seruaunt) * lifte vp his hand agayn̄st the kynge. And herof cam it, that he lifte vp his hand agayn̄st the kynge. Salomon bylt Melo & mended broken places in the citie of Dauid hys father. And this felowe Jeroboā was an actiue man. And whē Salomon sawe thē younge man/ that he wrought so lustely in the worke/ he made hym ruler ouer all the charges of the house of Joseph. And it chaūced at ỳ season/ as Jeroboam was gone out of Jerusalem/ that the prophet Ahiah ỳ Silonite mett him by the waye/ hauyng a newe mantell on him/ & they two alone in ỳ felde. And Ahiah caught the new mātell that was on him & rent it in twelue peces, & sayde to Jeroboā. take the ten peces. For this sayth the Lorde God of Israel: behold I wyll rent the kyngdome out of the handes of Salomō and wyll geue ten tribes to the / and he shall haue one, for my seruaunte Dauids sake & for Jerusalem the citie which I haue chosen out of all the tribes of Israel: because they haue forsaken me and haue bowed them selues vnto Asharoth the God of the Zidons, & to Camos the God of the Moabites, and to Milcom the God of the childrē of Ammon/ & haue not walked in my wayes / to do that pleaseth me/ and myne ordynaunces and customes/ as dyd Dauid hys father.

But I will take the kyngdome out of his sonnes hand & will geue vnto the ten tribes of it: and wyll geue his sonne one/ that Dauid my seruaunt maye haue a lyght allwaye before me in Jerusalem, the citie whych I haue chosen me/ to put my name there. And I will take the/ & thou shalt raygne vpon all that thy soule desyreth/ & shalt be kynge ouer Israel. And yf thou shalt herken vnto all that I cōmaunde the/ & shalt walke in my wayes and do that is ryght in my syght / that thou kepe myne ordinaunces & commaundementes as Dauid my seruaunt did: then wyll I be with the and byld the an house that shall contynew / as I bylt for my seruaunt Dauid/ & will geue Israel vnto the. ¶ The xij. Chapter.

AND Reboboam wẽt to Sichem: for all Jsrael were come to Sichem to make him kynge. And when Jeroboam the sonne of Nabat heard of it beyng yet in Egipte: for he fled to Egipte for feare of Salomon/& dwelt in Egipte. And they sent & called hym: and so Jeroboam & all the congregaciõ of Jsrael came & spake vnto Reboboã saying: thy father made oure youcke greuouse / but now make thou the greuouse seruyce of thy father and hys sore youcke whych he put vpon vs / lyghter & so we will serue the. And he sayde vnto thẽ: depart yet for the space of thre dayes/& then come agayne to me. And the people departed.

And kynge Reboboam toke councell with the olde men that stode before Salomon his father, while he yet lyued & sayde: what coũsell geue ye to answere this people with all? And they sayd vnto hym: If thou shalt be a seruaũt vnto this people this daye and serue them & answer thẽ & speke kynde wordes to thẽ: they will be thy seruaũtes for euer. But he lefte the councell ỹ the olde men had geuẽ him & coũceled with the young men ỹ were noury shed vp with him & had wayted on hym

And he sayde vnto them: what councell geue ye/ to answere this people wh all whych haue cõmuned wyth me sayinge: make the youcke whych thy father dyd put vpon vs/ lyghter? And the younge men that were brought vp with hym/ answered him saying this people that haue sayde vnto the: thy father made oure youcke heuye / make thou it vs lyghter: thus answere them. My lyttle fynger shalbe waygbtier then my fathers loynes. And now where my father put a greuouse youcke vpon you / I wyll make it heuyer. For where my father corrected you wyth scourges, I wyll chastyse you wh scorpions. And when Jeroboam: and all ỹ people were come to Reboboam the thyrde daye/ as the kynge apoynted them/ saying/ come to me agayne this daye thre dayes: the kynge answered the people churlysbly and lefte the aduise that olde men gaue him: and spake to them after the councell of the younge men saying. My father made youre youcke greuouse, but I wyll make it greuouser. For where my father chastysed you wh whippes/ I will chastise you with scorpiõs. And so the kynge herkened not vnto the people: for the turnyng away was of ỹ Lord *to perfourme his saying wbych the Lorde sayde by Ahiah ỹ Silonite vnto Jeroboã ỹ sonne of Nabat. iij. Reg. xij.

And when all Jsrael saw that the kynge regarded them not, the people answered the kynge a gayne saying: we haue no parte in Dauid/ nor enheritaunce in ỹ sonne of Jsai. * To youre tẽtes therfore Jsrael & now se to thine awne house Dauid. And so Jsrael departed vnto their tentes. How be it ouer the chyldren of Jsrael which dwelt in the citie of Juda/ did Reboboã raygne styll. Then kyng Reboboam sent Aduram the receauer of the tribute. And all Jsrael stoned hym to deeth wh stones. But kynge Reboboam made spede & gatt hym vp to his charet & fled to Jerusalẽ. And so Jsrael departed frõ the house of Dauid vnto this daye. And whẽ all Jsrael heard that Jeroboam was come agayne/ they sent and called hym vnto the congregacyon and made hym kynge ouer Jsrael: so there folowed the house of Dauid / but the trybe of Juda only. * And when Reboboam was come to Jerusalem, he geathered all the house of Juda and the trybe of Beniamin an hundred and foure skore thousandes of chosen meh and good warryoures/ to fyght agaynst the house of Jsrael/ and to bryng the kyngedome agayne to Reboboam the sonne of Salomon. ij Paral. x. d. ij Paral. xi. a.

Then came the worde of the Lorde vnto Semeiah the man of God saying: speake vnto Reboboam ỹ sonne of Salomon kynge of Juda/ and vnto all the house of Juda and Beniamin/ and the remnaũt of the people & saye. Thus sayth the Lorde: go not nor yet fyght agaynst youre brethren the chyldren of Jsrael/ but returne euery man to hys house/ for this doinge is of ỹ Lord. And they obeyed the worde of the Lorde and returned and departed accordynge to the worde of the Lorde. Then Jeroboam bylt Sichem in moune Ephraim/ and dwelt therin. And went from thence and bylt Phanuel.

And Jeroboam thought in hys hert: now might the kyngdome returne to the house of Dauid agayne. For yf thys people shall go vp & do sacrifice in the house of the Lorde at Jerusalẽ/ then shal their hertes turne againe vnto their Lorde Reboboam kynge of Juda. And so shall they kyll me and go agayne to Reboboã kyng of Juda.* Wherupõ ỹ kynge toke councell and made two calues of golde and and layde vnto the people: ye shall not neade to go any moare to Jerusalē. Beholde youre Gods Israel whych brought you out of the lande of Egipte. And he put the one in Bethel

C and the other in Dan. And that doynge was a cause of synne. And the people went before the one as farre as Dan. And he made houses of hillaultares / & made of the lowest of the people preastes which were not of ỳ sonnes of Leui. And Jeroboam made a feast the. xv daye of the. viij. moneth / lyke vnto the feast that was in Juda / and offered on the aultare. And so did he in Bethel / to offer vnto the calues that he had made. And he put in Bethel ỳ preastes of the hyllaultares / whych he had made. And he offered vpon the alter whyche he had made in Bethel / the. xv. daye of the viij. moneth / which he had imagened of hys awne hert: and made a solempne feast vnto the childrē of Israel / and went vp to the aultare to burne sacrifyce.

C Jeroboam sacrifying vnto Calues is reprehended of the Prophete. His hand dryeth vp while he putteth it oute agaynst the Prophete. The Prophet is kylled and buryed.

C The. xiij. Chapter.

And beholde / there came a man of God out of Juda wyth the woorde of God, to Bethel / as Jeroboam stode by the aulter to offer, & cryed agaynst the aultare at the cōmaundemēt of the Lorde and sayde: aultare / aultare / thus sayth the Lord. Beholde a chylde shall be borne of ỳ house of Dauid / Josiah by name / which vpon the shall offer the preastes of the hillaultares that sacrifyce vpon the / & shall burne mennes bones vpon the. And he gaue them the same tyme a sygne sayinge: thys is the sygne of that the Lorde hath promesed. Behold the aulter shall rent and the asshes
B that are in it shall falle out.

And when the kynge hearde the saying of the man of God whych he cryed agaynst the aulter in Bethel / he stretched out his hande from the aultare sayinge: hold him. And hys hand whych he put forth toward him / dryed vp / ỳ he coulde not pull it in agayne to hym & the aulter claue and the asshes rāne out of the aulter accordynge to the token whych ỳ man of God had geuen at the cōmaundemēt of the Lorde. And the kyng answered & sayde vnto the man of God: Oh praye vnto ỳ Lord thy God & make intercession for me / that my hand maye be restored me agayne. And the man of God besought the Lorde / & his hande came to him agayne as well as before.

Then sayde the kynge vnto ỳ man of God: come home wyth me and refre she thy selfe / & I wyll geue the a rewarde. But the man of God answered ỳ kynge / yf thou woldest geue me halfe thyne houfe / I wold not go with ỳ nether would I eate meate or dryncke water in this place. For so was it charged me / thorow the worde of God & sayd to me: eate no bred nor drynck water nor turne agayne by the same waye thou wentest. And so he went a nother waye and returned not by the waye he came to Bethel. And there dwelt an olde prophet in Bethel / whose sonnes came and tolde him all ỳ workes that the man of God had done that daye in Bethel / and the wordes which he spake vnto ỳ kynge they tolde their father also. And their father sayde to them: what waye went he? for hys sonnes had sene what waye the man of God went whiche came from Juda. Then sayde he to his sonnes: sadle mine Asse. And they sadled him an Asse. And he gatt him vp theron and went after ỳ man of God / and founde him syttynge vnder an Oke & sayde vnto hym: art thou the man of God ỳ camest frō Juda? And he sayde, ye.
D Then he sayde to him: come home with me and eate breade. And the other sayde agayne I maye not returne with the / to go wyth the / nether maye I eate breade or drynck water with the in this place. For it was sayde to me by the cōmaundement of the Lorde / eate no bred nor drynck water in thys place / nor turne agayne by the waye thou wētest. And the olde prophet sayde vnto him: I am a prophet as well as thou / & an Angel spake vnto me with ỳ worde of the Lorde saying: bringe him agayne with the to thyne house / and lett him eate bred and drincke water / & pretyed vnto him. And so the other went agayne with him & ate bred in his house & dranck water.

And as they sate at the table / the worde of the Lorde came vnto the prophete ỳ brought him agayne. And he cryed vnto the man of
E God that came frō Juda / sayinge: thus sayth the Lorde: because thou hast dysobeyed the the mouth of ỳ Lorde / & hast not kept the cōmaundement which ỳ Lorde thy God cōmaunded the / but camest backe agayne & hast eatē breed and dronck water in the place in whiche he bade ỳ thou shuldest eate no bred nor drincke water: therfore thy carkasse shal not come vnto the sepulchre of thy fathers.

And when he had eaten bred & dronck / he sadled an Asse for the prophete whiche he had brought agayne. And as he iourneyed a lyō mett him by the waye and slue him / & his carkasse lay a longe in ỳ waye & the Asse stode therby / & the Lyon stode by the coorse also. And men that passed by / sawe ỳ carkasse cast
F a longe in the waye and the lyon standynge therby / and went and tolde it in the towne where the olde prophet dwelt. And when the prophete ỳ brought hym backe agayne frō the waye, hearde therof, he sayde: it is the mā of God

of God whiche dysobeyed ỹ mouth of ỹ Lord. And therfore the Lorde hath delyuered hym vnto the Lyon whiche hath rent him & slayne hym / accordynge to the worde of the Lorde / which he sayde to hym. And he sayde to hys sonnes: sadle me an Asse: & so they did. And he wēt & founde the bodye cast alonge in ỹ waye and the Asse and the lyon standynge therbye. And the Lyon had not eaten the carkasse nor ❡ hurt the Asse. And he toke vp the bodye of the man of God & put it vpon the Asse & brought it agayne / & came to the cytye of the old prophete to lament hym / and to burye him. And he layde his bodye in hys awne graue / & la-
* Understand mēted ouer him / Oh my brother.* And when saying. he had buryed hym / he spake to hys sonnes saying: when I am deed / se that ye burye me in the sepulchre wherin ỹ man of God is buryed / and laye my bones by his. For ỹ saying which he cryed at the byddyng of the Lorde agaynst the aultare in Bethel / and agaynst all the houses of hillaultares which are in ỹ cities of Samarie / shall come to passe.

How be it for all that / Jeroboam turned not frō hys wycked waye: but turned awaye & made of the lowest of the people prestes of the hillaultares. Whosoeuer wolde / he filled their handes / & they became prestes of ỹ hillaultares. And this doyng was synne vnto the house of Jeroboam / euē to destroye it and to put it awaye from of the face of the erthe.

¶ The .xiiij. Chapter.

IN that tyme Abiah ỹ sonne of Jeroboam fell sicke. And Jeroboam sayde vnto his wife: vp a felowshipe & chaūge thyne apparell ỹ thou be not knowen to be the wyfe of Jeroboam / and get the to Silo. For there is Ahiah the Prophete whych tolde me* that I shulde be kynge ouer this people.* And take wyth the ten loues and crackenelles and a cruse of honye / and go to him: for he wyll tell the what shall come of the lad. And Jeroboams wyfe did so: she arose and went to Silo and came to the house of Ahiah. But Ahiah coulde not see / for his eyes were waxen dymme for age.

And the Lorde sayde vnto Ahiah: beholde / the wyfe of Jeroboam cometh / to question wyth the about her sonne whych is sycke. ❡ This wyse and thys wyfe answere her. And when she came / she feyned her selfe to be a nother woman. But when Ahiah hearde the sounde of her fete as she came to the doore / he sayde: come in thou wyfe of Jeroboam / why feynest thou thy selfe to be a nother? I am sent to the a cruel messenger.

Go and tell Jeroboam / thus sayth the Lorde God of Israel: for as moche as I exalted the from amonge the comen people and made the prince ouer my people Israel / and dyd rēt the kyngdome awaye from the house of Dauid and gaue it the: and thou hast not bene as was my seruaunt Dauid / whyche kept my commaundemētes and folowed me wyth all hys herte / to do that onlye whyche semeth ryght in myne eyes: but hast done euell aboue all that were before the / and hast gone and made the other Gods and images of metall / to prouoke me / and hast cast me behynde thy backe: therfore beholde I wyll brynge euell vpon the house of Jeroboam ❡ and wyll stryke from Jeroboam all that* pisseth agaynst the wall / and what soeuer is 3. Reg. xvi. d. in preson or forsaken in Israel / and wyll take awaye the remnaunt of the house of Jeroboam / as men take awaye a dong hyll' 14. How be it all Israell shall mourne hym and burye hym / for thys only of all Jeroboam shall come to the sepulchre / because in hym there is founde goodnesse towarde the Lorde God of Israel in the house of Jeroboam.

Moreouer the Lorde shall stere hym vp a kynge ouer Israel whych shall destroye the house of Jeroboam in that daye. And what is that that is now in hande? And the Lorde shall smyte Israel / as a reede that groweth in the water is shaken / and wyll wede Israel out of this good lande which he gaue to their fathers / and wyll shatter thē beyonde Euphrates / because they haue made them groues to angre the Lorde. And he wyll geue Israell vp / because of the synne of Jeroboam wherwyth he dyd synne and made Israel synne therto.

And Jeroboams wyfe arose and departed ❡ and went to Therzah / and be that she was come to the tresholde of the doore / ỹ lad was deed. And all Israel buryed hym and lamented hym / according to the woorde of ỹ Lorde whyche he spake by the hand of his seruaunt Ahiah the Prophete. ¶ Iehu prophesyeth agaynst Baasa/ of whom he is slayne. Elah succedeth Baasa. Zameri sylleth his master Elah and destroyeth the house of Baasa. he is rebelle and Amri chosen. Zameri burneth hym selfe and hys house. Wycked Ahab succedeth Amri and taketh to wyfe wycked Jezabel.

¶ The. xvi. Chapter.

Then came the woorde of ỹ Lorde to Iehu the sonne of Hanani against Baasa saying: for as moche as I exalted the out of the dust & made ỹ capitayne ouer my people Israel/ and thou hast walked in the waye of Jeroboam & hast made my people Israel synne/to angre me wt their synne: therfore I wyll make cleane riddance of Baasa & of all his house/ and wyll make his house like the house of Jeroboam ỹ sonne of Nabat.* And he ỹ dyeth of Baasa in the citie/him shall dogges eate: and him ỹ dieth in the feldes/ shall the fowles of the ayre eate.

*iij. Reg. xvij. c. and. xxij.

The rest of the deades of Baasa/ & what he dyd and his power, are writtē in the boke of the hystories of the kynges of Israel. And Baasa fell on slepe wyth hys fathers & was buried in Therzah. And Elah his sonne raygned in hys steade. And therto thorow the Prophete Iehu the sonne of Hanani/ the woorde of the Lorde came agaynst Baasa and agaynst hys house/ because of all the wyckednesse that he dyd in the syght of the Lorde/ in angeryng hym wyth the workes of his handes/that he shulde be lyke ỹ house of Jeroboam/because he had kylled Nabat.

¶ The. xvi. yere of Asa kynge of Juda begāne Elah ỹ sonne of Baasa to raygne ouer Israel in Therzah, and continued two yere. And hys seruaunt Zamri capitayne of halfe hys charettes/conspired agaynst hym/as he was in Therzah drynckynge of stronge dryncke/in the house of Arza stuard of hys house in Therzah. And Zamri came and smote hym and kylled hym the. xxvij. yere of Asa kynge of Juda and raygned in his steade. And as sone as he was kynge and* satt on hys seate/ he slue all the house of Baasa and lefte not a piser agaynst a wall. *iij. Reg. v. b.

And therto he slue all hys kynne and frendes/ and so Zamri destroyed all the house of Baasa/ accordynge to the woorde of the Lorde whyche he spake to Baasa thorow Iehu the Prophet, for all the sinnes of Baasa and synnes of Elah hys sonne/ wherwyth they synned & made Israel synne/to angre ỹ Lorde of Israel wt their vanities. The rest of the deades of Elah & all he did/are written in the chronycles of the kynges of Israel.

¶ The. xxvij. yere of Asa kynge of Juda/ Zamri raygned. vij. dayes in Therzah/ the people beīgyng Gebethō a citie of the Philistines. And when the people that laye in the seage/hearde saye how Zamri had cōspired/ and how he had slayne the kyng also: then all Israell made Amri the captayne of the men of warre kynge that same daye ouer Israel euen in the hoste. And Amri departed from Gebethon and all Israel wyth hym/ and beseaged Therzah. And when Zamri saw that the citie must nedes be takē/ he went into the palayse of the kynges house/ and set the kinges house a fyre vpon hym selfe and there dyed/ for hys synnes whych he synned in doynge wyckednesse in the syght of the Lorde/ and for walkynge in the waye of Jeroboam and in hys synnes whych he dyd and made Israel synne.

The rest of the Actes of Zamri and the treason that he wrought/ are wrytten in the boke of the chronicles of the kynges of Israel. Moreouer that same season was Israel deuyded in twayne/ for halfe the people folowed Thebni the sonne of Gineth/to make hym kynge. And the other halfe folowed Amri. But the people that folowed Amri/ preuayled agaynst thē that folowed Thebni the sonne of Gineth. And so Thebni dyed and Amri raygned.

The. xxvi

The.xxxi yere of Asa kynge of Juda/ beganne Amri to raygne ouer Israel.xij.yere & he ruled.vi yere in Therzah. And he bought the hill of Samaria of one Semar for two hundred talentes of syluer/& bylt in the hill/ and called the name of the citie whych he had built Samaria after the name of Semar ỳ Lorde of ỳ hill. And this Amri wrought wickednesse in the eyes of the Lorde worse then all that were before him/and walked in all ỳ wayes of Jeroboam the sonne of Nabat/and in his synne wherwith he made Israel sinne/ to angre the Lorde God of Israel wyth their vanyties. The rest of the actes of Amri which he did, and his power that he shed are wrytten in the chronicles of ỳ kynges of Israel. And Amri layde him to rest wyth his fathers/and was buryed in Samaria/and Ahab his sonne raygned in his stede.

The.xxxviij. yere of Asa kynge of Juda/ beganne Ahab the sonne of Amri to raygne ouer Israel/ and raygned in Samaria.xxij. yere. And he displeased the Lorde aboue all ỳ were before him. For it semed him a lyght thynge to walke in the synne of Jeroboam. But toke Jezabel the daughter of Ethbaal kynge of the Sidonites to wyfe, and * wēt & serued Baal and bowed vnto him. And he rered an aultare to Baal in the house of Baal whych he had made in Samaria. And Ahab made a groue/and proceded ferther in angering the Lorde God of Israel/ then all the kynges of Israel that were before hym.

And the woorde of God came to him saying: gett the hence and turne the estwarde/& hyde thy selfe in the brooke Karith that lyeth before Jordan: dryncke of the ryuer for I haue cōmaunded the rauens to fede the there. And he went and dyd accordynge vnto the woorde of the Lorde: he went & dwelt by the brooke Karith that lyeth before Jordan. And the rauens brought hym bred and flesh euery morning and euery euenyng / and he dranke of the brooke. And it chaūced after a while that ỳ brooke dried vp/because ther fell no rayne vpon the erth. Then came the woorde of the Lorde vnto him sayinge: * vp and gett the to Sarephtha a citie of Sidon / & dwell there. Beholde I haue cōmaunded a wydowe there to sustayne the. And he arose & went to Sarephtha. And whē he came to the gate of the citie / there was a wedow there geatherynge stickes. And he called to her & sayde: * fet me I praye the / a lytle water in a dyshe that I maye drynke. And as she went to fett it/ he cryed to her and sayde: bringe me I praye the/a morsell of breed in thyne hande. And she answered: as surely as the Lorde thy God liueth/I haue no breed/ but euen an handfull of Mele in a pitcher / and a lyttle Oyle in a cruse. And se, I haue geathered a few stickes for to go and bake it for me and my sonne/& we maye eate it and then die.

And Eliah sayde vnto her: feare not / but go and do as thou hast sayde: but make me therof a lyttle cake fyrst of all / and bryng it out to me: and afterwarde make for the and thy sonne. For thus sayth the Lorde God of Israel: ỳ pitcher of Mele shall not be wasted nether shall thy oyle cruse be wyth out oyle/ vntyll the Lorde haue sent rayne vpon the erthe. And she wēt and dyd as Eliah bad. And she and he & her house dyd eate a good space/ & the pitcher of mele wasted not nether was the oyle cruse without oyle accordynge to ỳ woorde of the Lorde whych he spake thorow Eliah.

And after these thynges/it happened that the sonne of the wyfe of the house fell sicke. And his sickenesse was so sore, that there was no breath left in him. Then saide she vnto Eliah what haue I to do with the / O thou man of God: art thou come vnto me/that my synne shulde be thought on & my sonne slayne? And Eliah sayde vnto her: geue me thy sonne. And he toke him out of her lappe and carved him vp into a lofte where he laye/& layde him vpon hys awne bed / and called vnto the Lorde and sayde: O Lorde my God/hast thou bene so euell vnto the wedowe wyth whome I soiourne/that thou hast slayne her sonne? * And he stretched hym selfe vpō the lad thre tymes and called vnto the Lorde and sayde: O Lorde my God / let the ladds soule come into hym agayne. And the Lorde heard the voyce of Eliah/and the soule of the lad came into hym agayne and he reuyued. And Eliah toke the boye and brought hym downe out of the chambre into the house and delyuered hym vnto his mother and sayde: se, thy sonne lyueth. Then the wyfe sayde to Eliah: now I know that thou art Gods man / and that the woorde of the Lorde in thy mouth, is truthe.

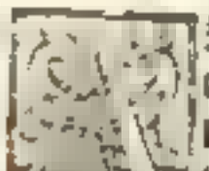
¶ The

Abdiah
Jezabel

¶ Eliah is sent to Ahab. Abdiah hydeth an hundred Prophetes and feedeth them. Baal can not brenge all thorowe the people crye they crye loude. Eliah sleeth all Baals Prophetes; and after obtayneth rayne.

¶ The.xviij. Chapter.



And at the last the woorde of the Lorde came to Eliah the thyrde yere sayenge: go shewe thy selfe vnto Ahab/ that I may sende rayne vpon the erthe And Eliah went to shewe himselfe vnto Ahab/ for there was a great famyne hemet in Samaria. Wherfore Ahab called Abdiah the gouerner of his house: why the Abdiah feared God greatlye: in so moche that when Jezabell destroyed the Prophetes of the Lorde he toke an hundred of the Prophetes & hid them fiftie in one caue & fyftye in a nother, & prouyded bred & water for them. And Ahab sayde vnto Abdiah: walke thorowe the lande / vnto all fountaynes of water and vnto all brokes, to se whether any grasse maye be founde, that we maye saue the horses and the Mules, that we destroye not the beastes. And they deuyded the lande betwene them to walke thorowe it. Ahab went one waye by hym selfe, and Abdiah went a nother by hym selfe.

B And it chaunced as Abdiah went in the waye that Eliah mett him. And Abdiah knewe hym & fell on his face and sayde: art not thou my Lorde Eliah. And he sayd vnto him: I am he. Go and tell Ahab that Eliah is here. And the other answered: what haue I synned that thou woldest deliuer me into the hand of Ahab, to slee me? As surelye as the Lorde thy God liueth there is no nacyon or kyngdome, whether my Lorde hath not sent to seke the. And when they sayde thou wast not there, he tooke an othe of the kyngdome & nacyon / because he found the not. And now thou sayest: goo tell thy Lorde/ Eliah is here. And as sone as I am gone fro the/ the spyrite of the Lorde shall carye the awaye whether I shal not knowe: & then when I haue gone & tolde Ahab/ & then he can not fynde the, he shall slee me. And yet I thy seruaunt haue feared the Lorde fro my youthe age. Was it not tolde my lorde/ what I dyd/ when Jezabell slue the Prophetes of the Lord how I hydde an hundred of the Lordes Prophetes/ fyftie in one caue & as many in another/ & prouyded them of bred & water? And yet now thou sayest/ goo shewe thy Lorde/ the Eliah is here/ that he shulde slee me.

Then Eliah sayde: as truly as the Lorde of Hostes liueth before whome I stande: I will shewe my selfe vnto hym this daye. And ther vpon Abdiah went to Ahab & tolde hym. And Ahab went agaynst Eliah. And when Ahab sawe Eliah/ he sayd vnto him: art thou he that troubleth Israel? And he sayde: it is not I that trouble Israel, but thou & thy fathers howse, in that ye haue forsaken the commaundementes of the Lorde, & hast folowed Baal. But now sende and gather to me all Israel vnto mount Carmel & the Prophetes of Baal foure hundred and fiftie/ & the Prophetes of the groues foure hundred / whiche eate of Jezabels table. And Ahab sent for all the chyldren of Israel and gathered the Prophetes vnto mount Carmel.

To forsake the commaundementes of God. is to trouble the people of God.

And Eliah came vnto all the people and sayde: why halte ye betwene two opynyons? If the Lorde be very God/ folowe hym: or if Baal be he then folowe hym. And the people answered hym not one woorde. Then sayde Eliah vnto the people: I only remayne of the Lordes Prophetes & Baals Prophetes are foure hundred and fyftie. Let two oxen be geuen vs/ and let them chose the one & cut hym in peces and laye hym on wood / and put no fyre vnder/ And I wyll dresse the other & put him on wood / & wyll put no fyre vnder. And call ye on the name of youre God/ & I wyll call on the name of the Lorde. And then the God that answereth by fyre he is the very God.

E And all the people sayde: it is well spoken. 1. Reg. xviij. e.

Then sayd Eliah vnto the Prophetes of Baal/ chose you an oxe and dresse hym fyrst (for ye are many) and call on the name of youre God/ but put no fyre vnder. And they toke the oxe that was geuen them & dressed it/ & called on the name of Baal from morning to none saying: O Baal heare vs. But there was no voyce nor answere. And they lepte aboute the aulter they had made. And at none Eliah mocked them and sayde: call lowde (for he is a God: but he is talkynge or occupyed/ or in the waye/ or happely he sleepeth) that he may awake. And they cryed lowde/ and cut them selues/ as their maner was/ with knyues & launcers/ tyll the bloude folowed on them. And when mydday was passed they prophesyed vntyll it was tyme to offer. But there was nether voyce ner answere ner any that regarded them.

F Then Eliah sayde to all the folke: come to me. And all the people came to hym. And he mended the aulter of the Lorde that was broke. *And he toke .xij. stones accordynge to the nombre of the .xij. trybes of the sonnes of Jacob/ vnto whom the woorde of the Lord came sayenge: *Israel shalbe thy name. And with the stones he made an aultare in the name of the Lorde. And he made a gutter rounde about the aulter/ able to receaue two peckes of corne. And he put the wood in order/ and hewed the oxe in peces / and put hym on the wood/ & sayde: fyll foure pitchers with water and powre it on the sacrifyce and on the wood. And he sayde: do so agayne. And they dyd so agayne. Then he sayde: do it the thyrde tyme. And they did so ꝑ thirde tyme. And the water ranne rounde about the aulter / & the gutter was full of water also.

And whē offeryng tyme was come / Eliah the prophete went to & sayde: Lorde God of Abraham / Isaac & of Israel / let it be knowē this daye, that thou art the God in Israel, & ꝑ I am thy seruaūt / & ꝑ I do all these things at thy cōmaundement. Heare me O Lorde / heare me / that this people maye knowe / that thou Lorde / art ꝑ God / & that thou hast turned their hertes backwarde. And there fell fire frō the Lorde & consumed the sacrifyce & the wood & the stones & the dust / & licked vp ꝑ water that was in the gutter. And whē all ꝑ people saw ꝑ, they fell on their faces & sayde ꝑ Lorde he is God ꝑ Lorde he is God. Then sayde Eliah vnto thē, laye handes on ꝑ Prophets of Baal, let not one of thē escape. And when they had taken thē, Eliah brought thē downe vnto ꝑ brooke Kison & slue thē there.

Then Eliah sayde vnto Ahab / gett the vp and eate and drynke / for ther is a sounde of moche rayne. And when Ahab wēt vp to eate and to drynke / Eliah went vp to the toppe of moūt Carmel. * And bowed him selfe to ꝑ erthe, and put his face betwene hys knees, & sayde to his seruaunt: go vp & looke towarde the see. And he went vp and loked / and saide: here is nothing. And he sayde go agayne. vij tymes. And the seuenth tyme he sayde: beholde / there ariseth a lyttle cloude out of the see / lyke the palme of a mannes hande. Then he sayde: go and saye to Ahab / put the hozses in the charet, and gett the downe that the rayne stoppe ꝑ not. And within a lytle while / heuē was blacke with cloudes and winde / & there was a great rayne. And Ahab rode & went to Jezrahel. And the hand of the Lorde was on Eliah / & he gyrded vp his lopnes & rāne before Ahab / tyll they came to Jezrahel.

¶ Eliah fleing from Jezabel is nourished of the Angell of God. He complayneth that he is left a lone and that they seke his life too. He is cōmaunded to annoynte Azahel / Jehu and Eliseus.

¶ The. xix. Chapter.

AND Ahab tolde Jezabel all ꝑ Eliah had done, and all to gether how he had slayne the Prophetes with the swerde. Then Jezabel sent a messenger vnto Eliah sayinge: * so do God to me & so therto / except I make thy soule like one of theirs, by to morow this tyme: whē he saw ꝑ / he arose & wēt for his life / & came to Bersabe in Juda / & left his lad there. And he wēt a dayes Journey into the wyldernesse / & whē he was come sate downe vnder a Ginaper tree / & desired for his soule / ꝑ he might die / & sayde, * it is now ynough O Lorde / take my soule, for I am not better then my fathers.

Jon. iij. c.

And as he laye and slepte vnder the Ginaper tree: beholde / there came an Angell & touched hym / & sayde vnto him: vp and eate. And he looked aboute hym: and se / there was a lofte of bryyled breade and a cruse of water at his heed. And he ate and dranke and layde hym downe agayne to slepe. And the Angell of the Lorde came agayne the seconde tyme and touched hym / & sayde: vp & eate / for thou hast a longe Journeye to go. And he arose & dyd eate & dryncke and went in the strenght of that meate fourtye dayes & fourtye nyghtes / vnto Horeb the mount of God / & entred there vnto a caue & lodged there all nyght.

And then ꝑ woorde of ꝑ Lord came to him & sayde what doest thou here, Eliah? And he answered: I haue bene * thorow angrye for ꝑ Lorde God of Hostes sake. For the chyldren of Israel haue forsake thy couenant, & haue broke downe thine aulters & slayne the Prophetes with the swerde & I only am lefte & they seke my soule to haue it too. And he sayd come out & stande before the Lorde. And beholde, the Lorde went by & a mightie strōge wynde that rent the mountaynes & brake ꝑ rockes before him. But ꝑ Lorde was not in the wynde. And after the winde came an erthquake. But the Lorde was not in the erthequake. And after the erthequake came fire: but the Lorde was not in the fyre. And after the fyre, came a small still voyce. And when Eliah herde it, he couered his face with hys mantle, & went out & stode in the mouth of ꝑ caue. And se, there came a voyce vnto hym & sayde: what doest thou here Eliah? And he answered: I was gelouse for the Lorde God of Hostes sake: because ꝑ children of Israel haue forsaken thyne appoyntment and haue cast downe thyne aulters & slayne thy prophetes with ꝑ swerde / & I only am lefte / & they seke my soule to haue it. Then ꝑ Lorde sayde vnto him: go and turne thy waye to the wildernesse of Damasco / & go and annoynte Hazael to be kynge of Syria. And Jehu the sonne of Namsi / annoynte to be kynge ouer Israel. And Eliseus the sonne of Saphat of Abel Mehulah annoynte to be Prophete in thy rowme. And who so escapeth ꝑ swerde of Hazael / him shall Jehu slaye: & yf any mā scape the swerde of Jehu, hym shall Eliseus slaye. And therto I haue lefte me seuē thousande in Israel of which neuer man bowed his knees vnto * Baal nor kissed him with his mouthe.

* Anger is not here take for sinne as is betwene enemies but for the ꝓcess & deth of feruent loue as when ꝑ father wrangle with ꝑ sonne not because he wolde him euell: but therwith shewed that he loueth hym better for in correctyng him he ꝓuydeth that he fal not to do worse. So the anger Iehu had for Jezabel his mother had plucked also Ahab from the worshippyng of Baal.

And he departed thence and founde Eliseus the sonne of Saphat plowynge with twelue yocke of oxen before him, & he with the twelue. And Eliah wēt to him & cast his mātell vpon hym. And he lefte the oxen & ranne after Eliah & sayde: let me I praye the / kysse my father & mother / & then I will folow the.

¶ The fyrst and seconde tyme that Samaria was besieged of Benhadad kyng of Syria.

¶ The.xx. Chapter.

AND Benhadad kyng of Syria gathered all hys hoste to gether / and xxxij. kynges with hym / with horse and charet: and went vp & besieged Samaria & warred agaynst it. And he sent messengers to Ahab kynge of Israel into the cytye / and sayde vnto hym: thus sayth Benhadad. Thy syluer and thy goulde is myne / & the best of thy wiues / and the best of thy children be myne. And ỳ kynge of Israel answered and sayde: my Lorde kynge accordyng to thy sayyng / I am thyne with all I haue.

And the messengers came agayne to Ahab and sayde: thus sayth Benhadad. I haue therfore sent vnto the / sayinge: delyuer me then thy syluer and thy goulde / and thy wiues / & thy children. Or else I wyll sende my seruauntes vnto the by to morow this tyme: & they shall serche thyne house, & the houses of thy seruauntes / which shall take all that is gloryous in thyne eyes / and bryng it awaye with them. Then the kinge of Israel sent for the elders of the lande and sayed: take hede I praye you & se / how thys felow goeth about mischeue. For he sent vnto me / for my wyues and my children / and my syluer and my goulde: and I denyed hym nothyng of it. And all the elders of Israel & all the people sayde: herken not to him nor consent.

Wherupon he sayde vnto the messengers of Benhadad: tell my Lorde the kynge / all that he sent for the fyrst tyme / that I will do: but this request I maye not do. And the messengers departed and brought hym woorde.

Then Benhadad sent vnto hym and sayde: thus do the Gods to me and so therto / yf the dust of Samaria be ynoughe for all ỳ people that folow me / that euery man maye haue an handfull. And the kynge of Israel answered and sayde: tell hym / let not hym that putteth on his harneſſe boste hym selfe / as he ỳ putteth it of *. And when Benhadad harde that tydynges / as he and the kynges were drynckyng in the pauilyons / he sayde vnto his seruauntes: put ye in araye. And they put them selues in araye agaynst the cytye.

* Understande after the victorye obtayned.

¶ And beholde there came a Prophet vnto Ahab kynge of Israel, and sayde to him: thus sayth the Lorde. Seyst thou all this great multitude: beholde / I wyll delyuer them into thyne hande this daye / that thou mayst knowe that I am the Lorde. And Ahab sayde / by whome? And he sayde thus sayth the Lorde: euen by the men of the gouernoures of the shires. And Ahab sayde: who shall ioyne batayle? And he sayde / thou. Then he nombred the men of the gouerners of the shires: and they were two hundred and.xxxij. And after them he nombred all the people / and all the chyldren of Israel were seuen thousande. And they went out at none when Benhadad was a drynckyng stronge dryncke in the pauylyons wyth the.xxxij. kynges that holpe hym. And the men of the shyres of the shires went out fyrst.

And Benhadad sent out / and they shewed him saying: there came mē out of Samaria. And he sayde: yf they come out for peace / take thē a lyue. And also yf they come for warre, take them yet a lyue. And when those mē of the shyres of the shires were come out of the cytie and ỳ Host after thē / they slue euery one of them hys man. And the Syriens fled / and Israel folowed after them. And Benhadad the kynge of Syria scaped on a horse wt his horsemen. And the kynge of Israel went out and smote horse and charett / and slue a great slaughter of the Syrians.

Then there came a Prophete to the kinge of Israel / and sayde to him: go forthe & make the man / be wyse and take hede what thou doest: for when the yere is about / the kynge of Syria will come agaynst ỳ agayne. Then sayde the seruauntes of the kynges of Syria to him: the Gods of ỳ hilles are theire Gods / and therfore they had the better of vs. But let vs fyght wyth them in the playne, and for what ye will / we shall haue the better of thē. And this do: take ỳ kynges awaye euery mā out of his place & put dukes in their rowme. And do thou nōbre ỳ an hoste / like ỳ host that thou hast loste, & horse for horse & charet for charet / & let vs fyght wt thē in ỳ playne / & for a wager / we gett ỳ better of thē. And ỳ kinge herkened vnto their voyce and dyd euen so.

And as sone as the yere was aboute / Benhadad nōbred ỳ Syriens & went vp to Aphek to warre with Israel. And the children of Israel were nombred & prouyded of vitayle / & went agaynst them / and pitched before them lyke two lytle flockes of kydes: but the Syrians fylled the countreye. Then there came a man of God & sayde vnto ỳ kynge of Israel thus sayth the Lorde. Because the Syriens saye / ỳ the Lorde is but a God of the hilles & not God of the valeys therfore will I deliuer all this great multitude into thine hande that ye maye knowe ỳ I am the Lorde. And they pitched one ouer agaynst the other.vij. dayes / and the seuenth daye ioyned batayle.

Benhadad. And the children of Israel slue of the Syrias an hundred thousand fote men in one daye. And the rest fled to Aphek into the cytie. And there fell a walle vpō .xxvij. thousande of the that were lefte. And Benhadad fled and went into the cytie/from chambre to chambre.

Then sayde his seruauntes vnto hym: beholde/we haue hearde saye/that the kynges of the house of Israel are mercifull kynges. Let vs put sacke cloth about oure Loynes & ropes about oure heedes/& go out to ỹ kynge of Israel: happlye he wyll saue thy lyfe. And they guirded sacke clothe aboute their loyns & put ropes aboute theire heedes/& wēt out to the kynge of Israel & sayde: thy seruaunt Benhadad sayth/I praye ỹ let me lyue. And he sayde: is he yet a lyue? what he is my brother. And they toke ỹ woorde for good lucke & hastely caught it out of his mouth & sayde: yee thy brother Benhadad. Then he sayde: go and bringe him. And Benhadad came out to hym/and the other toke him vp into the charett. And Benhadad sayde: the cytyes whych my father toke frō thy father/I wyll restore agayne. And thou shalt make streates for the in Damasco/as my father dyd in Samaria. And I wyll make an apoyntment wyth the and sent the awaye. And so made an appoyntment wyth hym and sent hym awaye.

Then a certen man of the chyldren of the Prophetes sayde vnto his felow with ỹ worde of the Lorde smyte me I praye the. And ỹ man wold not smyte him. And he sayde/because thou hast not obeyed ỹ voyce of ỹ Lord: beholde/as sone as thou art departed frō me

And the mā gaue him a good stripe & wounded him. And ỹ Prophete wēt forthe & waited for ỹ kynge by ỹ waye & put asshes vpō his eyes/and put hym selfe out of knowledge. And whē ỹ king came by/ he cryed vnto him & sayde: thy seruaunt went out in ỹ middes of ỹ battell. And se/there was one beganne to flee. And there cam a man to me & sayde: kepe this mā. And yf he be missed thy lyfe shall go for hys/or else thou shalt paye a talent of syluer. And as thy seruaunt had here & there to do/he was gone. And the kyng of Israel sayde vnto hī: euē so shall thy iudgemēt be as thou hast demed it thy selfe

And he hasted & toke the asshes awaye frō his eyes: & the kynge of Israel knew him/ ỹ he was of the Prophetes. And he sayde vnto ỹ kinge/thus sayth ỹ Lorde: because thou hast lett go a mā that ought to haue dyed thy lyfe shall go for his lyfe & thy people for his. And ỹ kyng of Israel wēt to his house wayward and heuye/and entred into Samaria.

Jezabel comaundeth to kyll Naboth/for ỹ vyneyard that he refused to sell Ahab. Helias reproueth Ahab and he repenteth.

The .xxi. Chapter.

After these thynges were done/it chaunced that Naboth the Jezrahelite had a vyneyarde in Jezrahel harde by ỹ palace of Ahab kynge of Samaria. And Ahab spake vnto Naboth sayinge: let me haue thy vyneyarde/to make me a gardē of herbes therof/because it lyeth so nye my house: and I wyll geue the a better vyneyarde for it: or yf it playse the I will geue the/the worthe of it in syluer. But Naboth sayde to Ahab: the Lorde forbyde that from me/that I shulde geue the enheritaūce of my fathers vnto the.

Then went Ahab vnto hys house wayward and euell apayde/because of the wordes whych Naboth the Jezrahelite had spoken to hym saying: I wyll not geue to the/ the enheritaunce of my fathers. And he layde hym downe vpon hys beed and turned awaye hys face/and wolde eate no meate. And then Jezabell hys wyfe came to hym/ and sayde vnto hym: why art thou so frowarde/that thou eatest no meate? And he sayde vnto her/I spake vnto Naboth the Jezrahelite/and sayde vnto him: geue me thy vyneyarde for syluer/or elle yf thou wylt/I wyll geue the a nother vyneyarde for it. And he sayde: I wyll not geue the my vyneyarde.

Then sayde Jezabell hys wyfe vnto hym: what a goodlye kyngedome were thou able to make in Israel: vp & eate meate & set thyne hert at rest for I will geue ỹ the vyneyarde of Naboth the Jezrahelite. And she wrote a letter in Ahabs name & sealed it wt his seale/ & sent it vnto the elders & chefe men of his cytie that dwelt where Naboth dwelt. And she wrote in ỹ letter sayinge: proclayme fastyng and sett Naboth on hye amonge the people/ and sett two vnthryftes before hym/& let thē testifye agaynst hym sayinge: thou dydest curse both God and the kynge. And vpō that carye hym out and stone hym to deeth.

And ỹ elders & nobles of his cytie/whyche dwelt in his cytie did as Jezabel had sent vnto thē/& as it was writtē in ỹ letter which she had sent vnto them. They proclamed fastynge, & sett Naboth an hie amōge the people/& there came in two vnthryfftie persones & sate before him. And ỹ two vnthryftie persons witnessed agaynst Naboth before ỹ people sayīg Naboth did curse God & ỹ kinge. *And vpō ỹ they caried him out of ỹ cytie & stoned him wt stones to deeth. And then they sent to Jezabel sayinge: Naboth is stoned to dethe. And whē Jezabel hearde that Naboth was stoned to deeth: she sayde to Ahab: vp & take possessyon of the of the vyneyarde of Naboth the Jezrahelite/ whyche he demed to geue the forsyuer / for Naboth is not a liue/but deed. And whē Ahab hearde that Naboth was deed. He rode vp to go downe to ỹ vyneyarde of Naboth the Jezrahelite/to take possessyon of it.

And ỹ worde of ỹ Lorde came vnto Eliah the Thesbite sayinge: vp & go downe to mete Ahab kynge of Israel which is in Samaria Beholde/he is in the vyneyarde of Naboth: for he is gone downe thyther/to take possessyon of it. And saye vnto hym: thus sayth the Lorde; thou hast killed & therto gottē possessyō. And saye moreouer vnto him/thus sayth the Lorde: in ỹ place where dogges lapped ỹ bloude of Naboth/ shall dogges lappe euen thy bloude also. And Ahab sayd to Eliah: hast thou founde me thyne enemye at any tyme? And he sayde yee / because thou art vtterly geuen to worcke wickednesse in the syght of the Lorde. Beholde/I will bringe euel vpon the/and will make cleane riddance of the / & will destroye vnto Ahab all ỹ pysseth against the walle/and yf ought be preserued or forsaken in Israel: & will make thine house / lyke the house of Jeroboam the sonne of Nabat/ & lyke the house of Baasa ỹ sonne of Ahiah/ for the angeryng wherwyth thou hast angered, and made Israel synne.

And therto against Jezabel came ỹ worde of the Lorde saying: dogges shall eate Jezabell vnder the* walles of Jezrahel. And he ỹ dyeth of Ahab in the towne/him shall dogges eate: and he that dyeth in the feldes him shall ỹ foules of the ayre eate. For there was none at all like Ahab/that was so vtterly geuē to worcke wickednesse in the syght of ỹ Lorde and that because Jezabel hys wyfe pricked hym forwarde. And therfore he dyd exceedyng abhominably re/in folowyng Idoles / in all thynges like as dyd the Ammorites which ỹ Lorde cast out before the children of Israel.

Gene. xxxv. f. When Ahab hearde those wordes/*he rent his clothes & put sackecloth about his flesshe and fasted/and laye in sack and went cōfortlesse. And ỹ worde of the Lorde came to Eliah the Thesbite sayinge: seyst thou how Ahab humbleth him selfe before me? because he so submytteth hym selfe before me/I wyll not bringe ỹ euell in his dayes: but in his sonnes dayes/I will bringe euell vpon his house.

¶ Foure hundreth false Prophetes do counceil Ahab and Jehosaphat to warre against Ramoth: onely Michaah Prophesyeth the truthe/for which he is smytten and put in prison.

¶ The xxij Chapter.

And they continued thre yere without warre betwene Syria and Israel.* And ỹ third yere Jehosaphat kynge of Juda/came to the kynge of Israel. Then sayde ỹ kynge of Israel vnto hys seruauntes/ knowe ye not that Ramoth in Galaad is ours/and we sytt stille & take it not out of the handes of the kynge of Syria? And he sayde vnto Jehosaphat: wilt thou go with me to batayle/ to Ramoth in Galaad? And Jehosaphat sayde vnto the kynge of Israel: * I will be as thou art, & my people shall be as thyne/and my horses as thyne. iij. Reg. xij. a.

And Jehosaphat sayde vnto the kynge of Israel: aske counceil I praye the of the Lorde to daye. And then the kynge of Israel gathered of ỹ Prophetes together/vpō a foure hundred men/and sayde vnto them: shall I go to Ramoth in Galaad to batayle/or be still? And they sayde/go: for ỹ Lorde shall delyuer it into the handes of the kynge. And Jehosa- B phat sayde: is there neuer a Prophet of the Lordes here moare/that we myght enquyre of him? And ỹ kynge of Israel sayde to Jehosaphat: there is yet one / by whome we maye aske counceil of the Lorde/one Michaah the sonne of Jemlah. But I hate hym: for he neuer prophesyeth good vnto me/but euel. And Jehosaphat sayde: let not the kynge saye so. Then the kynge of Israel called vnto one of his chamberlayns and sayde: fett Michaah ỹ sonne of Jemlah hyther atonce.

And the kynge of Israel and Jehosaphat the kynge of Juda satt ether in hys seat and their apparell on them / in a voyde place besyde the entrynge of the gate of Samaria/& all the Prophetes prophesyenge before thē. And Zedekiah the sonne of Canaanah made hornes of yron & sayde/thus sayth ỹ Lorde: with these hornes thou shalt wynowe ỹ Syrians vntyll thou haue made an ende of thē. And all the Prophetes prophesyed euen so C sayinge. go to Ramoth in Galaad and prosper/for the Lorde shall delyuer it into the hādes of the kynge.

And the messenger that was gone to call Michaah/sayde vnto him: se / the wordes of the Prophetes speake good vnto the kynge with one voyce: let thy wordes I pray the/be like the wordes of one of them / and speake that is good. And Michaah sayde: as surely as the Lorde lyueth/what the Lorde putteth in my mouthe/that will I speake. And when he was come to the kynge / the kynge sayde to him: Michaah/shall we go to Ramoth in Galaad to batayle/or shall we be styll? And he sayde vnto him: * go and prosper/ ỹ Lorde delyuer it into the handes of the kynge. And the kynge sayde vnto him / how often shall I adiure ỹ/that thou tell me nothyng but truthe/in the name of the Lorde? ỹ Para. xviij. b

And Michaah sayde: here therfore the worde of the Lorde. I saw ꝑ Lorde sytt on his seate and all the companye of heauen standynge about him/on his ryght hand & on hys lefte. And ꝑ Lorde sayde: * who shall deceaue Ahab that he maye go and be slayne at Ramoth in Galaad? and one sayde on thys maner and a nother on that. Then came forth a spryte and stode before the Lorde and sayde: I wyll deceaue hym. And the Lorde sayde/wherwyth? And he sayde: I will go out & be a false spryte in the mouthes of all his Prophetes. And the Lord sayde, thou shalt deceaue hym and also preuayle/go forth and do euen so. Now therfore beholde / the Lorde hath put a lynge spryte in the mouth of all these thy Prophetes: when in very dede the Lorde hath spoken euell towarde the.

Then Sedechiah the sonne of Canaanah went to and smote Michaah on the cheke/& sayde: how is the spryte of the Lorde gonne from me/to speake in the? And Michaah sayde: beholde, thou shalt se in that daye/whē thou shalt go from chambre to chambre to hyde the. And the kynge of Israel sayde: take Michaah and carye hym backe agayne vnto Amon the gouerner of the citie/& vnto Joab the kynges sonne / and saye: thus sayth the kynge. Put ye this felow in the preson house and fede him with breed and water straytlie/ vntyll I returne in peace. Then Michaah sayde/yf thou come safe agayne / the Lorde hath not spoken in me. And he sayde moreouer, herken to ye people euery one of you.

And so the kynge of Israel & Iehosaphat ꝑ kynge of Juda went vp to Ramoth in Galaad. And the kynge of Israel sayde to Iehosaphat * chaunge the and gett the to warre: but put on thyne awne apparell. And the kynge of Israel chaunged hym selfe / & went to battell also. But the kynge of Syria had commaunded the capitaynes of hys charetes of whych he had .xxxij. sayinge: fyght nether with small nor greate, saue wyth the kynge of Israel onlye. And when the capitaynes of the charettes sawe Iehosaphat/they thought he had bene the kynge of Israel, and therfore turned to him to fight. But Iehosaphat cried out. And when the captaynes of the charettes saw that he was not the kynge of Israel/ they turned backe from hym.

And the battell encreased that daye/ and the kynge continued in his charet before the Syrians/and died at euē. And the bloude ranne out of the wounde into the botome of the charett. And there went a proclamacyon thorow out the hoste after the sonne was downe sayinge: euery man to his citie and to hys awne countrey. And when the kynge of Israel was deed/they came to Samaria and buryed hym there. And whyle they washed the charet in the pole of Samaria / the dogges licked vp hys bloude/and harlottes washed hym accordynge vnto the worde of the Lorde whych he spake.

Only he dyd not put the hyllaulters out of the waye: for the people offered and burnt their sacrifyces yet/in the hyllaultares. And he had peace wyth the kynge of Israel. 65

And the rest of the deades of Iehosaphat/ and the myght that he shed/and how he warred/are written in the boke of the chronicles of the kynges of Juda. And the remnaunt of the slues of the males / whych remayned in the dayes of hys father, he put cleane out of the lande. There was then no kynge in Edō/ the kynge was but a debite. And Iehosaphat made shyppes in the se / to go to Ophir for gould, but they went not: for ꝑ shippes brake at Azion Gaber. Then sayde Ochoziah the sonne of Ahab vnto Iehosaphat: let my seruauntes go with thyne in the shyppes. But Iehosaphat wolde not. And Iehosaphat layde him to slepe wyth his fathers/ & was buryed wyth hys fathers in the cytye of Dauid hys father: And Iehoram hys sonne raygned in hys rowme.

Ohoziah falleth and is hurte and asketh counceil of Beelzebub which waye he may come by healeth. The captaynes ouer fyftye with their soudiares are burnt with fyre from heauen/by the prayer of Heliah. Ohoziah is reproued of Heliah and dyeth and Iehoram his brother succedeth hym.

The fyrst Chapter.

IOhoziah the sonne of Ahab begaune to raygne vpon Israel in Samaria/the.xvij.yere of Iehosaphat kynge of Iuda/& was kynge ouer Israel two yere/and dyd euell in the sight of the Lorde/and walked in the waye of hys father and in the waye of hys mother/and in the waye of Ieroboam the sonne of Nabat whyche made Israel synne. And he serued Baal and bowed hym selfe to hym/& angred the Lorde God of Israel/in all thynge/as did his father. And ỹ Moabites rebelled agaynst Israel after the deeth of Ahab.

And Ohoziah fell thorow a lattese window out of an vpper chãbre ỹ he had in Samaria/and fell sycke. Then he sent messengers sayinge vnto them: go and enquyre of a Beelzebub the God of Akaron whether I shall recouer of this disease. But the Angell of the Lord spake to Eliah the Thesbite, vp and go agaynst the messengers of the kynge of Samaria & saye vnto them: Is it because there is no God in Israel that ye go to aske thorow Beelzebub the God of Akaron. Therfore thus sayth ỹ Lorde: thou shalt not come downe frõ the bedde on whych thou art gone vp, but shalt die. And Eliah departed.

a. The scripture of custome nameth the Goddes of the gentyles by in famous names as in the .Psal. xcv.e. Beelzebub signifyeth ỹ God of a flye. Luc.xi.c.

And the messengers turned backe agayne vnto him. And he sayde vnto thẽ: why are ye thus come agayne? And they sayde vnto him there came a man agaynst vs and sayde vnto vs: go and turne agayne vnto the kinge that sent you, & saye vnto him. Thus sayth ỹ Lord Is it because there is no God in Israel / that thou sendest to enquire thorow Beelzebub ỹ God of Akaron? Therfore thou shalt not come downe from the bedde on which thou art gone vp, but shalt surelye die. And he sayd to thẽ: what maner a man was that which mett you & tolde you these wordes? And they saide vnto him: it was an hearry man and gyrde wt a gyrdle of a skynne aboute his loynes. And he sayd vnto them: it is Eliah the Thesbite.

B Then the kyng sent vnto him a captayne ouer fiftie wt his fiftie. And when ỹ captayne was come to him/beholde: he satt on ỹ toppe of an hyll. And the captayne sayde vnto hym: man of God/the kinge biddeth ỹ come downe. And Eliah answered & sayde to the captayne ouer the fiftie: yf I be a man of God, fyre come downe frõ heauen & consume the and thy fiftie. C *And there came fire downe frõ heauẽ & deuoured him & his fiftie. And ỹ kynge wẽt agayne & sent to him a nother captayne ouer fyfte with his fiftie, which answered & sayde vnto him: O man of God/thus sayth ỹ kinge make hast & come downe. And Eliah answered & sayd vnto thẽ: yf I be a mã of God, then let fyre come downe frõ heauen & consume the and thy fiftie. And there came fire downe from heauen and consumed him & his fyftie. *Luc.ix.c.

And the kynge sent agayne the thirde captayne ouer fiftie. And when ỹ thyrd captayne ouer fiftie was comeby to him/he fell on his knees before Eliah and besought him & saide vnto him: Oh man of God/let my life and the life of these fiftie thy seruaũtes be precious in thy syght. Beholde there came fire downe D from heauẽ & brunt vp the two fore captaynes ouer fyftie wyth their fifties. But let my life now be precious in thy syght. Then sayde the Angell of the Lorde vnto Eliah: go downe with him/and be not afrayde of hym. And he wẽt downe with him vnto the kynge.

And he sayde vnto the kynge/thus sayth ỹ Lorde: for as moche as thou sentest messengers to aske thorow Beelzebub the God of Akaron/as though there had bene no God in Israel to aske thorow his woorde: therfore thou shalt not come of ỹ bedde on which thou art ascended, but shalt surely die. And so he died according to ỹ worde of ỹ Lorde whych Eliah spake/& Iehoram was made kinge in his stede/ỹ seconde yere of Iehoram sonne of Iehosaphat kynge of Iuda / because he had no sonne. The rest of the deades of Ohoziah which he did, are written in the chronicles of the kynges of Israel.

The.ij. Chapter.

IAnd it chaũced why ỹ Lorde wold take vp Eliah to heauẽ in a whyrlewynde ỹ Eliah & Eliseus were goinge frõ Galgal. And Eliah sayd to Eliseus, tary here I pray the for the Lord hath sent me to Bethel. But Eliseus sayde: *as surely as the Lorde liueth & as thy soule liueth I will not leaue ỹ. And whẽ they came to Bethel ỹ childrẽ of ỹ Prophetes ỹ were at Bethel came out to Eliseus and sayde to him: knowest thou not how ỹ the Lorde will take awaye thy master frõ ỹ this daye? And he sayde, I know it too holde youre peace. *1 Reg xxviij.b

Then sayde Eliah to Eliseus: tary heare a B

And the chyldren of the Prophetes ꝑ were at Jericho came to Eliseus & sayde vnto hym: art thou not ware ꝑ the Lorde wyll take awaye thy master frō ꝑ this daye? And he answered: I know it allo, holde youre peace. And Eliah sayde to him: tarye I pray ꝑhere, for ꝑ Lorde hath sent me to Jordan. But he sayde: as surely as the Lorde lyueth/and as thy soule lyueth/I will not leaue the. And so they went bothe of thē to geather. And fyftye mē of the sonnes of the Prophetes wēt & stode in syght a farre of, as they two stode by Jordan.

And then Eliah toke hys mātell & wrapte it to gether and smote the water/and it deuided it selfe/parte the one waye and parte the other/& they two wēt ouer on the drye lande. And as sone as they were ouer/Eliah sayde to Eliseus aske what I shall do for the ere I be takē awaye from the. And Eliseus sayde: let me I pray the haue thy spyrite* dowble in me. And he sayde: thou hast asked an harde thynge. Neuertheleſſe yf thou se me when I am taken awaye from the, thou shalt haue it for: yf thou do not, it shall not be. And as they went walkynge and talkynge: beholde, there came a charet of fyre and horſes of fyre and put them a sonder. And Eliah went vp in the whorlewynde to heauen. And Eliseus sawe and cried: O my father/O my father/ ꝑ charet of Israel and the horſemen therof, & saw hym no moare: and therfore toke hys awne clothes and rent them in two peces.

And then he toke vp the mantell of Eliah that fell from hym/and went backe agayne and stode by Jordans syde/and toke the mātell of Eliah that fell from him/and smote the water and sayde: where is the Lorde God of Eliah where is he? And when he had smytē the water it deuided parte this waye & parte that waye/and Eliseus went ouer. And the chyldren of the Prophetes of Jericho whych sawe him frō a farre/sayde: ꝑ spyryte of Eliah doth rest on Eliseus/and went agaynſt hym & bowed to ꝑ erthe vnto him. And they sayde vnto him: se/there be amōge thy seruauntes fyftie luſtie men: let thē go and seke thy master: happlye the spyrite of the Lorde hath taken him vp & cast him vpon some mountayne or in some valeye. And he sayde: sende not. Neuertheleſſe yet they laye vpon him/tyll he was a shamed/& sayde: sende/and they sent fiftie men which sought him thre dayes and thre nyghtes/but founde him not. And they came agayne to hym/for he taryed at Jericho. And he sayde to them/did I not saye vnto you that ye shulde not go.

Then the men of Jericho sayde to Eliseus: beholde the cytie standeth pleaſantly as my Lorde seyth/but the water is naught and the grounde baren. And he sayde: bryng me a new cruſe & put salt therin. And they brought it to him. And he went vnto the sprynge of ꝑ water & cast the salt in thyther/& sayde thus sayth ꝑ Lorde: I heale this water, ther shall not come hēceforth ether deethe or barēneſſe. And ꝑ water was helthsome euer after accordyng to the saying of Eliseus which he spake.

And he went from thence vp to Bethel. And as he was goynge vp in the waye/there came lytle laddes out of the cytye and mocked hym/and sayd to hym: go vp thou bald hed go vp thou balde hed. And he turned backe and looked on them and cursed them in the name of ꝑ Lorde. And there came two Beares out of ꝑ wood & tare .xlij. of ꝑ boyes. And he went frō thence to mount Carmel, & from thence went agayne to Samaria.

¶ The .iij. Chapter.

Jehoram the sonne of Ahab began= ne to raygne vpō Israel in Samaria the .xviij. yere of Jehosaphat kynge of Juda & cōtynued twelue yere. And he wrought that was euell in the syght of the Lorde, but not lyke hys father or hys mother, for he put awaye the ymage of Baal that hys father had made: Neuertheleſſe he contynued in the synne of Jeroboam the sonne of Nabat which made Israel synne and shronke not therfrom.

And Mesa kynge of Moab whych was riche of shepe, and was wont to render vnto the kynge of Israel an hundred thousand lābes & as many rāmes wt the wolle, rebelled agaynſt the kynge of Israel after the deeth of Ahab. And kynge Jehoram went out of Samaria the same ceason & nōbred all Israel. And then wēt & sent to Jehosaphat kyng of Juda sayinge: the kynge of Moab hath rebelled against me/wilt thou go wyme against the Moabites to battell? And he sayde: I wil go/& wylbe as thou/& my people shalbe as thine/and my horſes as thine. And he sayde: what waye shall we go? And ꝑ other answered: ꝑ waye thorow the wildernelle of Edom.

And the kynge of Israel toke his iourneye wyth the kynge of Juda & the kynge of Edō. And when they had cōpaſed the waye seuen dayes/there was no water for ꝑ host nor for the cattell that they had wyth them. Then sayde the kynge of Israel: Alaſſe/the Lorde hath called to geether these thre kynges to deliuer thē into the handes of the Moabites.

But

But Jehosaphat sayde: is there heare no prophet of the Lorde, that we maye enquire of the Lorde by him? And one of the kyng of Israels seruaūtes answered and sayde: here is Eliseus ꝑ sonne of Saphat which * powred water on the handes of Eliah. And Jehosaphat sayde: ꝑ worde of the Lord is with him. * That is that serued hym and waited on him.

And Eliseus sayde to the kyng of Israel: what haue I to do wt the? Get the to the prophetes of thy father & of thy mother. And the kyng of Israel sayde vnto him: Oh naye, but hath the Lord called these thre kynges to deliuer thē into the handes of the Moabites? And Eliseus sayde, as sure as the Lorde of Hostes liueth in whose syght I stand, and it were not that I regarde ꝑ presence of Jehosaphat ꝑ kyng of Juda, I wolde not loke towarde the, nor yet se the. But now bryng me a mynstrel. And as the mynstrel played, the hand of the Lord was vpō him. And he sayde: thus byddeth the Lord, make this broke full of dyches. For thus sayth the Lorde: ye shall se neither wynde nor rayne, & yet this broke shalbe fylled wt water, that ye maye drincke, & youre beastes & youre catell also. And this is yet but a small thing in ꝑ syght of ꝑ Lord: But he will geue the Moabites in to youre handes also. And ye shall destroye all strong townes and all goodlye cytyes, & shall falle all pleasaunt trees & stoppe all the welles of water, & marre all good plattes of grounde with stones. And in the morning about offeryng tyme: there came suche a water ꝑ waye frō Edom ꝑ the contrey was fylled wt water.

And when all the Moabites hearde ꝑ the kynges were come to fight agaynst thē, they gathered to gether, frō ꝑ youngest ꝑ was able to put on harneise and so vpwarde, and wayted in the borders.

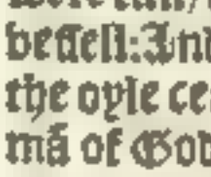
And they beyng vp erly in the morning, ꝑ sonne arose & shone vpō ꝑ water. And when the Moabites sawe ꝑ water a farre of, as red as bloude, they sayde: it is bloud, the kynges haue fought to gether & one slayne another Now therfore ye Moabites gett you to the spoyle. And whē they came to ꝑ Hoste of Israel, ꝑ Israelites stode vp & layde on ꝑ Moabites, ꝑ they fled before thē: And so they entred ꝑ lād & destroyed the Moabites. And they ouerthrew ꝑ cyties, & on euery good parcell of lande, cast euery man his stone & ouer couered it, and stopte all ꝑ welles of water, & felde all ꝑ good trees. And as long as ꝑ stones therof did remayne in ꝑ walles of * Byrre the slyngers went vpon it and bette it.

* Some rende of hare seth.

And whē the kyng of Moab saw that ꝑ battell was to strong for him he toke wt him seuē hūdred men ꝑ drew the swerde, to haue broke vp vnto the kynge of Edom. But they could not. And then he toke his eldest sonne ꝑ shuld haue raigned in his steade, & offered him for a burntoffering vpō the walles. And ther came so great wrath vpō Israel, ꝑ they departed frō him & returned to their awne lād

¶ God geueth a certen poor womā oyle and floure by Eliseus. Eliseus obtayneth of God a chylde for hys hostesse: which dyeth & is after raysed to lyfe thorow him. He maketh swete the porage: and multiplyeth the loues.

¶ The. iiij. Chapter.



Nd there cryed a certen woman of the wyues of the chyldrē of ꝑ prophetes vnto Eliseus sayīg: thy seruaunt my husbande is deed, & thou knowest that thy seruaūt dyd feare ꝑ Lorde. And the creditor is come to fett my two sonnes, to be his bondemē. And Eliseus sayd to her: What shall I do for ꝑ? Tell me, what hast thou in thyne house? And she sayde thine handmayde hath nothing at all in her house, saue a pytcher with oyle. And he sayde: Go & borow the in other places, of all thy neybores, emptie vesselles & that not a fewe. And then go and shutt the doore to the and to thy sonnes, & powre out into all those vesselles, and putt the full all waye a syde.

And she went from hym, & shutt the doore to her & to her sonnes. And they brought to her, & she powred out. And when the vesselles were full, she sayde to her sonne: bryng yet a vessell: And he sayde: there is no mo. And then the oyle ceased. Then she came and tolde the mā of God. And he sayde: go & sell the Oyle and paye thy creditor. And lyue thou & thy chyldren of the reste.

And it fell on a daye, that Eliseus came to Sunam, where was a ryche woman ꝑ toke him in for to eate breed. And as ofte as he came that waye, he turned in thyther to eate breed. And she sayde vnto her husbande: se, I perceaue that the man of God is perfecte, & cometh allwaye by vs. Lett vs make hym a chābre wt a lytle walle, & set vs set him there a bed, a table, a stole & a candelstycke ꝑ he maye turne in thither, whē he cometh to vs.

And it fortuned on a tyme ꝑ he came thyther & turned into the chambre & laye there. Then he sayde to Giezi his seruaūt: call this Sunamite. And he called her, and she came before him. And Eliseus sayde to him, saye to her: I praye the: se, thou hast made all thys prouision for vs, what shall we do for the? Wolde thou be spoken for to the kyng or to the captayne of the Hoste? And she sayde * I dwell amonge myne awne people. Then he sayde, what is to be done for her? And Giezi sayde: Verely she hath no childe and her husbande is olde. And he sayde: call her. And he called her. And she came and stode at the

And the wyfe conceaued and bare a sonne ꝯ same season that Eliseus had sayd vnto her / as sone as the frute coulde haue lyfe.

And when the ladd was greate / it fell on a daye / that he went out to his father / toꝯ harueſtmē. And there he cōplayned to his father / my heed / my heed. And his father sayde to a lad / carye him to his mother. And he toke him ꝯ brought him to his mother. And he satte on her knees till none / ꝯ then died. And she caried hym vp and layde him on the bedde of ꝯ man of God / and shut the doze to him / ꝯ went out / and came to her husbāde and sayde: sende me one of ꝯ younge men ꝯ an Asse that I maye runne to the man of God. And he sayde: wher foꝛe wylt thou go to him to daye / whyle it is nether new mone noꝛ Sabboth daye. And she sayde: be content. Then she sadelled an Asse ꝯ sayde to the lad: leade awaye and make me not cease rydyng / vntyll I byd the.

And so she went and came vnto the man of God / to mount Carmel. And when the mā of God sawe her a farre / he sayde to Giehezi hys seruaunt: se / where oure seruaunte cometh. Now runne agaynſt her / *ꝯ aske her / whether it be all well with her and with her husbande and with the ladd. And she sayde: all is well. Then she went to the man of God vpto the hyll and caught him by the fete. And Giehezi wēt to her / to thruſt her awaye. But the man of God sayde: let her alone / foꝛ her soule is vexed / and the Loꝛde hath hidd it from me and hath not tolde it me. Then she sayde: dyd I desyre a sonne of my Loꝛd? dyd I not saye / that thou shuldeſt not bryng me in a foles Paradyse.

Then he sayde to Giehezi: gyrde vp thy loynes / and take my staffe in thyne hand and awaye. If anye man mete the / salute hym not. And yf any salute the / answere him not agayne. And put my staffe vpō the boye. Not withstandyng the mother of ꝯ chylde sayde: *as sure as the Loꝛde lyueth ꝯ as thy soule lyueth / I wyll not leaue ꝯ. And then he arose and folowed her. Giehezi went before them ꝯ put the staffe vpon the ladd. But there was nether voyce noꝛ attendyng. And then he wēt agayne agaynſt hys master and tolde hym saying: it hath not awaked the ladd.

When Eliseus was come to the house: Beholde / ꝯ ladd was deed ꝯ layde vpō hys bed. For thus sayth the Loꝛde: they shall eate and leaue. And he sett it befoꝛe them / and they ate and lefte / accoꝛdynge to the woꝛde of the Loꝛde.

¶ Naamā the Syrie is healed of his lepꝛosye. Giehezi is stryken with a lepꝛosye because he tooke money and rayment of Naaman.

¶ The. v. Chapter.

NAaman capitayne of the Hoste to the kyng of Syria / was greate wᵗ his master ꝯ well taken: foꝛ thoꝛow him the Loꝛde saued Syria. And he was an actiue mā / ꝯ yet a leper. And there had gone a companye of Soudyoures oute of Syria a runnyng / and had brought oute of the contreye of Israel a lytle mayde / which was with Naamās wife. And the Damoſell sayd vnto her ladye: I wolde my master were with a prophet that is in Samaria: he wold delyuer him of his lepꝛosye. And she went ꝯ tolde her husbande saying: thus a thus sayth the mayde that is out of the lande of Israel. And the kyng of Syria sayde: go thy waye / and I wyll sende a letter vnto the kynge of Israel. And he went and toke with hym ten talentes of siluer and. vj. thousande peces of goulde gouldе/and ten chaunge of raymentes. And he brought ꝑ letter to the kyng of Israel cõtaynyng this tenoure. Now when this letter is come vp to the: Beholde I haue sent Naaman my seruaunt to the / that thou shuldest rydde him of his leprosye. And whē the kyng of Israel had reade ꝑ letter/he rent his clothes & sayde:* am I God/to slee & to make a lyue/ that he shuld sende to me/for to delyuer a mã frõ his leprosye. But consyder I praye you & se how he pyketh quarelles vnto me. And whē Eliseus the man of God/had heard how that the kynge of Israel had rent hys clothes / he sent to the kyng saying: Wherfore hast thou rent thy clothes? let him come to me / that he maye knowe ꝑ there is a prophet in Israel.

Deut.xxxij.c.

And Naaman came with his horses & his charett, and stode at ꝑ dore of Eliseus. Then Eliseus sent a messenger saying: go & washe the in Iordan seuē tymes / and thy flesh shall come agayne to the as before, and thou shalt be cleane. And Naaman was wroth and wēt awaye/and sayde: Beholde/ I thought in my selfe/he wolde haue come out/& stand & call on the name of the Lorde his God/ & put his hande on the place of the disease/and so take awaye ꝑ leprosye. Are not Abanah & Pharphar/ryuers of Damasco/better then all the waters of Israel? Myght I not rather wash in thē & be cleane? And so he turned & departed in an angre. Then came his seruaũtes & comuned vnto him & sayd: Father yf ꝑ prophete had bydd ꝑ done some great thyng/ oughtest thou not to haue done it? How moche rather then shuldest thou do it/ while he sayth to the onlye/washe & be cleane.* Then he wēt doune & washed seuē tymes in Iordan/ as the man of God bade/ & his flesh he chaunged / lyke vnto the flesh of a lytle boye/and he was cleane.

Then he turned agayne to the mã of God & all his companye with him and came and stode before hym & sayde. Beholde I knowe that there is no God in all the worlde/but in Israel. And now I praye the take a blessyng of thy seruaũt. But he sayde * as surely as ꝑ Lorde lyueth before whome I stande/I will receaue none. And the other wold haue constrayned him to receaue: but he wolde not do it. And Naaman sayde/yf thou wylt not: yet I praye the/ maye there not be geuen to thy seruaunt the burthē of two mules of erthe. For thy seruaunt will henceforth offer neither burntsacrefyce nor offerynge vnto any other God/then to the Lorde. But herin the Lord be mercyfull to thy seruaunt/ for whē my master goeth into the house of Remon to worshippe there/he* leaneth on myne hãd/ and I must worshippe in ꝑ house of Remon/ let the Lorde I praye the be mercyfull vnto thy seruaũt in this case. And he sayde to him: go in peace. And whē he was departed from him a furlonge of groũd/ Gihezi the seruaũt of Eliseus the mã of God/sayd: se/my master hath kepte of/this Syrien Naaman that he wolde not receaue of his hande ꝑ he offered. As surely as the Lorde lyueth I will runne after him and take some what. And so Gihezi went after Naaman. And he went in ꝑ darcke & toke it of their handes & bestowed it in the house and let the men go, and they departed.

Then he went & stode before hys master. And Eliseus sayde to hym: whence cometh Gihezi? And he sayde: thy seruaunt went no whether. And he sayde: wēt not myne hert vnto the/whē the mã turned fro his charet agaynst the? ¶ Eliseus maketh yron to swymme aboue the water. The Syrians beseage Israel/ so that .ij. wemē agree to gether to eate their awne children.

¶ The.vi. Chapter.

THen sayde the children of the prophetes vnto Eliseus: se/the place where we dwelle vnto the / is to lytle for vs. Let vs there take euery mã a beame and bylde vs a place there, to dwell in. And he sayde: goo ye. And one sayde: begynne I praye the, & go with thy seruauntes. And he sayde: I will/and so went with them.

And when they came to Iordan / they cutt downe wood. And as one was hewynge of a beame, the axe heed fell into ꝑ water. And he cryed oute & sayde: Alasse master / for it was lent me. And the mã of God sayde: Where fell it? And he shewed him ꝑ place. And he cut an helue and cast it in thyther/and made the axe heed swimme. And he sayde: take it vp to the. And the other stretched his hãde & caught it.

And the kynge of Syria fought agaynst Israel, & toke councell with hys seruaũtes saying: In soche a place and in soche a place will I pytche. And the man of God sent vnto the kynge of Israel sayinge: Beware thou go not go not by soche a place/for there are the Sirians gone downe. And the kynge of Israel sent to the place which the man of God tolde him and warned hym of/ and saued him selfe there moare then once or twyse.

And the hert of the kynge of Siria was troubled therwith/ þ he sent for his seruaũtes & sayde to them:* wyll ye not shewe me whych of vs telleth þ kyng of Israel. And one of his seruauntes sayde: nay re my Lorde kyng: Eliseus the prophet that is in Israel/ he telleth the kyng of Israel þ wordes that thou speakest in thy slepyng chambre. Then he sayde: ¶ go and spie where he is, that I maye sende & fett him. And one tolde the kyng sayinge: se/ he is in Dothan. And he sent thither horse & charett & a great Hoste. And they came thither by nyght & cõpased þ towne aboute.

And when the seruaũt of the men of God rose vp erly and was gone oute: Beholde/ there was an Host round about the towne wt horses and charettes. Then sayde hys ladd to him: Alasse master/ what shall we do? And he sayde: feare not/ there are mo with vs then wt them. And Eliseus prayed and sayde: Lorde open the eyes of the younge man/ & he sawe. And beholde/ þ mountayne was full of horses and charettes of fyre rounde aboute Eliseus. And when the soudyars came downe to him, Eliseus prayed vnto the Lorde & sayde. Smyte this people with blyndnesse. And he smote thẽ with blyndnes accordyng to the desyre of Eliseus. Then Eliseus sayde vnto thẽ this is not the waye/ nor this is not þ towne: But folow me and I wyll bringe you to the man ye seke. And he ledd thẽ to Samaria.

¶ When they were come to Samaria/ Eliseus sayde: Lord/ open their eyes & let thẽ se. And the Lorde opened their eyes þ they sawe And beholde they were in the myddes of Samaria. And then sayde the kyng of Israel vnto Eliseus when he saw them:* shall I smyte them/ shall I smyte thẽ father: And he sayde: smyte them not. But smyte them thou takest with thyne awne swerde & with thyne awne bowe. But set bread and water before them/ and let them eate & drynke/ and go to their master. And he made great ordinaũce before them. And when they had eatẽ and dronke/ ¶ sent them awaye, and they went to their master. And so the Soudyoures of Siria came no moare into the lande of Israel.

After this Benhadad kyng of Siria gathered all the Hoste and wẽt & besieged Samaria. And there arose great darthe in Samaria: for they had besieged it vntill an Asses heed was worth foure score sycles of syluer/ and the fourth part of a* Cab of doues donge worth fyue sycles. And as the kyng of Israel walked vpon the walles there cryed a womã to him/ saying: helpe/ my Lord kyng. And he sayde: Naye/ the Lorde helpe the. But wherwith shulde I helpe the/ with corne or wyne? Then sayde the kyng to her: what ayleth the? And she answered: this woman here sayde to me/ bringe thy sonne and lett vs eate hym to daye, and we will eate myne to morow* And so we dressed my sonne and dyd eate him. And I sayde to her another daye, bring thy sonne that we maye eate him. But she hath hyd her sonne. When the kyng hearde the wordes of the womã/ he rent his clothes euẽ as he was walkynge on the walles. And when þ people loked vpõ him: se, he was clothed in sack vnder. Then he sayd: God do so and so to me/ yf þ heed of Eliseus the sonne of Saphat tarye on him this daye. And as Eliseus satte in his house and the elders with him/ the kyng sent one from him. But yer the messenger came at him, he sayde to the elders: se you not how þ sonne of this murtherar hath sent/ to take of myne heed? be circumspect therfore when the messenger cometh, and shut the dore and thrust him backe therwith: for the sounde of his masters fete foloweth him. And whyle he yet talked with them: Beholde the messenger was come vnto him. And he sayde: beholde this euell is of the Lorde/ what moare shall we loke for of the Lorde.

¶ Eliseus prophesyeth plenteousnes of vytailles and other thyngs to Samaria. The Sirians renne awaye and haue no man folowyng them. The Lorde þ wolde not beleue the worde of Eliseus is troden to deeth.

¶ The.vij. Chapter.

Then Eliseus sayde: heare þ worde of the Lord: for thus sayth þ Lord: to morow this tyme a bouschell of fyne floure shalbe solde for a sycle/ & two bouschelles of Barley for a nother in þ gates of Samaria. Then a great Lorde on whose hande þ kyng leaned, answered þ mã of God & sayd, though the Lorde wold make windowes in heuen / yet wolde not this be. And he sayde agayne: Beholde, thou shalt se it with thyne eyes and shalt not eate therof.

And there were foure lepers sett wt oute the Gate of Samaria. And they sayde eche to hys companion/ what sytt we here vntyll we dye? though we thought that we myght come into the cytie / yet is the darth so great in þ cytie/ that we shall there dye. And yf we tarye here/ we are but deed also. Now therfore come & lett vs flee to the Hoste of the Sirias: If they saue oure lyues, we shall lyue: And yf they kyll vs/ then are we deed. And so they arose in þ darcke to go to þ Hoste of þ Sirians. And when they were come to the syde of the Hoste of Siria: se/ there was no man there.

him, thou shalt recouer how be it the Lorde hath shewed me that he shall surely dye. And the man of God beganne * to loke ernestlye/ in somoche that he was ashamed: and the mā of God wepte. And Hazael sayde: why weepeth my Lord? And he answered: for I know that thou shalt do euell vnto the chyldren of Israel: their stronge cytics thou shalt sett on fyre/ & their younge men thou shalt slay with the swerde/ and shalt dasshe out the brayns of their suckynge chyldren/ and all to teare their wemen with chylde.

* Or/ to haue a sadde & sorowfull countenaunce.

And Hazael sayde: what is thy seruaunt which am but a dogge, that I shulde do thys great thyng? And Eliseus sayde: for ỹ Lorde hath shewed me/ that thou shalt be kynge of Syria. And so he departed from Eliseus and came to his master/ which sayd to him: what sayde Eliseus to the? And he sayde: he tolde me that thou shuldest recouer. And on ỹ morow he toke a rowgh * clothe and dypte it in the water and spred it on his face/ & he died/ and Hazael raygned in his steade.

* Hazael brought thys wrate clothe to hī as though he wold therwith haue coled him/ and caused hym of his feruent heate: but dyd in deade strangle him/ after Josephus. He had hearde of ỹ prophet that Benhadad shuld recouer/ and so shulde it haue bene longe or he had raigned: therfore dyd he rydde hym/ to thentent that he might be sonest come by ỹ kyngdome.

The fyfte yere of Iehoram sonne of Ahab kyng of Israel Iehosaphat beynge yet kyng of Juda Iehoram the sonne of Iehosaphat/ ¶ kyng of Juda, beganne to raygne. xxxij. yere olde was he when he beganne to raygne and he raygned. viij. yere in Jerusalem. And he walked in the waye of the kynges of Israel/ as dyd the house of Ahab for the daughter of Ahab was his wyfe, and he dyd that displeased the Lorde Neuertheles the Lord wolde not destroye Juda because of Dauid his seruaunt/ as he promesed hym to geue hym a lyght in his chyldren all waye.

And in his dayes Edom fell awaye frō vnder the hand of Juda/ and made them a kyng of their awne. And Iehoram went to Seir/ & all his charettes with him. And he rose by nyght & layde on the Edomites/ which compased him in, & the captaynes of his charet & the people fled into their tentes. And so the Edomites slypte awaye from vnder the hande of Juda vnto thys daye. And then Lobnah slypt awaye to/ euen that same tyme.

The rest of ỹ dedes of Iehoram and all he dyd/ are writtē in the chronicles of ỹ kynges of Juda. And Iehoram rested wt hys fathers & was buried with his fathers in the cytie of Dauid. And Ochoziah hys sonne raygned in his steade. The. xij. yere of Iehoram sonne of Ahab, kyng of Israel dyd Ochoziah ỹ sonne of Iehoram kyng of Juda beginne to raigne

¶ Two & twentie yere olde was Ochoziah whē he beganne to raygne/ & raygned one yere in Jerusalem/ his mothers name was Athaliah daughter of Amri kynge of Israel. And he walked in the waye of the house of Ahab: for he was a sonne in law to the house of Ahab.

And Iehoram the sonne of Ahab went to warre with Hazael kynge of Syria, at Ramoth in Galaad, and the Syrians wounded him. Wherfore kynge Iehoram went backe agayne, to be healed in Jesrahel of ỹ wouds which ỹ Syrias had geuē him at Ramoth/ whē he fought with Hazael kyng of Syria. And Ochoziah ỹ sonne of Iehoram kynge of Juda went downe to se Iehoram sonne of Ahab in Jezrahel because he was sycke.

¶ The. ix. Chapter.

And Eliseus the prophete called vnto one of the chyldrē of the prophetes/ and sayde to him: gyrde vp thy loynes & take this boxe of oyle in thyne hād & get ỹ to Ramoth in Galaad. And when thou comest thyther/ thou shalt there se Jehu the sonne of Iehosaphat the sonne of Namsi, and go to him, & make him aryse vp from amonge his brethren/ and carye him to a secret chambre. And take the boxe of oyle and powre it on his heed & saye/ thus sayth the Lorde: I haue anoynted the to be kynge ouer Israel. And then open the doore & flee/ & tary not. And the seruaūt of the prophet get him to Ramoth in Galaad/ & when he came/ the captaynes of the Hoste were syttynge together. And he sayde: I haue an errande to the Sir captayne. And Jehu sayde/ vnto which of all vs? And he sayd: to ỹ O captayne. And he arose and went in to the house.

And the other powred the oyle on his heed and sayde to him/ thus sayth the Lorde God of Israel: I haue anoynted ỹ to be kyng ouer Israel ỹ people of the Lorde/ that thou slaye ỹ houshold of Ahab thy master. For I (sayth the Lorde) wyll auenge the bloude of my seruauntes the prophetes/ and the bloude of all ỹ seruauntes of the Lord/ of the hand of Jezabel (for ỹ whole house of Ahab shalbe destroyed) and I wyll destroye vnto Ahab what pisseth agaynst ỹ wall, and so moche as the preserued or that is forsaken in Israel/ & wyll make the house of Ahab lyke ỹ house of Jeroboam sonne of Nabat/ and lyke the house of Baasa the sonne of Ahiah. And as for Jezabel the dogges shall eate her in the feld of Jezrahel, & none shall burye her. And he opened the doore and fled.

And when Jehu was come out to the seruauntes of his Lord/ they sayde to him: is all peace? Wherfore came this mad felow to ỹ? And he sayde to him: ye know the person and his cōmunicacyon. And they sayde: it is not so. But tell vs a felowshype. And he sayde/ thus and thus spake he to me sayinge. Thus sayth sayth the Lorde: I haue anoynted the to be kynge ouer Israel. And they hasted and toke euery man his mantell & put vnder hym on an hye bēche at the toppe of steppes/ & blew a trompet and sayde: Jehu is kynge. And so Jehu the sonne of Jehosaphat the sonne of Namsi conspired agaynst Jehoram. And Jehorā had bene wayting at Ramoth Galaad/ and all Israel with him, for feare of Hazael kyng of Syria/ and was returned to be healed in Jezrahel, of ỹ woundes which the Syrians had geuen hym as he fought with Hazael kynge of Syria.

Then sayde Jehu: If it be youre myndes/ then let no man escape out of the citie/ to goo and tell in Jezrahel. And Jehu rode and wēt to Jezrahel: for Jehoram laye there, & Ochozias kynge of Juda was come to Jehoram. And the watchmā that stode on the towre in Jezrahel, spyed the company of Jehu as he came/ and sayde: I se a cōpanye. And Jehoram sayde: take an horsman & sende agaynst them and let him aske whether it be peace. And there went one on horsbacke agaynst him & sayde: thus sayth ỹ kyng: is it peace? And Jehu answered: what hast thou to do wt peace? turne & come after me. And ỹ watchman tolde saying: the messenger came to thē but he cometh not agayne.

Then he sent out another on horsbacke/ which came to them & sayde/ thus sayth the kyng: is it peace? And Jehu answered, what hast thou to do with peace? turne & come after me. And the watchman tolde sayinge: he came to thē/ but he cometh not agayne/ & ỹ dryuyng is lyke the dryuing of Jehu ỹ sonne of Namsi/ for he dryueth as he were mad.

Then sayde Jehoram/ make readye. And they made ready his charet. And Jehorā king of Israel/ & Ochozias kyng of Juda wēt out ether in hys charet agaynst Jehu / and mett hym in the furlonge of Naboth the Jezrahelite. And when Jehoram sawe Jehu he sayd: is it peace Jehu? And he sayde, what peace shulde there be/ so long as the whordomes of thy mother Jezabel & her witchcraftes are so great? And Jehoram turned his hand & fled, & sayde to Ochozias there is falshed Ochozias. And Jehu toke a bowe in hys hande & smote Jehoram betwene the shoulders/ ỹ the arow came out at his brest. And he fell downe thre folde in his charet. Then he sayde to Badakar a lorde of his/ take & cast hym in the plat of grounde of Naboth the Jezrahelite. For I remembre as I & thou roade together after Ahab his father, how the Lorde spake these wordes agaynst him: I haue sene yesterdaye the blonde of Naboth & of his sonnes/ sayth ỹ Lorde/ and I will quyte hym in this grond/ sayth the Lorde. Now therfore take and cast hym in the plat of grounde accordynge to the worde of the Lorde. And when* Ochozias the kynge of Juda sawe that he fled the waye to the *garden house. And Jehu folowed after him & sayde: smyte him also. And they smote him in his charet at the going vp to Sur by Jeblaam/ & he fled to Magedo & there dyed. And his seruaūtes caried him to Jerusalē/ & buryed him in his sepulchre wt his fathers in the citie of Dauid. And in ỹ .xj. yere of Jehorā sonne of Ahab/ beganne Ochozias to raygne ouer Juda. And whē Jehu was come to Jezrahel, Jezabel heard of it & starched her eyes & tyred her heed & looked out at a wyndow. And as Jehu entred at ỹ gate she sayde: had Zamri peace which slew his master? And he lyft vp hys eyes to the wyndow & sayde/ who is of my side who? And there loked out to him two or thre lordes that were chāberlaynes. And he sayde: Throw her downe. And they threw her downe. And he sprynkled of her blonde vpon the walles & on the horses / and troade her vnder fote.

* Some reade Bethhaan

And then when he was come in & had eatē & droncke, he sayde: goo & vyset I praye you/ yonder cursed creature/ & burye her/ for she is a kynges daughter. And whē they came to burye her/ they founde no moare of her/ then the skulle & the two fete & the two handes. And they came agayne & tolde hym. And he sayde: it is the worde of the Lorde which he spake by ỹ hand of his seruaūt Elias ỹ Thesbite sayig: * in ỹ feld of Jezrahel shal dogges eate ỹ flesh of Jezabel. & ỹ carkas of Jezabel shalbe donge vpō the erthe/ in ỹ felde of Jezrahel/ ỹ men shall not saye/ this is Jezabel.

¶ Jehu causeth the lxx. sonnes of Ahab to be slayne/ & after that .xlij. of hys brethre he fyndeth a meane also to kyll all the Prestes of Baal. After hys death hys sonne raygneth in his stede.

¶ The.x. Chapter.

Ahab had .lxx. sonnes in Samaria. And Jehu wrote letters/ & sent to Samaria vnto the elders ỹ were lordes of Jezrahel / & to them that *nourced vp Ahabs children sayng: now at the coming of these letters to you, ye haue wt you youre masters sonnes & ye haue wt you charettes & horses, & a strōg citie & harnesse. Therfore chose the best/ & him ỹ most pleaseth you of youre masters sonnes, & put him on his fathers seate & fight for youre lordes howse. And they were exceedingly afrayde, & sayde: se two kinges were not able to stande before hym how shall we then stande? And ỹ gouerner of ỹ kynges howse & of the citie & of the elders and the nources sent to Jehu sayinge: we are thy seruaūtes & will do all ỹ thou shalt bydde vs: we will make no mā king: but do thou what semeth good in thyne eyes.

a. They be here called nources (as it were) ỹ were in stede counselars and rulers of the thiges pertayning to the comen wealth: because they also prouided for the children all soche thinges as were conuenient for them

Then

Then he wrote another letter to thē saying: If ye be myne & wyll obeye my voyce / then take the heedes of youre maisters sonnes and come to me to Jezrahel / by to morow this tyme. And the kynges sonnes were .lxx. personnes with the great men of the cytie which nourysshed thē. And when the letter came to them / they toke the kynges chyldrē and slue thē in nombre .lxx. personnes / and put their heedes in cophines and sent them to hym to Jezrahel. And there cam a messenger & tolde him saying: they haue brought the heedes of the kynges sonnes. And he sayde: lett thē put thē on two heapes in the entrynge of ꝑ gate / tyll it be daye.

And in the morynge he went out & stode & sayde to all the folke / ye be righteouse: for se / I conspired agaynst my master and slue him: But who slue these? cōsyder now how there is nothyng of the Lordes worde fallē to the erthe / which he spake agaynst the house of Ahab: for the Lorde hath done that he spake to his seruaunt Eliah. And so Jehu slue all ꝑ remeynyed of the house of Ahab / in Jezrahel / & all that were great with him / & his companyons & his preastes / vntyll he had left hym naught remayne. And he arose and departed & went to Samaria. And as Jehu was come cuē to the house where the shepherdes vnde their shepe by ꝑ hye waye syde / he met wyth the brethren of Ohoziah kyng of Juda / and sayde: what are ye? & they sayde, the brethren of Ohoziah are we / and go to salute the chyldren of the kynge and of the quene. And he sayde: take them a lyue. And they toke them a lyue / & slue thē at the well besyde ꝑ house where ꝑ shepard vnde their shepe, in nombre .xlij. personnes, that he left none of them.

And when he was departed thence he mett with Jehonadab the sonne of Rechab comyng agaynst hym. And Jehu saluted hym & sayde to him: is thyne hert ryght / as myne hert is with thyne. And Jehonadab sayd / yee that it is. If it be / then gyue me thyne hand. And he gaue his hād / & the other toke him vp to him into ꝑ charet & sayde: go with me & se the zeale I haue to the Lorde, & made him ryde with him in his charet. And whē he came to Samaria / he slue all ꝑ remayned vnto Ahab in Samaria / tyll he had wypte him out / accordyng to the sayng of ꝑ Lord which he spake to Eliah.

After that Jehu gatherred all the people to gether & sayde to thē: * Ahab serued Baal a litle: But Jehu shall serue him a good. Now therfore call vnto me all the Prophetes of Baal & all his seruaūtes & all his preastes / ꝑ none be lackyng. For I haue a great sacrefyce to do to Baal: & if any be missed he shall not lyue. But Jehu dyd it for a soteiltye / to destroye the seruaūtes of Baal. Wherfore Jehu sayde: I poynte a solempe feast for Baal / & they proclamed it. Then Jehu sent thorow out all Israel. And all the seruaūtes of Baal came, that there was not a man left behinde that came not. And when they were come in to the temple of Baal / the temple was full from one ende to another.

Then he sayde to the keper of the vestrye / bringe forth garmentes for the seruauntes of Baal. And he brought thē out garmentes. And Jehu went with Jehonadab sonne of Rechab into the house of Baal: and sayde to the seruauntes of Baal: searche and loke that there be none here with you of the seruauntes of the Lord / but ꝑ seruauntes of Baal onlye. And they went in / to offer sacrefyce & burntofferynges. But Jehu appoynted him foure score men without & sayde: If any of ꝑ men which I shall bryng vnto youre hōdes escape / he that letteth him go shall dye for hym.

And as sone as he had made an ende of offerynge of burntsacrefyce, he sayde to them of the garde & to the Lordes: go in & sley thē / let none come out. And they smote thē with ꝑ edge of the swerde. And ꝑ garde & the Lordes cast them out / & went vnto the cytie of the house of Baal / & fet out the Image out of ꝑ house of Baal & burnt it. And they brake ꝑ Image of Baal / & brake the house of Baal / & made a iesse of it euer after. And so Jehu destroyed Baal out of Israel. But from the synnes of Jeroboam the sonne of Nabat whych made Israel synne with the goulden calues in Bethel and Dan / Jehu departed not.

Then the Lorde sayde to Jehu / because thou hast iustely done that pleaseth me / and hast done to the house of Ahab all that was in myne hert, therfore shall *thy chyldren in the fourth generacion syt on the seate of Israel. But Jehu serued not to walcke in ꝑ law of the Lorde God of Israel with all his hert: for he departed not from the synnes of Jeroboam which made Israel synne.

In those dayes the Lorde began me to cut Israel shorte, for Hazael slue them in all the coostes of Israel / from Jordan Eastwarde: euen all the lande of Galaad the Gadites, & Rubenites and the Manasites / from Aroer vpon the ryuer of Arnon / with Galaad and Basan. The rest of the actes of Jehu / and all he dyd / & all his power / are wrytte in ꝑ chronicles of the kynges of Israel. And when Jehu was layde to rest with hys fathers / they buryed him in Samaria, & Joahaz his sonne raygned in his stead. And ꝑ tyme ꝑ Jehu raygned vpō Israel in Samaria / was .xxviij. yere Jehoas. Amaziah. Jehoiada.

AND Athaliah the mother of Ohoziah/when she saw that her sonne was dead/she arose and slewe all ỹ seede of the kyngdome. But Jehoseba the daughter of kyng Jehoram & syster of Ohoziah, toke Jehoas the sonne of Ohoziah/ and stale him from among the kynges sonnes that were slayne/ & hys nource wyth him/out of a slepynge chambre/ & hydd hym frō Athaliah, that he was not slayne. And he was wyth her/hydd in the house of the Lorde vi. yere. And Athaliah dyd raygne ouer ỹ lād.

And the seuenth yere Jehoiada sent & fet the rulars ouer hundredes wt the captaynes & them of the garde/& toke thē into him into ỹ house of the Lorde/and made a bonde with them / and toke an othe of them in the house of the Lorde/& shewed thē the kynges sonne. And he cōmaunded them saying: this is that ye must do: one third parte of you shall come on the Saboth daye and kepe the watche of the kynges house: And another thirde parte shalbe at the gate Sur: and another thyrde parte shalbe at the gate behynde the garde chambre, and so shall ye kepe the watche of the house* of Melah, & two portions of you: that is, all that goo oute the Saboth daye/ shall kepe ỹ watche of the house of ỹ Lorde aboute the kyng, & shall compase the kynge round aboute/euery mā wt his wepen in hys hande. And whosoeuer cometh wyth in the rāges shall dye for it. And se that ye be with the kynge as he goeth out and in.

And the captaynes ouer the hundredes did all thyng, as Iehoiada ỹ preast cōmaunded: & toke euery mā his men, that is/thē ỹ came in the Saboth daye with them that wēt out the Saboth daye/and went to Jehoiada the preaste. And ỹ preaste gaue to ỹ captaynes ouer hundredes the speares & shyldes ỹ were kyng Dauids & had remayned in the tēple. And the garde stode euery man wt his wepon in his hand round aboute the kynge / frō the vyght corner of the tēple to the lefte a long by aultaer & the tēple. And he brought oute the sonne of the king & put the crowne vpō him/ and delyuered him the* witnesse, & made him kynge & anoynted him. And they clapte their hādes and sayde: God saue the kynge.

* That is / the lawe of God. Deut. xvij. d.

And when Athaliah heard the noyese of ỹ runnynge of the people, she came to ỹ people into the house of the Lord. And whē she sawe the kyng stāde by a pyler (as the maner was) & the syngers & the trompettes by the kyng/ & all the people of the lande reioysynge / and the blowynge of the trompettes she rent her clothes & cryed/treason treason. And Jehoiada the preaste cōmaunded the Captaynes of the hundredes ỹ had the rule of the hoste/and sayde to thē: haue her out without ỹ ranges/ & yf any folow her, let him dye wt the swerde: for ỹ preaste sayde, she may not be slayne in the house of the Lorde. And they layde hādes on her/& she wēt the waye that the horses of the kynges went out & was slayne there.

And Jehoiada made a bonde both betwene the Lorde & the kyng/& betwene the people and the Lorde, that they shuld be the Lordes people: & also betwene ỹ kyng & the people. Then all the people of the land wēt into the house of Baal/& destroied his aultares/ and brake downe his Images lustely/& slue Mathan ỹ preast of Baal before ỹ aulter. And ỹ preast set watche men in ỹ house of ỹ Lord/ & toke ỹ rulars ouer hundred, & ỹ captaynes & the gard & all ỹ people of ỹ land: And they brought the kyng from the house of ỹ Lorde & went the waye of the gate of the garde of ỹ kyng house. And he sat him downe on the seate of the kynges. And all the people of the Lorde reioysed/ and the cytye was in quiet. And they slue Athaliah with the swerde in ỹ house of the kynge.

¶ Jehoas maketh prouision for the repayrynge of the temple. he is killed by. ij. of his seruauntes/and Amaziah raygneth in his steade.

¶ The.xij. Chapter.

JEhoas was seuē yere olde when he was made kyng. And he begāne to raygne the seuenth yere of Jehu/ & raygned fourtye yere in Jerusalem. His mothers name was Zebiah Berlabe. And he dyd that pleased ỹ Lorde/ as long as Jehoiada the Preast enformed hym. But they toke not awaye the hyllaulters / for the people slue & offered styll in the hyllaulters.

And Jehoas sayde to the preast: all ỹ syluer ỹ is dedicat & brought to the house of the Lorde in curraūt money, that is to saye, the money that euery man* is set at, with all ỹ money that euery mānes hert geueth him to bryng into ỹ house of the Lord let ỹ preaste take it to thē, euery mā of his aquayntaūce, & let thē repayre the broke places of ỹ tēple in all places where ought is found decayed.

* That is halfe a ryele a peece after the vse of Mol. s. Exo. xxx. b.

Neuerthelater the preastes had not mēded vnto the. xxiij. yere of Jehoas, ỹ was decayed in the temple. Then kyng Jehoas called for Jehoiada the preast & for the other preastes also/& sayde to thē: why repayre ye not ỹ broken places of the tēple? Now therfore se ỹ ye receaue no moare money of youre aquayntaunce, but delyuer it to repayre the temple withall. And the preast consented to receaue no moare money of the people: But that it shulde go to the mendynge of the temple.

Then Jehoiada the preast toke a coffer & bored an hoale in the lyd of it/ & put it beside the aultare on the vyght syde as a mā cometh into the house of the Lorde. And into ỹ dyd ỹ

And they gaue the money by sommes into the handes of the worcke men ꝑ had ꝑ ouersyght of the house of ꝑ Lord: & they brought it out to ꝑ carpenters & buylders ꝑ wrought vpon the house of the Lord/ & to masons and hewers of stone/to bye tymbre & hre stone/ to repaire the decay in ꝑ house of the Lord/ & all ꝑ that neaded repayrynge in the house: how be it there was not made in the house of the Lord/ booles of siluer/ snyrdyng knyues/ basens trōpetts or any other instrumētes of goulde or syluer/ of ꝑ money ꝑ was brought for the house of the Lord. For they gaue ꝑ to the worchemen/ to repayre therwith ꝑ house of the Lorde. Moreouer they reknedno not wt the men/ into whose handes they deliuered ꝑ money to be bestowed on worchemen: But they did it eue of fidelite. How be it trespace money & synne money might not be brought into ꝑ house of ꝑ Lord/ for it was ꝑ preasts.

Then came Hazael kynge of Syria / and fought agaynst Geth & toke it/ & appoynted him self to go vp to Jerusalem. But Jehoas
D kyng of Juda toke all the dedicat thynges ꝑ Jehosaphat Jehorā & Ohoziah his fathers kynges of Juda had dedicat, & ꝑ he him selfe had dedicated/ & all ꝑ gould ꝑ coulde be found in the treasure of the house of the Lorde & of the kynges house/ & sent it to Hazael kynge of Syria: & so he departed from Jerusalem.

The remnaunt of ꝑ actes of Jehoas & all he dyd/ are writtē in ꝑ chronicles of ꝑ kyngs of Juda. And his awne seruauntes arose and wrought treason/ & slue Jehoas in the house Meko/ in ꝑ waye downe to Sela. Jozabar ꝑ sonne of Semaath & Jehozabad ꝑ sonne of Somer hys seruāts/ smote him/ ꝑ he dyed. And they buried him with his fathers in the citie of Dauid. And Amaziah his sonne raigned in his steade.

¶ The. xiij. Chapter.

IN ꝑ .xxiij. yere of Jehoas sonne of Ohoziah king of Juda/ Jehoahaz ꝑ sonne of Jehu was made kynge ouer Israel in Samaria/ & continued. xvij. yere. And he wrought wickednesse in the syght of the Lorde: for he folowed the synne of Jeroboā the sonne of Nabat which made Israel synne/ & departed not ther frō. Wherfore the Lord was angry with Israel/ and delyuerd them into the hande of Hazael kyng of Syria/ and into the hand of Benhadad the sonne of Hazael all their dayes.

But Jehoahaz besought ꝑ Lord/ & ꝑ Lord heard him. For he had sene ꝑ oppressiō of Israel/ how the kyng of Syria oppressed them And therfore ꝑ Lord gaue Israel a delyuerer & they wēt out frō vnder ꝑ hādes of the Syrians. And ꝑ chyldrē of Israel dwelt in their tentes as before tyme. Neuertheles they de- B

The rest of the actes of Jehoahaz/ & all he did & his powre are written in the chronicles of the kynges of Israel. And Jehoahaz rested with his fathers & they buryed him in Samaria/ & Joas his sonne raigned in hys steade. In the. xxxvij. yere of Jehoas kyng of Juda, begāne Joas ꝑ sonne of Jehoahaz to raigne ouer Israel in Samaria/ & cōtynued. xvi. yere/ & did vnhappely in ꝑ syght of the Lord & departed in nothing frō the synnes of Jeroboā ꝑ sonne of Nabat C that made Israel synne/ but walked therin.

The remnaūt of the actes of Joas & all he dyd/ & his power, how he fought wt Amaziah kynge of Juda/ are written in the chronicle boke of the kynges of Israel. And whē Joas was layde to rest with his fathers / Jeroboā sat vpon his seate. And Joas was buryed in Samaria amonge the kynges of Israel.

When Eliseus was fallen sycke of ꝑ sycknesse wherof he dyed / Joas kynge of Israel came to him & wepte to him/ & sayd: O father father ꝑ charet of Israel & the horsemen of ꝑ same. And Eliseus sayde vnto hym/ bringe boow & arowes. And he brought to him bow & arowes. And he sayde to ꝑ kynge of Israel: put thine hand vpon ꝑ boowe, & when he had put his hande vpō the boow/ Eliseus put his hādes vpō ꝑ kyngs hāds. Then he sayde open a wyndowe eestwarde: & he opened. And Eli- D seus sayde: shote/ & he shotte. And he sayd: the arowe of helpe of ꝑ Lord, & the arowe of helpe agaynst the Syrās, for thou shalt bete ꝑ Syriens in Aphek tyll thou haue cōsumed thē.

Then he sayde: take arowes: and he tooke. Then he sayde to the kynge of Israel/ smyte the grounde: & he smote thrise & ceased. And the mā of God was angrie with him & sayde: thou shuldest haue smytē fiue or syxe tymes/ and then thou haddest smytten the Syriens tyll thou haddest consumed them: where now thou shalt bete them but thrise.

the yere folowynge. And it chaunced as they were buryenge a man / that they spyed the Scudyares, & therfore cast the mā into the sepulchre of Eliseus. And as sone as the mā came and touched ꝑ bones of Eliseus / he reuiued and stode vp on his fete.

And Hazael oppressed Israel / al the dayes of Jehoahaz. But the Lorde had mercye on thē & pytied them & turned to thē / because of his appoyntmēt made with Abrahā / Isaac & Jacob / & wolde not destroye them, ether cast thē from him as yet. And when Hazael kyng of Syria was dede / Benhadad his sonne raygned in his stede. And then Joas the sonne of Jehoahaz wēt agayne & toke out of the hāde of Benhadad sonne of Hazael / the cytyes which he had taken awaye out of the handes of Jehoahaz his father / by warre. And thre tymes dyd Joas beate hym and brought the cytyes of Israel agayne.

¶ Amaziah the kyng of Juda putteth to deeth ꝑ manquellers of his father: and after smyteth Edom. Joas kyng of Israel taketh Amaziah and robbeth the temple of the Lorde. Jeroboam his sonne succeedeth in his rowme: and after him raygneth Zachariah. Amaziah is kylled in Lachis / and Azariah raygneth in his stede.

¶ The .xiiij. Chapter.

In the .ij. yere of Joas sonne of Jehoahaz kyng of Israel raygned Amaziah ꝑ sonne of Jehoas kyng of Juda: he was .xxv. yere olde whē he began / and raygned .xxix. yere in Jerusalem. His mothers name was Jehoadan / & was of Jerusalem. And he dyd that pleased the Lorde / yet not lyke Dauid his father: but dyd in all thynges as Joas his father dyd. Nether toke they awaye the hyllaulters: But ꝑ people slue and offered styll in ꝑ hyllaulters. And as sone as the kyngdom was setteled in his hande, he slue his seruauntes that kylled the kyng his father. But the chyldrē of those murtherars he slue not / as it is writtē in the boke of the lawe of Moses, where the Lorde cōmaunded sayīg: *the fathers shall not dye for the chyldrens cause / nor the chyldren for the deades of their fathers: But euery man shalbe slayne for his awne synne.

*And he slue of ꝑ Edomites in the saltvalleye ten thousand, and toke the towne Sela with strenght of battell / and called the name of it Jekthеel euer after.

After ꝑ Amaziah sent messengers to Joas the sonne of Jehoahaz sonne of Jehu kynge of Israel sayinge: come / let vs se eche other. But Joas kyng of Israel sent agayne to Amaziah kynge of Juda sayīg: A thistel in Libanō sent to a cyprese tree in Libanō sayīg: geue thy daughter to my sonne to wyfe. But ꝑ wylde beastes in Libanon wēt and troade downe the thistel. Bec ause thou hast beaten the Edomites / therfore thyne hert ryseth. Be glorious: but tarye at home. For what needest thou to prouoke to myschefe / that thou shuldest be ouerthrowen & Juda with the.

But Amaziah wolde not heare. And so Joas kyng of Israel went vp / & he and Amaziah kyng of Juda sawe ether other at Bethsames in Juda. And Juda was put to the worse before Israel, & they fled euery man to his tēte. And Joas kyng of Israel toke Amaziah kynge of Juda / sonne of Jehoas sonne of Ohoziah, at Bethsames. And then he wēt to Jerusalem / and brake downe of the walle of Jerusalem from the gate of Ephraim to ꝑ corner gate / foure hundred cubytes. And he toke all the gould & siluer & all the vesselles that were founde in the house of the Lorde / and in the treasure of the kynges house / and hostages therto: & then returned to Samaria agayne.

The rest of ꝑ actes of Joas which he dyd / and his powre / & how he fought with Amaziah kynge of Juda / are written in the chronicles of the kynges of Israel: & Joas layde him to rest with his fathers and was buryed at Samaria amonge the kynges of Israel: & Jeroboā his sonne raigned in his rowme.

Amaziah the sonne of Jehoas kynge of Juda, lyued after the deeth of Joas sonne of Jehoahaz kyng of Israel / fyftene yere. And the remnaunt of ꝑ deades of Amaziah / are written in the chronicles of ꝑ kynges of Juda. And they conspired great treason agaynst him in Jerusalem / & he fled to Lachis. And they wēt after hī to Lachis & slue him there. And they brought him on an horse & he was buried at Jerusalem wt his fathers in ꝑ cytie of Dauid. * And all the people of Juda tooke Azariah / which was .xvi. yere olde / & made him kynge for hys father Amaziah. And he ꝑ bylt Ailath and brought it agayne to Juda / after that the kynge was layde to rest with his fathers.

The .xv. yere of Amaziah sonne of Joas kynge of Juda / was Jeroboā sonne of Joas made kynge ouer Israel in Samaria / and raygned .xli. yere, and wrought wyckednesse in the syght of the Lorde: for he turned in nothyng frō the synne of Jeroboā ꝑ sonne of Nabat which made Israel synne. He restored ꝑ costes of Israel frō the enterynge of Hemath vnto the see / in the wylde feldes / according to the worde of the Lord God of Israel which he spake thorow his seruaūt Jonah the sonne of Amithai ꝑ prophete / which was of Geth Opher. For the Lorde had sene how that the affliccion of Israel was exceadyng bytter / in so moche ꝑ the presoned & the forsakē were at an ende. And there was no helper vnto Israel. And the Lorde had not yet

¶ The.xv. Chapter.

In ꝯ.xxvij. yere of Jeroboā kyng of Israel / Azariah sonne of Amaziah kyng of Juda beganne to raigne.

§. Para. ccb. a

Sixtene yere olde was he whē he was made kynge, & he raigned.lij. yere in Jerusalem / his mothers name was Jecheliah / & was of Jerusalem. And he dyd ꝯ pleased ꝯ Lorde in all thynges as did his father Amaziah: saue that they put not the hyllaulters awaye: for ꝯ people offered & burned fat still in the hyllaulters. And the Lorde smote the kyng / that he was a leper vnto ꝯ daye of his dethe and dwelt in an house at lybertye / and Jotham the kynges sonne gouerned ꝯ house & iudged the people of the lande. The rest of the deades of Azariah & all he did / are writtē in ꝯ chronicles of ꝯ kyngs of Juda. And Azariah layde him to slepe wt his fathers / & they buryed him wt his fathers in the cytie of Dauid / & Jothā his sonne raigned in his steade.

In ꝯ .xxxviij. yere of Azariah kyng of Juda / was Zachariah the sonne of Jeroboam made kyng vpō Israel in Samaria / & raigned syxe monethes, & *dyd ꝯ displeased the Lorde / as did his fathers / and turned not frō the synnes of Jeroboam the sonne of Nabat which made Israel synne. And Selum the sonne of Jabes conspired agaynst him / and smote him before the people / & kylled him / and raygned in his steade.

The rest of the deades of Zachariah are writtē in the chronicles of the kyngs of Israel. This is the saying that the Lorde spake vnto Jehu saying: *thy sonns shall sytt on ꝯ seate of Israel in the fourth generacion. And it came so to passe.

4ti. Reg. x. c.

Selum the sonne of Jabes beganne to raygne the.xxxix. yere of Azariah kynge of Juda / and he raygned a moneth in Samaria. For Manahem the sonne of Gadi came vp from Therzah and wēt to Samaria and smote Selum the sonne of Jabes in Samaria / and slue him / and raygned in his steade. And the rest of the deades of Selum & the treason / which he conspired are writtē in ꝯ chronicles of the kyngs of Israel. The same tyme Manahem destroyed Thaphsah and all they were therin / and the coostes therof frō Therzah (because they opened not to him) he smote and rent all the wemen with chylde.

The.xxxix. yere of Azariah kynge of Juda / beganne Manahem the sonne of Gadi to raigne vpon Israel / & continued ten yere in Samaria. And he dyd euell in the syghte of the Lorde / & turned not all his dayes frō the synne of Jeroboam ꝯ sonne of Nabat which made Israel synne. And Phul kynge of Assiria came vpō the land. And Manahem gaue Phul a thousand talentes of syluer / to helpe him to stablysshe his kyngdome. And Manahem raysed the money in Israel / vpō all men of substaunce / for to geue the kynge of Assiria fyftie sycles of syluer a pece. And ꝯ kyng of Assiria turned backe agayne & taried not there in the lande.

The rest of the deades of Manahem & all he dyd / are writtē in the chronicles of the kynges of Israel. And whē Manahem was layde to rest with his fathers Phaketah hys sonne raygned in his steade.

The fyftieth yere of Azariah kyng of Juda / beganne Phaketah the sonne of Manahem to raigne ouer Israel in Samaria / and cōtinued two yere / & wrought wyckedly in ꝯ syghte of the Lorde & lefte not of frō ꝯ synnes of Jeroboā sonne of Nabat which made Israel synne. And Phaketh the sonne of Romeliah a Lorde of his conspired agaynst hym and slue hym in the palayse of the Kynges house, with Argob and Iriah and fyftie men with him that were Galaadites: and whē he had kylled him / raigned in hys rowme. The rest of Phaketah and all he dyd are writtē in the chronicles of the kynges of Israel.

And the.lij. yere of Azariah kyng of Juda beganne Phaketh the sonne of Romeliah to raigne ouer Israel in Samaria and continued.xx. yere / and did euell in the syght of the Lorde / and turned not from the synnes of Jeroboā sonne of Nabat ꝯ made Israel synne. In the dayes of Phaketh kyng of Israel / cam Teglath Phalasar kyng of Assyria / and toke Ion, Abel. Beth Maacah, Janoah, Kadz / Hazor, Galaad, Galile / and all the lande of Nephthali / & caried them awaye to Assyria.

And Hosea the sonne of Elah conspyred treason agaynst Phaketh the sonne of Romeliah and smote him and slue him and raigned in hys steade / the.xx. yere of Jotham the sonne of *Oziah. The rest of ꝯ actes of Phaketh and all he dyd are writtē in the stories of the kynges of Israel.

* Otherwise Azarish as some wyll haue.

The

The seconde yere of Phakeh sonne of Romeliah kynge of Israel / beganne Iotham the sonne of Oziah kynge of Juda to raigne. Fyue & twētie yere olde was he when he beganne to raygne / and he raygned .xvj. yere in Jerusalem. Hys mothers name was Jerusa the daughter of Sadok. And he dyd that was ryght in ꝑ syght of ꝑ Lorde: euē in all thinge as did his father Oziah / did he. But they put not awaye the hyll aulters: for the people offered & burnt incense still in the hyll aulters / he bilt the highest doze in ꝑ howse of ꝑ Lord. The reast of the deades of Iotham and all he dyd / are writtē in ꝑ Cronycles of the kynges of Juda. In those dayes the Lorde begāne to sende agaynst Juda / Razin ꝑ kyng of Syria and Phakeh the sonne of Romeliah. And Iothā rested with his fathers & was buryed with his fathers in the citie of Dauid his father / & Ahaz his sonne raigned in his steade.

¶ Ahas kyng of Juda consecrateth his sonne in fyre: & hath many battelles agaynst the kynge of Israel. He causeth an aulter to be made lyke vnto it of Damasco. In the steade of Ahaz raygneth Hezekiah his sonne.

¶ The .xvj. Chapter.

A In the .xvij. yere of Phakeh sonne of Romeliah kynge of Israel / Ahaz sonne of Iotham kynge of Juda / beganne to raygne . xx . yere olde was he / when he was made kyng: & raygned xvj. yere in Jerusalem / and dyd not that was ryght in the eyes of the Lorde his God / lyke Dauid his father: But went in the waye of the kynges of Israel / & therto he offered hys sonne in fyre / after the abomynacyon of the hethen whych the Lorde cast out before the chyldren of Israel. And he offered & burnt the fat in the hylaulters & on the hylles & vnder euery grene tree. *Then Razin kyng of Syria & Phakeh sonne of Romeliah kynge of B Israel came vp to Jerusalē to fight. And they besieged Ahaz / but coulde not ouercome him. At the same tyme Razin kynge of Syria brought Ailath agayne to Syria / & ryd the Jewes thence. And the Syrians went to Ailath and dwelt therin vnto this daye.

Then Ahaz sent messengers to Teglath Phalasar kyng of Assyria, saying: I am thy seruaunt & thy sonne / come & deliuer me out of the hand of ꝑ kyng of Syria / & out of the hand of the kynge of Israel which are ryssen agaynst me. And Ahaz toke the syluer & the goulde that was founde in the howse of the Lord & in the treasure of the kynges howse / & sent it for a rewarde to ꝑ kynge of Assyria. And the kynge of Assyria herkened to hym / & went to Damasco / & toke it / and caried the people awaye to Kir / and slue Razin.

And kynge Ahaz went agaynst Teglath Phalasar kyng of Assyria to Damasco. And when he sawe a certen aulter ꝑ was at Damasco / he sent to Uziah the Preast ꝑ patern of ꝑ aulter & ꝑ facyō of all the workmanship therof. And Uziah ꝑ Preast made an aulter C in all poynts lyke to ꝑ patern which kyng Ahaz had sent frō Damasco / & had fynished it by ꝑ kynges comyng frō Damasco. And whē the kynge was come frō Damasco & sawe ꝑ aulter / he went to it & offered theron. And he burnt his burntoffringe / and sprynckeled the bloud of hys peaceoffrynge / and powred hys drynkeofferyng & sprynkeled the bloud of his peaceoffringes vpō the sayde aulter. And the brasen aulter ꝑ was before the Lorde / *he sett frō before the howse, frō betwene ꝑ aulter & the howse of the Lorde, & put it on the northsyde of the sayde aulter.

* That is he remoued it out of the temple / that it shulde not stande betwene the aulter & the howse of the Lorde.

And the kyng cōmaunded Uziah ꝑ Preast sayīg: vpō the great aulter set on fyre, in the morynge burntoffringes & in the euē meate offerynges / & the kynges burntsacrifice and his meatoffringe / & the burntoffringes of all the people of the lande & their meateoffringes & their drynckeoffrynges / & powre theron all the bloud of all maner offringes. But ꝑ brasen aulter shalbe for me / to enquyre with. D And Uziah ꝑ preast dyd all thynges as kyng Ahaz cōmaūded hym. And kyng Ahaz brake ꝑ sydes of ꝑ botomes & toke ꝑ lauers frō of thē, & toke downe the see frō of ꝑ brasen oxē ꝑ were vnder it, & put it vpon a pauemēt of stone. And therto the pulpit for the Saboth that they had made in the howse / & ꝑ kynges entrie without turned he to the howse of the Lorde, for feare of the kynge of Assyria. The reste of the dedes of Ahaz whych he dyd are writtē in the Chronycles of the kynges of Juda. And Ahaz layde him to rest with his fathers, and was buryed with his fathers in ꝑ citie of Dauid: & Hezekiah hys sonne raygned in hys rowme.

¶ Hosea kynge of Israel is taken. And he and all hys realme wrought to the Assyrians.

¶ The .xvij. Chapter.

IN the .xij. yere of Ahaz king of Juda / Hosea sonne of Elah begāne to raygne in Samaria vpon Israel / & contynued .ix. yere / & dyd ꝑ displeased the Lorde / but not so euell as dyd ꝑ kynges of Israel that were before hym. And Salmanasar kynge of Assyria came vpon him / & Hosea became his seruaūt & gaue him presentes. And the kynge of Assyria founde treason in Hosea / because he had sent messengers to Sua kynge of Egypte / & sent no presentes vnto ꝑ kyng of Assyria / as he was yerely wont to doo. Therfore ꝑ kynge of Assyria beleged him & put him in prysō. * And then the kyng of Assyria came thorowout all the lande / & came to Samaria & beleged it thyze yere. And in the nynthe yere of Hosea/ ỹ kyng of Assyria toke Samaria & caryed Israel awaye vnto Assyria & put thẽ in Hala/ in Habor on ỹ ryuer of Gozan, & in ỹ cities of the Medes. For the chyldzẽ of Israel had synned agaynst the Lorde their God which brought thẽ out of the land of Egypt/ frõ vnder the hand of Pharao kyng of Egypt / and feared other Gods. And they walked in ỹ ordinaunce of the hethen which the Lorde cast out before ỹ chyldzẽ of Israel/ & in ỹ thinges which the kynges of Israel had made. And ỹ chyldzẽ of Israel wrapte thẽ selues in thinges that were not well towarde the Lorde their God. And they bylt them Hilaulters in all their cytes both in the *towres where they kept watch and also in the stronge townes. And they made them Images & groues on euery hye hyll & vnder euery grene tre. And there they sacrefyced in the Hilaulters / as did the hethen which the Lord caryed awaye at their cõmynge/ & wrought wicked dedes/ to angre the Lorde with all. And they serued Idoles, wherof the Lorde had sayde to them: ye shall not do so.

* In ỹ Towres where &c. that is in all places / both great and small

And the Lorde testified to Israel & to Juda/ by all the prophetes & by all the sears sayig: Turne frõ youre wycked wayes & kepe my cõmaundementes & myne ordynaunces accordyng to all the lawes which I cõmaũded youre fathers / & as I sent to you by my seruauntes ỹ prophetes. Notwithstãdyng they wolde not heare, but hardened their neckes/ lyke to the neckes of their fathers ỹ dyd not beleue the Lorde their God. And they refused his ordinaunces & his appoyntmẽt ỹ he had made wt their fathers & the wytnesse wherwith he had wytnessed to thẽ / & folowed vanyte & became vayne, lyke to the hethen that were round aboute them / of which the Lorde had charged thẽ, that they shuld not do lyke thẽ. But they lefte the cõmaundementes of the Lorde their God & made thẽ Images of metall, euen .ij. calues. & made groues & bowed them selues vnto all the* Hoste of heauen/ & serued Baal. And they sacrefyced their sonnes & their daughters in fyre/ & vsed wytchecraft & enchaũtemẽt & were solde to worcke wickednesse in ỹ syght of ỹ Lord, for to angre hi.

* That is/ Starres or planetes

Wherfore the Lord was exceadyng wroth with Israel & put thẽ oute of his syght, that there was left but ỹ tribe of Juda only and therto Juda kept not the cõmaundemẽtes of the Lorde their God but walked in the ordinaũces of Israel which they had made. Therfore the Lorde cast vp all the seed of Israel & vexed thẽ and delyuered them into the hãdes of spoylers vntyll he had cast thẽ oute of his syght. And Israel deuyded them selues from the house of Dauid, and made Jeroboam ỹ sonne of Nabat kyng. Which Jeroboã thrust Israel awaye from the Lorde and made thẽ synne a great synne. And so the chyldzẽ of Israel walcked in all the synne of Jeroboam which he had sett vp / and departed not therfrom/ vntyll the Lorde had put Israel awaye oute of hys syght/ as he sayde by all hys seruauntes the prophetes. And so he translated Israel out of their land to Assyria / euen vnto this daye.

And the kyng of Assyria brought frõ Babylon & frõ Cutha/ & frõ Aua & frõ Hemath and from Sepharuaim and put them in the cyties of Samaria in steade of the chyldzen of Israel. And they possessed Samaria and dwelt in the cytes therof. But at the begynnynge of their dwellyng they feared not the Lorde. Wherfore the Lorde sent lyons vpon thẽ which slue thẽ. Then men tolde the kyng of Assyria saying: The nacyons which thou hast translated & put in the cytes of Samaria, knowe not the maner of the God of the lande / and therfore he hath sent lyons vpon them/ which slaye them/ because they know not the maner of the God of the lande.

Then the kynge of Assyria commaunded sayig: carye thether one of ỹ preastes which ye brought thẽce/ & let him go & dwell there/ & teache thẽ the lacyon how to serue the God of the contreye. And then one of the preastes which they had caried thence/ wẽt & dwelt in Bethel / & taught thẽ how they shulde feare ỹ Lorde. Howbeit euery nacion made their awne Gods & put thẽ in ỹ houses of the Hilaulters which the Samaritans had made/ euery nacyõ in their cities where they dwelt. The men of Babilõ made Socoth, Benoth. The men of Cuth made Nergel. They of Hemath made Asima. The Euites made Nebahaz, and Charthak. And the Sepharuaites burnt their chyldzẽ in fyre vnto Adramelech and Anamelech the Gods of ỹ Sepharuaites. And though they feared the Lorde / yet they made them preastes of the lowest of the people, for the Hilaulters/ which sacrificed for them in ỹ houses of the Hilaulters. And so they feared the Lorde/ and yet serued their awne Gods after the maner of the people frõ whence they were brought.

Socoth. Benoth. Nergel. Asima. Nebahaz. Charthak. Anamelech.

Vnto this daye they do after the olde maner: they nether* feare the Lorde, nether do after their awne ordynaunces and customes, and after the lawe & cõmaundement which the Lorde commaunded the chyldzen of Jacob whose name he called Israel / and made an appoyntemẽt with them & charged them saying: feare not any other Goddes nor bowe your selues to thẽ nor serue them/ nor sacrifice to them: but to the Lorde which brought you out of the land of Egypt wt great powre and & a stretched out arme: hym feare & tohym bowe & to hī do sacrifice. And þ ordynaūces/ customes lawe & cōmaundement which I wrote for you/ se that ye be diligent to do for euermore, & feare not any other goddes. And the appoyntemēt þ I haue made with you/ se ye forget not/ and that you feare none other Goddes: but the Lorde youre God ye shall feare/ & he shall delyuer you out of þ handes of all youre enemyes. How be it they hearde not/ but dyd after the olde maner. And euē so dyd these nacīōs feare þ Lorde & serue their ymages therto: & so dyd their children & their childrens children to. Euen as dyd their fathers/ so do they vnto this daye.

*The. xviij. yere of kyng Hezekiah came Sennaherib kynge of Assyria agaynst all the stronge cities of Juda & toke them. Wherupon Hezekiah kyng of Juda sent to þ kyng of Assyria to Lachis saying: I haue offended. But depart frō me/ & what thou puttest on me that will I beare. And the kyng of Assyria appoynted vnto Hezekiah kyng of Juda thre hundred talentes of syluer & thirtye talētes of gould. *And Hezekiah gaue hym all the syluer that was founde in the howse of þ Lorde and also in the treasure of the kynges howse. And þ sayde season Hezekiah rent of the doores of the tēple of the Lorde & the pylers/ which þ sayd Hezekiah kyng of Juda couered ouer/ & gaue thē to þ kyng of Assyria.

D. 4. Reg. xix. b.

And the kynge of Assyria sent Tharthan & Rabsaris & Rabsakeh frō Lachis to kynge Hezekiah wt a great hoste to Jerusalē. And they went vp & came to Jerusalem/ & wēt & stode by the conduyte of the vppermost pole which is in the waye to the fullers felde/ and called to þ kynge. And there came out to thē/ Eliakim þ sonne of Helkiah stuarde of houshold & Sobnah þ scribe/ & Joah the sonne of Asaph/ the recorder. And then Rabsakeh sayde to thē. Tell ye Hezekiah I praye you: thus sayth the great kynge the kyng of Assyria. What confidence is this that thou hast? thou wilt haplye speake a syght worde/ that thou hast councell & powre to make warre. On whome then doest thou trust/ that thou rebellest agaynst me? dooste thou truste to the staffe of this broke rede Egypte/ on which if a man lene it will rēne into his hand & perce it. For euē so is Pharao kyng of Egypte vnto all that trust on him. *If ye saye vnto me, we trust in the Lorde oure God. Is not þ he whose hilaulters & other aulters to/ Hezekiah hath put downe/ & hath sayde to Juda & Jerusalem/ bowe youre selues before this aulter here in Jerusalem.

And now ioyne thy selfe to my lorde þ kyng of Assyria/ & I will delyuer þ two thousand horses/ if thou be able to sett ryders vpō thē: (and if thou be not) how then art thou able to resist one of the leste Dukes of my masters seruauntes? or trustest thou to Egypte for charettes and horsmen? Moreouer thinkest thou that I am come without the byddynge of the Lord to this place to destroye it? naye: the Lorde sayde to me/ goo vp to this land & destroye it. Then sayde Eliakim the sonne of Helkiah & Sobnah & Joah/ to Rabsakeh: speake we praye the to thy seruaūtes in the Syrians language, for we vnderstande it: & talke not with vs in the Iewes tonge/ in the eares of the people þ are on the walles. And Rabsakeh sayde vnto them: hath my master sent me only to thy master & to the/ to speake these wordes, or rather to the men that kepe the walles / that they shall eate their awne dyrte & dryncke their awne pisse wt you.

And so Rabsakeh stode and cryed wyth a lowde voice in the Jewes langage/and spake sayinge: heare the saying of the great kyng/ the kyng of Assiria. Thus sayth the kyng: let not Hezekiah begile you/ for he is not able to delyuer you out of myne hād: nether let Hezekiah make you trust to the Lorde sayinge: the Lorde shall surely rydd vs/ and this cytie shall not be delyuered into the handes of the G kyng of Assiria. Herken not vnto Hezekiah/ for thus sayth the kyng of Assiria.

Deale kyndely with me/ & come out to me. And then eate euery man of his awne vyne/ & of his awne fygg tree/ & dryncke euery mā of the water of his awne welle / tyll I come and fett you to as good a lande as youres is: a lande of corne and wyne/ a lande of breade & vyneyardes/ a lande of olyue trees/ of oyle & of hony. And ye shall lyue and not dye. And herkē not vnto Hezekiah for he wyll begyle you/ sayeng: the Lorde shall delyuer vs. For haue the Gods of the nacyons delyuered any God his lande out of the hāde of the kyng of Assiria: where are the Gods of Hemath & of Arphad: where are ỳ Gods of Sepharuaim of Ana and Iuah: did they deliuer Samaria out of myne hād? what God of any lād hath deliuered his lād out of myne hād/ ỳ the Lord shulde delyuer Jerusalem out of myne hād?

But the people helde their peace and answered not him a worde: for the kyng had cōmaūded sayīg: answere hi not. Then Eliakim the stuard of housholde & Sobnah the scribe and Joah the sonne of Asaph the recorder/ came to Hezekiah with their clothes rent & tolde him the wordes of Rabsakeh.

¶ The Angell of the Lorde kylleth an hundred foure skore and fyue thousand men of the Assyrians. Sennacherib is kylled of his owne sonnes.

¶ The .xix. Chapter.

Esa.xxxvij.a

When kyng Hezekiah hearde ỳ / he rent his clothes & put on sacke & wēt to the house of the Lord. Furthermore he sent Eliakim stuard of housholde/ and Sobnah the scribe/ and the elders of the Preastes clothed in sacke / to Jsaiah the prophete the sonne of Amoz. And they sayde to hym thus sayth Hezekiah: this daye is a daye of tribulacion/ rebukyng and rayling. Euen as whē the chyldrē are readye to be borne/ and the mothers haue no power to be deliuered. Oh ỳ the Lord thy God wold heare all the wordes of Rabsakeh whom ỳ kyng of Assyria his master hath sent to rayle on the lyuynge God/ and to rebuke him with wordes which the Lord thy God hath hearde Wherfore lyfte vp thy prayer for ỳ remnaūt ỳ are lefte. When ỳ seruaūtes of kyng Hezekiah were come to Jsaiah: Jsaiah sayd to thē. B So shall ye saye to youre master. Thus sayth the Lorde. be not afrayde of the wordes thou D heardest/ wt which the younge men of ỳ kyng of Assyria haue rayled on me. For I will sende him a blast that he shall heare tydinges/ & so returne to his awne lande: And I wyll ouerthrow him wt ỳ swerde/ euē in hys awne lād.

And Rabsakeh went backe agayne and founde ỳ kyng of Assyria fyghting agaynst Lobnah: for he had hearde how ỳ he was departed frō Lachis. And he harde tydinges of Therhakah kyng of ỳ blacke Moores/ how ỳ he was come out to fyght agaynst hym. And there vpon he departed & sent messengers vnto Hezekiah saying. Thus saye to Hezekiah kyng of Juda/ let not thy God carye the out of the waye, in whō thou so trustest sayinge: Jerusalem shall not be delyuered into ỳ hād of the kynge of Assyria. Beholde / thou hast C heard what the kyngs of Assyria haue done to all landes, how they haue vtterly destroied them. And how then shuldest thou escape? hathe the Gods of the hethen delyuered them which myne auncetries haue destroyed: as Gozan, Haran, Rezeph/ and the chyldren of Eden which were in Thelasar? where is the kyng of Hemath/ the kynge of Arphad / the kyng of the cytie of Sepharuaim / and the kyng of Ana and the kyng of Iuah.

When Hezekiah had receaued ỳ letter of the hand of the messengers and had redd it: he went into the house of the Lorde and layde it abroade before ỳ Lord. And Hezekiah prayed before the Lorde & sayde: Lorde God of Israel which dwellest betwene the Cherubes/ thou art God alone ouer all ỳ kyngdomes of ỳ erth/ & thou hast made bothe heuē & erthe. Lorde/ bow thyne eares & heare: Open Lord thyne eyes & se: & heare ỳ wordes of Sennacherib which hath sent to rayle on the lyuyng God. But of a truthe Lorde/ ỳ kyngs of Assyria haue destroyed nacions & their landes/ & haue sett fyre on their Gods. For they were D no Gods/ but the worke of the handes of mā: euē wood & stone. And therfore they destroied thē. Now therfore Lord oure God saue thou vs out of his hād/ ỳ all the kyngdomes of ỳ erthe maye knowe/ that thou Lord art God alone. And Jsaiah the sonne of Amoz sent to Hezekiah sayeng: thus saith the Lord God of Israel/ that that thou hast prayed to me concernynge Sennacherib kynge of Assyria, I haue hearde it. E This is the thyng ỳ the Lord sayth of him: he hath despised the/ O virgine daughter of Sion: he hath shaked his heed at the/ thou daughter of Jerusalem: whome hast thou rayled on/ and whom hast thou reuyled? Agaynst whom hast thou exalted thy voyce/ and hast lyfte vp thyne eyes so hye?

Euen

Cuen agaynst ỹ holy of Israel. By the* hand of thy messengers thou hast rayled on ỹ Lord and sayde: with the multitude of my charetts I am come vp to the height of ỹ mountaynes Euen along by the sydes of Libanon, & haue cut of ỹ hie Cedar trees & ỹ lustie fyre trees therof euen to the wood of Carmel ỹ belongeth therto. I haue digged & droncke straūge waters/and haue dryed vp with the soules of my sole poles enclosed.

* By the hand of thy messengers/ is a maner of speaking of the Hebrues: for ỹ we saye/ by the mouthe of thy messengers.

But hast thou not heard how I haue ordeyned soch a thynge a great whyle a goo, & haue prepared it from the begynnynge? And now I bynge it forth & it shalbe to destroye and to bynge stronge cuties in to rude heapes of stones. And the enhabiters of them shalbe of litle power/and sayntt herted & cōfounded. They shalbe lyke the grasse of the felde and grene erbes/and as the heye on the toppes of the houses which wetherth or it come to any heyght. I wote where thou dwellest, and thy comynge out and going in know I to, & how thou settest vp thy bystelles agaynst me. And because thou settest vp thy bystelles agaynst me/ and that thy ragynge is come vp to myne eares: therfore I will put* a rynge in thy nose and a bytt in thy lyppes, and will bynge the backe agayne ỹ same waye thou camest.

* To put a rig in their noses/ was to pacifye or tame their furye/ or to let them to do ỹ they thynck. Job. xl.b

And this shalbe a sygne vnto the: eate this yere of the frutes of the seade that fell out, & the next yere that wareth of it selfe. And the thyrde yere sowe ye and reape/ plant vyneyardes & eate ỹ frutes therof. For the* daughter of Juda that is escaped and lefte/ shall yet agayne take rotynge downewarde & beare fruite vpwarde. For out of Jerusalē shall go a remnaunt and a nombre that shall escape out of mount Sion: the zele of the Lorde of Hostes shall bynge this thynge to passe.

* The Gree stande. house.

Wherfore thus sayth the Lorde, of ỹ kyng of Assyria: he shall not come to this citie nor shote arowe into it/nor come before yt shilde nor cast any banche agaynst it: but shall go backe agayne the waye he came/ & shall not come at his cytye sayth the Lorde. For I will defende this citie and saue it/for myne awne sake and for Dauid my seruauntes sake.

And the selfe same nyght the Angell of ỹ Lorde wēt out & smote in ỹ Hoste of the Assirās an hundred fourte skore & fyue thousand And when they were vp erlye in ỹ mornynge: beholde/ they were all deed corses. And so Sennaherib kynge of Assyria auoyded and departed & wēt agayne/ & dwelt at Niniuch. And as he was in his deuocyō knelynge in ỹ house of Nisroch hys God/ Adramelech and Sarasar smote him with ỹ swerde. And they escaped into the lande of Ararat/ & Asarhadon his sonne raygned in his steade.

¶ Hezekiah is sycke & receaueth ỹ sygne of hys health by the dyall of Ahaz. He receaueth rewardes of Berodach/ and is reprehēded of Isaiah because he sheweth hym the treasure. He dyeth and Manasseh hys sonne raygneth in hys steade.

¶ The .xx. Chapter.

Boute ỹ tyme Hezekiah was sicke vnto the deeth. And the Prophete Isaiah sonne of Amoz came to him and sayde to hym. Thus sayth the Lorde: put thyne household in an ordre/ for thou shalt die & not lyue. And Hezekiah turned his face to the walle & besought ỹ Lorde sayinge: Oh Lorde/ remēbre yet how I haue walked before the trulye and with a perfecte herte/ & haue done that whych is good in thy syght/ and wepte a great pace.

I. Par. xxxij. k Esai. xxxviij. a.

And Isaiah was skarce gone out into the middle of the citie/ but ỹ the worde of ỹ Lorde came to hym sayinge: turne agayne and tell Hezekiah the capitayne of my people. Thus sayth ỹ Lorde God of Dauid thy father. I haue herd thy prayer & sene thy teares. Beholde ☞ I will heale ỹ/ & this daye thre dayes thou shalt go vp into the house of the Lorde. And I will lengthe thy dayes yet fyftene yere/ and wyll delyuer both the and this citie out of ỹ hand of the kynge of Assyria/ & wyll defende this citie for mine awne sake/ and for Dauid my seruauntes sake. And Isaiah sayde: bynge a lumpe of fygges. And they brought & put it on the sore/ and he recouered.

15

Then sayde Hezekiah to Isaiah: what is ỹ signe/ ỹ the Lorde will heale me/ & ỹ I shall go vp into ỹ house of the Lorde ỹ thirde daye? And Isaiah sayde: this signe shalt thou haue of the Lorde/ that the Lorde will do ỹ he hath spoken: shall the shadow go forwarde ten degrees/ or go backe agayne ten degrees? And Hezekiah sayde: it is a lighe thinge for ỹ shadow to go downe tē degrees. Therfore I will not that: but let the shadow go backewarde ten degrees. And Isaiah the Prophete called to the Lorde, * & he brought the shadow ten degrees backwarde by whych it had gone downe in the dyall of Ahaz.

Eccli. xlviij. d

¶ *The same season Berodach Baladan the sonne of Baladan kynge of Babilō sent letters & presents vnto Hezekiah for he hearde how ỹ Hezekiah was sycke. And Hezekiah harkened vnto them and shewed them all that was in the spycery house/ and his syluer and gouide & odoures & precioule oyntmētes and his armoure & all that was founde in his treasure: there was nothinge in his houle or in all his realme/ that he shewed thē not.

¶ Esa. xxxix. a.

Then came Isaiah ỹ Prophete vnto kyng Hezekiah and sayde to him: What saye these men and from whence come they to the? And Hezekiah sayde: they be come frō a farre cōtree, euen from Babilon. And he sayde: what haue they sene in thy house? And Hezekiah sayde: all that is in my house haue they sene: there is nothynge amonge my treasure that I haue not shewed them. And Isaiah sayde to Hezekiah: heare the worde of the Lorde. Beholde the daye shall come / that all that is in thyne house & that thy fathers haue layde vp in store vnto this daye / shalbe caryed to Babilon / & nothinge shalbe lefte sayth ỹ Lorde. And of thy sonne that proceaded out of the / whych thou begattest / shall there be caryed awaye / & shalbe made chamberlaynes in the palace of ỹ kyng of Babilon. And Hezekiah sayde to Isaiah: welcome be the worde of ỹ Lorde which thou hast spoken: so that peace and truthe be kept in my dayes.

The remnaũt of the deades of Hezekiah & all his power / and how he made a pole and a conduite and brought the water into the cytye / are written in the boke of the chronicles of the kynges of Juda. And Hezekiah layde hym to rest wyth hys fathers / & Manasseh hys sonne raygned in hys steade.

¶ Wycked Manasseh restoreth agayne the Idolles & after dyeth, in whose steade Amõ his sonne succedeth / which is kylled of his owne seruauntes: After hym raygneth faythfull Josiah.

¶ The xxi Chapter.

Manasseh was twelue yere olde when he beganne to raygne and raygned fyfty and fyue yere in Jerusalem: hys mothers name was Haphzibah. And he did ỹ dispicased ỹ Lorde / euen after the abhominacions of the Hethen which the Lorde cast out before the childrẽ of Israel. And he went and built the hillaulters agayne / whych Hezekiah hys father had destroyed. And he reered vp aulters to Baal and made groues as dyd Ahab kynge of Israel. And he bowed hym selfe vnto all the * Hoste of heuen & serued them. And he built aulters in the very house of the Lorde, of whych the Lorde had sayde: * in Jerusalẽ I wyll put my name. And he built aulters vnto all the Host of heuen / euen in two courtes of the house of the Lorde. And he offered his sonne in fyre / & obserued dismall dayes / & vsed witchcraft and mayntened workers with spyrites / & tellers of fortunes: & wrought moche wyckednesse in the syght of the Lorde to angre hym.

And he put an ymage of a graue that he had made, euen in the verye temple of wbych the Lorde had sayde to Dauid & to Salomõ his sonne, * in this house & in Jerusalẽ which I haue chosen out of all trybes of Israel, will I put my name for euer. Nether will I make the fete of Israel moue any moare out of the lande which I gaue their fathers: so that they will be diligent to do all I haue commaunded them, and all the law that my seruaunt Moses commaunded them. But they herkened not: for Manasseh had led them out of the waye / to do moare wickedlye then did the hethen people which the Lorde destroyed from before the chyldren of Israel.

And the Lorde spake by his seruaũtes the Prophets sayinge: because Manasseh kinge of Juda hath done soche abhominacions / and hath wrought wyckedlye aboue all that the Amorites which were before him did: & hath made Juda synne also wb his Idoles. Therfore thus sayth ỹ Lorde God of Israel. * Beholde, I will bringe soche euell vpõ Jerusalẽ & Juda / ỹ the eares of all that heare it, shall tyngle at it. And I will stretch ouer Jerusalẽ the squarynge lyne of Samaria & the plometh of the house of Ahab. And I wyll wype out Jerusalem / as a mã woide wipe a dishe / and when he hathe wyped it turneth it vpsedowne. And though I leue a remnaũt of myne enheritaunce yet I wyll delyuer thẽ into the handes of thẽ that hate thẽ / & they shalbe robbed and spoyled of all their enemyes: euẽ because they haue done wyckedlye and haue angred me / sence the tyme their fathers came out of Egipte vnto this daye.

And therto Manasseh shedd innocẽt bloud exceadyng aboundãtlye / in so moche that he replenyshed Jerusalem in all corners / beside his synne wherwyth he made Juda synne & to do euell in the syght of the Lorde.

The rest of the actes of Manasseh & all he did & his synne that he synned / are written in the boke of the chronicles of the kinges of Juda. And Manasseh layde hym to slepe wb his fathers / and was buryed in the gardẽ of his awne house / euen in the gardẽ of Oza: & Amon his sonne raygned in his steade.

Amon was .xxij. yere olde when he begãne to raygne / and he raygned two yere in Jerusalem. His mothers name was Mesalemeth the daughter of Haru of Jathbah. And he did that displeased the Lorde as his father Manasseh dyd. And he walked in all the waye ỹ hys father walked in / and serued the Idoles that hys father serued / & bowed hym selfe to them. And he forsoke the Lorde God of hys fathers & walked not in the waye of ỹ Lorde.

And the seruauntes of Amon conspired agaynst hym / & slue him in hys awne house. But the people of the lande slue all that cõspired agaynst kynge Amon / & made Josiah his sonne kyng in his rowme. The rest of ỹ actes of Amon which he did are writtẽ in the Chronicle of ỹ kinges of Juda. And they buried hi in his sepulchre in ỹ garden of Oza / & Josiah his sonne raygned in his steade.

¶ After Josiah heard of the boke of the lawe that was founde in the temple / he sendeth to Olbah the Prophetisse for counsell.

¶ The .xxij. Chapter

Josiah

Josiah was.viij.yere olde when he beganne to raygne / & he raygned xxxi.yere in Jerusalem. Hys mothers name was Jedidah ỹ daughter of Adaiah of Bezecath. And he did ỹ lewed right in the syght of the Lorde / & walked in all the wayes of Dauid hys father / & bowed nether to the right hande or to the lefte.

And the.xviij.yere of hys raygne kynge Josiah sent Saphan the sonne of Azaliah the sonne of Mesulam the scribe to the house of the Lorde, sayinge: go to Helkiah the hye preaste / & let hym summe the syluer that is brought into the house of the Lorde / wheych the kepers of the dores haue gathered of the people / and let them deliuer it into the handes of the workmen that haue the ouersyght of the house of the Lorde / wheych shall geue it to them that worke vpon the house of the Lorde / to repayre the decayed places therof / euen vnto carpenters and masons / and for to bye tymbre and hewe stone to repayre the house. Howbeit let no rekenynge be made wyth them of the monye that is deliuered into their handes / but let them do it of their conscyence.

And Helkiah the hye preste sayde to Saphan the scribe. I haue founde the boke of the lawe in the temple of the Lorde, and Helkiah gaue the boke to Saphan / and he redde it. And then Saphan the scribe went to the kynge and brought him woorde agayne / and sayde: thy seruauntes powred out the syluer that was founde in the temple / and haue deliuered it vnto the workemen that haue the ouersyght of the house of the Lorde. Furthermore Saphan the scribe shewed ỹ kinge sayinge: Helkiah the preast hathe deliuered me here a boke. And Saphan red it before the kynge.

And the kynge as sone as he had heard ỹ wordes of the boke of the lawe / he rent hys clothes and commaunded Helkiah the preast and Ahikam the sonne of Saphan & Achobor the sonne of Michaiah / and Saphan ỹ scribe, and Asahiah a seruaunt of the kynges / sayinge: go ye and seke of the Lorde for me and the people and for all Juda / concernynge ỹ wordes of this boke that is founde. For it is a great wrath of the Lorde that is kendled vpon vs that oure fathers haue not hearkened vnto the wordes of this boke, to do in all poyntes as it is written therin.

And Helkiah the hye preste and Ahikam / Achobor, Saphan, Asahiah went vnto Oldah ỹ Prophetisse wyfe of Selum the sonne of Tekuah the sonne of Harahas keper of the robes / wheyche Prophetisse dwelt in Jerusalem in the seconde warde / and communed with her. And she sayde to thē: thus sayth the Lorde God of Israel. Tell the man that sent you to me: thus sayth the Lorde: beholde I will brynge euell vpon this place and on ỹ dwellers therin: euen all the wordes of the boke wheych the kynge of Juda hath red / because they haue forsake me and haue burnt offerynges vnto other Gods / to angre me wt all the *workes of their handes. Therfore is my wrath kendled agaynst thys place / and shall not be quenched. *That is wyth their Images.

But to the kynge of Juda which sent you to enquire of the Lorde / so shall ye saye: thus sayth the Lorde God of Israel / as touchynge the wordes wheych thou hearde. Because thyne hert dyd melt and thou mekedest thy selfe before me the Lorde / whē thou hearde what I spake agaynst thys place and the enhabiters of the same / how that it shuld be destroyed and made a curse: and tarest thy clothes and weptest before me: of that also I haue hearde sayth the Lorde. And therfore se / I wyll *receaue the vnto thy fathers & thou shalt be put vnto thy graue in peace / thyne eyes shall se none of the euell which I wyll bringe vpon thys place. And they brought the kynge woorde agayne. *Receaue the vnto thy fathers / that to vnto the same sayth a ryghtwesnes that thy fathers are receaued too: wheych may be called the bosome of Abraham Luc.xvi.f.

¶ Josiah readeth Deuteronomye before the people. He putteth downe the Idolles / after he had kylled the preastes therof. He kepeth passouer. He was kylled in Megiddo / and hys sonne Jehoaz raygneth in hys stede: after he was taken hys sonne Jehoakim was made kyng.

¶ The.xxiij.Chapter.

And then the kynge sent and gathered vnto hym all the elders of Juda and of Jerusalem. And the kynge went vp into the house of the Lorde / and all the men of Juda and all the enhabitoures of Jerusalem wyth hym / & the preastes and the Prophetes and all the people bothe small and greate. And he red in the eares of thē all the wordes of the boke of the couenaunt / wheych was found in the house of the Lorde. And the kynge stode by a piller & made a couenaunt before ỹ Lorde that they shuld walke after the Lorde / and kepe hys commaundementes and hys wytnesses and hys ordynaunces wyth all theire hertes and all theire soules / and make good the wordes of the sayde apoyntment ỹ were writtē in the forsayde boke. And all ỹ people consented to the apoyntment.

And the kynge commaunded Helkiah the hye preaste and the inferioure preastes & the kepers of the dore / to bynge out of the tēple of the Lorde, all the vesselles that were made for Baal & for the groue & for all the *hoste of heauen. And he burnt them without Jerusalem in the feldes of Cedron & caried the ashes of them in to Bethel. And he put downe ỹ *Camarites which ỹ kynges of Juda had set to set to burne offerynges in the hilaulters in the cytyes of Juda round about Jerusalem and also thē that burne sacrifices vnto Baal to the sonne & to the mone & to the planetes / & to all the Hoste of heauen. And he brought out the groue from the temple of the Lorde without Jerusalem vnto the broke Cedron / & burnt it at the broke Cedrō & stampte it to poulder & *cast the duste therof vpō the graues of the people of the countreye. And he brake downe the celles of ỹ malehores that were in the house of the Lorde, where ỹ wemen woue lytle houses for the groue.

* This dyd he to reproue them of the that had worshipped the in their vnfruytfulnesse.

And he brought all the prestes out of the cities of Juda / & defiled the hilaulters where the prestes did burne sacrifyce / euen frō Gabaa to Berlabe. And he brake downe the hilaulters of the Gates / that were in the entrynge of the gate of Josua ỹ gouernoure of the citie / whiche were on the lefte hande of ỹ gate of the citie. Neuertheleſſe the prestes of the hilaultares myght not come at ỹ aulter of the Lorde in Jerusalē / saue onlye they did eate of ỹ swete breade amonge their brethrē.

And he defyled Tophet also / which is in ỹ valeye of the children of Hemmom, because no man shulde offer hys sonne or hys daughter in fyre to Moloch. he put downe ỹ horses that the kinges of Israel had geuē to ỹ sonne at the entrynge of the house of the Lorde, in the chambre of Nathanmelech the chamberlayne which was of Parnasim & burnt the charettes of the sonne with fyre. And ỹ aulters that were on the toppe of the parloure of Ahaz which the kinges of Juda had made / and the aulters whych Manasseh had made in the two courtes of the house of the Lorde / the kynge brake downe / & ranne thence and cast the duſt of thē in to the broke Cedron.

* Other rede ỹ hyll of offence. Some of corrupcyō or perdicyō ensuyng therby the hyldyng whych they had there vpited to worshyp Idoles in.

* That is of ỹ Suburbes.

And the hilaulters that were before Jerusalem on the right hand of the mount * Mashith / which Salomō kynge of Israel built to Astharoth the abhominacyō of the Zidons and to Chamos the abhominacion of ỹ Moabites, & to Milchom the abhominacyō of ỹ children of Ammon, ỹ kynge defiled: & brake the ymages & cut downe the groues and fylled the places with the bones of men.

* Some rede mounte of ruyne.

Moreouer the aulter that was at Bethel / the hilaulter made by Jeroboam ỹ sonne of Nabat whych made Israel synne: bothe the aulter and also the hyll he brake downe and burnt the hill and stampte it to powder / and burnt the groue. And as Josiah turned hym selfe he spied the graues ỹ were in the mount and sent & fett the bones out of the graues & burnt them vpon the aulter & polluted it accordynge to the worde of the Lorde that the man of God had proclaymed / which openlye had denounced the same thynges.

Then ỹ kynge sayde: what meaneth yonder graue stone that I se. And the men of the cytie tolde him / it is the sepulchre of the man of God, which came from Juda and openlye denounced the selfe same thynges that thou hast done to ỹ aulter of Bethel. And he sayde let hym be: se that no man moue hys bones. And so his bones scaped with the bones of a Prophete that came out of Samaria.

And therto all the houses of the hilaulters of the cities of Samaria whych the kynges of Israel had made / to angre with all: Josiah put out of the waye & dyd to thē in all poyntes as he did in Bethel. And he sacrifyced all the preastes of ỹ hilaulters that were there euen vpon the aulters / & burnt mennes bones vpon thē / and returned to Jerusalem.

And the kynge cōmaunded all the people & sayng: * kepe ỹ feast of passouer vnto ỹ Lord youre God / as it is written in ỹ boke of this couenant. For there was no passouer holden lyke that / from the dayes of the iudges that iudged Israel / and thorow out all the dayes of the kynges of Israel and of Juda. And in the .xviij. yere of kynge Josiah was this passouer holden to the Lorde in Jerusalem.

* n. Par. xxxv.

And therto workers with spyrites / sothsayers Images of witchcrafte / ydoles and all other abhominacions that were spyed in the lande of Juda and in Jerusalem / Josiah put out of the waye / to make good the woordes of the lawe / whych were wrytten in the boke that Helkiah the preaste founde in the house of ỹ Lorde: like vnto him was there no kynge before hym / that turned to the Lorde with all his herte / with all his soule & all hys myght / accordynge to all the lawe of Moses / neither after him arose there any lyke.

Not withstandynge the Lorde turned not from his fearce and great wrath wherwyth he was angrie agaynst Juda vpon all ỹ prouocacions that Manasseh prouoked hym. But ỹ Lorde sayde: I will put Juda too / out of my syght / as I haue done Israel / & will cast of thys cytye Jerusalem whych I haue chosen, and the house of which I haue sayde / my name shalbe there.

The rest of the deades of Josiah and all he did are wrytten in the boke of the Storyes of the kynges of Juda.

*In his dayes Pharao Necoh king of Egipt went agaynst the kynge of Assyria to the ryuer of Euphrates. And kynge Josiah went agaynst him, and was slayne of him at Magedo when he had sene him. And his seruaūtz caryed him deed from Magedo and brought him to Jerusalē & buried him in his awne sepulchre. And the people of ỹ lande toke * Jehoahaz the sonne of Josiah & anoynted him & made him kynge in hys fathers rowme.

And

And Jehoahaz was.xxiij.yere olde when he beganne to raygne and raygned thre monethes in Jerusalē. Hys mothers name was Hamital the daughter of Jeremiah of Lobnah. And he dyd that displeased the Lorde/in all thyng as his fathers had done. And Pharao Necoh put him in bondes at Reblah in ỳ lande of Hemath* in ỳ tyme of hys raygne in Jerusalem, and put the lande to a trybute of an hundred talentes of syluer and a talent of golde. And Pharao Necoh made Eliakim ỳ sonne of Josiah/kynge in the rowme of Josiah his father/and turned hys name to Jehoakim / and toke Jehoahaz awaye whyche when he came to Egipte dyed there.

* The Greke reade / that he shuld not raygne.

And Jehoakim gaue the syluer & the golde to Pharao: how be it he taxed ỳ lande/to geue the money at the cōmaundement of Pharao and as euery man was set at / so he required the syluer and the goulde of the people of the lāde/to geue Pharao Necoh. Jehoakim was xxv.yere olde when he beganne to raygne/& he raygned a.xi.yere in Jerusalem. Hys mother was named Zebdah ỳ daughter of Phadaiah of Ramah. And he dyd that was euell fauoured in the syght of the Lorde/like in all thynges as did his fathers.

¶ Jehoakim dyeth/and after him succedeth Jehoacin Jerusalem is besieged of the Babylonians. Jehoacin yeldeth him selfe to the kyng of Babilon. And in hys rowme cam Mathaniah/which was called Zedekiah.

¶ The.xxiiij.Chapter.

1 IN his dayes came Nabuchodonozor kinge of Babilon/& Jehoakim became his seruaūt thre yere / and then turned and rebelled agaynst him. And ỳ Lorde sent vpō him men of warre out of Caldey/out of Syria/out of the Moabites/and frō the chyldren of Ammon: & sent them into Juda/to destroye it / accordynge to the sayinge of ỳ Lorde which he spake by his seruauntes the Prophetes. Only at the bydynge of the Lorde happened it so to Juda/to put thē out of his syght/for ỳ synne of Manasseh accordynge to all he dyd: and for the 3 innocent bloude that he shedde and fylled Jerusalē with innocent bloude/which ỳ Lorde wolde not forgeue.

2 The rest of the dedes of Jehoakim and all he dyd / are wrytten in the chronicles of the kynges of Juda. And Jehoakim laye hym to slepe with his fathers & Jehoacin his sonne raygned in his steade. But ỳ kinge of Egipte came now no moare out of hys lande: for the kynge of Babilon had taken from the ryuer of Euphrates all that pertayned to ỳ kynge of Egipte. Jehoacin was.xviij.yere olde whē he begāne to raygne/& raygned in Jerusalē thre monethes. His mothers name was Nehustha ỳ daughter of Elnathan of Jerusalē.

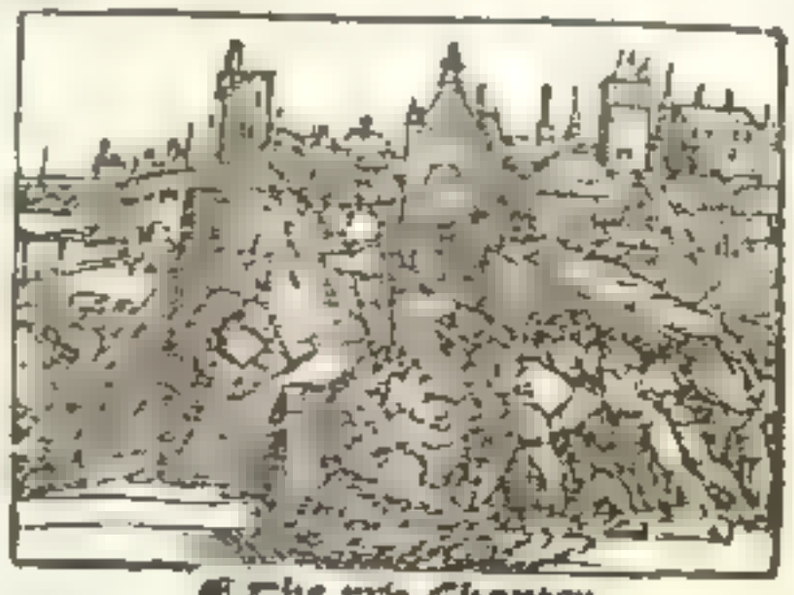
And he did that displeased the eyes of ỳ Lorde in all poyntes as his father did.

*In his tyme came the seruaūtes of Nabuchodonozor kynge of Babilon / to Jerusalem and the cytye was beseged. And Nabuchodonozor came to the cytye as hys seruaūtes were yet a besegynge of it. *And Jehoacin the kynge of Juda came out to the kynge of Babilon/with hys mother/his seruauntes/hys Lordes & hys chamberlaynes. And the kynge of Babilon toke hym / in the eyght yere of hys raygne. Daniel.a. ¶ Ecclesi.j.a.

And he caryed out thence all the treasure of the house of the Lorde/and the treasure of the kynges house/and brake all the vesselles of golde whyche Salomon kynge of Israel had made/in the temple of the Lorde/as the Lord had sayde. And he caryed awaye all Jerusalem, and all the Lordes and all the men of myghte/to the nombre of ten thousande in to captiuytye and all craftes men and Joyners/none remaynynge saue ỳ poore people of ỳ lande. And he caryed awaye Jehoacin to Babilon/& the kinges mother/& the kynges wiues & his chāberlaynes & the myghtie of ỳ lande caryed he awaye frō Jerusalē to Babilon. And all ỳ mē of actiuite to the nūbre of seuen thousande/& craftesmen and toyners a thousand/all stronge & apte for warre/did ỳ kyng of Babilon bringe to Babilō to dwell. *And ỳ kynge of Babilō made Mathaniah hys fathers brother, kynge in his steade, and chaunged his name & called him Zedekiah. ỳ 4.Reg.xxiv.b. Jerem.xxv.a.

Zedekiah was.xxi.yere olde when he begāne to raygne & he raygned a.xi.yere in Jerusalē. His mothers name was Hamital the daughter of Jeremiah of Lobnah. And he did euell in the syght of the Lorde/in all poyntes lyke to Jehoakim. For throughe ỳ wrath of the Lorde it so chaunced to Jerusalem & Juda/vntyll he had cast them out of hys syght. And the sayde Zedekiah rebelled agaynst the kynge of Babilon.

¶ By the rebellyng of Zedekiah is the towne of Jerusalem beseaged of Nabuchodonozor. The towne & the temple are bothe burnt. The sonnes of Zedekiah are slayne before his eyes & after are his eyes put oute. Juda is brought to Babilon / and after is Jehoacin exalted.



¶ The.xxv.Chapter.

Wherfore

A Wherfore in the nynthe yere of hys raygne, the tenthe daye of the tēthe monethe, came Nabuchodonozor kynge of Babilon wyth all hys power to Jerusalem: and pitched agaynste ꝑ towne and made engynes agaynst it on eue-ry syde. And the citie continued besieged vnto the .xi. yere of kynge Zedekiah. And ꝑ nynthe daye of the fourthe monethe of that yere/there was so great honger in ꝑ citie/ ꝑ there was no sustinaūce for the people of ꝑ lande.

And therto the citie was broken vp: wherfore all the men of Armes fled by nyght/ by a waye thorow a gate/ betwene two walles harde on the kynges garden: the caldeyes lyenge aboute the cytye.

B And the kynge wēt straycht towarde the deserte. And ꝑ hoste of the Caldeyes folowed after hym/ and toke him in the deserte of Jericho/ all hys armye beynge scatered awaye from him. And whē they had taken him/ they brought him to Nabuchodonozor the kynge of Babilon to Reblah, where they* reasoned with hym. And they slue the sonnes of Zedekiah before his eyes/ and put out the eyes of Zedekiah and fettered hym, and caryed hym to Babilon.

*That is they rehearsed him ꝑ commune matter with hym because he had re-belled & wonen hys othe.

And the seuē the daye of the fyfth monethe which was in ꝑ nyntenth yere of kynge Nabuchodonozor kynge of Babilon/ came Na-busaradan seruaunte of the kynge of Babilon and* chefe Marshall/ vnto Jerusalem: & burnte the house of the Lorde & the kynges house and all the houses of Jerusalem, & all greate houses burnte he with fire. And all ꝑ hoste of the Caldeyes that were with ꝑ chefe Marshall: brake downe the walles of Jeru-salē rounde aboute. And the rest of ꝑ people that were lefte in the citie/ & them that were fled to the kynge of Babilon/ & the rēnaunt
C of the comen people/ Nabusaradan ꝑ chefe Marshall caried awaye & lefte of the poore of the lande to dresse the vynes and to tyll the grounde.

*Some rede. chefe of ꝑ coo-kes. Some chefe captayne.

And the pillers of brasse that were in the house of the Lorde and the botomes/ and the brasen see that was in the house of ꝑ Lorde
the Caldeyes brake/ & caried the brasse of thē to Babilō. And the lauers/ shouelles/* dres-kynge knyues/ ladelles/ & the myustrynge
D sirepānes/ & basens that were ether of golde or syluer/ thē toke ꝑ chefe Marshall awaye with the two pillers and the see of brasse and the bottomes whych Salomon had made in the house of the Lord. The brasse of all these vesselles was wythout waycht. The heyght of the one piller was xviij. cubites/ and the heed theron was brasse and thre cubites lōge with a wrethe & pomegranets rounde about vpon the heed/ all of brasse. And of the same fassyon was ꝑ seconde pyller with a wrethe.

*Some reade. Instrumentes of musyke.

And the chefe Marshall toke Saraiah ꝑ E chefe preste/ and Sophoniah the hiest preste saue one/ & thre kepers of the doore. And out of the citie he toke a certayne chamberlayne that had the ouersyght of the men of warre/and fiue men that were euer in the kynges presence/ whiche were founde in the cytye. & Sopher the captayne of the hoste ꝑ taught the people of ꝑ lande to make warre/ & thre skore men of the people of ꝑ lande that were founde in the citie also. And Nabusaradan ꝑ chefe Marshall toke them and brought thē to the kynge of Babilon to Reblah. And the kyng of Babilon smote them and slue them at Reblah in ꝑ lande of Hemath. And so Iu-da was caried awaye out of their lande. F

And ouer the people that remayned in the lande of Juda, which Nabuchodonozor kyng of Babilon lefte/ he set Godoliah the sonne of Ahikam the sonne of Saphan. And when all the capitaynes of the men of warre & the men hearde that the kynge of Babilon had made Godoliah gouerner: there came to Go-doliah to Mazphah: Ismael ꝑ sonne of Na-thaniah and Johanan the sonne of Kareah & Saraiah the sonne of Thanehumeth ꝑ Netophathite & Jezoniah ꝑ sonne of Maachati and their men. And Godoliah sware to thē and to their men/ and sayde to thē: feare not ye the seruauntes of ꝑ Caldeyes. But dwelle in the lande and serue the kynge of Babilon and ye shalbe in good condycion. G

But it chaunced the seuenth monethe after/ that Ismael the sonne of Nathaniah the sonne of Elisama of the kynges bloude came/ and ten men with hym and smote Gedoliah that he dyed: and so did he the Jewes and the Caldeys ꝑ were with hym at Mazphah.
Therupon all the people bothe smalle and greate and ꝑ captaynes of the men of warre arose & wēt to Egipte: for they were afrayed of the Caldeyes.

Notwithstandinge yet the .xxvij. yere after Jehoacin kyng of Juda was caryed a waye, the .xxvij. daye of the twelueth mone-the/ dyd Euilmerodach kynge of Babilon lifte vp the heed of Jehoacin kynge of Juda out of the prysone house/ and spake kyndely to hym and set hys seate aboue the seate of all the kynges that were with him in Babilon, and chaūged hys pryson garmētes. And he did euer eate breade before him all ꝑ dayes of his lyfe. And a continuall porcyō was as-sygned hym of the kynge/ daye by daye as longe as he lyued.

To lyft vp de heed/ is often take for settyng vp the hole m/ & causyng hym to flourysshe as here is spoken and .cxl.b.

¶ The genealogye of Ruben and Gad and of the halfe tribe of Manaſeh.

¶ The .v. Chapter.

The sonnes of Ruben the eldeſt sonne of Israel: for he was the eldeſt.* But because he defyled hys fathers bed / hys birthryght was geuen vnto the sonnes of Ioseph the sonne of Israel / and sothe is not reckened vnto the byrthe ryght. For vnto Iuda whych was myghtie amonge hys brethren, was geuē the principalitye before him. But ꝑ byrthryght was geuen Ioseph. The sonnes then of Ruben ꝑ eldeſt sonne of Israel / were Henoch / Phalu / Hezron and Carmi.

The sonnes of Ioel: Samaiah and[a] hys sonne Gog / and hys sonne Semei, and hys sonne Micah / and the sonne of hym was Reaiah / and hys sonne was Baal / and Beerah was hys sonne. Whych Beerah Thiglath Phalneſer / kynge of Aſſyria caryed awaye: for he was a great Lorde amōge the Rubenites. But vnto hys brethren in their kynredes / when they are reckened after their byrthe / were Ieiel and Zacharias the cheefe heedes.

And Bala the sonne of Azan the sonne of Sema the sonne of Ioel, dwelt in Aroer and so forth vnto Nebo & Baalmaon. And eeſtwarde he enhabyted vntyll the wyldernesse/ euen vpō the ryuer Euphrates / for their catell was moche in the lande of Galaad.

And in ꝑ dayes of Saul they warred vpō the Hagarites whych were ouerthrowen by theire handes. And they dwelt in their tentes thorow out all the eeſt lande of Galaad.

And the Chyldren of Gad dwelt ouer agaynſt them in the lande of Basan / euen vnto Salcah. And in Basan Ioel was the cheefest and Saphan the next / then Iaanai and Saphat. And their brethren in the auncyent houſholdes of them / were Michael / Meſolam / Seba / Iorai / Ioacan / Zia / Eber and Henen. These were the chyldren of Abihail ꝑ sonne of Huri ꝑ sonne of Ieroah Galaad ꝑ sonne of Michael ꝑ sonne of Ieſiſai ꝑ sonne of Iahado the sonne of Buz. Ahi was ꝑ sonne of Abdiel the sonne of Gum the heed of an auncyent houſholde amonge thē. And they dwelt in Galaad and in Basan and her townes / & in all ꝑ Suburbes of Saron / euen vnto the ende of their borders.

And they were all reckened by kynredes in the dayes of Iotham kynge of Iuda / and in the dayes of Ieroboam kynge of Israel.

The sonnes of Ruben of Gad and of halfe ꝑ tribe of Manaſeh, euen of fyghtynge men able to beare shylde and sworde / and shott wyth bowe / and taught to make warre, were foure & fourtye thouſande seuē hundred & thyrtye shore that went out to battell. And they fought wyth the Hagarites and wyth Ietur / Naphas and Nodab. And they were holpe agaynſt them / and the Hagarites were deliuered into their handes wyth all ꝑ were wyth the Hagarites. For they cryed to God in the battell / and he hearde them / because they truſted to hym. And they toke of their catell fyftye thouſande camelles / and two hundred and fyftye thouſand sheepe / and two thouſande aſſes / and of the people an hundreth thouſand: for there fell manye dead because ꝑ warre was of God. And they dwelt there in theire steades vntyll the tyme that they were carped awaye.

¶ The battell of Saul agaynſt the Philiſtines: in which he dyeth and hys ſonnes alſo.

¶ The. x. Chapter.

1. Reg. xxxi. a.

Now the Philiſtines fought agaynſt Iſrael. And the men of Iſrael fled before the Philiſtines & were ouerthzowen and ſlayne in Mounte Gelboe. And the Philiſtines folowed Saul and his ſonnes and ſlue Jehonathan/ Abinadab and Melchiſua the ſonnes of Saul. And the battell went ſore agaynſt Saul/ in ſo moche that the ſhoters met him/ & he was wounded of the ſhoters. Then ſayde Saul to his wepõ bearer * draw thy ſwerde & thzuſt me thzowe therwith / that theſe vncircumciſed come not and do me ſhame. And his wepone bearer wolde not/ but feared exceedyngly. Wherupon Saul caught a ſwerde & fell vpon it. And whẽ his harneſbearer ſawe that Saul was deed/ he fell on a ſwerde alſo and dyed.

Jud. ix. g. 1. Reg. xxxi. b.

And thus Saul and hys thze ſonnes and all hys houſe dyed to gether. And whẽ all the men that dwelt in the valeyes/ ſaw how they fled, and that Saul and his ſonnes were deed they forſoke their cytes & ranne awaye/ and the Philiſtines came and dwelt in them.

And on ỹ mozow when ỹ Philiſtines came to ſtripe the deed bodyes / they founde Saul and his ſonnes ouerthzowen in mounte Gelboe. And when they had ſtripte hym they toke hys heed and hys harneſſe and ſent them into the lande of the Philiſtines round aboute to ſhew tydynges vnto their Gods and to the people. And they put his harneſſe in ỹ houſes of their Gods. But hys ſkulle they hanged in the houſe of Dagon.

And when all they of Jabes in Galaad D heard all that the Philiſtines had done to Saul, all ỹ men of warre aroſe & fet awaye the bodye of/ Saul & ỹ bodyes of his ſonnes and bzought them to Jabes and buryed the bones of them vnder an ocke in Jabes, & faſted ſeuen dayes.

And ſo Saul dyed for his treſpace that he treſpaced agaynſt the Lozde, in that he kept not the wozde of the Lozde, and in that he aſked councell of a woman that wzought with a ſpzite/ & aſked not of ỹ Lozde. And therfoze the Lozde killed him & turned the kyngdome vnto Dauid the ſonne of Jeſai.

¶ After the death of Saul is Dauid annoynted in Hebrõ. The Jebuſites rebell agaynſt Dauid frõ which he taketh the Towre of Sion. His men are nombred.

¶ The. xi. Chapter.

Then all Iſrael geathered thẽ ſelues to Dauid vnto Hebzon, and ſayde: ỹ. Reg. v. a. Se we be thy bones and thy fleſhe. And mozeouer in tyme paſt / euen when Saul was kynge / thou leddeſt Iſrael out and in. And the Lozde thy God ſayde vnto the: thou ſhalt fede my people Iſrael/ & thou ſhalt be captayne ouer my people Iſrael. And when all the elders of Iſrael were come to the kynge to Hebzon / Dauid made a couenant with thẽ there befoze the Lozde. And they annoynted Dauid kynge ouer Iſrael accozdynge to the wozde of the Lozde by the hand of Samuel.

And Dauid and all Iſrael went to Jeruſalem whych is Jebus: for there dwelt the Jebuſytes the enhabiters of the lande. And ỹ enhabiters of Jebus ſayde to Dauid/ thou comeſt not here. Neuertheleſs Dauid wanne the caſtel of Sion, whych is called ỹ cytye of Dauid. Then ſayde Dauid: whoſoeuer ſmyte the Jebuſites fyrſt/ ſhalbe the pzyncipall captayne & a lozde. And Joab the ſonne of Zaruiah went fyrſt vp and was therfoze ỹ chefe captayne. And becauſe Dauid dwelt in the caſtel/ therfoze it was called the cytye of Dauid. And he built ỹ cytie on euery ſyde euen from Milo rounde aboute. But Joab repared the reſt of the cittie. And Dauid pzoſpered and waxed great/ and the Lozde of hoſtes was wyth hym.

*Theſe are the pzincipall men of powze ỹ claue to Dauid in hys kyngdome wyth all Iſrael, to make hym kynge vpon Iſrael accozdynge to the wozde of the Lozde. And after him Eleazar the sonne of Dodo an Ahohite which was one of the thre mightyest. He was wyth Dauid at Phasdamin where the Phylystynes were geathered to battell. And there was there a parsell of grounde full of barleye / and the people fled for feare of the Philistines. And they stepte forth into the myddes of the furlonge and saued it and slue the Philistines. And the Lorde gaue a great victorye.

D And the thre of the .xxx. chefe went to a rocke to Dauid at the caue Odolam. And the Hoste of the Phylystines had pytched in the valey of Raphaim. And Dauid was in an holde. And there was a garison of the Philistines at Bethlehē that same tyme. And Dauid longed & sayde: * Oh that one wolde geue me of the water of ẏ well of Bethlehem that is in the gate / for to drincke. And ẏ thre brake thorow the Host of the Philistines and drew of the water of the well of Bethlehem ẏ was in ẏ gate / and toke it & brought it to Dauid. Neuertheles Dauid woolde not drincke of it, but offered it to the Lorde / and sayde: God forbyd it me / that I shulde do thys thynge / ẏ I shulde drincke ẏ bloude of these men that haue put their lyues in Jeopardye (for wyth the Jeopardye of their lyues they brought it) and therfore he wolde not drincke it. Thys dyd the thre myghtyest.

1. Reg. xxiij. c.

E And Abisai the brother of Joab was captayne of the thre / and he lyfte vp hys spere agaynst .iij. hundred and slue them / and had a name amonge the thre. And he was moche more nobler then any of the thre / and was theire captayne. But was not lyke to any of the thre in actes.

Banaiah the sonne of Jehoiada the sonne of a stronge man that had done great deades & was of Cabzeel: he slue two stronge lyons of Moab / & went downe and slue a Lyon in a pyt in tyme of snowe. And he slue an Egiptian which was a man of a size / euen fyue cubytes longe / and in hys hand had a speare F lyke a weuers beame. And the other went to him with a walker and plucked ẏ speare out of the Egiptians hande / & slue hym with hys speare. Soche thynges dyd Banaiah the sonne of Jehoiada / and had a name wyth the thre myghtyest / and was the gloryousest of thrytye: but attayned not vnto the thre. And Dauid made hym of his secret councell.

And these were the best men of warre of the Hoste: Asahel the brother of Joab and Elhanan the sonne of Dodo out of Bethlehem. Samoth the Haroryte / Helez the Phalonite: Ira the sonne of Akes the Thekuite / Abieser the Anathothite: Sobacai the Husathite / Ilai the Ahohite: Maharai the Nethophathite and Heled the sonne of Baanah the Nethophatite: Ithai the sonne of Ribai of Gabaah that pertayneth to the chyldren of Beniamin: Banaiah the Pharathonite: Haurai of the ryuer of Gaas and Abiel the Arbathite: Azmoth the Bahurumite / Elahaba the Saalbonite. And Jeribai and Josoiah the sonnes of Elnaem and Jethmah a Moabite. Eliel and Obed and Jasiel of Masobaiah.

¶ What they were that went wyth Dauid when he fledde from Saul.

¶ The .xij. Chapter.

Nd these folowenge came to Dauid to Ziclag / whyle he yet * kept hym selfe close for feare of Saul the sonne of Cis: and they were of the men that socoured the battell / wepened with bowes / and couldе handle stones / arowes and bow as well wyth the lefte hande as wyth the ryght / and were of Sauls brethren / euen of the trybe of Beniamin. The chefest were Ahiezer and Joas the sonnes of Samaah a Gibaonite / & Jaziel a Phalte / the sonnes of Azmoth. Baracah and Jehu of Anathoth. And Ismaiah a Gabaonite as mighty as any of thrytye & moare myghtye to. And Jeremiah / Jehaziel / Johanan & Josabad of Gedor. Elcusai, Jerimoth Baaliah Samariah and Saphatiah: Haraphites Elcanah Jesiah / Izrael, Joezer / Jolesboam of Harehim. And Joelah and Zabadiah the sonnes of Jeroham of Gedor.

* That is, hyde hym selfe.

And of ẏ Gadites there separated thē selues B vnto Dauid whē he kept an holde in the wildernesse / mē of myghte & men apte for warre and couldе handle shylde and speare / whose faces were lyke the faces of Lyons / and they were therto as swifte as the Roes of the mountaynes: Ezer the fyrst / Obdiah the seconde, Eliab ẏ thirde, Mismannah ẏ fourthe Jeremiah the fyfte / Ethi the syxte / Eliel the seuenthe /

seuenthe/Johanam the eight. Elsabad ỹ .ix. Jeremiah the tenthe/and Macabbanai the the.xi. These were of the sonnes of Gad, and were captaynes ouer the men of warre / the small ouer an hundred / and the greate ouer a thousande. These are they that went ouer Jordan in the fyrste monethe / when he had fylled ouer all hys bancke. And they put to flight thē of the valeye bothe of the Eastlyde and alsō the weste.

¶ And there came of the chyldren of Benjamin and Juda to ỹ holde of David. And David went out to them & answered and sayde to thē: If ye be come peasablye vnto me / to helpe me / myne hert shalbe to geather with you. But & yf you come to begyle me and to be myne aduersarye / seynge ther is no wyckednes in myne handes, the God of oure fathers loke theron and rebuke it. And the spirite came vpō Amasai a captayne ouer .xxx. and he sayde / thyne are we David / & on thy syde thou sonne of Jesai: *peace be with ỹ / & peace be with thine helpers, for thy God helpeth the. Then David receaued them & made thē heedes of cōpanyes of the men of warre.

D And there felle of Manasseh to David whē he went with the Philistines agaynst Saul to battel / *but holpe them not. For ỹ Lordes of the Philistines toke councell and sent him awaye sayīg: he will fall to his master Saul to the Jeopardye of oure heedes. And as he went to Siklag there fell to him of Manasseh: Ednah Jozabad / Jediel / Michael / of Jozabad / Elihu and Zilthai / heedes of the thousandes of Manasseh. And they holpe David agaynst those rouers. For they were all myghtie men and Capitaynes in warre. And there came one or other to David daye by daye to helpe him: vntyll it was a great hoste / lyke the Hoste of God.

*4.Reg.xvij.a

And this is the numbre of the heedes prepared to battell, that came to David to Hebron / to turne ỹ kyngdom of Saul to him / accordynge to the mouthe of the Lorde.

The chyldren of Juda that bare shylde & speare were syxe thousande and eyght hundred trymmed to warre. Of the chyldren of Simeon, men of might to warre, seuē thousande and one hundred. And of the chyldrē of Leui were foure thousand and fyue hundred. And Jehoiada was the cheefe of thē of Aaron and with him thre thousande and seuen hundred. And Zadock a yong mā of great power had his fathers housholde wyth Capitaynes xxij. And of ỹ chyldrē of Benjamin ỹ brethrē of Saul / were thre thousande. And a great parte of thē dyd yet folowe ỹ house of Saul.

And of the chyldren of Ephraim / were .xx. thousand and eight hundred, men of myghte and named men in the houscholdes of their fathers. And of ỹ halfe trybe of Manasseh .xviij. thousande which were appoynted by name to go to make David kynge. And of ỹ chyldren of Jssacar which were men that had vnderstandyng in ỹ ryght tyme to knowe what Israel ought to do: The heedes of them were two hundred / and all their brethren at their wyll. And of Zabulon that went out wyth the Hoste and proceded in ỹ araye to battell with all maner of wepons of warre / fyftye thousande that kepte in order wyth one accorde. And of Nephthali a thousande Capitaynes / and with them with shylde & speare, xxxvij. thousande. And of Dan prepared to battell / were .xxviij. thousande and .vi. hundred. And of Asser that went out vō the Hoste to make battell fourtie thousand. And of ỹ other syde Jordan / of the Rubenites / Gaddites & of the halfe trybe of Manasseh vō all maner of instrumentes of warre an hundred and twentie thousand.

All these beynge men of warre able to ordre the araye / came to Hebron vō pure hertē / to make David kynge vpon all Israel. And therto all ỹ rest of Israel was of one accorde to make David kynge. And there they were with David thre dayes eatyng & drynckyng: for their brethren prepared for them. Moreouer they ỹ were nye to thē / as Jssacar / Zabulon and Nephthali brought bredde on Asses / Camels / mules & oxen / & meate: floure / figges / reasyngs / wyne / oyle / oxen / & shepe aboūdātlye. For there was myrthe in Israel.

¶ The Arcke is brought agayne frō Kariath Jarim to Jerusalem. Oza dyeth.

¶ The .xiij. Chapter.

Ed David counceled with the Capitaynes of thousandes & hūdredes / and with all the Lordes, and sayde vnto all ỹ cōgregacyon of Israel: If it seme you good and also to be of ỹ Lord oure God: Let vs take & sende vnto the remnaunt of oure brethrē thorow out all the lād of Israel / & to the preastes and Leuites with thē / in their cyties and suburbes / & geather them to geather to vs. And lett vs bringe agayne the Arcke of the Lorde to vs: for we regarded it not in the dayes of Saul. And all the congregacion was content so to do / for ỹ thyng semed good in ỹ eyes of all ỹ people. B

And David geathered all Israel to geather frō *Sihor in Egypt vnto Hemath to bring the Arcke of ỹ Lord frō Kariath Jarim. And David wēt vp & all Israel to Baalah / and so to Kariath Jarim ỹ is in Juda / to fet thence the Arcke of the God and Lorde ỹ sytteth on the Cherubes. Where his name is called on. And they caryed the Arcke of God in a newe carte out of ỹ house of Aminadab. And Oza & his brother drawe the carte. And David & C

And as Dauid dwelt in his house he sayde to Nathan the prophete: loo/ I dwell in an house of Cedar tree: and the Arcke of the Lordes couenaunt dwellyth vnder curtaynes. And Nathan sayde to Dauid: do all that is in thyne herte, for God is with the.

2. Reg. vij.

But the same nyght ỳ worde of God came to Nathan saying: go and tell Dauid my seruaunte, thus sayth the Lorde/ thou shalt not bylde me an house to dwell in. For I haue dwelt in no house sence I brought out ỳ children of Israel vnto this daye: But haue gone from tent to tent & from one tabernacle to a nother. Neither in anye place whersoeuer I haue walked thorow out all Israel, spake I euer one worde to anye of the iudges of Israel which I cōmaunded to fede my people/ saying: why bylde ye me not an house of Cedar tree? Now therfore thus saye vnto my seruaūt Dauid: thus sayth ỳ Lorde of Hostes I toke the out of the pasture frō after shepe/ to be ỳ thou shuldest be captayne ouer my people Israel. And I haue bene with the in all thou tokest in hand/ and haue weded out all thyne enemyes out of thy syght/ and haue made ỳ a name lyke the name of the greatest men of the erthe. And I wyll ordayne a place for my people Israel and wyll make it faste/ & they shall dwell vnder it & shall moue no moare. Neither shall the chyldrē of wickednesse vexe them any moare as at the begynnynge/ and sense the tyme I commaunded iudges to be ouer my people Israel, & wyll bringe vnder all thyne enemyes. (for I tolde the ỳ the Lord wold buylde the an house.)

And Dauid lyfte vp his eyes & saw ꝑ Angell of the Lorde stãde betwene the erthe and heauen & a drawen swerde in his hande stretched out towarde Jerusalem. Then fell Dauid & the elders of Israel clothed in sacke vpon their faces. And Dauid sayde vnto God: Is it not I that cõmaunded to numbre ꝑ people? And I am he that haue synned & done euell in dede. But what haue these shepe done? let thyne hande therfore O Lorde God/ be on me & on my fathers house/ and not on thy people to destroye them.

And the Angell cõmaunded Gad to saye to Dauid, that Dauid shulde go & rere vp an aulter vnto the Lord, in the threshyng floure of Ornan the Jebusite. And Dauid went at the saying of Gad which spake in the name of the Lorde. And Ornan turned aboute and saw the Angel/ & his foure sonnes with him/ & hyd thẽ selues: for Ornan was threshyng whete. And Dauid came to Ornan. And whẽ Ornan loked and saw Dauid / he wẽt out of ꝑ threshyng floure & bowed him selfe to Dauid with his face to the grounde.

And Dauid sayde to Ornan: geue me the place of the threshynge flowre that I maye buylde an aulter therin vnto ꝑ Lord. Let me haue it for as moche money as it is worthe/ that the plage maye cease frõ ꝑ people. And Ornan sayde to Dauid: take it to the/ and let my Lorde kyng do that semethe good in hys eyes. In ỹ East kepte syxe Leuites: in ỹ North iiij. a daye / & in the South .iiij. a daye / and in euery councell house two / & * in the watchhouses / on ỹ hye waye westward foure: two in a house. These are ỹ deuysions of ỹ porters amõg the sonnes of Korah & the sonnes of Merari. And of the Leuites Ahiah had ỹ ouersyght of ỹ treasure of the house of God / and of the treasure of the dedicat thynges.

As cõcernyng ỹ sonnes of Laadan which were Gersonites. Laadan had auncient fathers. Laadan the Gersonite had Jehieli. The sonnes of Jehieli: Zethan & Joel his brother, which were ouer ỹ treasures of ỹ house of the Lorde. Among the Amramites / Izharites, Hebronites & Vzielites / was Subuel the sonne of Gerson the sonne of Moses a ruler ouer the treasure. And of his brethrẽ the sonnes of Eliezer / was Rahabiah / whose sonne was Isaiah / & his sonne was Joram / & his sonne Zechri / & hys sonne was Selomith, which Selomith & hys brethren were ouer all the treasures of the dedycate gyftes which Dauid the Kyng / & the aunciẽt heeds / of the capitaynes ouer thousandes & hundredes / & the capitaynes of the hoste had dedicated of the spoyle wonne in battell / to mayntayne ỹ house of the Lorde: & ouer all ỹ Samuel the sear & Saul the sonne of Cis / and Abner ỹ sonne of Ner / & Joab ỹ sonne of Saruiah had dedicated. All ỹ was dedicated, was vnder ỹ hãd of Selomith & of hys brethren.

Of the Izaharites Conaniah and hys sonnes were in businesses without forth made officers & iudges ouer Israel. And of the Hebronites Hasabiah & his brethrẽ men of actiuite a thousand & .vij. hundred were officers in Israel on this side Jorda westward, in all busynesses of ỹ Lord & seruyce of ỹ kyng. And Jedias was the chefest among ỹ kynredes & fathers of the Hebronites. And in the fourtie yere of ỹ kyngdõ of Dauid they were sought for. And there were founde of thẽ men of actyuite at Jezer in Galaad. And hys brethren were in mẽ of actiuite / two thousand & seuẽ hundred auncient heedes / which kyng Dauid made rulers ouer the Rubenites / Gaddites & the halfe trybe of Manasseh in all maters pertaynyng to God & busynesses of ỹ kyng.

And I speake of the chyldrẽ of Israel: in the numbre of thẽ were auncient heedes & capitaynes of thousandes & hundredes, & officers ỹ serued ỹ kyng in all thynge accordyng to ỹ cõpanyes ỹ came in or wẽt out moneth by moneth throw out all ỹ monethes of ỹ yere. And euery cõpanye had .xxiiij. thousande. Ouer ỹ fyrst cõpanye in ỹ fyrst moneth, was Jasobeã the sonne of Zabdiel. And in hys numbre were xxiiij. thousand. The leuenthe monethe was Banaiah the Pharathonite of the chyldzē of Ephzaim: & in his hoste. xxiij. thousande. The twelueth Capytayne in the twlueth monethe, was Heldai the Netophathite of Othoniel. & in his hoste. xxiiij. thousand. And the rulers ouer the tribes of Israel

¶ were these. Amōg the Rubenites, was Eliezer the sonne of Zechri. Amonge ỳ Simeonites, was Saphatiah ỳ sonne of Maacah. Amonge the Leuites: Hasabiah the sonne of Kamuel. Amōge the Haromites: Zadock. In Juda: Eliu of the brethzē of Dauid. In Issachar: Amri the sonne of Michael. In Zabulō: Ismaiah the sonne of Abdiah. In Nephthalie: Jerimoth the sonne of Ariel. Amōge the childzē of Ephzaim: Hosea ỳ sonne of Ozaiah In the halfe tribe of Manasseh: Joel ỳ sonne of Phadaiah. Of ỳ halfe tribe of Manasseh in Galaad: Jado the sonne of Zacharias. In Beniamin: Jaasiel the sonne of Abner. In Dan: Azariel the sonne of Jeroham. These are the Lozdes in the trybes of Israel.

But Dauid toke not the numbze of them vnder. xx. yere: foz the Lozde sayde he wolde encrease Israel lyke vnto the starres of the skye. And Joab the sonne of Zaruiah begāne to numbze. And though he fynished it not/ yet there fell wzath foz that vpō Israel. And therfoze the numbze was not put in ỳ chzonycles of kyng Dauid.

D Ouer the kynges treasure was Azmoth the sonne of Adiel. And ouer the treasure of the feldes, in the cytres, vyllages & castelles/ was Jehonathan/ the sonne of Oziah. And ouer the wozkemen in the feldes ỳ tylled the grounde/ was Ezri ỳ sonne of Chelub. And ỳ ouerlight of the vineyardes had Semeiah ỳ Ramathite. Ouer the wynecellers & treasure of wyne was Sabdi the Saphonite. And ouer ỳ olyuetrees & mulberytrees that were in the valeyes was Baal Hanan ỳ Gadarite. And ouer ỳ treasure of oyle was Joas And ouer the oren ỳ fed in Saron was Setari the Saronite. And ouer the oren in the valeyes was Saphat ỳ sonne of Adlai. And ouer ỳ camelles Obil ỳ Ismaelite. And ouer the Asses was Jehadiah the Merothite. And ouer ỳ shepe was Jazis ỳ Hagarite. All these were ỳ rulers of ỳ substāce of kyng Dauid. And Jehonathā Dauids brothers sonne/ a mā of coūcell a mā ỳ taught wisdome/ & a wziter he & Jehiel the sonne of Hachamoni wayted on the kynges sonnes. And Ahitophel was of ỳ kyngs coūcell. And Husai ỳ Archite was ỳ kyngs cōpanyā. And nexte to Ahitophel was Jehoiada ỳ sonne of Banaiah/ & Abiathar And ỳ capitayne of ỳ kings warre was Joab.

¶ Because Dauid was forbydden to buylde the temple he exhorteth Salomon & the people to performe it.

¶ The. xxviij. Chapter.

And Dauid geathered to geather all the Lozdes of Israel: ỳ Lozdes of the trybes, the Lozdes of ỳ companyes that mynystred to ỳ kyng by course, the Lozdes ouer the thousandes & ouer the hundzedes and the Lozdes ouer all the goodes and catell of the kynge and of his sonnes/ wt the chamberlaynes warryours & all actiue men vnto Jerusalem. And kyng Dauid stode vpon his fete and sayde, Heare me my brethzē & my people: I had in myne hert to buylde an house of rest foz ỳ Arke of the couenaūt of the Lozd & a for- a. The foote stole &c. was ỳ mercye seate at which and on which God had promised ỳ Hebrues to heare the and speake vnto the: which B was vpon the Arche/ as it appeareth Exod. xxv. b.

stole foz oure God/ and had made redye to buylde. But God sayde to me: thou shalt not buylde an house foz my name/ because thou art a mā of warre & hast shed blonde. Nozt- ouer the Lozde God of Israel chose me of all ỳ house of my father, to be kyng ouer Israel foz euer, foz he chose Juda to be a capitayne: & in the house of Juda ỳ house of my father/ & of the sonnes of my father he had a lust to me/ to make me kynge ouer all Israel. And of all my sonnes (foz the Lozde hath geuē me manye sonnes) he hath chosen Salomō my sonne/ to sytt in the seate of the kyngdom of the Lozde ouer Israel. And he sayd vnto me: Salomō thy sonne he shall builde my house & my courtes, * foz I haue chosen him to be 1 Para. xxij. c my sonne/ and I wilbe his father/ & wyll stablyshe his kyngdō foz euer/ yf he wyll hardē him selfe to do my cōmaundementes/ and my lawes/ as it goeth this daye.

And now I saye vnto you before all Israel the cōgregacion of ỳ Lozd/ & in the audience of oure God: kepe & seke foz all ỳ cōmaūdementes of the Lozd youre God/ ỳ ye maye enioye a good lande & enheret youre chyldzē after you foz euer. And thou Salomon my sonne: knowe God thy father and serue him Psal. xxix. c with a pure herte and lust of soule. * foz the ¶ Lozde sercheth all hertes & vnderstādeth all the Imagynacyons of thoughtes. If thou ✠ shalt seke him, he wylbe founde of the: But & yf thou forsake him/ he wyll cast the of foz euer. Take hede now/ foz the Lozd hath chosen ỳ/ to buylde an house of thy sanctuarye. Be stronge and do it.

And Dauid gaue Salomō his sonne the paterne of the porche & of ỳ houses ỳ longed therto / and of the stoze houses / vpper chambzes / ynner parlioures and of the house of the mercieseate: and the example of all that was in his mynde / bothe of the courtes of ỳ house of the Lozde & of the treasure houses rounde aboute / foz the treasures of ỳ house of God and foz the treasure of the dedycate gyftes / and of the companyes of the pzeastes & Leuites that wayted by course / & of all wozkemanshype / that shulde serue foz the house of the Lozde & foz all vesselles that shulde serue in the house of the Lozd. And appoynted him what wayghte of goulde shulde serue foz thynges of gould thozou out all vesselles foz whatsoeuer vse it serued: and what wayghte of syluer shulde suffyce foz all maner of vessselles of syluer, foz whatsoeuer purpose they serued.

And the wayghte of the goulden candelstyckes and of their lampes of goulde / the wayghte foz euery candelsticke and foz their lampes. And foz the candelstyckes of syluer by wayght, bothe foz the candelstycke & also foz her lampes accozdynge to the office of

And foz fleshehokes / basens and dzynckyng pottes of pure goulde. And foz cuppes of gould by wayghte / cuppe by cuppe. And foz cuppes of syluer by wayght / cupp by cuppe. And foz the auiter of incense of tryed goulde by wayght. And the symplytude of the state of the Cherubes that stretched oute their wynges and couered the Arcke of the couenaunt of the Lozde. All was geuen me by wzytynge of the hande of the Lozde / whych made me vnderstãde all the wozkmãshippe of the paterne.

And Dauid sayde to Salomõ his sonne: hardẽ thy selfe and be strong and do it / feare not noz lett thyne herte dyscourage the. Foz the Lozde God my God is wyth the / and shall not leaue the noz forsake the / vntyll thou hast fynyshed all the wozke that must serue foz the house of the Lozde. Beholde the pzeastes and Leutes deuyded in companyes / foz to do all maner of seruice that pertayneth to ỳ house of God / and besyde that / thou hast wyth the foz all maner of wozkemanshype / all that are wyllynge and wyse foz any maner of seruyce. And the Lozdes & all the people are at thy commaundemente in all thynges.

¶ The offerynges of Dauid and of the prynces foz ỳ byldyng of the temple. Dauid byeth and Salomõ his sonne raygneth in his stede.

¶ The .xxix. Chapter.

And Dauid the kynge sayde vnto all the cõgregaciõ: God hath specyally chosen Salomõ my sonne which is yet younge and tender / & the wozcke is greate / foz the house is not foz man / but foz the Lozde God. Mozeouer I haue pzepared wyth all my myghte foz the house of God: golde foz thynges of goulde / & syluer foz thyngs of syluer / bzasse foz thyngs of bzasse, yzon foz thynges of yzon and wood foz thynges of wood:: & onykes stones / *sett stones, and of other gaye stones and all maner of pzeciouse stones and of marble great aboundance. And yet because I haue lust to the house of my God: I haue seuerall goulde and syluer whych I geue to the house of my God aboue all I haue pzepared foz the holy house: euẽ thze thousand talentes of goulde of Ophir / and seuen thousande talentes of syluer tryed: to syle the walles of the house
B with goulde where it becomethe / and wyth syluer where syluer is niete / and foz all maner of wozke by the handes of Artyfycers. And let me se who is wyllyng allso / to fyll his hande foz the Lozde this dayr.

And the auncient lozdes and the lozdes of the trybes of Israel / and the Capitaynes of thousandes and hundzedes & the lozdes ouer the substance of the kynge / were wyllyng & gaue foz the seruyce of ỳ house of God / fyue thousande talentes of goulde and ten thousande peces of goulde coynes / and ten thousande talentes of syluer / and .xviij. thousand talentes of bzasse / and an hundzed thousande talentes of yzon. And they that had pzeciouse stones gaue them foz the treasure of ỳ house of the Lozde / vnto the hande of Jehiel the Gersonite.

And the people reioyced that they were so
C wyllynge: foz wyth a pure herte they were wyllynge vnto the Lozde. And therto Dauid the kyng reioyced with great gladnesse. And Dauid blessed the Lozd befoze all ỳ congregacyon and sayde: Blessed art thou Lozde God of Israel oure father / frõ euer and foz euer. Thyne (O Lozde) is greatnesse / power glozye / victozye and pzayse: foz all that is in heauen and in erthe is thyne / and thyne is the kyngdom (O Lozde) and thou art lyfte vp an hed aboue all.

And rychesse and honoure come of the / & thou raygnest ouer all / and in thyne hande is power and strenghte / and in thyne hande it is to make greate and to geue strenghte vnto all.

And now oure God / we thanke the / and pzayse thy glozyouse name Foz what am I? and what is my people? that we shulde obtayne strenghte to be so wyllynge? But all is of the / and of that we receaued of thyne hãde we haue geuẽ the. For we be but straũgers before ꝯ & tenauntes/ as were all oure fathers. Oure dayes on ꝯ erthe is but a shadowe/ and there is none abydynge. O Lorde oure God/ all this hepe that we haue prepated to buylde the an house for thy holy name/ cometh of thyne hande/ and is all thyne.

I wote my God/ that thou prouest the herte and hast pleasure in playnesse. And in playnesse of myne herte I haue wyllyngly geuẽ all this. And now I se thy people why ch are here in gladnesse/ to offer wyllyngly to ꝯ. O Lorde God of Abraham/ Isaac and of Israel oure fathers/ kepe this for euer in the ymaginacyon of the thoughtes of the herte of thy people/ & prepare their hertes vnto the. And geue vnto Salomon my sonne/ a pure herte to kepe thy cõmaundementes/ thy testymonyes and thyne ordynaunces/ and to do all/ & to buylde the house which I entended.

And Dauid sayde to all the cõgregacion: blesse the Lorde youre God. And all the congregacyon blessed the Lorde God of their fathers/ & stowped & bowed thẽ selues vnto ꝯ Lorde & to the kynge. And they offered offerynges vnto ꝯ Lord. And on ꝯ morow after the sayde daye/ they offered in burntofferynges vnto the Lorde a thou[illegible]and oxen a thousand rammes & a thousande lambes w̃ their drynckeofferynges. And they slue plenteously thorowout all Israel, & made & dryncke before the Lorde the same daye with greate gladnesse. And they made Salomon ꝯ sonne of Dauid kyng ꝯ seconde tyme/ & annoynted him vnto the Lorde to be ruler/ and Sadock to be ꝯ preste. * And so Salomon sate on ꝯ seate of the Lorde/ and was kyng for Dauid his father/ & prospered/ and all Israel obeyed him. And all the Lordes and men of power/ & therto all the sonnes of kyng Dauid submitted them selues vnder kyng Salomon. And the Lord magnifyed Salomon on hye/ in the syght of all Israel/ and gaue hym so glorious a kyngdome as none of all ꝯ were kynges before in Israel had.

AND Salomon the sonne of Dauid wared strõge in his kyngdome/ and the Lorde his God was with hym & magnifyed hym on hye. And Salomõ comuned with all Israel/ the capitaynes ouer thousandꝭ & hundredes/ the iudges and all other Lordes & auncient heedes thorowout all Israel. And so Salomon & all the cõgregacion w̃ him/ wẽt to the hiaulter of Gabaon: for there was ꝯ tabernacle of the wytnesse of God, * which Moses the seruaunte of the Lorde made in the wyldernesse. But the Arke of God had Dauid brought frõ Kariath Jarim/ in to ꝯ place he had prepared therfore. For he had pytched a tente for it at Jerusalẽ. Moreouer ꝯ brasen aulter ꝯ Bezeleel ꝯ sonne of Uri/ ꝯ sonne of Hur had made, was at Gabaõ also, before ꝯ tabernacle of ꝯ Lord. And Salomõ & ꝯ cõgregacion wẽt to vyset it. And Salomon offered there before the Lorde vpon the brasen aulter that was by the tabernacle of wytnesse, a thousande burntsacrefyers. And the same night God apperred vnto Salomon & sayde to him: aske what I shall geue the. And Salomõ sayde vnto God: thou hast shewed great mercye vnto Dauid my father/ & hast made me kyng in his steade. * And now Lord God/ lett thy promyse vnto Dauid my father be true. For thou hast made me kynge ouer a people lyke the dust of ꝯ erth in multytude. Wherfore geue me wysdome and knowledge how to behaue my selfe vnto this people: for who is able to iudge this people ꝯ is so great?

¶ Then God sayde to Salomon/ because thou haddest this in thyne herte/ & dydest not aske treasure & rychesse/ honoure & the lyues of thyne enemyes/ nether yet longe lyfe: But hast asked wysdome & knowledge/ to iudge my pepole/ ouer which I haue made ꝯ kyng: wysdome & knowledge shalbe geuẽ the/ & I wyll geue ꝯ treasure/ rychesse/ & glorie also/ ꝯ among the kynges before the or after the/ none was or shalbe lyke ꝯ. And so Salomõ cam frõ ꝯ hiaulter ꝯ was at Gabaõ to Jerusalẽ frõ ꝯ tabernacle of witnesse & raigned at Jerusalem. And Salomõ gathered charett̃ & horsemẽ: ꝯ he had a thousand & foure hũdred charettes/ & xii. thousand horsemen/ which he bestowed in ꝯ charet cities & aboute the kyng at Jerusalē. And ỹ kyng made syluer & goulde at Jerusalem as plenteous as stones & Cedar trees as plentye as ỹ mulbery trees ỹ growe in the valeyes. And ỹ horses which Salomon had/ were brought him out of Egypt frō Kewa. The kyngs marchaūtes fet thē oute at Kewa at a pryce. They came and brought out of Egypte a charet for syxe hundred sycles / and an horse for an hundred & fyftie. And so brought they ỹ to all ỹ kynges of the Hethites and to the kynges of Syria thorow the handes of the sayde marchaūtes.

¶ Salomon sendeth to Hiram the kynge of Tire for wood and workmen. ¶ The .ij. Chap.

I And Salomō determined to builde an house for the name of the Lord/& an house for his kyngdome: and tolde out thre score and ten thousande men to beare burdens and foure score thousande to hewe in the mountayne/ & thre thousande and syxe hundred to ouer se them.

ij. Reg. v. a *And Salomō sent to Hirā kyng of Tire sayīg: As thou dydest deale wt Dauid my father & dydest send him Cedar wodde/ to bylde him an house to dwelle in/ euen so deale with me now: that I may bylde an house for the name of ỹ Lord my God/ to cōsecrat it to him to burne swete odoures & to sett shewbreed before him perpetuallye/ & for burntsacrefi-ce mornynge & euenynge / & on the Sabothy dayes/ & the firste daye of euery new mone/ & at ỹ solempne festes of ỹ Lord oure God/ so to cōtynew euer in Israel. And ỹ house which I buylde is great: for great is oure God aboue
B all Gods: So that who can be able to builde ☞ him an house: whē that heuē / nether heauen aboue all heauēs is able to receaue hi/ what am I then that I shulde buyld him an house?
nay/ but to burne sacrefice before him: sende me now therfore a commyng mā to worke in goulde/ siluer/ brasse/ yron/ scarlet/ cremosyn & Jacincte coloure/ & ỹ can skylle to graue/to be wt the commyng men ỹ are wt me in Juda and Jerusalem/ which Dauid my father dyd prepare. And send me also Cedar trees/ firre trees & * Algume trees out of Libanon. For I wotte well thy seruaūtes can skille to hewe tymbre in Libanon. And se / my men shalbe with thyne/ ỹ they maye prepare me tymbre ynough. For ỹ house which I buylde is great C & wōderfull. And beholde / I sent for thy seruauntes the cutters & hewers of tymbre .xx.
thousand quarters of beatē whete/ & .xx. thou sand quarters of barleye/ & .xx. thousand ba-thes of wyne/ & .xx. thousand bathes of oyle.

And Hiram kyng of Tire answered in wry-tynge & sent to Salomon: because ỹ Lorde loueth his people/ therfore he hath made the kyng ouer thē. And Hiram sayde moreouer: blessed be the Lord God of Israel which hath made bothe heauē & erthe / ỹ he hath geuen Dauid ỹ kyng a wyse sonne ỹ hath discreciō & vnderstandynge/ to buylde an house for the Lorde/ & another for his kyngdom. And now
I haue sent a wyse mā & a mā of vnderstan- D dyng called Hirā Abi/ & is the sonne of a woman of the daughters of Dan (how be it his father was a Tyrīā) & he can skylle to worke in gould/ syluer/ brasse, yron/ stone / tymbre/scarlet/ Jacinct/ bysse & cremosin: & graue all maner of grauyngs/ & to fynde out all maner cotle worke ỹ shalbe sett before hym / wt thy connyng men/ & wyth the connyng mē of my Lord Dauid thy father. And now the whete/barleye / oyle & wyne which my Lorde hath sayde/ let him sende his seruauntes. And we wyll cut wood oute of Libane / as moche as thou shalt nede/ & wyll bryng it to ỹ in shyppes by see to porte Japo: & thēce thou mayst carye thē to Jerusalē. And Salomō numbred all the straungers that were in the lande of Israel / after the tyme his father Dauid had numbred thē. And they were founde an hundred & .xlij. thousande and syxe hundred. And he set .lxx. thousand of thē to beare burthēs/and .lxxx. thousand to hewe in ỹ mountayne/and thre thousande and syxe hundred to courage and to set the people a worcke.

¶ The temple of the Lorde and the porche are bylded/

¶ The .iij. Chapter.

And Salomon begāne to buylde ỹ I house of the Lorde at Jerusalē in ij. Reg. vi. a.
moūt Moriah/ which was shewed Dauid his father whē he prepared a place in the threshyng floure of Ornan the Jebusite. And he began to builde the seconde daye of the seconde monethe & fourth yere of his raygne. And this is ỹ foundacion of Sa-lomō in buyldyng ỹ houle of God. The lengthe was thre score cubytes after ỹ olde cubyt/ & ỹ bredeth .xx. And ỹ porche at ỹ ende was as large as the house bredethe .xx. cubytes: & the height was an hundred & .xx. cubyts. And he ouerlayed it on ỹ vnner syde wt pure goulde. B

And the great house he syled wt fyrre tree/& ouerlayde it wt good gould, & graued therto paulmetrees and cheynes. And he paued the house wt precious stone goodlye. And it was goulde of Pharuaim. And he ouerlayde the house: bothe beames, postes, walles & dores wt gould/ & graued Cherubes vpō ỹ walles.

And he made ỹ house moost holye/ whose length was .xx. cubits lyke to ỹ breadeth of ỹ house/ & ỹ breadeth therof was also .xx. cubits
And he ouerlayde it wt ỹ best gould/ ỹ drue to ỹ summe of .vi. hūdred talents. And ỹ waight of ỹ nayles of gould was therto fyftie sycles.
And he ouerlayde ỹ vpper chābres wt gould.

And he made in the house moost holy two xx.cubytes longe. The one wynge was fyue cubytes & touched the walle of the house / & the other wynge was likewyse fyue cubytes & touched ỹ wynge of the other Cherub. And the one wynge of ỹ other Cherub was fyue cubytes/& touched the walle of the house / & ỹ other wynge was fyue cubytes also / and raught to ỹ wynge of the other Cherub. So ỹ the wynges of the sayde Cherubes raught xx.cubits. And they stode on their fete & loked Inwards. And he made a forehangyng of Iacincte coloure/of scarlet/ cremosyne & byse: & caused Cherubes to be bourdered theron. And he made before the house two pyllers of xxxv.cubyts longe. And ỹ heed ỹ was aboue on the toppe of one of thē was fyue cubytes. And he made soche chaynes as was in the quere/& put thē on ỹ heedes of ỹ pyllers / & made an hūdred pomegranates & put thē on ỹ cheynes. And he rered vp ỹ pyllers before ỹ tēple: one on the ryght hand & another on ỹ lefte/& called ỹ ryght Iachyn & ỹ lefte Boaz

¶ The auter of wasse/the see/the vesselles to washe with the candelstyckes.&c.

Also he made an auter of brasse. xx. cubytes longe & .xx. cubyts broade and ten cubyts hye. * And he cast a brasen see of ten cubyts frō brym to brym / & rounde in cōpase & fyue cubytes hye: and a lyne of .xxx. cubytes myght haue cōpased it rounde aboute. And the facyon of oxen dyd compase it rounde aboute vnder it: that is to wete/two rowes of oxen cast when it was caste dyd cōpase that see whych was ten cubyts wyde/rounde aboute. And it stode also vpon twelue oxen: of whych thre loked North/thre West / thre Southe & thre Est/ and the see vpon them aboue an hye / and the hinder partes of thē inwarde. And ỹ thycknes of it was an handbreede/& the brym lyke ỹ brym of a cuppe / wt floures of lylyes. And it receaued & helde the thousande bathes.

And he made ten lauers: & put fyue on the ryght hand & fyue on the lefte/ to wash with all. And in them they thrust the fleshe of the burntoffrynges. But the see was for the preastes to washe in. And he made ten candelstyckes of goulde in their facyons / & put them in the temple: fyue on the right hande & fyue on ỹ lefte. And he made also ten tables and put them in the temple: fyue on ỹ ryght syde and fyue on the lefte. And he made an hundred basens of goulde. And he made the courte of the preastes / and the great courte and dores to it: and ouerlayde ỹ dores of thē wt brasse. And he set the see in the ryght syde of the Est ende / to warde the Southe. And Hiram made pottes / shouelles and basens.

And Hiram fynesshed the worke he made for kynge Salomon vnto the tēple of God: The two pyllers with their scalpes of ỹ two heedes that were on the toppes of ỹ pyllers: and the two wrethes to couer ỹ two scalpes of the heedes that were on the toppes of the pyllers: and foure hūdred pomegranates for the two wrethes/two rowes of pomegranates for euery wrethe/to couer ỹ two scalpes of the heedes that were on the pyllers. And he made bottomes/and lauers vpon the bottomes: and ỹ see with twelue oxen vnder it. And therto pottes schouelles flesh hokes, & all their vesselles dyd Hyram Abi make for kynge Salomon for the house of the Lord of bright brasse. In the playne of Iordā dyd ỹ kyng cast thē/in the thicke erthe/betwene Socoth & Zaredatha. And made of all these vesselles so myghtye greate aboundaunce/ỹ the weight of brasse coulde not be/reknede.

And Salomon made all the vesselles that pertayned to the house of God: the goulden auter and the tables wyth the shew breede vpon thē/the cādelsticks with their lampes to burne after the maner before the quere/ & that of pure goulde / and the floures and the lampes/and the snoffers were goulde/& that perfecte goulde: and the dressynge knyues/ balens / spones and censers of pure goulde. And the ynner dores of ỹ place moost holye/ and the dores of the temple to / were goulde. And so was all the worcke that Salomon made for the house of the Lorde fynesshed.

And when the worcke ỹ Salomon made in the house of the Lorde was fynesshed: then Salomon brought in the gyftes dedycat by Dauid his father/ the syluer and the goulde and all the Jewelles/ and put them amonge the treasure of the house of God.

¶ After the fore houses and the Arche were put in ỹ temple/the Glorye of the Lorde fylled the temple.

¶ The .v. Chapter.

Then Salomon gathered the elders of Israel to gether and all ỹ heedes of the trybes and auncient Lordes amonge the chyldrē of Israel. vnto Jerusalem: to bringe the Arche of the couenaunt of the Lorde oute of the cytie of Dauid which is Sion. And all the men of Israel resorted vnto the kyng in the feaste of the seuenthe monethe. And whē all the elders of Israel were come / the Leuites toke vp ỹ Arche. And ỹ preastes & the Leuites brought awaye the Arche & ỹ tabernacle of witnesse/ and all the holy vesselles that were in the tabernacle. And kynge Salomon and all the cōgregacion of Israel that were assembled vnto him before the Arche/offered shepe and oxen/so manye that they coulde not be tolde or numbred for multitude.

iij. Reg. viij. g. and. ix. a.

And the preastes brought ỹ Arche of the appoyntmēt of the Lorde vnto his place in ỹ quere of the tēple & place most holye: euē vnder the wyngs of the Cherubes/ ỹ the Cherubes stretched out their wynges ouer ỹ place of the Arcke & couered ỹ Arcke & her staues ¶ aboue on hye. And the staues of the Arcke/ were so longe/ ỹ they were sene alytle before the quere/ but not farre wythout. And there it remaineth vnto this daye. Nor ouer there was nothyng in the Arcke saue ỹ two tables which Moses put therin at Horeb, when the Lord made a couenaūt wt ỹ childrē of Israel/ after they were come out of Egypt. And whē the preastes were come out of the holy place (for all ỹ preastes ỹ were founde sanctyfied thē selues & dyd not wayte by course) But ỹ Leuites euery one of thē that were vnder Asaph/ Heman and Idithun / & amonge their children & brethrē, were arayed in lyne and sange with Cymbales/ Psalteries & harpes standyng Eest from the aulter & with thē an hundred and xx preastes blowyng trōpettes ¶ And the trompette blowers & the syngers so agreed/ that it semed but one voyce in prayesynge & thankyng the Lord. And as the voice of the trompettes cymbales & instrumentes of melodye arose, *& as they praysed ỹ Lord/ how ỹ he was good & ỹ hys mercye lasteth euer / the house of the Lorde was fylled wt a cloude: so that the preastes coulde not endure to mynister by the reason of the cloude. For ỹ glorye of ỹ Lorde had fylled ỹ house of God.

¶ The wordes of Salomon to the people/ & the prayer he made to God.

¶ The.vi. Chapter.

¶ Then Salomon sayde: the Lorde hath spokē it how ỹ he wyll dwell in darcknesse. And I haue buylt an habytacyon for the and a place to dwelle in for euer. And the kynge turned his face & blessed the hole cōgregacion of Israel/ and all the cōgregacion of Israel stode. And he sayde: blessed be the Lorde God of Israel which spake wyth hys mouthe to my father Dauid & hath fulfylled it with hys handes/ for God sayde: sence the tyme I brought my people out of the lande of Egypt, I chose no cite amonge all the tryb̄s of Israel to buylde an house in/ ỹ my name myght be there / neyther chose I any man to be a ruler ouer my people Israel. But now I haue chosen Ierusalem to haue my name there/ & haue chosen Dauid to be ouer my people Israel.

*And it was in ỹ herte of Dauid my father to buylde an house for the name of the Lord God of Israel: But the Lorde sayde to Dauid my father: for as moche as it was in thyne herte / to buylde an houle for my name/ thou dyddest well that thou haddest it in thyne hert Notwithstādyng thou shalt not buylde ỹ house, but thy sonne which shall Isue out of thy loynes, he shall buylde an house for my name. And the Lorde hath made good hys sayinge ỹ he hath spoken. For I arose in the rowme of Dauid my father/ & sate on ỹ seate of Israel/ as ỹ Lord promysed/ & haue buylt an house for the name of the Lord God of Israel. And therin I haue put ỹ Arcke wherin the couenaūt of the Lord made wt the children of Israel/ is. And he stepte forthe before the aulter of the Lorde in the presence of all ỹ cōgregacyō of Israel/ & stretched out his hādes/ now Salomon had made a Brasen pulpyt of fyue cubytes longe & fyue cubytes broad/ and thre of height/ and had set it in ỹ middes of the great courte, vpō ỹ he stepte & kneled downe vpō his knees before all ỹ cōgregacyō of Israel & stretched out his hādes to heauen & sayde: Lorde God of Israel there is no God lyke the ether in heauē or in erthe/ which kepest couenaūt and shewest mercye vnto thy seruaūtes that walke before the wt all their hertz. Which hast kepte with Dauid my father that thou promysedest him: thou sayest it with thy mouthe and hast fulfylled it with thyne hande/ as it is to se this daye.

Now Lorde God of Israel kepe wt thy seruaūt Dauid my father/ ỹ thou promysedest him sayīg: *thou shalt not be without one of other in my syght ỹ shall syte vpō the seate of Israel. Of this cōdicion yet ỹ thy children wyll take heade to their wayes to walcke in my lawe / as thou hast walcked before me. Now Lorde God of Israel lett thy saying be true which thou saidest vnto thy seruaūt Dauid. Bow be it in very dede/ can God dwell wt mā on erthe? Beholde, nether heauē or heauē of heuēs is able to cōtayne ỹ: how shulde ỹ house then which I haue buylt for ỹ do it? But turne to ỹ prayer of thy seruaūte & to hys supplicacyō, O Lorde my God, to herken vnto ỹ voyce & prayer which thy seruaūt maketh before the. That thyne eyes be open ouer this house daye & nyght/ & ouer ỹ place of which thou hast sayde, ỹ thou wouldest put thy name there: to herken vnto ỹ prayer which thy seruaunte prayeth at this place: herken therfore vnto the prayers of thy seruaūt & of thy people Israel, which they praye in thys place. But heare thou it out of thy dwellyng place heauē: & whē thou hearest it be mercifull. *If a mā synne agaynst his neyboure/ & an adiuracyō be layde to his charge/ to adiure him wt all & ỹ adiuracion come before thine aulter in this house: then heare thou frō heauen/ & worcke & iudge thy seruauntes / that thou rewarde ỹ cruell & bringe his waye vpō his heed/ & iustefye the righteous & geue him accordynge to his righteousnesse.

Lykewyse yf thy people Israel be put to ỹ worse before their enemyes / because they haue

haue synned agaynst the: Yet yf they turne & cõfesse thy name/ and make intercessyon and prayer before the in this house: then heare thou from heauen and be mercyfull vnto the synne of thy people Israel/ and bryng thē agayne vnto the lande whych thou gauest to them and to their fathers.

If heauen be shutt vp / that there be no rayne/ because they haue synned agaynst the: yet yf they prayer at thys place and confesse thy name and turne from their synnes at thy scorgynge: then heare thou from heauen and be mercyfull vnto the synne of thy seruauntes and of thy people Israel/ that thou shew thē a good waye to walke in / & sende rayne vpon thy lande whych thou hast geuen vnto thy people/ for an enheritaunce.

If there chaunce darthe in the lande/ pestilence/ burnynge or smitinge of corne/ grashoppers or caterpillers/ or that their ennemyes belege thē in the cytyes of their awne lande/ or what soeuer plage or syckenesse it be. Then all the supplycacyons and prayers that shalbe made of all men amonge all thy people Israel, whych shall knowe euery man his awne sore and his awne greffe/ and shall stretche out their handes towarde this house: thou shalt heare from heauen thy dwellynge place/ and shalt be mercyfull / & geue euery man accordynge vnto all hys waye/ euen as thou shalt knowe euerymannes herte: for thou onely knowest the hertes of the chyldren of Adam: that they may feare the and walke in thy wayes as longe as they lyue vpon the erthe, whych thou gauest to oure fathers.

Therto a straunger whych is not of thy people Israel/ yf he come from a farre lande for thy greate names sake and thy myghtye hande and stretched oute arme / and therfore come & praye at thys house: thou shalt heare hym frō heauē thy dwellynge place/ & shalt do accordynge to all that the straunger calleth to the for. That all the nacions of the erthe maye knowe thy name/ & feare the/ as doeth thy people Israel: and that it maye be knowē how that thys house whych I haue buylt/ is called after thy name.

When thy people shall go out to warre/ agaynst their ennemyes the waye that thou shalt sende them. If they praye to the/ the waye towarde thys cytye whych thou hast chosen/ and house which I haue built for thy name: then heare frō heauen/ their supplicacion & prayer/ & helpe them in their ryght.

If they shall synne agaynst the (as there is no man but that he shall synne) & thou be angrie with them and delyuer them to their enemyes/ and they leade thē awaye captyue vnto a lande ferre or neare/ yet yf their hertes come to them agayne in the lande where they be in captyuyte/ and turne and praye vnto the in the lande where they be in captyuite/ saying: we haue synned & haue done euell & wickedlye & turne agayne to the/ wyth all their hertes & all their soules/ in the lande of their captiuite where they be kepte in bondage/ and so praye towarde their lāde which thou gauest vnto their fathers/ and citie which thou hast chosen/ and to this house which I haue built for thy name: Then heare from heauen thy dwellynge place/ their supplicaciō & prayers & iudge their cause/ & be mercyfull vnto thy people/ though they haue synned agaynst the.

So now my God let thyne eyes be open and thyne eares attēt vnto the prayers made in this place. And now vp Lorde God in thy restynge place: both thou and the Arche of thy strenghte/ and let thy prestes put on victorye and thy sayncte reioyse in goodnesse. And Lorde God turne not awaye the face of thyne anoynted: But remembre the mercyes promysed to Dauid thy seruaunte.

¶ The fyre consumeth the sacrifyce. The Lorde appeareth to Salomon the second tyme.

¶ The.vij. Chapter.

And when Salomon had made an ende of prayēge/ there came downe fyre from heauen and cōsumed the burnte offerynge and the sacrifyces. And the glorye of the Lorde fylled the house: & the prestes couldē not go in to the house of the Lorde because the glorye of the Lorde had fullfylled the house of the Lorde. And all the chyldren of Israel sawe how the fyre came downe and the glorye of the Lorde vpon the house & stouped with their faces to the erthe vpon the pauement and bowed them selues & confessed vnto the Lorde, that he was good and that hys mercye lasted euer.

a The glorye of God fyllynge the house was a vysible cloude & lyght shynynge out of God ought to be preached propoūded & magnifyed throughout the whole worlde. b A confirmacion of that is sayd in Exodi.

And the kynge and all the people offered offerynges before the Lorde. So that kynge Salomon offered. xxij. thousand oxen / and an hundred and twentye thousand shepe. And so the kynge and all the people halowed the house of God. And the prestes wayted on their offyces / and the Leuites wyth instrumētes of musycke of the Lorde which kynge Dauid made to confesse vnto the Lorde that hys mercye lasteth euer / when Dauid gaue prayse thorow their handes. And the prestes blew trompetes fast by them: and all Israel stode. Moreouer Salomon halowed the myddle of the courte that was before the Lorde: for there he offered burntoffrynges and the fatt of the peaceoffrynges/ because the brasen aulter which Salomō had made/ was not able to receaue the burntoffrynges and the meateoffrynges and the fatte.

And Salomō kepte a feast the same season of seuen dayes/ and all Israel wyth hym/ an erecte a dynge great congregacyon/ euen from Hemath vnto the ryuer of Egypte. And the eight daye they made a geaderinge for they kept the halowenge of the aulter seuē dayes & the feast seuē dayes. And the.xxiij. daye of the seuēth moneth/ he let the people departe into their tentes/ glad & merye in hert for the goodnesse þ the Lorde had shewed to Dauid/ to Salomon & to Israel hys people.* And so Salomon fynyshed the house of the Lorde & the kynges house and all that came in hys hert to make in the house of the Lorde and in hys awne house/ and that prosperously.

ij. Reg. vij. a.

And þ Lorde apered to Salomon by night and sayde to him: I haue heard thy peticion & haue chosen thys place for my selfe to be an house of sacrifyce. Moreouer yf I shut vp heauē & there be no rayne/ or yf I cōmaunde the locustes to deuoure þ lande/ or yf I sende pestilēce amōge my people: yet yf my people that are named after my name, shall humble thē selues & make intercession & seke my presence/ & turne frō their wycked wayes/ then will I heare frō heauen and be mercyfull to their synnes & will heale their lande. Therto myne eyes shalbe open & myne eares attent vnto the prayers made in this place. And fynally I haue chosen & sanctifyed this house/ that my name be there for euer/ & myne eyes & myne herte shalbe there perpetually.

And yf thou shalt walke before me as Dauid thy father walked/ to do accordynge to all þ I haue cōmaunded the, & shalt obserue myne ordynaunces & my lawes: then I wyll stablyshe the seat of thy kyngdome/ accordynge to the couenaunt I made with Dauid thy father saying: *thou shalt haue euer one or other that shall rule in Israel. But and yf ye turne awaye & forsake myne ordynaūces & my cōmaundementes which I haue set before you, and shall go & serue other Gods and bowe youre selues to thē: then wyll I plucke them vp by the rotes out of my lande which I haue geuen them/ & wyll cast thys house which I haue sanctifyed for my name out of my sight & will make a prouerbe & a tale of it amonge all naciōs. And thys house that is so hye, shalbe a wonder to all þ passeth therby that they shall saye: why hath þ Lorde dealte on this fashyon with this lande and with this house? And it shalbe answered thē, because they forsoke the Lorde God of their fathers which brought thē out of þ lande of Egypte/ and caught holde on other Gods, and bowed to them & serued them: euē therfore brought he on them all this euell.

¶ The eyghte that Salomon bylded after the house of God was fynyshed.

¶ The. viij. Chapter.

And after.xx. yere when Salomon had buylt the house of the Lorde & his awne house: he builte the cities that Hiram gaue hym, & put of the chyldren of Israel in thē. And Salomon wēt to Hemath Zobah and strengthed it. And he built Thadmor in the wildernesse and all the store cities which he buylt in Hemath. And he buylt Bethhoron the vpper & Bethhoron the nether/ and made them stroge cities with walles gates & barres. And Baalath & all þ stoare cities þ Salomon had, & all þ charet eytes & the cities of horsemen, & all þ Salomon had lust to builde in Jerusalē and Libanō/ & thorowout all þ lande of his dominiō

And all the people þ were lefte of the Hethites/ Amorites/ Pherezites, Heuites & Iebusites/ which were not of the chyldren of Israel: euen the chyldrē of thē, which were lefte after thē in the lande/ & were not cōsumed of the chyldrē of Israel, tho did Salomon make tributaryes vnto this daye. But of þ chyldrē of Israel dyd Salomon make no bondemen in his worke: but they were men of warre & rulers & great Lordes with him, & capitaynes ouer his charetes and horsemen. And kyng Salomons officers that ouerlawe & ruled the people/ were two hundred and fyfty.

And Salomon brought the daughter of Pharao out of þ citye of Dauid into þ house þ he had made for her. For he sayde: my wife shall not dwelle in the house of Dauid kinge of Israel/ for it is holy, because the Arke of the Lorde came into it.

And from thencefoorthe Salomon offered burnt offerynges vnto the Lorde on þ aulter of þ Lorde which he had buylt before þ porche to offer daye by daye accordynge to the commaundement of Moses/ & in the sabbotes & newmones/ and the thre solempne feastes of the yere/ the feast of swete breede, the feast of wekes and the feast of bothes.

And Salomon put the sortes of prestes in companyes as Dauid hys father had ordered thē/ vnto þ offyces/ & the Leuites vnto their wayte/ for to prayse & mynystre before þ prestes daye by daye/ & þ porters by course at euery gate. For so had Dauid the man of God cōmaunded. And the cōmaundement of the kynge vnto the prestes & the Leuites cōcernynge whatsoeuer cause it was/ & cōcernynge the treasures/ was not disobeyed.

And all the worke of Salomon went lustely forwarde euē vnto the daye of the foundacyon of the house of the Lorde was layde: & from thence till he had fynished it/ that the house of the Lorde was perfecte. And then went kynge Salomon to Azion Gaber and to Eloth & to the sees syde in þ lande of Edom. And Hiram sent him by the hande of hys seruauntes vaunces shippes and seruaūces that coulde skille of the see: Whych went wyth the seruauntes of Salomon to Ophir/& brought thence foure hundred and fyfty talentes of gould, and brought it to kynge Salomon.

1.Reg.x.a. 2.Paral.ix.a. Luc.xxi.a.

And the quene of Saba hearde of the fame of Salomō and came to proue him with ryddelles at Jerusalem, with a very great cōpanye/ and wyth camelles that bare swete odoures and plentie of goulde & precious stone. And when she was come to Salomon/ she communed with him of all that was in her herte. And Salomon sayed her all her questions/ that there was nothinge hid from Salomō/ which he tolde her not.

And when the quene of Saba had sene ỹ wisdome of Salomon and the house that he had built, and the meate of hys table and the syttinge of hys seruaūces and the standynge of hys wayters/ and their apparell, and hys buttelars with their apparel/& his parloure out of which he wēt into the house of ỹ Lord/ there was no moare herte in her.

B And then she sayde to ỹ kynge: the sayinge which I heard in mine awne lande/of thine actes and of thy wysdome/is truely. But I beleued not the wordes of thē/ vntyll I came & myne eyes had sene it. And lo/the one halfe of thy wysdome was not tolde me: thou exceadest the fame that I heard/ happye are thy men/& happye are these thy seruauntes which stande before the all waye & heare thy wisdome. Blessed be ỹ Lorde thy God which had lust to the/ to make the kynge on hys seate/vnto the Lorde thy God. Because thy God loued Israel/ to make them contynue euer/therfore made he the kynge ouer them to do ryght and equyte.

¶ And she gaue the kyng an hundred and.xx talentes of goulde, and of swete odoures exceadynge great aboundaūce with precious stones/ ỹ there was no soche swete odoures as the quene of Saba gaue kynge Salomon. And therto the seruauntes of Hiram & the seruauntes of Salomon which brought goulde from Ophir brought also * Algume wood and precyous stones. And the kynge made of ỹ Algume wood steyares in ỹ house of the Lorde and in the kynges palace/ and harpes and psalteries for syngers. And there was no soche wood sene before in ỹ lande of Juda. ¶ The folishnes of Rehoboam/ and the deuysyon of hys realme.

¶ The.x. Chapter.

And

AND Rehoboam went to Sichem: for to Sichē were all Israel come to make him kinge. And when Ie-15.Reg.xij.a. roboā the sonne of Nabat/beynge in Egipte hearde it (for he was fled for feare of Salomon the kynge) he returned out of Egipte. And they sent and called him. And so Jeroboā & all Israel came & communed wyth Rehoboam & sayde. Thy father made vs a greuouse youcke: but rempte thou somewhat of the greuouse seruyce of thy father & of his heuye youcke that he put vpō vs/ & we will serue ỹ. And he sayd to thē: come againe after thre dayes to me. And ỹ people departed

B And kynge Rehoboam counceled with ỹ elders that stode before Salomō his father/ while he lyued/ & sayde: what councell geue ye me/ to answere thys people agayne? And they tolde him saying: If thou shalt be kinde to this people & please them and shalt speake louynge wordes to thē/ they wyll be thy seruauntes for euer. But he left the councell which the elders gaue him/ & tooke councell with the youngemen that were nursed vp wyth hym & had stande in his presence/ & sayde to them: what aduise geue ye ỹ I maye answere thys people which haue cōmuned wyth me sayinge: Abate somewhat of ỹ youcke which thy father dyd put vpon vs.

And the younge men that were nurced vp C wyth hym talked with hym sayinge: thus answere the people that spake to the sayinge. Thy father made oure youcke heuye: But make thou oure youcke somewhat lyghter. Thus wyse answere them: my lytle fynger shalbe heuyer then my fathers loynes. *For 15.Reg.xij.c. where my father put a heuye youcke vpō you I will put moare therto/ & where my father chastised you with whippes, I will chastyce you with scorpions.

And when Jeroboam and all Israel were come ỹ thyrde daye, as ỹ kynge bade sayinge: come agayne to me ỹ thyrde daye. The kynge answered thē cruelly, for kynge Rehoboam lefte the councel of the aged mē/ & answered thē after ỹ aduise of the younge men saying. If my father made youre youcke greuouse/ I will adde therto/ & where my father chastised you wyth whyppes/ I wyll chastyce you with scorpions. And so the kynge herkened not vnto the people/ for the turnynge awaye was of God/ that ỹ Lorde myght make good hys sayinge whych he spake by the hand of Ahiah the Silonite to Jeroboam the sonne of Nabat.

D And when all Israel saw that the kynge wolde not heare them/ the people answered ỹ kynge/ sayinge: what parte haue we with Dauid or enheritaunce wt the sonne of Isai? Let euery man of Israel go to his tent, *And Then kynge Rehoboā sent to thē Haduram that was ouer ỹ tribute/ & the childrē of Israel stoned him with stones that he died But kynge Rehoboam made spede and gat hym vp to hys charet to flye to Jerusalem. And so Israel departed from the house of Dauid vnto thys daye.

¶ Rehoboam is forbidden to fyght agaynst Jeroboā. He hathe.xviij. wyues and thre score concubynes: & by them.xxviij. sonnes/ and.lx. score daughters.

¶ The.xi. Chapter.

AND when Rehoboam was come to Jerusalē, he gathered of the house 1y Reg.xij.c. of Dauid & Beniamin to ỹ nūbre of nyne score thousande chosse mē of warre to fyght wyth Israel, for to bringe the kyngdome agayne to Rehoboam. But ỹ worde of the Lorde came to Semeiah the man of God sayinge: speake vnto Rehoboā the sonne of Salomon kynge of Juda & to all Israel that are in Juda/ and to Beniamin and say: thus sayth ỹ Lorde. Go not nor fight with youre brethren: But returne euery mā to hys house/ for thys thynge is done of me. And they obeyed the wordes of the Lorde & B returned from goynge agaynste Jeroboā.

And Rehoboam dwelt in Jerusalem/ and built stronge cyties in Juda: as Bethlehem/ Etam & Thekua: Bethzur/ Socho & Odollam: Geth/ Mareshah & Ziph: Adurahim/ Lachis and Azecah: Zarah Aialon and Hebron. Which were the stronge cities of Juda & Beniamin. And when he had repayred soche stronge cyties/ he put cappytaynes in thē and store of vitaile/ & of oyle & of wine. And he ordened in all cyties shyldes & speares/ & made them exceadynge stronge. And so Juda and Beniamin were vnder hym. C

And the prestes & the Leuites that were in all Israel resorted to hym/ out of all their costes. In so moche ỹ the Leuites lefte their Suburbes & possessyons and came to Juda and Jerusalem: for Jeroboam & hys sonnes had cast them oute from mynistrynge vnto ỹ Lorde. *And he ordeyned him prestes of hye- 15.Reg.xij.g.

And after thē ther came of all ỹ trybes of Israel (soche as their hertes moued them to seke the Lorde God of Israel) to Jerusalem to offer vnto the Lorde God of their fathers. And so they strengthed the kyngedome of Juda & made Rehoboam the sonne of Salomon myghtye thre yere longe/ for thre yere they walked in the waye of Dauid and Salomon. D daughter

Abiah. daughter of Jermoth the sonne of Dauid to wyfe / and Abihail the daughter of Eliab the sonne of Jsai, whych bare hym chyldren: Jeus / Semariah and Zaham. And after her he tooke Maacah the daughter of Absalom whych bare hym Abiah / Ethai / Ziza & Salumith. But Rehoboam loued Maacah the daughter of Absalō aboue all his other wyues & concubynes for he toke .xviij. wyues & thre score concubynes / and begat thre score daughters and .xxviij. sonnes. And Rehoboā made Abiah the sonne of Maacah the cheefe ruler amonge his brethren / for to make hym kynge. And he played wisely & scatered of all hys chyldren thorow out all the countreyes of Juda & Beniamin in euery stronge citie. And he gaue them aboundaunce of vitayle / and asked manye wyues.

Then came Semeiah the Prophete to Rehoboam & to the Lordes of Juda ꝑ were geathered to Jerusalem for feare of Sesac / & sayde to thē: thus sayth the Lorde / ye haue left me, & therfore wyll I leue you also in ꝑ handes of Sesac. Wherupon the Lordes of Jsrael and the kynge humbled them selues & sayde: the Lorde is righteous. And when the Lord sawe that they submitted thē selues, ꝑ worde of ꝑ Lorde came to Semeiah sayinge: they meke them selues / and therfore I wyll not destroye them. But I wyll delyuer them somewhat / and my wrath shall not falle vpō Jerusalem. And Sesac kynge of Egipte came to Jerusalem and toke awaye ꝑ treasures of the house of the Lorde / and the treasures of the kynges house / & shortlye he toke all. And he toke also ꝑ shildes of gould which Salomō made. ¶ The .xiij. Chapter.

In the .xviij. yere of kynge Jeroboam Abiah began to raygne ouer Juda / & he raygned thre yere in Jerusalē. His mothers name was Michaiah the daughter of Uriel of Gabaah. And there was warre betwene Abiah and Jeroboam. And Abiah made a battell wyth an hoste of eyghtynge men of foure hundred thousand chosen men. And Jeroboam put in araye to fyght agaynst hym / with .viij. hundred thousand pycte men and stronge.

3 Reg. xv. a.

And Abiah stode vp vpō Semaraim an hill in mount Ephraim & sayde: heare me thou Jeroboam & all Jsrael. For the Lorde had geuen hym rest.

B And therfore he sayde to Juda: let vs build

And when Baasa hearde that, he left buildynge of Ramah and let his worcke cease. And then Asa the kynge toke all Iuda & caryed awaye stones & tymbre of Ramah wherwith Baasa was a buildinge: & he buylt therwith Gabaa & Mazphah.

At that same tyme Hanani the sear/ came C to Asa kyng of Iuda & sayde to him: because thou trustest in ỹ kynge of Syria/ & trustest not in the Lorde thy God/ therfore is ỹ hoste of the kynge of Syria escaped out of thyne hande. Were not ỹ blacke mores and they of Libia a great hoste wyth exceadynge many charettes and horsemen? And yet because thou trustedest in the Lorde, he delyuered thē in to thyne handes. For ỹ eyes of ỹ Lorde behelde all the erthe, to strength the hertes of thē that are hoale with him. Herein thou hast done folysshly, and therfore from hencefor the thou shalt haue warre. Wherupon Asa was D wroth with the sear & put him in the couertyng house/ for he was displeased wyth hym because of that. Moreouer Asa oppressed certayne of the people the same season.

The dedes of Asa both fyrst and last/ are written in the boke of the kynges of Iuda & Israel. And the. xxxix. yere of hys raygne Asa fell sycke of his fete/ and that hys disease exceadid. And therto in his sickenesse he asked no councell of the Lorde/ but of Physycyons. And at the last Asa fell on slepe wyth hys fathers and died when he had raygned. xli yere. And they buryed hym in hys awne sepulchre whych he had made in the cytye of Dauid/ and layed hym in the bed whych he had fylled wyth swete odoures of dyuerse kyndz/ made by ỹ crafte of ỹ potecaryes. And they dyd exceadynge great coste aboute buriēge of him.

C Iehosaphat succeadeth after Asa/ whych causeth the feare of the Lorde to be reuued amonge the people.

C The. xvij. Chapter.

AND Iehosaphat his sonne raygned A in hys stede & was myghtyer then Israel. And he put souldyoures in all the stronge cytyes of Iuda / and set rulers bothe in the lande of Iuda and also in the cytyes of Ephraim which Asa his father had wonne. And the Lorde was wyth Iehosaphat / because he walked in the olde wayes of hys father Dauid / and sought not Baals: But sought the Lorde God of his father and walked in hys cōmaundementes & not after the doynges of Israel. Therfore ỹ Lorde stablysshed ỹ kyngdome in his hande/and all Iuda brought hym presentes/ that he B became exceadynge ryche & gloryouse. And hys hert was corageous in the wayes of the Lorde/ and he put downe yet moare of the hyllaulters and groues out of Iuda.

And the thyrde yere of hys raygne he sent of his Lordes: Benhail/ Abdiah/ Zachariah/Nathanael & Michaah to teache in the cuties of Iuda: and wyth them/ Semeiah/ Natha-niah, Zabadiah/ Asahel/ Semiramoth. Jehonathan. Adoniah. Thobiah and Thobodo-niah Leuites: & wyth thē Elisama & Joram prestes. And they taught in Iuda & had the boke of ỹ law wᵗʰ thē/ & wēt aboute thorowout
C all the cytles of Iuda & taught the people.

And the feare of the Lorde fell vpon all ỹ kyngedomes of the landes that were rounde aboute Iuda/ that they durst not warre wᵗʰ Iehosaphat. And ỹ Philistines brought Je-hosaphat gyftes & tribute syluer. And therto the Arabiens brought hym of heepe/ seuen thousande & seuen hundred rammes/ & seuen thousandes & seuen hundred he gottes. And so Iehosaphat prospered & grue vp on hye. And he built in Iuda/ castels and store cities. And he had great substaūce in the cities of Iuda/& fyghtinge men & mē of myght in Ierusalē.

And this is the order in the houses of their D fathers/ of the capitaynes ouer thousandes in Iuda: Ednah the cappytayne and wyth hym of fyghtynge men thre hundred thousande.
And nexte to hym Iehohanan a cappytayne & wᵗʰ hym two hundred & lxxx. thousande. And by his syde Amaziah the sonne of Zechri willynge vnto ỹ Lorde, & with hym two hundred thousande mightie men. And of ỹ children of Beniamin/ Eliada was a mā of myght/ and had with hym armed with bowes and shildes two hundred thousande. And by hys syde Je-hosabad wyth whome were an hūdred & lxxx thousande trimmed for warre. These wayted on the kynge/ beside those which the kinge had put in strōge cities thorowout all Iuda.

Ahab. And after certayne yeres he went downe to Ahab to Samaria And Ahab slue shepe & oxen plenteously for hym & for the people that came with hym/ & entreated him to go vp vnto Ramoth in Galaad. And Ahab kynge of Israel sayde to Je-hosaphat kynge of Iuda: wylt thou go wyth me to Ramoth in Galaad? And he answered him I wylbe as thou/ and my people shalbe
as thyne and we wyll be with the in ỹ warre.

But Iehosaphat sayde vnto the kynge of Israel: aske I praye ỹ/ the worde of ỹ Lorde.
And the kynge of Israel gathered together of the Prophetes foure hundred men/ & sayde vnto thē: shall we go to Ramoth in Galaad to fyght/ or shall I cease? And they sayde/ go:
ỹ Lord shall deliuer it into ỹ kingꝭ hāde. And Iehosaphat sayde/ is there yet here neuer a Prophete more of ỹ Lordes, that we myght to Iehosaphat/ there is yet one/ to aske the Lorde by hym: But I hate him, for he neuer prophesyeth me good, but allwaye euell/ one Micheah the sonne of Iemla. And Iehosa-phat sayde: let not the kynge saye so.

Then ỹ kynge of Israel called one of hys chāberlaynes & sayde: fetche hether quyckly Micheah the sonne of Iemla. And the kinge of Israel and Iehosaphat kynge of Iuda sate ether of thē on hys state in their apparell, in a thre thynge flowre beside the gate of Sa-wynowe Syria vntyll thou hast brought thē to nought. And all the Prophetes prophesyed euē so sayinge: Go vp to Ramoth in Galaad and prospere/ for the Lorde shall delyuer it

And the messenger that went to call Micheah/ spake to him saying: beholde/ ỹ wordꝭ of the Prophetes are pleasaunt to the kynge with one assent/ let thy wordes I pray the/ be lyke one of theirs/ & speake ỹ which is pleasaunt. And Micheah sayde: as truly as the Lorde lyueth, euē what my God sayeth/ that will I speake. And when he was come to the kynge/ the kynge sayde to hym: Micheah/shall we go to Ramoth in Galaad to fyght/or shall I be in rest? And he answered: Go ye & prospere for the Lorde shall delyuer it into youre handꝭ. But ỹ kynge sayde to him: how oftē tymes shall I adiure the ỹ thou speke no-thinge but truthe to me in ỹ name of ỹ Lord.

Then he sayde: I se all Israel shattered in ỹ mountaynꝭ as shepe ỹ haue no shepearde. And the Lorde sayde: these haue no master let thē returne euery mā to his house in peace. Then sayde ỹ kynge of Israel to Iehosaphat, did I not tell ỹ that he wolde not prophecye good vntome/ but euell?

And he answered: therfore heare ye the worde of the Lorde. I saw the Lorde syt vpō his seat/ and all the cōpanye of heauen stan-dynge on his ryght hande & on his lefte. And ỹ Lorde sayde: who shall deceaue Ahab kyng

Iehosaphat. deceaue him. And ỹ Lord sayde to him, how? And he sayde: I will go out & wylbe a lyinge spirite in ỹ mouthꝭ of all his prophetes. And ỹ Lord sayde, thou shalt deceaue him & shalt prevayle, go out & do euē so. And now behold ỹ Lord hath put a lyinge spirite in ỹ mouthꝭ of all these thy prophetes, & yet ỹ Lorde hath spokē euell agaynst ỹ. And Zedekiah ỹ sonne of Chananah, wēt to & smote Micheah vpō ỹ cheke, & sayde: by what waye wēt ỹ spirite of ỹ Lorde frō me, to speake in the? And Micheah sayde: thou shalt se ỹ daye when thou shalt rūne frō chābre to chambre, for to hyde thy selfe. Then sayde ỹ kinge of Israel, take ye Micheah & deliuer him to Amō ỹ gouerner of ỹ citie, & to Joas ỹ kinges sonne & saye, thus sayth ỹ kynge: put this felow in prison, and fede him wt breade & water of tribulacio, vntyll I come agayne in peace. And Micheah sayd: yf thou come agayne in peace, thē hath not ỹ Lorde spokē in me. And Micheah saide moreouer, herken to ye people euery one of you. And so ỹ kynge of Israel & Iehosaphath ỹ kynge of Juda went vp to Ramoth in Galaad. Then sayde ỹ kinge of Israel to Iehosaphat: chaūge ỹ & get ỹ to battell, but se ỹ thou haue thine awne apparell vpō ỹ. And ỹ king of Israel chaunged himselfe, & they went to battell. But the kynge of Syria cōmaunded the capytaynes of hys charetes sayinge: se ỹ ye fyght not agaynst small or great, saue agaynst the kynge of Israel onlye.

And whē the capitaynes of ỹ charetꝭ saw Iehosaphat, they had wēt he had bene ỹ king of Israel, & therfore cōpased aboute him, to fighte. But Iehosaphat cryed out, & ỹ Lorde holpe him. & God tyred thē awaye from hym. For whē ỹ capitaynꝭ of ỹ charretes perceaued ỹ it was not the kinge of Israel, they turned backe agayne frō hym. And a certē mā drew his bowe ignorantly & smote ỹ king of Israel betwene ỹ joyntes of his habergyne. And he sayde to the charet mā, turne thine hand and carye me out of ỹ hoste, for I am hurte. And the battell arose that daye. How be it ỹ king of Israel contynued standynge in his charet agaynst the Syriens vntyll euen. And about the sonne goinge downe he dyed.

¶ After Iehosaphat was rebuked by the prophet Jehu, he called agayne the people to the honouryng of the Lorde God.

¶ The. xix. Chapter.

AND Iehosaphat kinge of Juda returned to hys house safe & sounde to Jerusalē. And Jehu the sonne of Hanani the sear, wēt out agaynst him & sayde to kynge Iehosaphat: oughtest thou to helpe ỹ wycked & to loue thē ỹ hate ỹ Lorde. In this verely is ỹ wrath of the Lorde vpō ỹ. Neuerthelater there are good thinges founde in ỹ, in ỹ thou hast put awaye grouē out of ỹ lande, & hast prepared thine herte to seke God. And as Iehosaphat dwelt at Jerusalē, he wēt to agayne & wēt amōge ỹ people frō Berlabe to moūte Ephraī, & brought thē agayne vnto ỹ Lorde God of their fathers. And he set Judgꝭ in ỹ lande, thorowout all ỹ stroge cities of Juda, citie by citie, & saide to ỹ Judges: take hede what ye do, for ye be not Judges in the law of mā, but of God, whych is with you in the wordes of the law. Wherfore let the feare of the Lorde be with you, & take hede and do it. For there is no vnryghteousnesse in ỹ Lord oure God* nor regardynge of persones, nor takynge of rewardes.

Moreouer in Jerusalē did Iehosaphat set of ỹ Leuitꝭ & of ỹ prestes & of ỹ aūcīt heedꝭ of Israel, ouer ỹ customꝭ of ỹ Lord & causes of stryfe. And then they returned agayne to Jerusalē. And he charged thē sayinge: do euē so in ỹ feare of ỹ Lord wt truthe & pure herte. And whatsoeuer come to you of youre brethrē ỹ dwell in their cities, betwene bloud & bloude law, cōmaūdemēt, ordynaūces & customes: se that ye warne thē, ỹ they trespace not agaīst ỹ Lord, leste wrath come vpō you & on youre brethrē. Thus doo ye shall not offende. And se here Amariah ỹ preste which is heed ouer you in all matters of the Lorde, & Zabadiah the sonne of Ismael a ruler in the house of Juda, he is ouer all causes concerninge the kynge, with officers of ỹ Leuites before you. Take courage to you and go vpō it, and the Lorde shalbe with the good.

¶ The merueilous victorye that the Lord gaue Iehosaphat kyng of Juda agaynst the Moabites, and the children of Ammon and them of Seir.

¶ The. xx. Chapter.

AFter ỹ came ỹ children of Moab & ỹ children of Ammō & wt thē of ỹ Ammonites agaynst Iehosaphat to battell. And there came & tolde Iehosaphat sayinge: there cometh a great multitude agaynst ỹ frō the other syde ỹ see out of Syria And se they be in Hasason Thamar whych is Engadi. And Iehosaphat feared & set him selfe to seke ỹ Lorde, & proclaymed fastynge thorowoute all Juda. And Juda gathered themselues to gether for to aske counsell of ỹ Lord. And therto there came oute of all ỹ cytes of Juda to seke ỹ Lorde. And Iehosaphat stode in ỹ cōgregacio of Juda & Jerusalē in ỹ house of ỹ Lord before ỹ new courte & sayde: Lorde God of oure fathers, art not thou God in heauē, & raygnest not thou on all ỹ kingedomes of the hethen? And in thyne hand is power & might, ỹ no mā can stande before ỹ. Art not thou oure God which dydest cast out ỹ enhabiters of this lande before thy people Israel, & gauest it to the seed of Abraham thy louer for

euer? And they dwelt therin and haue built ỹ a temple therin vnto thy name/ & sayde: whē euell cometh vpon vs/ as the swerde of iudgemēt, pestilēce or hongre: then yf we stande before thys house & before the (for thy name is in thys house) & shall crye vnto the in oure trybulacion/ thou shalt heare and helpe.

And now beholde/ the childzen of Ammon & Moab & mount Seir/ by which thou woldest not let Israel go/ when they came out of Egipte: but they departed frō thē & destroyed them not. And se/ how they rewarde vs/ to come for to cast vs out of thy possession which thou hast possessed vs wyth all. O oure God/ wylt thou not iudge them? for we haue no myght agaynst thys great companye that cometh agaynst vs. Nether wot we what to do: but oure eyes be vnto the.

And as all Iuda stode before the Lorde wt their yonge ones/ their wiues & their childzē: the spirite of the Lorde came vpō Iahasiel ỹ sonne of Zacharyah the sonne of Banaiah ỹ sonne of Ieiel ỹ sōne of Mathaniah a Leuite of ỹ sonnȝ of Asaph euē as he was in ỹ middȝ of ỹ cōgregaciō. And he sayde: herkē all Iuda & the enhabiters of Ierusalē/ and also kynge Iehosaphat. Thus sayth the Lorde vnto you be not aferde or faynte hearted by reason of thys great multitude. For the warre is not youres, but Gods. And to morow ye shall go downe to thē: se, they come vp at Siz and ye shall mete thē in ỹ flaggȝ of ỹ broke before ỹ wildernesse of Ieruel. Moreouer it belōgeth not to you for to fight in this quarell: but stepe forth & stande & beholde ỹ helpe of ỹ Lorde which is wt you: feare not, nor let youre hertȝ fayle you/ O ye of Iuda and of Ierusalē. To morow go out to thē: for the Lorde is wt you.

And Iehosaphat bowed him selfe with his face to ỹ citie & all Iuda & the enhabiters of Ierusalē fell before the Lorde to bowe thē selfȝ vnto ỹ Lord. And ỹ Leuitȝ & the childzē of ỹ Cahathites & of ỹ Corahites stode vp/ to prayse ỹ Lord God of Israel wt a loude voyce on hie. And so they arose erlye in ỹ morninge & get thē out vnto ỹ wyldernesse of Thekua. And as they wēt out Iehosaphat stode & said heare me Iuda & ye enhabiters of Ierusalē. Beleue in ỹ Lord youre God & so shall ye cōtinue: & beleue his prophetȝ & so shal ye prosper. And he gaue ỹ people counsell & set ỹ singers of ỹ Lord & thē ỹ praysed in holy apparell, to go out before ỹ armie & to saye: praise ỹ Lord for his mercie lasteth euer. And what tyme they begāne to laude & prayse/ then the Lorde set layers awaite agaynst ỹ childzē of Ammon & Moab & moūte Seir to destroye thē vtterlye & to wype thē out. And whē they had made an ende of the enhabiters of Seir/ then they holpe to destroye eche other.

And when Iuda came to Mazphah in the wildernesse they loked vnto ỹ multitude. And beholde, they were dead carcases fallē to the erthe, and none escaped. And Iehosaphat & his people wēt to robbe awaie ỹ spoyle of thē & founde amōge thē aboūdaūce of goodes & raymēt & of pleasaūt Iewelles & caught frō them more then they coulde carry awaye: so ỹ they were thre dayes in gatherynge of the spoyle it was so moche. And ỹ fourthe daye they assēbled in ỹ valeye of blessinge. for there they blessed ỹ Lorde. And therfore they called ỹ name of ỹ sayde place ỹ valeye of blessynge vnto this daye. And so all the men of Iuda & Ierusalē returned & Iehosaphat amōge the dyrkest of thē for to go agayne to Ierusalē wt gladnesse: for the Lorde had made them to reioyse of their ennemyes. And they came to Ierusalē wt psalteryes & harpes & trōpetes/ euē vnto the house of the Lorde. And ỹ feare of God fell in the kyngedomes of all landes/ when they had hearde that the Lorde fought agaynst the enemyes of Israel. And so the realme of Iehosaphat was in trāquilite: for his God had geuen hym rest on euery syde.

And Iehosaphat raygned vpō Iuda and was .xxv. yere olde whe he begāne to raygne & raygned .xxv. yere in Ierusalē. And his mothers name was Asuba ỹ daughter of Silhi. And he walked in the waye of Asa his father & bowed not therfrō to do ỹ was pleasaūt in the sight of the Lorde. How be it they put not downe the hilleautters nether dyd the people yet prepare their hertes vnto the God of their fathers. The rest of the actes of Iehosaphat fyrst and last are wrytten in the workes of Iehu the sonne of Hanani whych noted thē in the boke of the kynges of Israel.

After this, Iehosaphat king of Iuda ioyned hym selfe with Ohoziah kynge of Israel/ whych was a wycked doar. And he coupled him selfe with him to make shippes to go to Tharsis. And they made the shyppes in Asiō Gaber. And Eliezer ỹ sōne of Dodanah of Maresa prophesied against Iehosaphat, saīg: because thou hast ioyned thy selfe wt Ohoziah ỹ Lorde hath brokē thy worke. And ỹ shippes were brokē ỹ they were not able to go to Tharsis.

¶ Iehosaphat dyeth & Iehoram succedeth him which putteth to death his brethren / and is oppressed of the Philistines/ and dyeth of the flyx.

¶ The .xxi. Chapter.

Iehosaphat layde him to rest wt his fathers, & was buried with his fathers in ỹ citie of Dauid & Iehorā his sonne raigned in his roume: which Iehorā had other brethrē sōnes of Iehosaphat: Asariah Iehiel Zacharyah Asariah Michael & Sephatiah. All these were ỹ sonnȝ of Iehosaphat kyng of Iuda. And their father gaue thē many Ohoziah. thē manye great giftes in syluer ouulde and other precious thingꝭ with stronge cities in Juda: but ꝑ kyngedome he gaue to Iehozā/ because he was ꝑ eldest. And whē Iehozam was vp vpō ꝑ kīgdome of his father & stroke he slue all his other brethrē wꝑ swerde/& diuerse of ꝑ Lordes of Israel therto* Iehozā was xxiij. yere olde whē he begāne to raygne/& he raygned viij yere in Jerusalē. And he walked in ꝑ wayes of the kingꝭ of Israel/ like as dyd ꝑ house of Ahab (for a daughter of Ahab was his wife) & he wrought euell in ꝑ eyes of the Lorde. Howbeit ꝑ Lorde wolde not destroye ꝑ house of Dauid, because of the couenaūt ꝑ he had made wꝫ Dauid/ & as he promised to giue a lyght to him & to his sonnes for euer.

In his dayes ꝑ Edomites departed frō vnder ꝑ hāde of Juda & made thē a kīg. And Iehozā wēt forth wꝫ his lordꝭ & all his charetꝭ wꝫ him & roase by nightꝫ laide on ꝑ Edomites. Which cōpased him in & ꝑ capitaynes of his charetꝭ. And so Edō departed frō vnder ꝑ hāde of Juda vnto this daye. ℭ That same tyme also did Lobnah departe frō vnder his power, because he lefte ꝑ Lorde God of his fathers. Moreouer he made hilles in ꝑ moūtaynes of Juda, & caused the enhabiters of Jerusalē to comitt adultery, & he* thrust Juda out of ꝑ waye.

* Or prouoked Juda to synne.

And there came a writinge to him frō Elias the prophete of this tenoure. Thus sayth the Lord God of Dauid thy father: because thou walkedst not in ꝑ wayes of Iehosaphat thy father & in ꝑ wayes of Asa king of Juda/ but walkedst in the wayes of ꝑ kingꝭ of Israel & hast made Juda & the dwellers of Jerusalē go a whoringe like to ꝑ whoringe of ꝑ house of Ahab/ & hast therto slayne thy brethrē ꝑ were thy fathers house / whych were better then thou: Therfore beholde the Lorde will smyte the with a myghtie plage in thy folke/ in thy childrē in thy wiues and in thy goodes. And thou shalt haue moche dysease thorow infirmitie in thy bowelles/ vntill thy bowelles fall out by reason of thy sycknesse/ daye by daye.

D And the Lorde stered vp agaynst Iehozā ꝑ spirite of ꝑ Philistines & the Arabiās ꝑ border on ꝑ blacke moꝛe. Which came agaynst Juda & all to tare ꝑ lande/ & caried awaye all ꝑ substaūce ꝑ was foūde in ꝑ kingꝭ house/ & therto his sonnes & his wiues: so ꝑ there was neuer a sonne lefte him saue Iehoahaz his yongest sonne. And after all ꝑ the Lorde smote him in his bowelles wꝫ an incurable disease. And in processe of tyme/ euē about ꝑ ende of two yere his guttes fell out by reason of his sickenesse: & so he died of euell diseases. But they made hī no bonefyre like ꝑ bonefires of his fathers. Whē he begāne to raygne he was xxxij yere olde & raigned in Jerusalē viij. yere. And* he walked not pleasauntly/ & they buryed hī in ꝑ citie of Dauid. but not in ꝑ sepulchres of ꝑ kingꝭ

ℭ The.xxij. Chapter.

AND ꝑ enhabiters of Jerusalē made Ohoziah his yongest sonne kyng in his stede. For ꝑ mē of warre that came wꝫ the Arabyās in ꝑ holde, had slayne all his elder sonnes. And so Ohoziah ꝑ sonne of Iehozam kinge of Juda/ was made kynge. Two & fourtie yere olde was he whē he beganne to raygne/ & raygned one yere in Jerusalē. His mothers name was Athaliah ꝑ daughter of Amri. And he walked also in ꝑ wayes of the house of Ahab/ for hys mother was his coūceler for to do euell. Wherfore he did ꝑ displeased ꝑ Lorde like to ꝑ house of Ahab for they were hys coūcelers after ꝑ deeth of his father, to his destrucciō. And he also walked after their coūcell. And Iehozā sonne of Ahab kyng of Israel wēt to fight wꝫ Hazael kyng of Syria at Ramoth in Galaad: & they of Ramoth woūded hym. Wherfore he returned to be healed in Jezrael of ꝑ woundes which were geuē him at Ramoth, whē he fought wꝫ Hazael king of Syria. And Ohoziah ꝑ sonne of Iehozā kinge of Juda wēt downe to se Iehozā ꝑ sonne of Ahab at Jezrael, because he was diseased.* For it was thrust vnto Ohoziah of God to go to Iehozā & ꝑ whē he was come he should go out wꝫ Iehozā agaynst Jehu the sonne of Namsi whome the Lorde had anoynted to destroye the house of Ahab.

* For it was thrust of god vnderstande/ to thyntent that he cōming to Iehoram might be ouerthrowē of Jehu.

And as Jehu was executynge iustice vpō ꝑ house of Ahab. He founde ꝑ Lordes of Juda & the sonnes of the brethren of Ohoziah that wayted on Ohoziah & he slue them. And he sought Ohoziah/ & they caught hym where he was hid in Samaria/ and brought him to Jehu. And whē they had slayne him they buried him: because (sayde they) he was ꝑ sonne of Iehosaphat which sought the Lorde wꝫ all his hert. And there was none of the house of Ohoziah/ that coulde obtayne to be kynge. D

For Athaliah ꝑ mother of Ohoziah, whē she sawe her sonne was deed/ arose & spake wꝫ all the seed of the kyngedome of the house of Juda. AND in ȳ seuēth yere Jehoiada toke hert, & made a bonde with the capitaynes of hundredes Azariah the sonne of Jeroham/Ismael ȳ sonne of Johanā, Azariah ȳ sonne of Obed Maasiah the sonne of Adaiah and Elisaphat the sonne of Zechri. And they went aboute in Juda and gatherred the Leuites out of all the cytyes of Juda and the auncyent heedes of Israel: and they came to Jerusalem. And all the congregacyon made a bonde wyth the kynge in the house of God. And Jehoiada sayde to them: beholde / the kynges sonne must raygne ouer the chyldren of Dauid/as the Lorde hath sayde.

B This is it therfore ȳ ye shall do. The thirde parte of you prestes & Leuites whych come in the Saboth daye, shall kepe the dores & a nother thirde parte shalbe in the kings house & a nother thyrde parte shalbe in the gate of the foundacyō/ & all the people shalbe in the
* Exod. xxvij. b *courtes of ȳ house of ȳ Lorde. And ther shall none come into the house of ȳ Lorde, saue ȳ prestes & the Leuites ȳ ministre. They shall go in/ for they are holy: & all the people shall kepe the watche of the Lorde. And ȳ Leuites shall cōpase ȳ kynge rounde aboute, & euery mā his wepō in his hāde: & whatsoeuer other mā come into the house of the Lorde, he shall dye for it: and they shalbe with the kynge, as he cometh in and as he goeth out.

And ȳ Leuites & all Juda did in all thinges as Jehoiada the preste commaunded. & toke euery mā his men: bothe thē that came in and
C thē ȳ went out the saboth daye: for Jehoiada the preste did let none of ȳ cōpanies departe. And Jehoiada the preste delyuered to the capitaynes of hūdredes speares & shildes & boukelars ȳ pertayned to kynge Dauid & were in the house of God. And he set all the people & euery man his wepon in his hande, frō the right corner of the house to ȳ lefte corner of the house/ alonge by the aulter and the house rounde about the kynge. And they brought out the kynges sonne and put vpon hym the crowne and the *testymonye, and made hym kyng. And Jehoiada & his sonnes annoynted hym and sayde: God saue the kynge.

* That is the lawe of God. Deut. xvij. b.

When Athaliah hearde the noyse of the people runnynge & prayesynge the kinge, she went amōge the people in to the house of the Lorde. And when she sawe the kynge stande at his pyler in the enterynge/ and the Lordes and trompetes about the kynge/ and all the people of the lande reioysynge & blowinge wyth trompetes / and the syngers wyth instrumentes of musycke teachinge to prayse. Then she rent her clothes and cryed: treason treason. And Jehoiada the preste went out with the capitaynes of hundredes that were apoynted to gouerne the hoste/ and sayde to them: haue her out wythout the arayes and whosoeuer foloweth her, let hym be slayne with the swerde. For the preste sayde: slay her not in the house of the Lorde. And they layde handes on her / and when she was come out D to the entrynge of the horsgate in the kynges house/ they slue her there.

* And Jehoiada made a bonde betwene hym IIij. Reg. xi. d. and all the people and the kynge, to be the Lordes people. And all the people went to the house of Baal and destroyed it / & brake hys aulters and hys ymages, and slue Mathan the preste of Baal before the aulters. And Jehoiada put the offyces of the house of the Lorde in the handes of the prestes the Leuites/ which Dauid had deuyded in companyes for the house of the Lorde / to offer burntoffrynges vnto the Lorde / as it is wrytten in the lawe of Moses / wyth reioysynge and syngynge / as it was ordeyned by Dauid. And he set porters vnto the gates of the house of the Lorde / that none that was vncleane in any poynte shulde entre in.

And he toke the capitaynes of hundredes and the nobles / and the gouernoures of the people & all the folke of the lande, & brought the kyng downe out of the house of ȳ Lorde/ and they went thorow the hye gate in the kynges house / and set the kynge vpon the seate of the kyngedome. And all the people of the lande reioysed/ & the cytie was in trāquilite: but they slue Athaliah wyth the swerde.

C Jehoas duryng ȳ lyfe of Jehoiada kepeth the lawe: but after hys deth he regardeth it not. He stoneth Zacharias the Prophete. Jehoas is kylled of hys awne seruauntes/ and after hym raygneth Amasiah.

C The xxiiij. Chapter.

IEhoas was seuē yere olde when he IIij. Reg. xij. a. began to raygne, and he raigned fourtye yere in Jerusalem. Hys mothers name was Zebiah of Berlabe. And Jehoas dyd ȳ pleased the Lorde all the dayes of Jehoiada the preste. And Jehoiada gaue hym two wyues/ and he begat sonnes and daughters.

It chaunsed after that/ that Jehoas was mynded to mende the house of the Lorde. And vpon that he gestered to gether the prestes and the Leuites and sayde to them:
*go out thorow the cytyes of Juda and gea- IIij. Reg. xij. b. ther of all Israel syluer/ to strength ȳ house of youre God / yere by yere/ & se that ye haste the thynge: how be it the Leuites were slacke. C Then the kynge called Jehoiada that B was the cheefe / and sayde to hym: why requyrest thou not of the Leuytes to bringe in / out of Juda and Jerusalē the summe apoynted by Moses the seruaūt of the Lorde/ and by and by the congregacō of Israel, for the tabernacle of wytnesse. For wicked Athaliah & her chyldrē had broken the house of God/ & had therto bestowed all the dedicat gyftes of the house of the Lorde/ aboute Baals.

Wherfore at the kynges cōmaundement/ they made a coffer/ and set it at the gate of the house of the Lorde: and made proclamacyon throrow Juda and Jerusalem to bryng in to the Lorde* the taracō of Moses the seruaūt of God/ which he set vpon Israel in the wyldernesse. And the Lordes and all the people reioyced and brought in and cast in to the coffer vntill it was full. And whē the tyme came that the chest shulde be brought in by the handes of the Leuites at the apoyntment of the kynge, whē they saw & there was moche money: then came the kynges scrybe & one apoynted by the hye preste / and powred out that was in the coffer, & then toke it & carved it to hys place agayne, & thus they dyd daye by daye, and gathered moche money.

Exod.xxx.h.

And the kynge and Jehoiada gaue it to workemē that wrought vpon the house of the Lorde, and hyred Masons & carpenters to redresse the house of the Lorde, and lodyd they artificers in yron and brasse, to repayre the house of the Lorde. And the workemen wrought & the worke mended throrow their handes: and they made the house of God as it ought to be, and strengthed it. And when they had fynyshed it, they brought the rest of the money to the kynge and Jehoiada, & therwyth were made vessels for the house of the Lorde: euen vessels to mynystre with all and to serue for burntofferynges as ladelles and vessels of goulde and syluer. And they offered burntofferynges in the house of the Lorde contynually all the dayes of Jehoiada. And Jehoiada waxed olde and full of yeres and dyed.* An hundred and thirtye yere olde was he when he dyed. And they buryed him in the cite of Dauid amōge the kynges because he had done good in Israel, and on God and on his house. And after the deeth of Jehoiada, came the Lordes of Juda & made obeysaunce to the kynge. And then he herkened vnto them. And so they lefte the house of the Lorde God of their fathers, and serued groues and Images. And then came there wrath vpō Juda & Jerusalem, for thys their trespaces sake. Notwythstandynge yet God sent Prophetes to thē, to bryng thē agayne vnto the Lorde. And they testifyed vnto them But they wolde not heare.

a. Lode thys agaynst them which sayethat God sayde to Noe/ Gen.viii. that nil shulde lyue no moare but an hundred and.xx. yeres.

And the spirite of God came vpon Zacharyah the sonne of Jehoiada the preste, and he stept vp aboue the people and sayde to them. Thus sayth God: why transgresse ye the cōmaundementes of the Lorde? ye shall therfore not prospere/ but as ye haue forsakē hym/ so shall he forsake you* Wherupō they cōspired agaynst him and stoned him wyth stones, at the commaundement of the kynge: euen in the courte of the house of the Lorde. And so Joas the kynge remēbred not the kyndenes which Jehoiada his father had done to him/ but slue his sonne. And whē he dyed/ he sayde: the Lorde se and requyre a recompynge.
